

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

THE

OF THE FOLLOWING WORK

IS

MOST RESPECTFULLY INSCRIBED.

PREFACE.

IN commending to the favourable consideration of the legal profession the Sixth Edition of "Seton" on Judgments, the Editors desire to draw attention to some of the principal additions and improvements which have been introduced by them into the work. The main divisions of the subject-matter with which those who consult "Seton" are familiar have been preserved, but certain portions of the work have been rearranged and rewritten so as to bring the whole into conformity with existing law and practice. In particular, in adapting the old Forms of what are called "money" orders to the Supreme Court Funds Rules and in inserting new Forms of "money" orders, the material part of the Lodgment or Payment Schedule has been added in most cases to the Form itself, and the inconvenience to the draughtsman of constant reference to the specimen Lodgment or Payment Schedules contained in Volume I., Chapter XVI., "LODGMENT AND PAYMENT OF FUNDS," has thus been avoided. The Specimen Schedules, however, being useful for guidance in ordinary cases, have been retained in the present Edition in their former position. In Volume I. the Forms of MANDATORY INJUNCTIONS, wherever they occur in Chapter XXXI., have been revised so as to accord with the decision and direction of the Court of Appeal in Jackson v. Normanby Brick Co., (1899) 1 Ch. 438. The Forms of RECEIVER ORDERS in Chapter XXXII. have been carefully remodelled, in view of recent decisions and directions of the Judges, as to the giving of security and in other particulars, more especially in the matter of appointing Receivers in Debenture Holders' Actions.

In Volume II., Chapter XL., dealing with SOLICITORS, has been specially considered, particularly as to the disciplinary control exercised by the Court and the Incorporated Law Society respectively, for which see Sections IV. and V. Chapter XLI., dealing with TRUSTEES, has been extensively recast both as to Forms and Notes, having regard to the passing of the Trustee Act, 1893, the Land Transfer Act, 1897, and the Judicial Trustees Act, 1896. In treating of ADMINISTRATION in Chapter XLIV. several useful Forms of complicated Orders on Further Consideration have been added (see Sections III. and V.); and the subject of CREDITOR'S ACTION BY MORTGAGEE has been transferred to Chapter XLVII., in Volume III., relating to MORTGAGES. Under the heading of SETTLEMENT in Chapter XLV. it has been thought advisable to re-insert the Forms under the Settled Estates Act which were contained in the Fourth Edition but were omitted from the Fifth Edition; and at the same time several useful Forms have been added to the Section dealing with the Settled Land Acts. In Chapter XLVI., PARTITION AND SALE, the Forms have been rearranged and recast, and several obsolete Forms have been omitted and recent Forms substituted for them.

In Volume III., Chapter XLVII., MORTGAGES, the Section dealing with MORTGAGES BY COMPANIES (Section VII.) has been revised and the latest Forms of Orders in Debenture Holders' Actions have been inserted. The Section devoted to EQUITABLE MORTGAGES has received similar treatment, and in the Section on PRIORITY (Section XV.) some recent Forms have been inserted with reference to the provisions of the Land Transfer Act, 1897, as to the Land Registry. In Chapter L., under the heading SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE, the Forms have been somewhat amplified with a view to avoiding a frequent reference to previous Forms. Several useful Forms suitable for cases where difficulty occurs in enforcing Orders for Specific Performance have been also inserted. In the Chapter devoted to the LANDS CLAUSES CONSOLIDATION ACTS (Chapter LIII.), several useful Forms have been inserted. In Chapter LVI., under the heading of COMPANIES, many important alterations have been made. The old Forms have been redrawn and new Forms added, having regard to recent legislation and the latest decisions under the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1900. In addition some Forms of Orders as to Rectifying the Register of Members of companies registered under the Companies Act, 1862, and of companies not so registered have been inserted.

The Chapter on the DEFENCE ACTS (Chapter LVIII.) has been revised so as to include both Naval and Military requirements, and some recent Forms of Orders relating to the War Department have been added.

The present Edition contains Tables of all Cases cited, of Statutes, and of Rules and Orders, and concludes with the General Index to the entire work. This Index has been prepared by Mr. Dale, who has endeavoured to render it as full and detailed as was practicable, having regard to the voluminous character and extensive scope of the work. The List of Equity Judges from 1660, which has been found useful in practice on several occasions, has been completed up to the present time and again inserted at the commencement of the work.

The revision and preparation of the notes throughout the work and the collection and selection of the points of law which it was deemed right to notice have been the special charge of Mr. Dale, while Mr. Tindal King, assisted by Mr. Goldschmidt, has undertaken the duty of collecting and preparing the Forms for the press. Each of the Editors, however, has throughout assisted the others to the utmost of his ability, and they therefore accept a joint responsibility.

In order to render the work more immediately serviceable to practitioners, the decisions of the Court of Appeal reported in the "Law Reports" have been distinguished by the letters "C. A.," following the particular reference to those reports, and where cases are not reported in the "Law Reports" an endeavour has been made to give all available references, not only to the "Law Journal Reports," but also to the "Weekly Reporter" and "Law Times." Many additional references to the old authorized reports have also been given.

This work being published simultaneously with "Daniell's Chancery Practice" and "Daniell's Chancery Forms," it has been found practicable to insert numerous references to those works. For this purpose the abbreviations "Dan." and "D. C. F." have, for facility of distinction, been used in reference to the "Practice" and the "Forms" respectively. The references given are in every case to the page. It may here be observed that the very valuable work of Messrs. Brickdale and Sheldon on the Land Transfer Acts has been, in general, referred to by the word "Brickdale" only.

The grateful acknowledgments of the Editors are due to several members of the Chancery Bar for assistance kindly rendered, and in particular to Mr. J. Ashton Cross (who has perused a considerable portion of the work and made many valuable suggestions) and to Messrs. Cyprian Williams, P. F. Wheeler, T. Douglas, Amyand J. Hall, and W. Cowell Davies.

The Editors are also greatly indebted to Mr. Registrar Carrington and Master Hawkins for many useful hints and corrections during the progress of the work, to Mr. Registrar Jackson, Mr. Registrar Pugh, and Mr. Registrar Farmer in reference to the preparation of several important Forms, and to Master Burney for numerous valuable suggestions as to the notes on points of practice. The thanks of the Editors are also due to Mr. A. T. Williams, of the Official Solicitor's Department, and to Mr. J. R. Newman, of the Chambers of Mr. Justice Byrne and Mr. Justice Buckley. The help of Messrs. H. N. Colville, J. W. Oppermann, and H. R. Leach, of the Paymaster's Office, with regard to "money" orders, also deserves recognition. The assistance, moreover, of the late Mr. Registrar Lavie was invaluable, particularly in the revision of the Chapter on MORTGAGES, and must be gratefully acknowledged.

The Editors have also to tender their thanks to C. N. Dalton, Esq., C. B., the Comptroller-General of Patents and Trade Marks, for valuable information in reference to the portion of the work dealing with Patents and Trade Marks.

The important draft Rules in reference to costs and other matters printed and issued in August, 1901, did not escape the attention of the Editors. As, however, the operation of these rules is suspended, and they may receive further consideration before they take their final shape, the Editors, after careful consideration, came to the conclusion that they were not appropriate, at the present juncture, for insertion in a permanent work.

It may be recollected that previous Editions of "Seton" have, in consequence of the magnitude of the work, been brought out in successive volumes. On the present occasion it was thought by the Editors that the convenience of the profession would be best consulted by bringing out the entire work at one and the same time. Through the enterprise of the publishers this task (which was one of some difficulty) has been accomplished, and it has been found possible to insert in the body of the work references to all cases decided and reported down to and including the September number of the "Law Reports," the references to the more recent cases being necessarily brief. Much additional labour in the matter of revision has thus devolved upon the Editors, and they venture, therefore, to hope with some confidence that the members of the profession will extend to any shortcomings that kind consideration which has been shewn to previous Editors of the work.

INTRODUCTION.

OF JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS GENERALLY.

UNDER the concurrent but to some extent conflicting systems of Law and Equity, as administered previously to the Judicature Acts, the forms of judgments at Common Law and of decrees in Chancery differed widely. Judgments at Common Law were uniform, simple, and invariable, and being limited by the form of the writ in the action to the recovery of land, goods, or money, could not conveniently be moulded so as to meet cases in which conditions were to be imposed or various interests dealt with. Decrees in Chancery, from the more comprehensive nature of the relief given, the number of the parties interested, the various claims asserted, circumstances to be dealt with, and questions to be finally determined, were, as a rule, necessarily more complicated. But notwithstanding the greater pliability of equitable jurisdiction and procedure, the forms of the decrees and orders by which the Court gave effect to its determinations were generally well established and, for the most part, uniform. Upon this ground they have been frequently referred to as regulating the practice and elucidating the law and procedure of the Court.

The great utility of consulting them, and the advantages of adhering to the settled and well understood forms and language of decrees, have been repeatedly adverted to by some of the most eminent Judges in Equity: see Marriott v. The Anchor Reversionary Co., 3 D. F. & J. 177; Sherwin v. Shakspear, 5 D. M. & G. 534; Mills v. Slater, 8 Ves. 303; Cricket v. Dolby, 3 Ves. 13; Willan v. Willan, 19 Ves. 593; Holland v. Prior, 1 M. & K. 246; Blackford v. Davis, 4 Ch. 304, at p. 308; Rees v. Metropolitan Board of Works, 14 Ch. D. 372, 374; Re New Zealand Trust and Loan Co., (1893) 1 Ch. 403; Re Gregson, (1893) 3 Ch. 233, at p. 237.

Under the Judicature Acts, 1873 and 1875 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66; 38 & 39 Vict. c. 77), the same jurisdiction to pronounce judgments and orders—in which terms, unless there is anything in the subject or context repugnant thereto, are to be included decrees and rules (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66, s. 100)—in such form as may be required for doing justice between the parties, and determining all questions raised, has been conferred upon every branch of the Supreme Court; the result being that although, for the more convenient despatch of business, some kinds of litigation are assigned to particular divisions, law and equity are now administered in every branch of the Court. And having regard to the direction that in all cases of conflict or variance between the rules of Equity and of Common Law, the rules of Equity shall prevail—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25 (11)—it is apprehended that the Forms contained in this work have lost no portion of their value and importance, but have rather become more generally applicable than heretofore.

Since the Judicature Acts, the expression “decree,” having lost its distinctive meaning, has been superseded in use by the more comprehensive word “judgment;” but is still properly and usefully retained in reference to the pre-existing procedure.

The following classes of business have been assigned to the Chancery Division of the High Court by the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 34, viz. :—

(2.) All causes and matters to be commenced after the commencement of the Acts, under any Act of Parliament by which exclusive jurisdiction in respect to such causes, &c., has been given to the Court of Chancery, or to any Judge thereof, except County Court appeals. Under this head are included proceedings under the Lunacy Acts, the jurisdiction in respect of lunatics of the Lords Justices of Appeal in Chancery at the commencement of the Acts being reserved to them by the Judicature Act, 1875, s. 7, which latter section, however, was repealed by the Lunacy Act, 1890 (53 Vict. c. 5), s. 342, but with a provision that that repeal should not affect any jurisdiction established, confirmed, or transferred by any enactment repealed by that Act (a), and under the Solicitors Acts, the Trustee Acts, the Settled Land Acts, the Lands Clauses Acts, and the various Acts more particularly noticed in the course of this work.

(a) By the Lunacy Act, 1890 (53 Vict. c. 5), s. 108, the jurisdiction of the Judge in Lunacy under that Act is to be exercised either by the Lord Chancellor alone or jointly with any one or more of such Judges of the Supreme Court as may for the time being be entrusted by Sign Manual with the care and commitment of the custody of the persons and estates of lunatics, or by any one or more of such Judges as aforesaid. The Judges so entrusted are the ordinary Lords Justices of Appeal, who take lunacy work by rotation.

(3.) All causes and matters for the administration of the estates of deceased persons; dissolution of partnerships, or taking partnership or other accounts; redemption or foreclosure of mortgages; raising portions or other charges on land; sale and distribution of the proceeds of property subject to any lien or charge; execution of trusts, charitable or private; rectification, or setting aside, or cancelling of deeds or other written instruments; specific performance of contracts between vendors and purchasers of real estates, including contracts for leases; partition and sale of real estates; wardship of infants and the care of infants' estates.

By the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 100, "cause" includes any action, suit, or other original proceeding between a plaintiff and a defendant, and any criminal proceedings by the Crown (which, by s. 34, are assigned to the Queen's Bench Division); "suit" includes action; "action" means a civil proceeding commenced by writ or in such other manner as may be prescribed by Rules of Court, but not a criminal proceeding by the Crown; and "matter" includes every proceeding in the Court not in a cause. An originating summons under O. lv, 3, has been held to be an action: In re Fawsitt, Galland v. Burton, 30 Ch. D. 231; Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160.

In judgments in Equity, the final working out of the particular question to be determined, or further consideration generally, is frequently adjourned. It is in many cases necessary, before the rights of the parties can be finally determined, to make inquiries as to facts, or parties, to take accounts between the parties, or take the accounts of the estate to be administered, or to get in the personal estate, and sell the real estate. In such cases the usual course has been to direct that the further consideration of the cause be adjourned; and when the inquiries have been answered, or the accounts taken, and the Master's certificate showing the result of such inquiries or accounts has been filed, the cause is brought on again. The further hearing was formerly termed the hearing upon further directions, or, after proceedings directed at law, the hearing upon the equity reserved. Now the direction is, "that the further consideration of the action be adjourned." And O. xxxvi, 21, directs that the cause when set down again be set down "for further consideration."

The Judicature Act, 1875, distinguishes between final and interlocutory judgments by providing (s. 12) that where the subject-matter of an appeal is a final order, decree, or judgment, the appeal shall be heard before not less than three Judges of the Court of Appeal, and when it is an interlocutory order, &c., before not less than two Judges of such Court; any doubt as to what judgments, &c., are final, and what interlocutory, to be determined by the Court of Appeal. The effect of this enactment is considered in Chap. XXXVI., "APPEALS."

REFERENCE TO RECORD.

By O. LXI, 19, every judgment, order, certificate, petition, or document made, presented or used in any cause or matter, shall be distinguished by having plainly written or stamped on the first page thereof the year, the letter, and the number by which the cause or matter is distinguished in the books kept at the Central Office, or a note indicating that the cause was commenced prior to 2nd November, 1852, and the correctness of such reference to the record may be required to be authenticated by the seal of the Central Office.

The year referred to is the year of the issue of the writ or originating summons; the letter is the initial letter of the first plaintiff's surname; and the number is the consecutive number in the Central Office books for the year.

REFERENCE TO REGISTRARS' BOOKS.

The references lettered A. and B., followed by a numeral, which occur constantly in the following pages after the names of cases referred to, apply to the entries or filings in the Registrars' books A. and B., kept in the Record Department of the Central Office. Separate books are kept for printed and written orders respectively. Judgments and orders are entered or filed according to the names of the plaintiffs or the titles of the matters. The books marked A. contain the entries or filings from A. to K. inclusive, and those marked B. contain the rest. The legal year began with Michaelmas Term, so that in decrees and orders previous to the change of style in the year 1752, down to which time the year commenced on the 25th of March (see the 24 Geo. II. c. 23), the date of the year of our Lord in the decree or order does not correspond with that of the book, except in Michaelmas and Hilary Terms. Since the change of style in that year, down to the year 1860, the date does not so correspond, except from the 2nd November to the 31st December, and from the 1st January to the 1st November the date of the book is one year earlier than that of the decree or order.

By a letter from the L. C. to the senior Registrar, dated 19th November, 1859, Reg. Lib. 1859, B. 1, his Lordship authorized "a supplementary book to be made, marked 1859, to contain the orders made from the 2nd November up to the 31st December, 1859, and that from and after the 1st January, 1860, all orders dated during the current year should be entered in a book or books to be marked with that year." Since then the dates of the decrees, judgments and orders correspond with the dates of the books in which they are entered or filed.

The Registrars' Books and Court Minute Books, prior to the year 1876, have been transferred to the Public Record Office, Rolls House; those of later date are kept at the Central Office and the Registrars' Offices.

Provision is made by O. xli, 1—3, for the entry of judgments by the proper officer in a book to be kept for the purpose, and that the entry of the judgment shall be dated as on the day on which it is pronounced, unless the Court or Judge shall otherwise order, and the judgment shall take effect from that date, provided that by special leave of the Court or a Judge a judgment may be ante-dated or post-dated: v. inf. Chap. XV., "ENTRY OF JUDGMENT." In the Chancery Division the particular Registrar is the proper officer. By O. lxii, 2 (1) (2) (3) (4) (5) (6) and (7), provision is made for the filing under the direction of the senior Registrar of every order which, according to the practice at the time when that rule came into operation, would require to be entered in the office of the Chancery Registrars. Provision is also made by the same order for entry of the filing thereof in books to be kept for that purpose, and that every order so filed shall be deemed to be duly entered, and that the date of such filing shall be deemed the date of entry, and for the supply of a duplicate of every order to the solicitor or person having the carriage of the order. The effect of this rule is that the original order will be on the files of the Court instead of an entry of it, and that the duplicate order takes the place of the original order for all purposes of production or service. The entry of orders and judgments, final or interlocutory, in the District Registries established by the Judicature Act, 1873, ss. 60—66, is regulated by O. xxxv.

GENERAL FORM AND ARRANGEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

In point of form, a judgment or order of the Court, as ultimately drawn up, consists usually of two parts: one, preliminary or introductory, and the other containing the actual adjudication or pronouncement of the Court.

The function of the first or preliminary part of the order is to show the circumstances attending the making of it. Accordingly, in this part is stated briefly the form of the application to the Court, who are the parties appearing, and any consents, waivers or undertakings given by them (b), and reference is made to the evidence adduced before the Court upon which the order is based: v. inf. Chap. XV. These are matters with which the Registrars of the Court are specially conversant, and this part of the order (in the preparation of which care and accuracy are of the utmost importance) is under their special supervision.

Judgments and orders in the Chancery Division are, in their second or substantive part, of so varied and often complex a character that no specific rules as to the arrangement of them can be given. There is, however, a generally defined natural order of clauses which is usefully adopted. Thus, any declarations made by the Court as to the rights of the parties naturally precede the accounts and inquiries which are directed in order to ascertain the nature or extent of such rights, or to give effect to them, and these again are followed by consequential directions or specific adjudications inter partes, as for the recovery of money or land, delivery of property, directing the performance of or abstention from any act, any sale, conveyance or other dealing with property, or the lodgment in Court or dealing with funds, and taxation and payment of costs. Where accounts or inquiries are directed, the order concludes by making provision for the further consideration by the Court of any part of the subject-matter which may, on the result of such accounts or inquiries, require such consideration.

Formerly the decree contained statements of the pleadings; anciently they were interwoven with the directions; more recently the entire statement was placed first, and the ordering part afterwards. At the present time the practice of reciting in judgments or orders facts proved in the evidence has fallen into disuse as unnecessary, except in cases of contempt of Court, or in a limited class of circumstances in which it is found to be expedient.

Judgments and orders are drawn up without regard to punctuation, the separate clauses being indicated by the use of capital letters (c), and it must be understood that the punctuation in the forms given in this work has no official significance, but is introduced merely for the assistance of the reader.

(b) It is, however, to be observed that where a consent, waiver, undertaking, or admission relates only to a particular part of the judgment or order, it should be inserted so as immediately to precede that part, as otherwise it might be considered that the entire judgment or order was grounded on such consent, &c.: v. inf. Chap. XII. p. 163.

(c) The advantage of this practice is, that it necessitates careful wording of the clauses, and tends to prevent ambiguity and mistake, or the possibility of the order being tampered with. If punctuation were permitted, a looser style of drafting would probably prevail, and though the duties of the Registrars might be simplified, their utility would be diminished.

As the names of the parties to an action or other proceeding sufficiently appear in the title of the judgment or order, it is usual in the body of the order to refer to them simply as plaintiff, defendant, or otherwise, as the case may be, without naming them ; but where the order directs payment by one party to another of any sum of money, or the performance of any act which may be enforced by attachment, it is essential to insert the names both of the party to perform the act, and, in cases of payment of money, of the party to receive payment.

In their preliminary stage, judgments or orders (or rather the second or substantive part of them) are ordinarily drawn up in "minutes," i. e., in a compendious form, eschewing details, and indicating the nature of the directions given by the Court. These minutes are subsequently expanded, under the supervision of the Registrar (v. inf. Chap. XV.), into the complete order.

In the ensuing pages, the material contents of judgments and orders are given sometimes in minute form, and sometimes in the completer form. The difference between the two species of forms will, however, be readily understood on reference to the forms given in Chap. XII., and a comparison of them with other forms throughout the work in which the mandatory part of the order begins with the word "Let."

All orders dealing with funds in Court which are to be acted on by the Paymaster and which are technically designated "money" orders are printed. All other orders are written. The "money" orders contain a Schedule or Schedules exhibiting the several transactions which the Paymaster is to carry out. The specimen forms of directions which are commonly inserted in Lodgment and Payment Schedules, and which are given in Chap. XVI., and elsewhere where necessary throughout the present Edition, afford illustrations of the requirements of "money" orders.

OF JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

CHAPTER I.

INSTITUTION OF PROCEEDINGS.

By the Jud. Act, 1873, s. 100, action is defined to mean “a civil proceeding commenced by writ or in such other manner as may be prescribed by rules of Court.”

By O. II, 1, every action in the High Court is to be commenced by writ of summons; but by O. LV, 3, 5a, provision is made for the commencement of certain proceedings (as to which v. inf. Chap. XVIII., “CHAMBERS”) by originating summons, and such proceedings have been held to be “actions” (for the purposes of motions: Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160; and appeals: Re Fawsitt, 30 Ch. D. 231, C. A.); and see Dan. 44, 45.

A summons under O. LV, 1, 2, 13, and 13a, or otherwise under any statutory jurisdiction (though in fact a summons originating proceedings), is, for the purposes of appealing, not an action, but a summons in “a matter not being an action” within the meaning of O. LVIII, 9: Re Baillie, 4 Ch. D. 785; Re Blyth, 13 Ch. D. 416; Re Arbenz, 35 Ch. D. 257.

O. II, 4, which prescribes “that no writ of summons for service out of the jurisdiction, or of which notice is to be given out of the jurisdiction, shall be issued without leave of the Court or a Judge,” is given effect to by regulations adopted at Chambers, under which the Judge’s leave to issue the writ is inscribed thereon and no order is drawn up: Stigand v. S., 19 Ch. D. 460; see O. LII, 14.

Where the application is made at the same time as the application for leave to serve, an affidavit is necessary (O. XI, 2, 4), and it is to be entitled as follows: “In the matter of the Judicature Acts, 1873—1894, In the matter of an intended action between A. B, Plt, and C. D. and others Defts.” See Young v. Brassey, 1 Ch. D. 278; D. C. F. 150.

1. Order to renew Writ—O. VIII, 1; LXIV, 7.

UPON the application &c., It is ordered that the writ issued in this action on the — day of — be, on or before &c., renewed against the Defts P. and M. for (six) months from the date of such renewal; And the costs of this application are to be costs in this action.—Bateman v. Kenrick, M. R., at Chambers, 3 May, 1877, A. 913.

See R. S. C., App. K., No. 2.

The order may be obtained in Chambers ex parte, and need not be drawn up unless other directions made at the same time render it necessary, but a memorandum under O. LII, 14, may be obtained from a registrar or master.

2. Joinder of other Claims with Claim for Recovery of Land— O. XVIII, 2.

UPON motion [or upon the application] &c., who alleged that the Plts have a cause of action in respect of the conveyance of certain trust property of &c., vested in the Deft, and a cause of action in respect of the delivery up of possession of &c., This Court doth order that the Plts be at liberty to join the said causes of action.—Manisty v. Kenealy, V.-C. H., 11 Jan. 1876, B. 25; 24 W. R. 918; Leach v. Jay, M. R. at Chambers, 16 Feb. 1877, B. 308.

NOTES.

An action for relief, which could formerly only have been given by the Court of Chancery, cannot be maintained if the subject-matter is below the value of 10*l.*, the old rule in this respect being still in force: Westbury Sanitary Authority v. Meredith, 30 Ch. D. 387, C. A.

The issue of a writ of summons not being a judicial act, the Court will inquire at what period of the day the writ was issued: Clarke v. Bradlaugh, 8 Q. B. D. 63, C. A.; and see Warne v. Lawrence, 34 W. R. 452.

As to the computation of time generally, see In re Railway Sleepers Supply Co., 29 Ch. D. 204.

A female Plt should state her description as a married woman, wife of —, spinster or widow, in the title of a writ or originating summons before issue: Re Poinons, W. N. (91) 138; and a female Deft should be similarly described: Tofield v. Roberts, W. N. (94) 74.

An incorrect statement of the Deft's address in the writ of summons will not necessarily vitiate the writ: Smith v. Hammond, (1896) 1 Q. B. 571. The residential, and not the business, address should be stated: Stoy v. Rees, 24 Q. B. D. 748.

As to form of writ of summons, see Dan. 266 et seq.; and as to issue thereof, Ibid. 271 et seq.

O. VIII, 1, as to renewal of writs, applies to writs issued before the Jud. Acts: Hume v. Somerton, 25 Q. B. D. 239. As to renewal of writs, see Dan. 274; D. C. F. 135. As to amendment of writ, Dan. 275 et seq. As to concurrent writs, see O. VI; Dan. 273.

The Court or a Judge is empowered by O. LXIV, 7, to enlarge the time for renewing a writ of summons: Re Jones, Eyre v. Cox, 25 W. R. 303; 46 L. J. Ch. 316; but enlargement will not be granted so as to revive a claim barred by the Statutes of Limitation: Doyle v. Kaufman, 3 Q. B. D. 7; Hewett v. Barr, (1891) 1 Q. B. 98, C. A.; unless, perhaps, under exceptional circumstances: S. C., per Kay, L. J.; but where the original writ had been renewed, time for issue of a concurrent writ was enlarged, though the operation of the statutes might be thereby affected: Smalpage v. Tonge, 17 Q. B. D. 644, C. A.

By O. XVIII, 2, no cause of action is, unless with leave of the Court or a Judge, to be joined with an action for the recovery of land, except claims for mesne profits, or arrears of rent &c., or damages for breach of any contract under which the premises are held, or for injury to the premises. But an action for foreclosure or redemption, and delivery of possession, is not (since December, 1885) to be deemed an action for the recovery of land.

By "action for the recovery of land" is meant an action to recover possession of land, not an action merely to establish title: Gledhill v. Hunter, 14 Ch. D. 492; not following Whetstone v. Dewis, 1 Ch. D. 99; but where possession is claimed, a claim for a declaration of title, not involving a new cause of action, may be joined without leave: Ibid. Claims for declaration of title, that a lease was granted by mistake, for recovery of rents and profits, a receiver and possession, were held to be one action for recovery of land: Ibid.

The rule applies to a counter-claim for the recovery of land: Compton v. Preston, 21 Ch. D. 138.

Leave has been granted to join a claim for delivery of a title deed: Cook v. Enchmarch, 2 Ch. D. 111; and, under special circumstances, a claim for admon; Kitching v. K., 24 W. R. 901.

Claims for recovery of possession for breach of covenant, and for injunction to restrain future breaches, cannot be joined without leave: Hambling v. Wallani, W. N. (89) 133.

A writ claiming quiet possession and an injunction restraining interference with such possession is not within the rule: Kendrick v. Roberts, 30 W. R. 365. And a claim for an interlocutory injunction, as a substitute for damages, between writ and trial may be joined without leave: Read v. Wotton, (1893) 2 Ch. 171.

And where the Plt alleged a mortgage to be invalid, he was held entitled without leave to ask for possession of the land in the alternative, immediate possession if the mortgage was invalid, and possession on payment of what should be found due if the mortgage was valid: Hunt v. Worsfold, (1896) 2 Ch. 224.

Leave to join causes of action should be obtained before the writ is issued: Pilcher v. Hinds, 11 Ch. D. 905, C. A.; Clark v. Wray, 31 Ch. D. 68; but see Wilmott v. Freehold House, &c. Co., 51 L. T. 552; Rushbrooke v. Farley, 54 L. J. Ch. 1079; 52 L. T. 572; 33 W. R. 557. Where the Deft has entered an appearance to the writ, it is not too late for him to take the objection to the irregularity: Hunt v. Worsfold, (1896) 2 Ch. 224, treating Mulckern v. Doerka, 53 L. J. Q. B. 526; 51 L. T. 429; as overruled by Wilmott v. Freehold House Property Co., 51 L. T. 552; and Smurthwaite v. Hannay, (1894) A. C. 494.

An original writ of summons, notwithstanding expiration of the twelve months limited by O. VIII, 1, continues effectual for all purposes except service, e.g., for the purpose of an undertaking by Deft's solr to enter an appearance: Re Kerly, Son & Verden, (1901) 1 Ch. 467, C. A.

As to assignment of business among Judges in the Ch. D. see Dan. 26, 27; D. C. F. 30.

CHAPTER II.

SERVICE OF WRIT AND PROCEEDINGS.

1. Order for substituted Service of Writ—O. IX, 2 ; x ; LXVII, 6.

UPON the application of &c., and upon reading an affidavit &c., It is ordered that service of the writ of summons issued in this action on the — day of —, by leaving a copy thereof, together with a copy of this order, at the place of business of the Deft H., situate at &c. [and, if so, at his place of residence situate at &c.], be deemed good service of the said writ upon the said Deft H.

For orders for substituted service in the case of an absconding Deft within the jurisdiction, see Cook v. Dey, V.-C. H., 16 Feb. 1876, A. 227, 2 Ch. D. 218; by advertisement ex jur., Hartley v. Dilke, V.-C. M., 19 Dec. 1876, A. 2081; 35 L. T. 706; Wolverhampton, &c. Banking Co. v. Bond, 29 W. R. 599; 43 L. T. 721. For forms of summons, &c. see D. C. F. 147—149.

A Deft, failing to appear after substituted service, cannot claim as of right to be allowed to defend: Watt v. Barnett, 3 Q. B. D. 363.

2. The like—at each of several Leasehold Houses.

UPON motion &c., Let service of the writ of summons issued in this action, by leaving a copy thereof, together with a copy of this order, at each of the said leasehold houses, be deemed good service on the Deft, and the Plt is within fourteen days from the date of this order to cause a copy of this order to be inserted in the London Gazette and the Times newspaper.—See Crane v. Jullion, V.-C. Hall, 17 Feb. 1876, A. 260; S. C., 2 Ch. D. 220.

This order first directs a proper person to be appointed to receive rents, &c. of certain leasehold houses (describing them), and then proceeds as above.

3. The like—on Defendant's Solicitors in a former Matter.

UPON the application of the Plts, and upon hearing &c., and upon reading an affidavit &c., It is ordered that service of the writ of summons issued in this action on &c., together with a copy of this order, on A. and B., of the firm of Messrs. — & Co., of —, solicitors, or one of them, be deemed good service of the said writ of summons upon the Deft O.

For like order for service on Deft's wife, see Palmer v. P., V.-C. H. at Chambers, 7 Dec. 1878, B. 2076; and for like order for service upon the managing clerk and upon the solicitors of a Deft in India, with six weeks for appearance, see Armitage v. Fitzwilliam, W. N. (75) 238.

4. Order for Substituted Service of Writ by Means of Advertisements and through the Post—O. 1X, 2.

UPON motion [or upon the application of] the Plt &c., and upon reading &c., Let the publication by advertisement, in the form set forth in the Schedule hereto, of the writ of summons issued in this action on the — day of —, and of this order, twice in the — and once in the — newspapers, and the sending a copy of the said writ of summons, and a copy of this order, through the post-office prepaid, in a registered envelope addressed to each of the above-named Defts, to the following addresses, that is to say, as to the Deft B. to &c., and as to the Defts E. and M. to &c., be deemed good service of the said writ on the said Defts respectively.

SCHEDULE.

To B. of &c., E. of &c., and M. of &c.

Take notice that on the — day of — a writ of summons was issued in the action of *A. v. Leave must first be obtained from the Vice-Chancellor of the Palatine Court to issue the writ for service ex jur.: Walker v. Dodds, 37 Ch. D. 188, C. A.

17. Service of Order of Palatine Court out of the Jurisdiction of that Court.

Thomas*, Chitty, J., 20 February, 1883, A. 266; W. N. (83) 31.

NOTES.

SERVICE GENERALLY.

Service must be personal, unless substituted or other service has been ordered under O. IX, 2, except in the cases mentioned in rr. 3, 8, and 9 of that order, and O. XLVIII, 6, 7; and see Dan. 39, 40, 280 et seq.

The original writ need not be produced unless demanded, but if not shown on demand, the proceedings under it may be set aside: Phillipson v. Emanuel, 56 L. T. 858.

The mere handing of a writ in an envelope to a person who is not informed as to the nature of the document is not good personal service: Banque Russe v. Clarke, W. N. (94) 203; Dan. 281.

A writ of summons, though specially indorsed, is not a pleading within O. LXIV, 11, and may be served at any hour of the day: Murray v. Stephenson, 19 Q. B. D. 60.

Under r. 3, "when husband and wife are both defendants to the action they shall both be served, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise order."

For order dispensing with service on a husband, see Whitley v. Honeywell, 24 W. R. 851; 35 L. T. 517.

As to service by filing in default of appearance, see inf. Chap. XII., p. 174.

In the case of change of solicitors O. VII, 3, provides that until notice of the change is filed, and a copy served and left in Chambers, the former solicitor shall be considered the solicitor of the party until the final conclusion of the cause or matter, whether in the High Court or the Court of Appeal. As to whether the authority of the solicitor on the record continues until the time for appealing has expired, quære: see De la Pole v. Dick, 29 Ch. D. 351, C. A.; followed in Re Evans, E. v. Noton, (1893) 1 Ch. 252, C. A.

Where a Deft changes his solicitor, but files no notice of the change at the Central Office, he is not necessarily to be restricted to such costs as a litigant in person would be entitled to: Norris v. Bailey, 62 L. J. Q. B. 338.

By O. IX, 4, in case of an infant Deft, service on the father or guardian, or, if none, upon the person with whom the infant resides, or under whose care he is, is, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders, to be deemed good service; provided that the Court or Judge may order that service made or to be made on the infant shall be deemed good. As to service on lunatic or non compos, see O. IX, 5, which rule applies to an admon action commenced by originating summons: Re Pepper, P. v. P., 32 W. R. 765; 53 L. J. Ch. 1054; 50 L. T. 580.

When, as in urgent cases, it is desired to serve notice of motion on a Deft before appearance, the leave of the Court must be obtained. No order need be drawn up giving this leave, but the initials of the registrar in Court to the indorsement on the brief will be sufficient to show that leave has been obtained.

SERVICE ON PARTNERS, CORPORATIONS, &c.

By O. XLVIII, 5, where persons are sued as partners in the name of their firm under r. 1, "the writ shall be served either upon any one or more of the partners, or at the principal place within the jurisdiction of the business of the partnership, upon any person having, at the time of service, the control or management of the partnership business there; and, subject to these rules, such service shall be deemed good service upon the firm so sued, whether any of the members thereof are out of the jurisdiction or not, and no leave to issue a writ against them shall be necessary; provided that in the case of a co-partnership which has been dissolved to the knowledge of the Plt before the commencement of the action, the writ of summons shall be served upon every person within the jurisdiction sought to be made liable."

By r. 4, "where a writ is issued against a firm, and is served as directed by r. 3, every person upon whom it is served shall be informed, by notice in writing given at the time of such service, whether he is served as a partner or as a person having the control or management of the partnership business, or in both characters. In default of such notice, the person served shall be deemed to be served as a partner."

As to the meaning of "person having control or management," see Grant v. Anderson, (1892) 1 Q. B. 108; and that it does not include a receiver and manager appointed in a partnership action, see Re Flowers & Co., (1897) 1 Q. B. 14, C. A.

By O. XLVIII, 11, "any person carrying on business within the jurisdiction in a name or style other than his own name, may be sued in such name or style as if it were a firm name; and, so far as the nature of the case will permit, all rules relating to proceedings against firms shall apply."

The rules apply to all partnerships carrying on business within the jurisdiction, e.g., a foreign or colonial firm the members of which are resident out of the jurisdiction: Worcester, &c. Banking Co. v. Firbank, Pauling & Co., (1894) 1 Q. B. 784, C. A.; but they do not affect the principle in Russell v. Cambefort, 23 Q. B. D. 526, C. A., nor apply to a firm carrying on business, and the members of which are domiciled and resident, in Scotland, and having no place of business within the jurisdiction: Grant v. Anderson, (1892) 1 Q. B. 108; nor to a foreign subject resident out of the jurisdiction who carries on business within the jurisdiction in a name or style other than his own: St. Gobain, &c. Co. v. Hoyerermann's Agency, (1893) 2 Q. B. 96, C. A.; e.g., the proprietor of a newspaper carrying on business under the title of the newspaper: De Bernales v. New York Herald, 68 L. T. 658; 62 L. J. Q. B. 385; (1893) 2 Q. B. 97, n.

Rule 11 does not apply so as to authorize service upon a domiciled Scotchman carrying on business in England under a firm name, the writ in the action having no reference to such business: MacIver v. Burns, (1895) 2 Ch. 630, C. A. (where it was said that the object of the rule is to facilitate proceedings against a person who is concealing his own name, and not to enlarge the jurisdiction of the Court against foreigners).

If the person to be served is a lunatic or of unsound mind, service should be under O. IX, 5: Fore Street Warehouse Co. v. Durrant, 10 Q. B. D. 471.

By O. IX, 8, in the absence of any statutory provision regulating service of process, every writ of summons issued against a corporation aggregate may be served on the mayor or other head officer, or on the town clerk, clerk, treasurer or secretary of such corporation. The rule further provides as to service on the inhabitants of a hundred, county of city, or town, or franchise, liberty, city, town, or place not being part of a hundred, or other like district. But where statutory provision is made for service on any corp. or body corporate or incorporate, the writ is to be served as provided by the statute.

A foreign corp. carrying on business in this country, has (as distinguished from a private partnership, see Russell v. Cambefort, 23 Q. B. D. 526, C. A.) a legal existence here, and may be served in the same manner as an English corporation aggregate: Haggin v. Comptoir d'Escompte de Paris, 23 Q. B. D. 519, C. A.; Newby v. Von Oppen, L. R. 7 Q. B. 293; La Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. Law & Co., La Burgoyne, (1899) A. C. 131, H. L. (and if not, it may be served under O. XI, with notice of the writ: Scott v. Royal Wax Candle Co., 1 Q. B. D. 404); Dan. 283. Service on the head officer at the English place of business of such a corp., where a principal part of their business is carried on, is good within the rule: Ibid.; Badcock v. Cumberland Gap Park Co., (1893) 1 Ch. 362; secus, where the corporation has no office in this country, but merely an agent: Nutter v. Messageries Maritimes, 54 L. J. Q. B. 527; and see The Princesse Clementine, (1897) P. 18; or an office in which, for convenience of English shareholders, dealings with shares are recorded: Badcock v. Cumberland Gap Park Co., sup.; and see Jones v. Scottish Accident Insurance Co., 17 Q. B. D. 421; Grant v. Anderson, (1892) 1 Q. B. 108, C. A.; where, however, the Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 V. c. 89), applied, as in the case of a limited co. having its registered office in Scotland, service at the registered office was necessary: Watkins v. Scottish Imperial Insurance Co., 23 Q. B. D. 285; and see Wood v. Anderston Foundry Co., 36 W. R. 918. As to service at the principal office of a railway co. under sect. 135 of the Companies Clauses Act, 1845, and that service at the principal office of the English portion of a Scotch railway is not sufficient, see Palmer v. Caledonian Ry. Co., (1892) 1 Q. B. 607, 823.

Where a special contract was entered into between an English and a foreign co., whereby an agent in London was specially appointed to accept service of any process arising under the contract, service according to the contract, though not a service within the rules, was held good: Tharsis Sulphur, &c. Co. v. Société des Métaux, 58 L. J. Q. B. 435; 60 L. T. 924; 38 W. R. 78; but in view of the express prohibition contained in O. XI, 1 (e) (see post, p. 14), an agreement by a Scotchman that a writ for breach of contract arising within the jurisdiction may be served on him in Scotland will not authorize the Court to direct service of such a writ in Scotland: British Wagon Co. v. Gray, (1896) 1 Q. B. 35, C. A.; Montgomery, Jones & Co. v. Liebenthal, (1898) 1 Q. B. 287, C. A.; and generally as to a contract to accept service of a writ, see S. C., and Copin v. Adamson, 1 Ex. D. 17, 19, C. A.; Vallee v. Dumergue, 4 Exch. Rep. 290.

A foreign Sovereign or State cannot be served with a writ or other process of our Courts: Strousberg v. Republic of Costa Rica, 29 W. R. 125; 44 L. T. 199; and see Sloman v. Government of New Zealand, 1 C. P. D. 563, C. A.; South African Republic v. La Compagnie Franco-Belge du Chemin de Fer du Nord, (1897) 2 Ch. 487, C. A.; Mighell v. Sultan of Johore, (1894) 1 Q. B.

149. As to the period during which the immunity of an ambassador of a foreign State from process in the Courts of this country subsists, see Musurus Bey v. Gadban, (1894) 1 Q. B. 533; (1894) 2 Q. B. 352, C. A.

Where judgment by default against a firm was duly signed, a partner who had appeared subsequently, but within eight days after service of the writ on him, was entitled to have the judgment set aside: Alden v. Beckley, 25 Q. B. D. 543.

SUBSTITUTED SERVICE.

By O. IX, 2, if it appear to the Court or a Judge that the Plt is from any cause unable to effect prompt personal service, the Court may make such order for substituted or other service, or for the substitution for service of notice by advertisement or otherwise, as may seem just. Every application for such substituted service must be supported by an affidavit setting forth the grounds upon which the application is made: O. X. Such applications are to be brought before the Judge in person: O. LV, 15.

When substituted service is effected, the order for such service must be produced. If service is by post, the copy writ and order are (unless the order otherwise direct) to be deemed to be served on the day following the day on which a prepaid letter containing the copies shall have been posted: P. M. R. 17.

O. IX, 2, must not be resorted to as a mode of evading the rules as to service out of the jurisdiction: Re Urquhart, 24 Q. B. D. 723, C. A.; Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 395, C. A.; and in general substituted service will not be ordered on a person who is out of the jurisdiction unless it can be shown that he has gone out of the jurisdiction for the very purpose of evading service: Re Urquhart, sup.; but where the writ was issued against a Deft who was within the jurisdiction, and, after it had come to his knowledge, he went out of the jurisdiction, substituted service could be ordered, although it was not shown that he had gone out of the jurisdiction for the purpose of evading service: Jay v. Budd, (1898) 1 Q. B. 12, C. A. An order for substituted service of a writ issued in general form without leave against a person who was out of the jurisdiction was held not a nullity, but an irregularity which might be waived by conduct of Deft: Wilding v. Bean, (1891) 1 Q. B. 100, C. A., following Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 395, C. A.; citing Field v. Bennett, 56 L. J. Q. B. 89, and Hillyard v. Smyth, 36 W. R. 7.

Substituted service will not be ordered unless reasonable ground is shown for supposing that it will come to the notice of the person to be served: Furber v. King, 29 W. R. 535; 50 L. J. Ch. 496; Re Slade, S. v. Hulme, 30 W. R. 28; 45 L. T. 726; and can only be directed when there is some person or body corporate on whom there could be original service: Sloman v. New Zealand Government, 1 C. P. D. 563, C. A.

The Court of Appeal has jurisdiction to order substituted service of a notice of appeal: Exp. Warburg, In re Whalley, 24 Ch. D. 364, C. A.

Substituted service of a subpoena to name a solicitor has been ordered: Hamilton v. Thomas, W. N. (83) 31.

And see Dan. 285 et seq.; D. C. F. 147, 148.

SERVICE OUT OF THE JURISDICTION.

Writ of Summons.

O. XI, 1, specifies (under seven heads (a) to (g): v. inf. p. 14) the cases in which service out of the jurisdiction of a writ of summons or notice thereof may be allowed, and such specification is exhaustive: Re Eager, Eager v. Johnstone, 22 Ch. D. 86, C. A.

The order forms a complete code, applicable to all cases when anything like jurisdiction over the person is sought to be exercised, and indicates when service out of the jurisdiction can, and cannot be effected: Re Busfield, Whaley v. Busfield, 32 Ch. D. 123, C. A.; and see In re Anglo-African Steamship Co., 32 Ch. D. 348, C. A.

A writ against Defts, one or some of whom appear to be out of the jurisdiction, may be issued without an order for service having been first obtained, but must be specially sealed with a notification on (and as part of) the writ, that it is not for service out of the jurisdiction without order: P. M. R. 6.

The application for leave to serve out of the jurisdiction is made in Chambers, but must be brought before the Judge in person: O. LV, 15.

The Court will exercise discretion as to allowing the service, and will consider evidence as to the merits: Société Générale de Paris v. Dreyfus, 29 Ch. D. 239.

As to the form of the writ, or notice of writ, see O. II, 5, and R. S. C., App. A., Part I., Forms 5—10.

A copy of a writ issued for service out of the jurisdiction has been ordered to be served by substitution on a person within the jurisdiction: Ford v. Shephard, 34 W. R. 63; 53 L. T. 564.

Leave for issue of a concurrent writ under O. VI, 1, 2, for service out of the jurisdiction may be ordered, although the original writ was issued for service within the jurisdiction, and has been renewed, and although there is only one Deft to the action: Smalpage v. Tonge, 17 Q. B. D. 644, C. A.

The copy of writ served ought to be marked "concurrent," and if this is not done the service is irregular: Collins v. N. British and Mercantile Ins. Co., (1894) 3 Ch. 228.

For a history of the changes in the law as to service out of the jurisdiction, see Lenders v. Anderson, 12 Q. B. D. 56.

The cases specified in O. XI, 1, are whenever—

- "(a) The whole subject-matter of the action is land situate within the jurisdiction (with or without rents or profits); or
- (b) Any act, deed, will, contract, obligation, or liability affecting land or hereditaments situate within the jurisdiction, is sought to be construed, rectified, set aside, or enforced in the action; or
- (c) Any relief is sought against any person domiciled or ordinarily resident within the jurisdiction; or
- (d) The action is for the admon of the personal estate of any deceased person, who at the time of his death was domiciled within the jurisdiction, or for the execution (as to property situate within the jurisdiction) of the trusts of any written instrument, of which the person to be served is a trustee, which ought to be executed according to the law of England; or
- (e) The action is founded on any breach or alleged breach within the jurisdiction of any contract wherever made, which, according to the terms thereof, ought to be performed within the jurisdiction, unless the defendant is domiciled or ordinarily resident in Scotland or Ireland; or
- (f) Any injunction is sought as to anything to be done within the jurisdiction, or any nuisance within the jurisdiction is sought to be prevented or removed, whether damages are or are not also sought in respect thereof; or
- (g) Any person out of the jurisdiction is a necessary or proper party to an action properly brought against some other person duly served within the jurisdiction."

An action for non-payment of rent under a lease was held not to be for enforcement of a contract "affecting land" within r. 1 (b), but rather to fall within (e): Agnew v. Usher, 14 Q. B. D. 78; secus, an action by outgoing tenant to recover compensation for tenant right according to the custom of the country: Kaye v. Sutherland, 20 Q. B. D. 147; or to recover damages for breach of covenant to repair: Tassell v. Hallen, (1892) 1 Q. B. 321; and, semble, the clause is not to be limited to cases where specific performance of some contract, &c. is sought: Ibid.

An insurance co., whose registered office was in Scotland, but which had agencies and an office within the jurisdiction, was held not to be domiciled or ordinarily resident within the jurisdiction within r. 1 (c): Jones v. Scottish Accident Insurance Co., 17 Q. B. D. 421; but see Haggin v. Comptoir d'Escompte de Paris, 23 Q. B. D. 519, C. A.; and Russell v. Cambefort, 23 Q. B. D. 526, 528, C. A.; sup. p. 11.

In order to bring a case within r. 1 (e), the contract must be one which must be performed within the jurisdiction, and not one which may be performed either within or without; and where the whole contract was capable of being performed without the jurisdiction by remission of proceeds of sale by bills, no writ could be issued here for service abroad: Comber v. Leyland, (1898) A. C. 524.

A contract by English engine makers for sale of machinery, to be erected in the Isle of Man for a co. carrying on business there, was held a contract to be performed by payment in this country, so that non-payment by the co. was a breach within the jurisdiction within r. 1 (e): Robey & Co. v. Snaefell Mining Co., 20 Q. B. D. 152; but see Bell v. Antwerp Line, (1891) 1 Q. B. 103, C. A.; and so where the Plt was employed in connection with works in Spain, but the contract contemplated payment in this country: Thompson v. Palmer, (1893) 2 Q. B. 80, C. A. Where the contract was by a foreigner to ship goods at a foreign port, and the goods when shipped were at the buyer's risk, a breach by the seller was not a breach within the jurisdiction: Wanke v. Wingren, 58 L. J. Q. B. 519; and cf. Bree v. Marescaux, 7 Q. B. D. 434, C. A. A contract may be within the clause though it does not expressly state that it is to be performed within the jurisdiction: Reynolds v. Coleman, 36 Ch. D. 453, C. A.; provided there is, by necessary implication, an indication to that effect: Bell v. Antwerp Line, sup.; and see Rein v. Stein, (1892) 1 Q. B. 753; The Eider, (1893) P. 119; Thompson v. Pulmer, (1893) 2 Q. B. 80, C. A.; and for a case in which a contract for through carriage of live stock by steamship and rail was held to be separable as to the English railway companies, see M'Gettigan v. N. E. Ry. (1899), 2 I. R. 375.

An action by equitable mortgagees to foreclose persons entitled to a subsequent charge is not founded on any breach of contract within the clause: Deutsche National Bank v. Paul, (1898) 1 Ch. 283; and see British Wagon Co. v. Gray, (1896) 1 Q. B. 35, C. A.; sup. p. 12.

The concluding words of clause (e) constitute an express exception, and are not merely referential to r. 2. There is, therefore, no power to allow service out of the jurisdiction where the Deft is domiciled or ordinarily resident in Scotland or Ireland: Lenders v. Anderson, 12 Q. B. D. 50.

In reference to service under r. 1 (f), the practicability of enforcing the injunction if granted is to be considered. In an action for an injunction to restrain Deft from sending libels to Plt, order for service out of the jurisdiction was upheld, Deft not showing that he never came within the jurisdiction: Tozier v. Hawkins, 15 Q. B. D. 680, C. A. In an action to restrain infringement of trade mark, where Deft was resident in Scotland, and it would be inconvenient to enforce the injunction merely against his agents, the leave was refused: Marshall v. M., 38 Ch. D. 330, C. A.; and see Kinahan v. K., 45 Ch. D. 78; secus, where Defts were a co. having a registered office in Scotland, but branches in this country, and an injunction could be enforced by sequestration against their property: Re Burland's Trade Mark, Burland v. Broxburn Oil Co., 41 Ch. D. 542. In Badiache Anilin und Soda Fabrik v. Johnson & Co., (1896) 1 Ch. 25, C. A., foreign manufacturers who had addressed goods to a trader in England and delivered them to the foreign post office were allowed to be joined as co-Defts under (f) in an action for infringement of an English patent by a sale in England, but the action was ultimately dismissed with costs, see (1897) 2 Ch. 322, C. A., affirmed (1898) A. C. 200, H. L. In order to bring a case within the clause, it is not necessary that an injunction should be the only relief sought: Lisbon-Berlin Gold Fields, Limited v. Heddle, 52 L. T. 796.

Where the Scotch Courts had already to some extent seisin of the case, an order for service on executrices there was discharged: Re De Penny, De P. v. Christie, (1891) 2 Ch. 63.

Where an injunction was sought to restrain dealing with a fund, and a French Court, in an action between the parties, had decided that the Deft was entitled to control of the fund, the Court refused the leave to serve, regarding the judgment as evidence that the Plt had not a probable cause of action: Société Générale de Paris v. Dreyfus, 37 Ch. D. 215, C. A.

In an action to enforce the trusts of a deed against real estate in Trinidad, the Court, acting on the opinion of a barrister practising there that the real estate was bound by the deed, gave leave to serve the writ on one of the legal owners who was resident there: Jenney v. Mackintosh, 33 Ch. D. 595.

The question whether a person out of the jurisdiction is a "necessary or proper" party within clause (g) must depend on the consideration whether, supposing he and the person duly served within the jurisdiction had been within the jurisdiction, they would both have been proper parties: Massey v.

Heynes, 21 Q. B. D. 330, C. A. Thus, in an action against London agents of foreign principals for breach of warranty of authority, the foreign principals are proper parties: Ibid.; and so the English manufacturers of cycles which infringed a patent, and alleged to be supplied by them to an agent in Ireland for sale were properly joined as co-Defts to an action brought in Ireland: Joynt v. McCrum (1899), 1 I. R. 217. In order to bring a case within the clause, the Plt must have an apparent cause of action against the person served within the jurisdiction, and must not merely have joined such person in order to be able to sue, within the jurisdiction, a person who is out of the jurisdiction: Witted v. Galbraith, (1893) 1 Q. B. 577, C. A.; and Plts cannot properly join as co-Defts with a person out of the jurisdiction persons who are trustees for the Plts, who might be joined as co-Plts, and against whom no relief is sought: Deutsche National Bank v. Paul, (1898) 1 Ch. 283; and the relief sought against the Deft out of the jurisdiction must be connected with that sought against the Deft within the jurisdiction. Thus the trustee of a will who was out of the jurisdiction could not be joined as co-Deft with the mortgagees of the interest of a bankrupt beneficiary under the will in property situate out of the jurisdiction: Collins v. North British and Mercantile Insurance Co., (1894) 3 Ch. 228; and for a case in which it was held upon the evidence that solrs in India, who had acted for trustees making an investment, were not proper parties to an action against the represve of the surviving trustee for breach of trust: see Plaskitt v. Eddis, 79 L. T. 136.

It must (semble) be shown that there is a substantial Deft within the jurisdiction: Yorkshire Tannery v. Eglinton Chemical Co., 54 L. J. Ch. 81; as the Court must see that British subjects are not unreasonably and malâ fide sued in order to make a case against foreigners: Massey v. Heynes, sup.; and that the Deft within the jurisdiction against whom the relief is sought has previously to such application been duly served with the writ: Collins v. North British and Mercantile Insurance Co., (1894) 3 Ch. 228; following Yorkshire Tannery and Boot Manufactory v. Eglinton Chemical Co., 54 L. J. Ch. 81; 33 W. R. 162; notwithstanding observations thereon in Tassell v. Hallen, (1892) 1 Q. B. 321. Service under clause (g) may be allowed in an action of tort: Croft v. King, (1893) 1 Q. B. 419; but the jurisdiction is discretionary: Williams v. Cartwright, (1895) 1 Q. B. 142, C. A.

For a case in which order for service ex jur. was discharged on the ground that the Spanish Court was the proper tribunal, see Lopez v. Chavarri, W. N. (01) 115.

By O. XI, 2, if it appears that there may be a concurrent remedy in Scotland or Ireland, the Court or Judge is to have regard to the comparative cost and convenience of proceeding in England, or in the place of residence of the Deft or person sought to be served.

“Comparative cost and convenience” has reference to the parties generally, and not merely to the person sought to be served: Williams v. Cartwright, (1895) 1 Q. B. 142, C. A. In an action of deceit against three jointly of whom one was resident in Scotland, service on him out of the jurisdiction was allowed under clause (g): Ibid.

Where an action is transferred from the county court to the High Court, the procedure is governed by the High Court Rules, and an order for service which would have been good in the county court may be open to objection by the defendant in the High Court: Wood v. Middleton, (1897) 1 Ch. 151. An administration action having been so transferred, the defendant, who had been served in Scotland and objected, was held entitled to have an opportunity of filing evidence as to the domicile of the testator, and as to the existence of an adequate concurrent jurisdiction in Scotland: Ibid.

Where an action was brought against Scotch trustees of a Scotch property, held upon the trusts of a Scotch settlement, for improperly withholding maintenance, leave was refused on grounds of convenience: Cresswell v. Parker, 11 Ch. D. 601, C. A.; and as to the principles on which the Court acts in considering the question of convenience, see Exp. McPhail, 12 Ch. D. 632.

Leave to issue a writ and serve in Ireland was refused when the comparative cost and convenience were in favour of proceeding there: Tottenham v. Barry, 12 Ch. D. 797; and see Harvey v. Dougherty, 56 L. T. 322; Kinahan v. K., 45 Ch. D. 78, where the Judge in Court discharged an order, made in Chambers exp., for service ex jur.

By O. XI, 4, the application for leave to serve a Deft is to be supported by affidavit or other evidence, stating that in the belief of the deponent the Plt has a good cause of action, and showing in what place or country the Deft "is, or probably may be found" (see Seagrove v. Parks, (1891) 1 Q. B. 551), and whether he is a British subject or not, and the grounds upon which the application is made; and no such leave shall be granted unless it shall be made sufficiently to appear to the Court or Judge that the case is a proper one for service out of the jurisdiction under this order.

It must be shown that there is a good cause of action within the order: Fowler v. Barstow, 20 Ch. D. 240, C. A.; Great Australian, &c. Co. v. Martin, 5 Ch. D. 1; and for service in Scotland or Ireland there must be evidence for enabling the Judge to exercise his discretion: Tottenham v. Barry, 12 Ch. D. 797.

The omission to make the affidavit is an irregularity which may be dealt with under O. LXX, 1: Dickson v. Law, (1895) 2 Ch. 62.

By O. XI, 5, any order giving leave to effect such service, or give such notice, shall limit a time (as to which v. sup. p. 7) after such service or notice within which the Deft is to enter an appearance, such time to depend on the place or country where or within which the writ is to be served, or the notice given.

By O. XI, 6, when the Deft is neither a British subject, nor in British dominions, notice of the writ, and not the writ itself, is to be served upon him. The requirement is imperative: see Fowler v. Barstow, 20 Ch. D. 240, 245, C. A. Therefore, where the writ, instead of notice of it, was served, the order for service and judgment in default of appearance grounded on it were set aside on the application of the Deft: Hewitson v. Fabre, 21 Q. B. D. 6. Whether, however, such an irregularity might not, under O. LXX, 2, be cured by appearance of Deft, quere: Ibid. (Wills, J.). The rule applies to foreign corps. as well as individuals: Scott v. Royal Wax, &c. Co., 1 Q. B. D. 404. For form of notice, see R. S. C., App. A., Part I., Form 9.

Where sole Deft in Palatine Court is resident out of the jurisdiction of that Court, leave to serve the writ upon him out of the jurisdiction will only be granted, if at all, under very special circumstances: Re Watmough, Sergenson v. Beloe, 24 Ch. D. 280, C. A.

Having regard to Chancery of Lancaster Rules, 1884, O. II, 4; O. XII, 1, 7, leave of the Palatine Court must be obtained for issue of writ out of jurisdiction before application to Court of Appeal, under 17 & 18 V. c. 82, s. 8, for leave to serve out of the jurisdiction of the Palatine and within that of the High Court: Walker v. Dodds, 37 Ch. D. 188, C. A.

On application to set aside service against one Deft, an order for transfer to the High Court was made, but the other Defts were held necessary parties to the application: Phipps v. Tod, C. A., 10 Nov. 1886.

The right of a Plt under 4 & 5 Anne, c. 16, to bring his action after the Deft's return from beyond the seas within the time limited by 21 Jac. 1, c. 16, is not taken away by O. XI: Musurus Bey v. Gadban, (1894) 1 Q. B. 533; (1894) 2 Q. B. 352, C. A.

Other Proceedings.

The Court cannot, under O. XI, 1, order service of an originating summons out of the jurisdiction: Re Busfield, 32 Ch. D. 123, C. A.; the rule applying in terms only to writ of summons, and service out of the jurisdiction not being a power inherent in the Court: Ibid.; Re Anglo-African Steamship Co., 32 Ch. D. 348, C. A.; Re La Compagnie Générale d'Eaux Minérales, (1891) 3 Ch. 451.

By O. LXVII, 5, where personal service of any writ, notice, pleading, order, summons, warrant, or other document, proceeding, or written communication, is required by the rules, or otherwise, the service shall be effected as nearly as may be in the manner prescribed for the personal service of a writ of summons.

This rule "deals merely with the mode of effecting personal service, and is only applicable where personal service can be effectually made, and was not intended to introduce, in the case of all documents requiring personal service, an extraordinary power of service out of the jurisdiction, which is by another rule given in terms confining it to a writ of summons:" Cotton, L. J., Re Busfield, Whaley v. B., 32 Ch. D. 131, C. A.

Thus, leave will not be given to serve out of the jurisdiction an order for calls made in a winding-up: In re Anglo-African Steamship Co., 32 Ch. D. 348, C. A.; nor a summons for taxation of costs: Exp. Brandon, Re Bouron, 54 L. T. 128; 34 W. R. 352; nor for appointment of a receiver by way of equitable execution: Weldon v. Gounod, 15 Q. B. D. 622; nor a notice of motion to rectify the register of trade marks by striking out a mark registered in the name of a foreign co.: Re Compagnie Générale d'Eaux Minérales, &c., (1891) 3 Ch. 451; nor a petition for payment out of Court under the Trustee Relief Act: Re Jellard, 39 Ch. D. 424, C. A. (per North, J.); and see Re Cliff, Edwards v. Brown, (1895) 2 Ch. 21, C. A.; nor notice of an order made on originating summons: Re Cliff, Edwards v. Brown, (1895) 2 Ch. 21, C. A.; nor (semble) of any judgment or order under O. XVI, 40: see S. C.

But a distinction has been drawn between a notice to found proceedings to enforce payment, and one which merely gives information to persons as to the course of procedure, and is no infringement of the jurisdiction of the foreign Court: In re Nathan, Newman & Co., 35 Ch. D. 1, C. A., where service ex jur. of notice to settle list of contributories in winding-up, under Orders of 1862, r. 30, was held good; and so notice of motion to rectify the register of trade marks may be sent to a foreign co., with an intimation that proceedings which may affect its interests are pending: Re Compagnie Générale d'Eaux Minérales, &c., sup.; and a person having the conduct of the proceedings on originating summons, may of his own motion give notice, by letter or otherwise, to a person resident out of the jurisdiction; and if, after notice, that person does not choose to come in, the Court, in a proper case, will act upon the order, and, where a fund in Court is in question, distribute it in his absence: In re Cliff, Edwards v. Brown, (1895) 2 Ch. 21, C. A.; and leave has been given to serve a notice of motion for an interlocutory injunction with a copy of the writ out of the jurisdiction upon some of the Defts who were foreign subjects, without prejudice to any question which might arise under the order: Overton v. Burn, 74 L. T. 776; Hersey v. Young, W. N. (94) 18.

In Colls v. Robins, 55 L. T. 479, Kay, J., gave liberty to serve a petition for payment out of Court upon parties out of the jurisdiction, observing that the exor being before the Court the petition was rather in the nature of a notice than of a process. In the case of a petition for revocation of a patent, ample notice having been given to the respondent who was out of the jurisdiction, North, J., made an order nisi that unless the respondent should, on or before a specified day, appear and show cause to the contrary (in which case, it was said, it would be open to him to dispute the jurisdiction), the petition should be tried with viva voce evidence, and set down in the list of witness actions: Re Drummond's Patent, 43 Ch. D. 80.

Leave to issue an interpleader summons for service out of the jurisdiction was granted, as the Court could bar the claim of the foreigner refusing to submit himself to the jurisdiction: Credits Gerundense, Lim. v. Van Weede, 12 Q. B. D. 171; City of Dublin Steam Packet Co. v. Cooper (1899), 2 I. R. 381 (see Re Busfield, sup.), the object of service being only to give notice of a proceeding affecting rights; see Re Busfield, sup. Re Bonelli's Electric Telegraph Co., 18 Eq. 655; Re General International Agency, 16 L. T. 725; and Slaney's Trusts, 10 Ch. 275, must, it seems, be referred to the same principle. Re Baron Liebig's Cocoa, &c. Co., 59 L. T. 315, is reported as giving leave for service out of the jurisdiction of a summons in a winding-up for payment of a fund out of Court, but the order on the record (1888, A. 729) only gives leave to give notice of such a summons. This case purports to follow Re Nathan, Newman & Co., 35 Ch. D. 1, C. A., but the order as drawn up in that case (1887, B. 149) does not bear out the report.

It has been held that a third party notice may be served out of the jurisdiction under O. XI, 1 (e), by virtue of the provision in O. XVI, 48, that a copy of such notice shall be "served according to the rules relating to the service of writs of summons:" Dubout v. Macpherson, 23 Q. B. D. 340, citing Swansea Shipping Co. v. Duncan, 1 Q. B. D. 644, C. A.; but see Re Busfield, Whaley v. B., sup., as to the meaning of these words.

And see Dan. 288—294; D. C. F. 149—159.

AFFIDAVIT OF SERVICE.

The affidavit of service of the writ must state when, where, and how, and by whom service was effected: O. LXVII, 9. It must show the day on which the indorsement of service was made on the writ, and that such indorsement was made within three days at most after service: O. IX, 15; O. XIII, 1.

The affidavit of service cannot be dispensed with, even though the process server by foreign law cannot make the affidavit required by O. XIII, 2: Ford v. Miescke, 16 Q. B. D. 57. In Hastings v. Hurley, 16 Ch. D. 734, the Court extended the time for indorsing a writ which had been served abroad, but required a fresh affidavit of service.

DISCHARGE OF ORDER FOR SERVICE.

By O. XII, 30, a Deft before appearing is to be at liberty, without obtaining an order to enter or entering a conditional appearance, to serve notice of motion to set aside the service, or to discharge the order authorizing such service.

Where a Deft who objected to service, instead of moving to discharge the order, appeared by counsel on a motion for injunction, filed affidavits, and argued the case on the merits, he was precluded from taking such objection: Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249, C. A.; O. LXX, 2.

An order for service out of jurisdiction, made upon untrue affidavits, will be discharged, as uberrima fides ought to be observed by the party applying for such service: Republic of Peru v. Dreyfus, 55 L. T. 802.

The application under r. 30 must be promptly made. After lapse of a year it was held too late to raise objection to an order, on the ground that the affidavit did not fairly state the case: Reynolds v. Coleman, 36 Ch. D. 453, C. A.

On moving to discharge, Deft is entitled to go into evidence to show that the case is not within O. XI, but should not go into merits unnecessarily: Fowler v. Barstow, 20 Ch. D. 240, C. A.

The omission of the indorsement prescribed by App. A., Form No. 5, on the writ served out of the jurisdiction is a mere irregularity which may be disregarded under O. LXX, 1: Dickson v. Law, (1895) 2 Ch. 62.

By answering interrogatories in a county court action Deft does not waive his right to object, on transfer of the action to the High Court, to the order for service on him out of the jurisdiction: Wood v. Middleton, (1897) 1 Ch. 151.

THIRD PARTY PROCEDURE.

When a Deft claims to be entitled to contribution or indemnity over against any person not a party to the action, he may by leave issue a notice to that effect, sealed as a writ of summons, stating the nature of the claim. A copy of the notice is to be filed, and the notice is to be served within the time limited for delivering his defence: O. XVI, 48. By O. XVI, 55, the procedure is made applicable between co-Defts. It is not applicable to proceedings by originating summons: Re Wilson, A. G. v. Woodall, 45 Ch. D. 266.

Form of third party notice is given, R. S. C., App. B., No. 1; D. C. F. 82.

The application for leave must be made promptly; in general within time for delivering defence, but, at latest, before pleadings closed: Birmingham and District Land Co. v. L. & N. W. Rail. Co., W. N. (87) 102; 56 L. T. 702; but application before defence delivered is premature: In re Gilson, G. v. G., (1894) 2 Ch. 92.

The application should be made on notice to the Plt: Wye Valley Rail. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489, C. A.; see Edison and Swan Electric Co. v. Holland, 33 Ch. D. 497.

As to whether a third party can bring in a fourth, see Witham v. Vane, 49 L. J. Ch. 242; Walker v. Balfour, 25 W. R. 511; Dan. 236, 237.

The leave will not be given where the effect would be to materially embarrass the Plt: Wye Valley Rail. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489, C. A.

In giving the leave the Court will not consider whether the claim to contribution or indemnity is valid, but only whether it is bonâ fide, and if established will result in contribution or indemnity: Carshore v. N. E. Rail. Co., 29 Ch. D. 344, C. A.; Edison and Swan Electric Co. v. Holland, 33 Ch. D. 497.

By r. 52 application is to be made to the Judge by the Deft giving the notice for directions as to the mode of trial.

As between co-Defts, the question whether there is a case for contribution or indemnity should be raised on this application, and not by an application to set aside the service of the notice: Baxter v. France, (1895) 1 Q. B. 455, C. A.

Where all the matters in dispute between the Deft and the co-Deft as third party could not be determined in the action, and the right to the indemnity claimed was very doubtful, the Court refused to give directions: Baxter v. France (No. 2), (1895) 1 Q. B. 591, C. A.

The procedure under the Rules of 1883 is strictly limited to claims to "contribution or indemnity." A right to indemnity, arising as it does from contract, express or implied, is quite distinct from a right to damages, which arises in consequence of a breach of contract previously made: see Birmingham, &c. Land Co. v. L. & N. W. Rail Co., 34 Ch. D. 261, C. A. Thus a covenant by sub-lessee to repair, though following terms of covenant by lessee with original lessor, does not confer on the lessee a right to "contribution or indemnity" within O. XVI, 48, in respect of breaches of the covenant by him with the lessor: Pontifex v. Foord, 12 Q. B. D. 151; nor is the rule applicable to a claim by sub-lessee that he was induced by lessee to commit breach of covenant, and that lessee had given him a covenant for quiet enjoyment: Tritton v. Bankart, 56 L. J. Ch. 629; 35 W. R. 474; 56 L. T. 306; nor to a claim by trustees, who are sued for breach of trust, to indemnity against the estate of a deceased beneficiary whose exors are one of the Plts, one of the Deft trustees and a person who is not a party to the action: In re Gilson, G. v. G., (1894) 2 Ch. 92; and the right of a trustee to recover from the surviving partners of the firm of solrs who acted for the trustees and received trust moneys which were misapplied by a deceased trustee and co-partner is an independent right and not one depending on the liability of the trustee to replace the money: Wynne v. Tempest, (1897) 1 Ch. 110. But, on the other hand, a contract by a sub-lessee to perform the covenants in the original lease is a contract of indemnity: Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329, C. A. And so is a covenant by an assignee to indemnify the assignor against past breaches: Gooch v. Clutterbuck, (1899) 2 Q. B. 148, C. A.; and for further instances of the distinction, see Constantine & Co. v. Warden, W. N. (95) 143, C. A.; 73 L. T. 450; 44 W. R. 313; The Jacob Christensen, (1895) P. D. 281.

A claim by a purchaser that he was induced to buy by misrepresentation of auctioneer, that purchase-money might remain on mortgage, is not a claim to indemnity: Catton v. Bennett, 26 Ch. D. 161; nor can a warranty of seaworthiness be treated as a contract to indemnify against loss arising from unseaworthiness: Speller v. Bristol Steam Navigation Co., 13 Q. B. D. 96, C. A.

Under the usual suing and labouring clause in a marine policy, being a contract to pay the assured expenses which he might incur, but not to indemnify him against claims by others against him, the underwriters could not be brought in as third parties: Johnston v. Salvage Association, 19 Q. B. D. 458, C. A.

But in an action against a railway co. to reinstate name of Plt as owner of stock transferred on a forged transfer, the co. were entitled to serve a third party notice upon the transferee: Carshore v. N. E. Rail. Co., 29 Ch. D. 344, C. A.

The procedure applies where the indemnity is given after action brought: Edison and Swan Electric Co. v. Holland, 33 Ch. D. 497.

And as to third party procedure, see Dan. 230 et seq.; D. C. F. 80—86.

CHAPTER III.

APPEARANCE AND DIRECTIONS.

SECTION I.—APPEARANCE.

1. Appearance set aside on ground that Address is Illusory or Fictitious—O. XII, 12.

UPON motion &c., by counsel for the Plt, and upon reading &c., Let the appearance entered by the Deft be set aside, on the ground that the address for service contained in the memorandum of appearance is illusory or fictitious; And Let notice of this order be given to the Deft by sending a copy of this order in a registered letter to such address.—Edell v. Cave, V.-C. Bacon, 12 Dec. 1884, A. 1716; S. C., 54 L. J. Ch. 308.

For a like order made at Chambers, see Goulter v. Pearce, Chitty, J., 4 May, 1872, A. 1017.

2. Leave to a person in Possession, not being a Deft, to appear and defend an Action for Recovery of Land—O. XII, 25.

UPON the application of the N. Building Co., and upon hearing the solrs for the applicants, and upon reading an affidavit of &c., filed &c., whereby it appears that the applicants are in possession of the land and premises sought to be recovered in this action by themselves or their tenants, It is ordered that the applicants, the said N. Building Co., be at liberty to appear and defend this action.—Hartley v. Blackmore, V.-C. M. at Chambers, 7 March, 1876, A. 358.

For form of summons, see D. C. F. 171.

3. Third Party served with Notice of Claim for Indemnity—Directions under O. XVI, 52.

THE application of the Deft H. for directions consequent upon S., the person served with a third party notice, filed &c., pursuant to the order dated &c., having appeared to such notice, which upon hearing &c., was adjourned to be heard in Court, coming on this day to be heard accordingly, and upon hearing counsel for the applicant, and for the Plts, and for the said S., and upon reading the said notice and order, and the said S. not admitting any liability to indemnify the Deft in respect of the Plts' claim, This Court doth order that the said S. be at liberty to appear at the trial of this action, and take such part as the Judge shall direct, and be bound by the result of the trial; And it is ordered that the question of the liability of the said S. to indemnify the Deft be tried at the trial of this action, but subsequent thereto. Costs of application reserved.—Coles v. Civil Service Supply Assoc., 26 Ch. D. 529; Barlow v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 38 Ch. D. 144.

See Chap. II., Form 11, for previous order for leave to issue the notice. For form of application, see D. C. F. 86.

4. Leave for a Deft to appear after Judgment—O. XII, 22.

UPON the application of the Deft, and upon hearing &c., and the applicant by his solicitor submitting to be bound by the judgment in this action and the proceedings under such judgment, as if he had duly appeared in this action, It is by consent ordered that the applicant be at liberty, notwithstanding the said judgment, to enter an appearance to the writ of summons issued on &c. in this action.—See Amwyl v. Davies, M. R. at Chambers, 2 July, 1878, A. 1294; Re Brown's Estate, Brown v. Drew, M. R. at Chambers, 16 April, 1877, A. 798.

For form of petition of course, see D. C. F. 168.

5. Leave to defend on paying a Sum into Court—O. XIV, 6.

UPON the application of the Plt &c. for liberty to sign final judgment for the amount indorsed upon the writ of summons issued in this action on the — day of —, together with interest and costs, to be taxed &c., It is ordered that the Deft be at liberty on or before &c. to lodge the sum of £210 in Court as directed by the schedule hereto, or within the like period to give security for such sum of £210 to the satisfaction of the Plt; And it is ordered that upon such lodgment being made or such security being given the Deft be at liberty to defend this action: But in default of the Deft making such lodgment or giving such security on or before &c., It is ordered that the Plt P. be at liberty to sign judgment for £— and his costs of this action to be taxed. [Add lodgment schedule to credit of action.]—See Winnall v. Browne, M. R., at Chambers, 12 April, 1877, B. 967.

6. Deft allowed to defend, after Judgment by Default, on payment of Costs.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Deft, and upon hearing counsel for the Plt: Let the judgment dated &c. be discharged. And Let the Deft pay to the Plt his costs of this action subsequent to the delivery of the statement of claim, and up to and including his costs of this motion, such costs to be taxed &c. Deft to deliver defence within fourteen days from the date of order.—Williams v. Brisco, Hall, V.-C., 19 May, 1881, B. 1003.

NOTES.

APPEARANCE GENERALLY.

O. XII, 8, prescribes the mode of entering an appearance.

The memorandum of entering an appearance, which is to be in accordance with R. S. C., App. A., Part II., Form 2, is to contain the Deft's address for service: O. XII, 10; and if such address is illusory or fictitious the appearance may be set aside: r. 12. For cases in which this jurisdiction has been exercised, see A. v. B., W. N. (83) 174; Edell v. Cave, 33 W. R. 208; 54 L. J. Ch. 308; 51 L. T. 621; Dan. 302.

By O. XII, 25, a person not named as a Deft in a writ of summons for the recovery of land may by leave appear and defend on filing an affidavit showing that he is in possession of the land either by himself or by his tenant.

If a Deft wishes to take advantage of an irregularity in the issue of the writ, he should not appear, but should move on notice to Plt to set aside the writ; but appearance under protest or with notice of objection to Plt does not preclude the Deft from objecting to the jurisdiction: O. XII, 30; Dan. 301; Firth v. De las Rivas, (1893) 1 Q. B. 768.

The Court refused to set aside writ on the ground that Deft, who had entered a conditional appearance, was not the person really intended to be sued: Zuccato v. Young, W. N. (90) 55; 38 W. R. 474.

By O. XLVIII, 5, where persons are sued as partners in the name of their firm, they are to appear individually in their own names; but all subsequent proceedings are nevertheless to continue in the name of the firm.

By O. XLVIII, 6, where a writ is served under r. 3 upon a person having the control or management of the partnership business, no appearance by him shall be necessary unless he is a member of the firm sued; and by r. 7, a person sued as a partner may enter an appearance, under protest, denying that he is a partner, but such appearance shall not preclude the Plt from otherwise serving the firm and obtaining judgment against the firm in default of appearance, if no partner has entered an appearance in the ordinary form. As to the effect of appearance by "R., sued as R. & Co.," and subsequent proceedings against R. only, see Munster v. Cox, 10 App. Cas. 680; S. C., 11 Q. B. D. 435, C. A.

A solr employed by the managing partner of a business firm to defend an action brought against the firm in the firm name has authority to enter an appearance in the names of each of the parties individually: Tomlinson v. Broadsmith, (1896) 1 Q. B. 386, C. A.

Where a person has been informed that he has been made Deft, he may before actual service appear "gratis": and see Dan. 299. But a person not a party named as Deft to a counter-claim cannot so appear, but must wait until he is served with defence, under O. XXI, 12: Fraser v. Cooper, Hall & Co., 23 Ch. D. 685.

As to the validity and effect of appearance under protest, see Firth v. De las Rivas, (1893) 1 Q. B. 768, where a foreigner, appearing under protest, was held not to have lost his right to object to the jurisdiction.

APPEARANCE BY THIRD PARTY.

By O. XVI, 49, a third party who desires to dispute the Plt's claim against the Deft is to enter an appearance within eight days, and in default of his doing so shall be deemed to admit the validity of the judgment obtained against the Deft, whether by consent or otherwise, and his own liability to contribute or indemnify, as the case may be, as claimed by the notice. After eight days he may apply for leave to appear, and leave may be given upon terms.

By r. 52, if a third party appears pursuant to the third party notice, the Deft giving the notice may apply to the Court or a Judge for directions, and the Court or Judge may, if satisfied that there is a question proper to be tried as to the liability of the third party, order such question, as between the third party and the Deft giving the notice, to be tried in such manner, at or after the trial of the action, as the Court or Judge may direct; and, if not so satisfied, may order such judgment as the nature of the case may require to be entered in favour of the Deft giving the notice against the third party.

And by r. 53, the Court or a Judge, upon the hearing of the application mentioned in r. 52, may, if it shall appear desirable to do so, give the third party liberty to defend the action, upon such terms as may be just.

APPEARANCE AFTER JUDGMENT.

A Deft against whom judgment in default and on substituted service had been obtained, was allowed to defend on payment of all costs subsequent to the statement of claim: Williams v. Brisco, 29 W. R. 713. Form 6, sup.

As to appearance after judgment, see Dan. 299, 300; D. C. F. 168, 169.

LEAVE TO DEFEND.

Where there is a question of account (ex. gr., action by mortgagee in possession for mortgage debt), Deft ought, except under very special circumstances, to have leave to defend without any payment into Court: Wallingford v. The Mutual Society, 5 App. Cas. 685. In such case judgment should be signed as security only for what should be found due on the account, without power to issue execution except by leave of Court. Deft being required as a condition to consent to the immediate taking of such account.

SECTION II.—SUMMONS FOR DIRECTIONS.

1. Order on Summons for Directions under O. xxx, 1.

UPON the application of the Plt by summons for directions dated &c., and upon hearing &c., and upon reading &c., It is ordered that there be [no] pleadings in this action. And it is ordered that the — do, on or before the — day of —, 1900, deliver to the — an account in writing of the particulars of —. And it is ordered that, unless such particulars be delivered on or before the said — day of —, 1900, all further proceedings be stayed until the delivery thereof. And it is ordered that the Deft — do have — days after delivery of the said particulars to deliver his defence. And it is ordered that the Plt and Deft do respectively, on or before the — day of —, 1900, answer on affidavit stating what documents are or have been in their possession or power relating to the matters in question in this action. And it is ordered that the Plt be at liberty to deliver to the Deft, and that the Deft be at liberty to deliver to the Plt, interrogatories in writing as approved by the Judge, and that the said interrogatories be answered as prescribed by O. xxxi, 8 and 28 of the Rules of the Supreme Court.

2. Order on Notice for subsequent Directions after Original Summons for Directions—O. xxx, 1.

UPON the application of the Plt [or any party to the action] by notice for subsequent directions, dated &c., and upon hearing &c., and upon reading the order for directions, dated &c., It is ordered &c.

For further forms of these orders, see Annual Practice, 1901, Appendix K., Nos. 4A and 4B (for ordinary actions), and Nos. 4E and 4F (for third party summons and order for directions).

For forms of summons for directions, and to dismiss for want thereof, see D. C. F. 194, 195.

NOTES.

By O. xxx, 1.—“(a.) Subject as hereinafter mentioned, in every action a summons for directions shall be taken out by the Plt returnable in not less than four days.” (The rule does not apply to proceedings by originating summons: v. inf.)

“(b.) Such summons shall be taken out after appearance and before the plaintiff takes any fresh step in the action other than application for an injunction, or for a receiver, or for summary judgment under O. XIV, or to enter judgment in default of defence under O. XXVII, 2.

“(c.) The summons shall be in the form No. 3A, Appendix K., with such variations as circumstances may require, and shall be addressed to and served upon all such parties to the action as may be affected thereby.” (The practice is to require the summons to be served not less than four days before the return of the writ.)

“(d.) This rule shall not apply to Admiralty actions within the meaning of section thirty-four of the Jud. Act, 1873, or to actions coming under the provisions of O. XVIII, or to proceedings commenced by originating summons.

“(e.) Where, under O. XVIII, the Deft applies for a statement of claim, the Judge may deal with such application as if the Plt had been entitled to take out and had taken out a summons for directions.”

R. 2. “Upon the hearing of the summons the Court or a Judge shall, so far as practicable, make such order as may be just with respect to all the interlocutory proceedings to be taken in the action before the trial, and as to the costs thereof, and more particularly with respect to the following matters:—Pleading, particulars, admissions, discovery, interrogatories, inspection of documents, inspection of real or personal property, commissions, examination of witnesses, place and mode of trial. Such order shall be in the Form No. 4A, Appendix K., with such variations as circumstances may require.”

Whether there is jurisdiction to make the usual order for accounts and inquiries, foreclosure or sale on summons for directions, quære: Horton v. Bosson, 80 L. T. 435.

The filing of a statement of claim under O. XIII, 12, as against a Deft not appearing cannot be dispensed with: Re Norman, W. N. (00) 159; and as to effect of dispensing with it in case of appearance, see Milbank v. Francis, W. N. (01) 91.

R. 3. “No affidavit shall be made or used on the hearing of the said summons except by special order of the Court or a Judge.”

R. 4. “On the hearing of the summons any party to whom the summons is addressed shall, so far as practicable, apply for any order or directions as to any interlocutory matter or thing in the action which he may desire.”

R. 5. “Any application subsequently to the original summons for any directions as to any interlocutory matter or thing by any party shall be made under the summons by two clear days’ notice to the other party stating the grounds of the application.” The expression “application in Chambers” accordingly includes a notice under this rule. The notice is issued at Chambers without fee. An ordinary summons in lieu of such notice is irregular: Dan. 312.

R. 6. “Any application by any party which might have been made at the hearing of the original summons shall, if granted on any subsequent application, be granted at the costs of the party applying unless the Court or a Judge shall be of opinion that the application could not properly have been made at the hearing of the original summons.”

R. 7. “On the hearing of the summons, the Court or a Judge may order that evidence of any particular fact, to be specified in the order, shall be given by statement on oath of information and belief, or by production of documents or entries in books, or by copies of documents or entries or otherwise as the Court or Judge may direct.”

R. 8. “In any action to which r. 1 of this Order applies, if the Plt does not within fourteen days from the entry of the Deft’s appearance take out a summons for directions under this Order, or for summary judgment under O. XIV, the Deft shall be at liberty to apply for an order to dismiss the action, and upon such application the Judge may either dismiss the action on such terms as may be just, or may deal with such application in all respects as if it were a summons for directions under this Order.”

On summons for directions in a debenture holder’s action, where the Master orders that the action be set down for hearing without pleadings and as a short cause, it is convenient that the order made should contain a direction that evidence be taken by affidavit: In re Gutta Percha Corp., Ltd., W. N. (99) 251. The affidavit made on the motion for receiver is often sufficient.

And as to summons for directions, see further Dan. 311 et seq.

CHAPTER IV.

SECURITY FOR COSTS.

1. Plt to give Security for Costs by Bond or Lodgment in Court—
O. LXV, 6, 7.

UPON the application &c., who alleged that the Deft A. has entered an appearance in this action, and the Plt in the writ of summons styles himself of — in the (kingdom) of —, out of the jurisdiction of this Court [or if application made on special grounds, omit allegation, and add, and upon hearing &c., and upon reading &c.], Let the Plt procure some sufficient person on his behalf to give security by bond to the Deft A., in the sum of £100, conditioned to answer costs in case any costs shall be awarded to be paid by the Plt to the Deft A.; But the Plt is to be at liberty instead of giving such security as aforesaid to make the lodgment in Court directed in the schedule hereto; And until such security shall have been given or such lodgment made and notice thereof given to the solr for the Deft A., the Plt is not to take any further proceedings in this action against the said Deft. [Add schedule directing lodgment in Court to account of “security for costs of Deft A.”] And in the meantime the Plt is not to take any further proceedings in the action [if there are other Defts besides the party applying as against the Deft A.].

Where the action is commenced by writ, and a summons for directions has been taken out in due course, the application by Deft after appearance will be by notice under O. xxx, 5, sup., p. 25.

For like order for security for past and future costs, see Massey v. Allen, 12 Ch. D. 807; 28 W. R. 243; V.-C. H., 3 July, 1879, B. 1524.

For forms of application, &c., see D. C. F. 1010 et seq.

2. Plt to state Residence in Writ, and if Abroad to give Security for Costs, either by Bond, or by Payment into Court.

UPON the application of the Deft &c., and upon hearing &c., and upon reading &c., It is ordered that the Plt do amend his writ of summons issued in this action by inserting the actual place of residence of the Plt; And if such amendment shall not be made on or before &c., It is ordered that the Plt do not take any further proceedings in this action until such amendment shall have been made; And if on such amendment being made it shall appear that the Plt's actual residence is out of the jurisdiction of this Court, It is ordered that the Plt K. do procure some sufficient person on his behalf to give security by bond to the Deft H. in the sum of £—, conditioned to answer costs in case any costs shall be awarded to be paid by the Plt; But the Plt is to be at liberty, instead of giving such security as aforesaid, to make the lodgment in Court, as directed in the schedule hereto; And it is ordered that until such security is given, or lodgment made, and notice thereof given to the Deft's solr, the Plt do not take any further proceedings in this action against the Deft; And this order is to be without prejudice to the right of the Deft to apply hereafter for further security, as he may be advised; And the costs of the Plt and of the Deft of this application are to be costs in this action. [Add schedule directing lodgment of £— in Court to account of "security for costs of Deft H., and for investment and accumulation."]—See Kenny v. Hollings, V.-C. M. at Chambers, 16 Feb. 1877, A. 308.

For order for fresh security in the place of a bankrupt, see Transatl. Co. v. Pietroni, V.-C. W., 2 Nov. 1861, B. 2115.

For order for Plt within ten days to give security in room of, or in addition to, proposed sureties, not solvent, or the suit to be dismissed, see Cliffe v. Wilkinson, V.-C., 13 Dec. 1830, A. 257.

For order for Plts, a limited co., to give security for costs under 25 & 26 V. c. 89, s. 69, see Northampton Coal, &c. Co. v. Midland Waggon Co., O. A., 16 Jan. 1878, B. 87, 7 Ch. D. 500; Buckley, 222.

An order for security to be given by a Plt out of the jurisdiction was discharged on his coming within the jurisdiction: Mathews v. Chichester, 30 Beav. 135.

For order to put bond in suit, see Bainbrigge v. Moss, V.-C. W., 9 Jan. 1857, A. 283; S. C., 3 Jur. (N. S.) 107; 3 Kay & J. 62.

3. Petitioner to give Security for Costs.

THE petition of A. of [description from petition], on the — day of — preferred &c., coming on this day to be heard before this Court in the presence of counsel for the Petr, and upon hearing counsel for B. [respondent], This Court doth order that the Petr do procure some sufficient person on his behalf to give security by bond to the respondent B., in the sum of (£40), conditioned to answer costs, in case any shall be awarded to be paid by the Petr; And it is ordered that the said petition do stand over until such security shall have been given.—Re Dolman, 15 Jur. 1095; see Knierim v. Schmauss, V.-C. S., 6 June, 1862, A. 1100.

For an order for an applicant by summons to give security, see Re Crockford's, &c. Co., 12 Nov. 1875, A. 2857.

A shareholder out of the jurisdiction opposing a winding-up petition will not be required to give security for costs: Re Percy, &c. Iron Mining Co., 2 Ch. D. 531; but a petitioner abroad may be ordered to give security: Re

Home Assurance Co., W. N. (71) 137; 25 L. T. 199; or a Petr becoming bankrupt: Re Carta Para Co., 19 Ch. D. 457.

NOTES.

By O. LXV, 6, in any cause or matter in which security for costs is required, the security shall be of such amount, and be given at such times and in such manner and form, as the Court or a Judge shall direct.

In every case the security may be allowed to be given by payment of a sum of money into Court.

A petitioner in an action to which he was not a party (Atkins v. Cooke, 3 Drew. 694; 26 L. J. Ch. 353; 5 W. R. 381), was ordered to give security to the extent of £40.

By r. 6 (a) (overruling Redondo v. Chaytor, 4 Q. B. D. 453, C. A.; and Ebrard v. Gassier, 28 Ch. D. 232, C. A.), a Plt ordinarily resident out of the jurisdiction may be ordered to give security for costs, though he may be temporarily resident within the jurisdiction. As to the meaning of this expression, see Mechiels v. Empire Palace, 66 L. T. 132; and Dan. 84.

By r. 7, where a bond is to be given as security for costs, it shall, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise direct, be given to the party or person requiring the security, and not to an officer of the Court. For form of bond, see D. C. F. 1012.

The application for security to be given should be by summons in Chambers: Vale v. Oppert, 22 W. R. 629; 5 Ch. D. 633; Dan. 1641; and where the Plt, having failed, moves for a new trial, application for increased security may be made at Chambers, with appeal direct to the Court of Appeal: Bentsen v. Taylor, (1893) 2 Q. B. 193.

The bond of an officer in the army is sufficient security though he is abroad on service: Miller v. Hales, 17 Eq. 430.

The Court has discretion to direct security for costs to be given at any stage of the action: Martano v. Mann, 14 Ch. D. 419, C. A.; as, ex. gr., after defence: Re Smith, Bain v. B., W. N. (96) 88; 75 L. T. 46; and in a proper case will do so even after notice of trial: Lydney Iron Co. v. Bird, 23 Ch. D. 358; and the security is not necessarily confined to future costs: Massey v. Allen, 12 Ch. D. 807; Brocklebank v. Lynn Steamship Co., 3 C. P. D. 365.

Where money paid into Court for security for costs was paid out to Deft's solr on dismissal of action with costs, the Court of Appeal, on reversing the dismissal, could not order the solr to refund: Lydney and Wigpool Iron Co. v. Bird, 33 Ch. D. 85, C. A.

Where insolvent Plt was suing on behalf of his solicitor, and past costs were estimated at £70 and future at £50, security to the amount of £200 was ordered, but reduced by Court of Appeal to £100: Wilmott v. Freehold House Property Co., 52 L. T. 742; 33 W. R. 554. But in special cases a larger amount than £100 has been ordered; ex. gr., where Plts were a foreign republic having no property in this country: Republic of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 3 Ch. D. 62, C. A. The jurisdiction being discretionary the Court of Appeal is reluctant to interfere: Wilmott v. Freehold House Property Co., sup.

Entry of appearance requiring a statement of claim has been held not a waiver of Deft's right to security from Plt out of jurisdiction: Tellet v. Lalor, 8 L. R. Ir. 8; Charlesworth v. Clayton, 10 L. R. Ir. 357; Heil v. Lazenby, 12 L. R. Ir. 75.

Defts, if in position of Plts (Smith v. Hammond, 6 Sim. 10), may be ordered to give security, but not a Plt in a cross-suit: Morg. & W. 18; Dan. 83, 84.

In interpleader the rule that Deft cannot be compelled to give security for costs does not apply: Tomlinson v. Land and Finance Co., 14 Q. B. D. 539, C. A.; but the question whether a party is to be regarded as a Plt must be determined by the merits, not by the form of the issue: Rhodes v. Dawson, 16 Q. B. D. 548, C. A. A foreigner made Plt in an interpleader issue merely for convenience will not be ordered to give security: Belmonte v. Aynard, 4 C. P. D. 221.

Deft who counter-claimed was treated as Plt, and ordered to give security for costs of counter-claim: Sykes v. Sacerdoti, 15 Q. B. D. 423, C. A.; secus, where claim and counter-claim arose out of same transaction: Mapleson v. Masini, 5 Q. B. D. 144; or the counter-claim amounted substantially, though not technically, to a defence to the action: Neck v. Taylor, (1893) 1 Q. B. 560, C. A. And where Plt was a foreigner residing out of the jurisdiction, Deft admitting the cause of action and setting up counter-claim founded on a distinct claim, was not entitled to security: Winterfield v. Bradnum, 3 Q. B. D. 324, C. A.

A person who seeks to intervene and be made Deft, in order to claim property in dispute, is an actor who may be ordered to give security: Apollinaris Co. v. Wilson, 31 Ch. D. 632, C. A.; but a foreigner who is respondent to a petition for revocation of his patent, and has the right to begin, is not thereby made an "actor" within this principle: Re Miller's Patent, W. N. (94) 4; 63 L. J. Ch. 324; 70 L. T. 270; and a foreign co. submitting to the jurisdiction were entitled to be added as respondents to a motion to expunge a trade mark registered by them without giving security: Re La Société Anonyme des Verreries, &c., W. N. (93) 118.

A claimant under a general inquiry cannot, as a rule, be required to give security for costs, but if the inquiry is equivalent to an interpleader issue (as, ex. gr., where a solr is ordered to pay into Court a sum subject to claims), a foreigner claiming may be ordered to give security: Re Milward, (1900) 1 Ch. 405, C. A.

Security will not be required from a foreigner having substantial property in this country: Redondo v. Chaytor, 4 Q. B. D. 453, 457, C. A.; Hamburgher v. Poetting, 30 W. R. 769; Re Apollinaris Co., 63 L. T. 502; 39 W. R. 309; and see Re Howe Machine Co., 41 Ch. D. 118; but the fact that the action is brought on a foreign judgment against the Deft (who appeared in the foreign proceedings) is no ground for excusing the foreign Plt from giving the usual security for costs: Crozat v. Brogden, (1894) 2 Q. B. 30, C. A. As to what is sufficient evidence of the existence of such property, see Ebrard v. Gassier, 28 Ch. D. 232, C. A.

Co-plt residing abroad was not ordered to give security, the liability to costs in a joint action not being limited by the separate interests of the co-plts: D'Hormusgee v. Grey, 10 Q. B. D. 13; citing Umfreville v. Johnson, L. R. 10 Ch. 580.

And see Dan. 1640 et seq.

INSOLVENCY OR POVERTY.

As a general rule, poverty is no bar to a litigant except (1) in the case of an appellant, because he has had the benefit of a decision (v. inf. Chap. XXXVI., "APPEALS"), and (2) where an insolvent person sues as a "nominal Plt," i.e., one who, not himself having good cause of action, allows his name to be used for the benefit of someone else: Cowell v. Taylor, 31 Ch. D. 34, C. A.; Re Carta Para Gold Mining Co., 19 Ch. D. 457; Denston v. Ashton, L. R. 4 Q. B. 590; and see Mayor of Hastings v. Ivall, 9 Ch. 785.

A trustee in bankruptcy, though suing in his official name, and in insolvent circumstances, is not a "nominal Plt": Pooley's Trustee v. Whetham, 28 Ch. D. 37, C. A.; Cowell v. Taylor, sup.

And insolvency coupled with the appointment of a receiver of assets is not a sufficient ground for ordering security: Rhodes v. Dawson, 16 Q. B. D. 548, C. A.; Dartmouth Harbour Commrs. v. Mayor of Dartmouth, 34 W. R. 774; 55 L. J. Q. B. 483. And an undischarged bankrupt suing for arrears of rent of premises demised by him subsequently to the bankruptcy, was not a nominal Plt, as he would be benefited even though the money were assets: Cook v. Whellock, 24 Q. B. D. 658, C. A.

A petitioner for winding-up, who had given a business address at which he could not be found, and whose solr was unable to state his private address, was ordered to give security: Re Sturgis Syndicate, 53 L. T. 715; 34 W. R. 163.

A motion by Plt to stay payment of taxed costs out of fund in Court to solrs of an impecunious Deft, pending a summons by Deft to review taxation, was refused as being an unprecedented attempt to extend the practice as to security for costs: Re Barber, Burgess v. Vinnicome, 55 L. J. Ch. 624; 54 L. T. 728; 34 W. R. 578.

A married woman suing alone cannot be required to give security for costs, even though she has no separate property: Re Isaac, Jacobs v. Isaac, 30 Ch. D. 418, C. A.; Threlfall v. Wilson, 8 P. D. 18; secus, if she chooses to sue by a next friend, because then he alone is liable to Deft for costs: Re Thompson, Stevens v. T., 38 Ch. D. 317, C. A.

As to requiring security for costs from a Plt co. in liquidation, see Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 V. c. 89), s. 69; Pure Spirit Co. v. Fowler 25 Q. B. D. 235; Buckley, 221; and from a Deft co. counter-claiming against Plts (debenture holders) and afterwards going into liquidation, see Strong v. Carlyle Press (No. 2), W. N. (93) 51.

As to security for costs of discovery, see inf. Chap. VII., p. 64.

CHAPTER V.

PLEADINGS.

1. Statement of Claim struck out—O. XIX, 27.

UPON motion this day made unto this Court by counsel for the Deft, and upon hearing counsel for the Plt, and upon reading the statement of claim, Let the statement of claim delivered by the Plt on &c., be struck out on the ground that the same tends to embarrass the fair trial of the action. Plt to pay costs of motion. Ker v. Williams, Kay, J., 28 Jan. 1886, A. 131; S. C., W. N. (86) 16.

For like order, with liberty to deliver another statement of claim within one month, see Davy v. Garrett, C. A. 12 Jan. 1878, A. 87; 7 Ch. D. 473.

For order after reply, joinder of issue, and day fixed for the hearing giving leave to amend the statement of claim within one week, on payment by the Plts of the costs of the application, see Chesterfield Co. v. Black, V.-O. B., 8 March, 1877, A. 488; 26 W. R. 409.

The application should usually be made in Chambers: v. inf. p. 35. For forms, see D. C. F. 219.

2. Striking out part of Statement of Defence for Scandal—O. XIX, 27.

UPON the application of the Plts and upon hearing counsel for the applicants, and for the Deft, and upon reading the pleadings in this action, let the latter portion of the 7th paragraph of the statement of defence beginning with the words "for more than," to the end of that paragraph be struck out, on the ground that the same is scandalous and such as tends to prejudice and embarrass the fair trial of this action. Costs to be costs in the action.—Jackson v. Haigh, V.-O. H. at Chambers, 17 March, 1880, A. 701.

For a case in which a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1870, was ordered to be struck out as frivolous and vexatious, see Re Bartlett and Berry, 76 L. T. 751.

3. Statement of Claim struck out and Action dismissed—O. XXV, 4.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Deft, and upon hearing counsel for the Plt, it is ordered that the statement of claim in this action be struck out, on the ground that it discloses no reasonable cause of action, and that this action do stand dismissed out of this Court with costs &c.—Johnston v. J., Pearson, J., 1 Aug. 1884, A. 1272; 32 W. R. 1016; 33 W. R. 239, C. A.

4. To take Pleadings, &c. off the File.

LET the pleadings and all other documents filed in this action be taken off the file of the Court and delivered up to the parties on whose behalf the same respectively were filed, or to their solrs.

This form can be adapted to a case where affidavits only have been filed.

5. Leave to plead further Grounds of Defence arising after Delivery of Defence—O. XXIV, 2.

UPON the application of the Deft, and upon hearing the solr for the Deft, who alleged that since the Deft delivered his defence in this action [or if no defence has been delivered, that since the time limited for delivery of a defence expired], that is to say, on the — day of — (within eight days), further grounds of defence have arisen, and upon hearing the solr for the Plt, It is ordered that the Deft be at liberty within — days from the date of this order to deliver a further defence setting forth the same.

For form of summons or notice, see D. C. F. 210.

6. Order for Delivery of further Statement of Particulars of Counter-claim—O. XIX, 7.

UPON the application of the Plt &c., It is ordered that the Deft P. do within &c. after service of this order, deliver to the Plt, or to her solrs, particulars in writing stating the dates and items of (the various loans) referred to in the — paragraph of the Deft's counter-claim, and also (like particulars of the services, fees, and disbursements amounting to £—) referred to in the — paragraph of the said counter-claim.—Milner v. Peters, V.-C. M. at Chambers, 22 Nov. 1878, B. 2023.

For forms of orders for particulars under O. XIX, 7, see R. S. C., App. K., Forms 11—13. For form of summons or notice, see D. C. F. 221.

7. Deft refused Permission to avail himself of his Counter-claim—O. XIX. 3.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Plts, and upon hearing counsel for the Deft, and upon reading an affidavit of &c., filed &c., This Court being of opinion that the counter-claim of the Deft cannot be conveniently disposed of in this action [or ought not to be allowed], doth refuse the Deft permission to avail himself of his said counter-claim; And it is ordered that the Deft B. do pay to the Plts P. &c. their costs of the said counter-claim, including the costs of this application, such costs to be taxed &c.—Powell v. Burney, M. R., 24 May, 1878, B. 1059.

8. Order to exclude Counter-claim—O. XXI, 15.

UPON the application of &c., and upon hearing the solicitor for the Plt, who alleged that the Deft in his defence delivered on &c., sets up a counter-claim, that the time for the Plt to deliver his reply to the said defence has not yet expired, and that the Plt contends that the claim so raised ought not to be disposed of by way of counter-claim, but in an independent action, It is ordered that the said counter-claim of the Deft be excluded at the trial of this action.—Rees v. Fisk, M. R. at Chambers, 15 Jan. 1878, B. 167; Gray v. Webb, Kay, J., 24 Ch. D. 802; Compton v. Preston, Fry, J., 21 Ch. D. 138.

For like order on motion, see Padwick v. Scott, V.-C. H., 9 March, 1876, B. 406; 2 Ch. D. 736.

For order refusing like motion, see Dear v. Swarder, V.-C. H., 14 Dec. 1876, A. 2044; 4 Ch. D. 476; and see Huggons v. Tweed, 10 Ch. D. 359, C. A.

9. Leave, by further Reply, to plead Grounds of Defence to Counter-claim arising after Reply—O. XXIV, 2.

UPON the application of the Plt, and upon hearing the solr for the Plt, who alleged that within eight days of this time a ground of defence to the Defts' counter-claim has arisen, and that the time limited for delivering his reply has expired, It is ordered that the Plt be at liberty on or before &c. to deliver a further reply to the said counter-claim, setting forth such further ground of defence.

For form of summons or notice, see D. C. F. 213.

10. Leave to Plead (before joinder of Issue) subsequently to Reply—O. XXIII, 2.

UPON the application of the Deft, and upon hearing &c., It is ordered that the Deft be at liberty to deliver a further pleading notwithstanding the Plt has delivered his reply, but the Plt is to be at liberty to deliver a further pleading in rejoinder thereto.

For form of summons or notice, see D. C. F. 266.

11. Leave to withdraw Pleadings—O. XXVI, 1.

UPON the application of the Deft &c., and upon hearing &c., It is ordered that the Deft be at liberty to withdraw her amended statement of defence and counter-claim.—Michell v. Malings, V.-C. H. at Chambers, 7 Feb. 1877, B. 327.

12. Another Form.

AND the Defts by their counsel applying to be at liberty now to withdraw their statement of defence, It is ordered that the Defts be at liberty to withdraw their statement of defence.—Swindell v. Birmingham Syndicate, North, J., 22 March, 1884, B. 370; W. N. (84) 98.

13. Order on Appeal for further and better Particulars—O. XIX, 7.

Plt to pay all costs of this and previous order.—Newport Slipway and Dry Dock Co. v. Paynter, C. A. 10 Nov. 1886, B. 1239; 34 Ch. D. 88.

NOTES.

SCANDALOUS OR EMBARRASSING MATTER.

By O. XIX, 27, "the Court or a Judge may, at any stage of the proceedings, order to be struck out or amended, any matter in any indorsement or pleading which may be unnecessary or scandalous, or which may tend to prejudice, embarrass, or delay the fair trial of the action; and may, in any such case, order the costs of the application to be paid as between solr and client."

Scandalous matter in a pleading is that which contains offensive allegations not material to the relief claimed: Rubery v. Grant, 13 Eq. 443, 447; Christie v. C., 8 Ch. 499. Allegations which, though offensive, state facts which may be proved in evidence at the trial (ex. gr., allegations in aggravation of damages in actions for seduction or libel), are material within O. XIX, 4, and therefore not scandalous nor unnecessary: Millington v. Loring, 6 Q. B. D. 190, C. A.; Whitney v. Moignard, 24 Q. B. D. 630; secus, where allegations of fraudulent concealment are made in the statement of claim and withdrawn in the reply: Brooking v. Maudslay, 55 L. T. 343.

A pleading is embarrassing within the meaning of this rule when it contains allegations which the party is not entitled to make use of: Heugh v. Chamberlain, 25 W. R. 742; or raises by way of defence an issue which the Deft is not entitled to raise: Liardet v. Hammond Electric Light, &c. Co., 31 W. R. 710; or contains statements of unnecessary facts: Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 473, C. A.; or alleges matters of law which ought to be raised otherwise, or are merely conditional: Stokes v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 27; and see Evelyn v. E., 31 Ch. D. 138; 28 W. R. 531; or does not state the facts which are material for enabling the Deft to go to trial knowing what the issue which he has to meet is: Phillipps v. P., 4 Q. B. D. 127, C. A.; and see Davis v. James, inf.; or introduces embarrassing issues, as by allegations tending to re-litigate questions disposed of by a former compromise: Knowles v. Roberts, 38 Ch. D. 263, C. A.; and see United Telephone Co. v. Tasker, 59 L. T. 852; or irrelevant statements as to members of a local board being influenced by private considerations: Murray v. Epsom Local Board, (1897) 1 Ch. 35; or joins distinct causes of action by separate Plts: Smith v. Richardson, 4 C. P. D. 112; or claims a right of way over land, without setting out the termini and general course: Harris v. Jenkins, 22 Ch. D. 481; and see Spedding v. Fitzpatrick, 38 Ch. D. 411, C. A.; or claims recovery of land with a mere general allegation of title: Phillipps v. P., sup.; or sets up a claim by assignee of reversion without showing how reversion was created and became vested in Plt: Davis v. James, 26 Ch. D. 778; or sets up a counter-claim for damages for libel, in an action for protection of a trust fund and appointment of a new trustee: South African Republic v. La Compagnie Franco-Belge, &c., (1897) 2 Ch. 487, C. A.; or a counter-claim for damages for breaches of a contract in such an action brought by a foreign State: S. C.,

No. 2, (1898) 1 Ch. 190; or claims damages for libel without setting out the defamatory words: Harris v. Warre, 4 O. P. D. 125; or justifies a libel, but leaves it doubtful what is justified and what is not: Fleming v. Dollar, 23 Q. B. D. 388; and see Rassam v. Budge, (1893) 1 Q. B. 571; or pleads the Statute of Frauds without showing the facts which make the statute applicable: Pullen v. Snelus, 48 L. J. C. P. 394; 40 L. T. 363; 27 W. R. 534.

But a pleading is not embarrassing merely because it claims alternative relief: Bagot v. Easton, 7 Ch. D. 1, C. A.; or sets up inconsistent grounds of relief or defences: Re Smith, Rigg v. Hughes, 9 P. D. 68, C. A.; Re Morgan, Owen v. Morgun, 35 Ch. D. 492, C. A., where Deft so pleading was called upon to amend or give particulars within fourteen days after discovery of documents. Reasonable latitude ought to be permitted: Tomkinson v. S. E. Ry. Co., W. N. (87) 174.

As a general rule the defence of payment into Court is not embarrassing merely on the ground that it is combined with alternative grounds of defence: Hawkesley v. Bradshaw, 5 Q. B. D. 302; Berdan v. Greenwood, 3 Ex. D. 251, C. A.; Cooté v. Ford, (1899) 2 Ch. 93, C. A.; see Harper v. Davis, 19 Q. B. D. 170; Emden v. Carte, 19 Ch. D. 311; Spurr v. Hall, 2 Q. B. D. 615.

For instances of the exercise of the power conferred on the Court of striking out the whole or part of a pleading containing scandalous, irrelevant, or embarrassing matter, or mere evidence, see Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 473, C. A.; Phillippe v. P., 4 Q. B. D. 127, C. A.; Harbord v. Monk, 9 Ch. D. 616; 38 L. T. 411; Cashin v. Cradock, 3 Ch. D. 376, C. A.; Blake v. Albion, &c. Soc., 45 L. J. C. P. 663; Knowles v. Roberts, 38 Ch. D. 263, C. A.; see also Harris v. Gamble, 6 Ch. D. 748; Heap v. Marris, 2 Q. B. D. 630; Herring v. Bischoffsheim, W. N. (76) 77; Askew v. N. E. Ry. Co., W. N. (75) 238; Preston v. Lamont, 1 Ex. D. 361; Re Bartlett and Berry, 76 L. T. 751 (where a vendor and purchaser summons was struck out); or by simple amendment of prolix or informal statements: W. N. (76) 24; Boots' Cash Chemists v. Grundy, W. N. (00) 142 (trade combination).

Statements by husband, in answer to wife's bill, that she had been guilty of adultery were expunged with costs as between solr and client: Pearce v. P., 22 W. R. 69; so also were allegations as to frauds unconnected with the suit: Christie v. Ovington, 8 Ch. 499; or which had been condoned long before: Atwool v. Ferrier, 14 W. R. 1014.

Applications under the rule may be made either in chambers or by motion; but if made by motion, the costs of an application in chambers only may be allowed: Marriott v. M., 26 W. R. 416.

The C. A. in a fit case will review the discretion of the Court below: see Knowles v. Roberts, 38 Ch. D. 263, C. A., explaining Watson v. Rodwell, 3 Ch. D. 380, C. A.

The Court has an inherent power to prevent its records from being made the instruments of oppression, and this power will be exercised as to pleadings or affidavits which are unduly prolix: Hill v. Hart-Davis, 26 Ch. D. 470, C. A.; and scandalous matter in a bill of costs lodged with the taxing master will be struck out: Re Miller and Miller; Re French; Love v. Hills, 54 L. J. Ch. 205; 33 W. R. 210; 51 L. T. 853; following Erskine v. Garthshore, 18 Ves. 114.

In Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 12 Ch. D. 787, the whole of a reply which was prolix and in other respects faulty was struck out as embarrassing.

As to the effect of delay, see Cross v. Earl Howe, 62 L. J. Ch. 342.

As to scandal generally, see Dan. 336 et seq.

PROCEEDINGS IN LIEU OF DEMURRER.

O. xxv abolishes demurrers (see r. 1), but substitutes three modes of procedure by which the objects of a demurrer in obtaining a speedy decision may be attained, viz., (1) by raising a question of law; (2) by the striking out of pleadings which disclose no reasonable ground of action; and (3) by the stay or dismissal of frivolous or vexatious actions: see Burstall v. Beyfus, 26 Ch. D. 35.

By O. xxv, 2, any party may raise by his pleading any point of law, which is to be disposed of by the Judge at or after the trial, but by consent, or by order on the application of either party, may be set down for hearing and disposed of at any time before the trial. By r. 3, if the decision of such point of law substantially disposes of the whole action, or of any distinct cause of action, ground of defence, set-off, counter-claim or reply therein, the Court or Judge may thereupon dismiss the action, or make such other order therein as may be just.

As to the practice in reference to setting down points of law for hearing, see L. C. & D. Ry. Co. v. S. E. Ry. Co., 53 L. T. 104; and that an action set down on a point of law is not entitled to precedence over other non-witness actions: see Re Thorniley, Woolley v. Thorniley, 53 L. J. Ch. 499; 32 W. R. 539.

Under these rules, the analogy of the old practice on demurrer will be followed as to dismissal of action: see Percival v. Dunn, 29 Ch. D. 128; O'Brien v. Tyssen, 28 Ch. D. 372; and, as under the old practice, the party raising the point of law has the right to begin: Stevens v. Chown, (1901) 1 Ch. 894; and trial of issues of fact will not in general be stayed pending appeal: Re Palmer's Application, 22 Ch. D. 88, C. A.

By O. XXV, 4, "the Court or a Judge may order any pleading to be struck out, on the ground that it discloses no reasonable cause of action or answer, and in any such case or in case of the action or defence being shown by the pleadings to be frivolous or vexatious, the Court or a Judge may order the action to be stayed or dismissed, or judgment to be entered accordingly, as may be just."

Under this rule, the Court is not bound to look to the statements in the pleadings with the same strictness as on demurrer under the old practice: per Cotton, L. J., Dadswell v. Jacobs, 34 Ch. D. 278, 281, C. A.; and an application under the rule is not the equivalent of a demurrer, and will not be entertained if the pleading raises an important point of law. It may be made by Deft before defence: A. G. of Lancaster v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., (1892) 3 Ch. 274, C. A.; and that the Court has jurisdiction to order the points of law to be set down for hearing, and to postpone inspection of documents until they are disposed of, see Lever v. Land Secs. Co., 70 L. T. 323; 42 W. R. 104.

As to the meaning of the expression "reasonable cause," see Republic of Peru v. Peruvian Guano Co., 36 Ch. D. 489; Boaler v. Holder, 51 L. T. 298; Mackellar v. Hornsey, 49 W. R. 301; and see South Hetton Coal Co. v. Haswell, &c. Coal Co., (1898) 1 Ch. 465, C. A., where a statement of claim founded on an improper tender was struck out. Where a pleading presents a substantial case it will not be struck out merely because the Plt is not likely to succeed on it at the trial: Republic of Peru v. Peruvian Guano Co., sup. The question whether, without allegation of special damage, an action will lie for maliciously presenting a bankruptcy petition will not be determined on an application under this part of the rule: Wyatt v. Palmer, (1899) 2 Q. B. 106, C. A. As to the principles on which the Court ought to act in staying frivolous and vexatious proceedings, see Kellaway v. Bury, 66 L. T. 599.

An order under the first branch of this rule will be made on a consideration of the pleadings only, and evidence will not be received: Republic of Peru v. Peruvian Guano Co., 36 Ch. D. 489; Willis v. E. Beauchamp, 11 P. D. 60, C. A.; and see Lawrance v. Lord Norreys, 39 Ch. D. 213, C. A.; A. G. of Lancaster v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., (1892) 3 Ch. 274, C. A.; Willis v. E. Howe, (1893) 2 Ch. 545, C. A. (where the action was clearly statute barred unless an unfounded allegation of concealed fraud was established).

A statement of claim praying discovery in aid of proceedings in a foreign Court was struck out under the rule, on the ground that no such action would lie: Dreyfus v. Peruvian Guano Co., 41 Ch. D. 151.

It is vexatious within the rule to make solrs or others parties without seeking any relief against them, except payment of costs or discovery: Burstall v. Beyfus, 26 Ch. D. 35, C. A.; and where an architect was made a party but no cause of action against him appeared, his name was struck out with costs, including the costs of an affidavit by him upon the application for the order: Amos v. Herne Bay Pavilion Co., 54 L. T. 264; and a sham defence setting up no case but denying material statements which the party had admitted on oath in previous proceedings was struck out: Remington v. Scoles, (1897) 2 Ch. 1, C. A. But in an action by copyholders for an injunction to restrain the working of coal by lessees of the lords of the manor, the lords authorizing and justifying the alleged wrongful working could be joined as Defts: Shafto v. Bolckow, Vaughan & Co., 34 Ch. D. 725.

As to dismissal of action or stay of proceedings under the inherent general jurisdiction which the Court has to prevent abuse of its procedure, and also under the statutory jurisdiction conferred by the Vexatious Actions Act, 1896 (59 & 60 V. c. 51), s. 1, v. inf. p. 133; and as to proceedings in lieu of demurrer, see Dan. 454 et seq.

PROCEDURE GENERALLY.

By O. XIX, 21, wherever the contents of any document are material it is sufficient in any pleading to state the effect thereof as briefly as possible without setting out the whole or any part thereof, unless the precise words of the document or any part thereof are material. Under this rule it is sufficient to state the effect of limitations although a question of construction arises: Darbyshire v. Leigh, (1896) 1 Q. B. 534, C. A.

In an action against co-partners in the firm name (see O. XLVIII, 1) the surviving partner is not entitled to put in a personal defence but must defend in the firm name: Ellis v. Wadson, (1899) 1 Q. B. 714, C. A.

By O. XXIV, 2, "where any ground of defence arises after the Deft has delivered a statement of defence, or after the time limited for his doing so has expired, the Deft may, and where any ground of defence to any set-off or counter-claim arises after reply, or after the time limited for delivering a reply has expired, the Plt may, within eight days after such ground of defence has arisen, or at any subsequent time, by leave of the Court or a Judge, deliver a further defence or further reply, as the case may be, setting forth the same."

By O. XIX, 3, "a Deft in an action may set off, or set up by way of counter-claim against the claims of the Plt, any right or claim, whether such set-off or counter-claim sound in damages or not, and such set-off or counter-claim shall have the same effect as a cross action, so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same action, both on the original and on the cross claim. But the Court or a Judge may, on the application of the Plt before trial, if in the opinion of the Court or Judge such set-off or counter-claim cannot be conveniently disposed of in the pending action, or ought not to be allowed, refuse permission to the Deft to avail himself thereof."

This is a rule of procedure only, and does not confer any new rights of set-off or otherwise: Mersey Steel and Iron Co. v. Naylor, 9 Q. B. D. 648, C. A.; S. C., 9 App. Ca. 434; Pellas v. Neptune Marine Insurance Co., 5 C. P. D. 34, C. A.

As to set-off generally, see inf. Vol. II., Chap. XLIII., "ACCOUNT," pp. 1363 et seq.

A counter-claim, though not a cross action, has the effect of one, and if the action is discontinued the counter-claim is not thereby put an end to: O. XXI, 16; McGowan v. Middleton, 15 Q. B. D. 464, C. A.; overruling Vavasseur v. Krupp, 15 Ch. D. 474; and see Sykes v. Sacerdoti, 15 Q. B. D. 425, C. A.

It has been held that relief can be given on a counter-claim in respect of a cause of action accruing after the issue of the writ: Beddall v. Maitland, 17 Ch. D. 180; not following Original Hartlepool Collieries Co. v. Gibb, 5 Ch. D. 712; and see Toke v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 428; Ellis v. Munson, 35 L. T. 585; and if a Deft counter-claims in respect of such a matter the Plt may counter-claim in reply in respect of the same transaction: Toke v. Andrews, sup.; and where Deft by counter-claim sets up a contract as binding on the Plt and the Plt denies it, but alleges that, if binding, it has been broken by the Deft, a counter-claim in reply is allowable: Renton Gibbs & Co. v. Neville, (1900) 2 Q. B. 181, C. A. Relief will not be given by counter-claim in respect of a matter totally distinct from the original subject-matter of the action: Barber v. Blaiberg, 19 Ch. D. 473; ex. gr., damages for libel in an action to protect a trust fund: S. African Republic v. La Compagnie Franco-Belye, &c., (1897) 2 Ch. 487, C. A.

A person brought in as Deft to a counter-claim cannot counter-claim against the original Plt and Deft: Alcoy and Gandia Ry. Co. v. Greenhill, (1896) 1 Ch. 19, C. A.; following Street v. Gover, 2 Q. B. D. 498; and distinguishing Toke v. Andrews, sup.; nor can a Deft counter-claim in respect of a joint cause of action against the Plts bringing in the person jointly interested as co-Deft to the counter-claim: Pender v. Taddei, (1898) 1 Q. B. 798, C. A.

A counter-claim in an action by a foreign sovereign must be limited to claims in mitigation of the relief claimed, for to such only does his submission to the jurisdiction extend: S. African Republic v. Compagnie Franco-Belge, &c., (1898) 1 Ch. 190.

A third party cannot counter-claim against the Plt: Eden v. Weardale Iron and Coal Co., 28 Ch. D. 333, C. A.; where it was doubted whether a third party is a "party" within the definition in Jud. Act. 1873, s. 100.

An application by an underlessee for a vesting order under s. 4 of the Conv. Act, 1892 (55 & 56 V. c. 13), by way of relief against forfeiture may be made by defence and counter-claim in the lessor's action for possession: Cholmeley's School v. Sewell, (1893) 2 Q. B. 254.

A Deft cannot counter-claim to enforce a judgment obtained in another Division: Birmingham Estates Co. v. Smith, 13 Ch. D. 506.

O. XVIII, 5, permitting claims by an exor or admor as such to be joined with claims by or against him personally, does not apply to counter-claims: Macdonald v. Carington, 4 C. P. D. 28; and see further as to counter-claim, Dan. 438, et seq.

By O. XXI, 15, where a Deft sets up a counter-claim, if the Plt or any other person named as party to such counter-claim contends that the claim thereby raised ought not to be disposed of by way of counter-claim, but in an independent action, he may at any time before reply apply to the Court or a Judge for an order that such counter-claim may be excluded, and the Court or a Judge may, on the hearing of such application, make such order as shall be just. The rule is to be read in connection with O. XIX, 3, and delay of the trial may be a ground for excluding the counter-claim: Gray v. Webb, 21 Ch. D. 802.

Where the Plt (a solr) brought an action for the amount of his bill of costs, and the Deft counter-claimed, denying retainer, and for damages for negligence, but did not appear at the trial, the Plt on proving his case was entitled to have the counter-claim dismissed and to judgment for the amount which should be found due on taxation: Lumley v. Brooks, 41 Ch. D. 323, C. A.

By O. XXIII, 2, "no pleading subsequent to reply other than a joinder of issue shall be pleaded without leave of the Court or a Judge, and then shall be pleaded only upon such terms as the Court or Judge shall think fit."

By O. XXVII, 13, "if the Plt does not deliver a reply, or any party does not deliver any subsequent pleading, within the period allowed for that purpose, the pleadings shall be deemed to be closed at the expiration of that period, and all the material statements of fact in the pleading last delivered shall be deemed to have been denied and put in issue."

By O. XXIII, 5, "as soon as any party has joined issue upon the preceding pleading of the opposite party simply, without adding any further or other pleading thereto, or has made default as mentioned in O. XXVII, 13, the pleadings as between such parties shall be deemed to be closed."

The pleadings are not closed until the last of the defences has been delivered: Ambroise v. Evelyn, 11 Ch. D. 759.

By O. XXVI, 1, "the Plt may, at any time before receipt of the Deft's defence, or after the receipt thereof, before taking any other proceeding in the action (save any interlocutory application), by notice in writing, withdraw any part or parts of his alleged cause of complaint, and thereupon he shall pay such Deft's costs of the matter so withdrawn. Such costs shall be taxed, and such withdrawal, as the case may be, shall not be a defence to any subsequent action. Save as in this rule otherwise provided, it shall not be competent for the Plt to withdraw the record or discontinue the action without leave of the Court or a Judge, but the Court or a Judge may, before, or at, or after the hearing or trial, upon such terms as to costs, and as to any other action, and otherwise as may be just, order any part of the alleged cause of complaint to be struck out. The Court or a Judge may, in like manner, and with the like discretion as to terms, upon the application of a Deft, order the whole or any part of his alleged grounds of defence or counter-claim to be withdrawn or struck out, but it shall not be competent to a Deft to withdraw his defence, or any part thereof, without such leave."

A Plt cannot now elect to be non-suited, and if he offers no evidence at the trial, the Deft is entitled to a verdict: Fox v. Star Newspaper Co., (1900) A. C. 19, H. L.; (1898) 1 Q. B. 636, C. A.

A Deft to an action for recovery of land was allowed to withdraw his defence after the action had been in the paper, upon terms of payment of balance of rent due into Court, and payment of costs occasioned by the defence and of the application: Real and Personal Advance Co. v. McCarthy, 14 Ch. D. 188.

As to discontinuance, see Chap. XI., post.

PARTICULARS.

By O. XIX, 6, in all cases in which the party pleading relies on misrepresentation, fraud, breach of trust, wilful default, or undue influence, and in certain other cases, particulars are to be stated in the pleadings; and, by O. XIX, 7, "a further and better statement of the nature of the claim or defence, or further and better particulars of any matter stated in any pleading, notice, or written proceeding requiring particulars, may in all cases be ordered, upon such terms, as to costs and otherwise, as may be just."

The object of particulars is to enable a party to know what case he has to meet, and thus prevent surprise at the trial and save expense: Crompton v. Anglo-American Brush Electric Light Corporation, 35 Ch. D. 283, C. A.; Spedding v. Fitzpatrick, 38 Ch. D. 410, C. A.; Thompson v. Birkley, 31 W. R. 230; 47 L. T. 700; and see Dan. 332 et seq.

Plt was ordered to give particulars of items which, in his claim, were placed to the credit of the Deft: Golden v. Corsten, 5 C. P. D. 17. General allegations of wilful default were to be struck out unless Plt furnished particulars within a week: Re Anstice, A. v. Hibbell, 54 L. J. Ch. 1104; 52 L. T. 572; 33 W. R. 557. In an action for slander Deft was held entitled to particulars of the names of the persons to whom the slanderous words were uttered, as being part of the facts on which the Plt relied: Bradbury v. Cooper, 12 Q. B. D. 94, citing Eade v. Jacobs, 3 Ex. D. 335, C. A.; and before delivery of defence: Roselle v. Buchanan, 16 Q. B. D. 656. As to particulars to be given in action to restrain trespass on a road by Deft who alleges dedication by the Plt and his predecessors to the public, see Spedding v. Fitzpatrick, 38 Ch. D. 410, C. A. As to particulars of reasonable grounds of belief in truth of prospectus in action under Directors' Liability Act, 1890, see Alman v. Oppert, 70 L. J. K. B. 745, C. A.

In the Probate Division a person alleging undue influence was not required to give particulars of acts of undue influence, but only the names of the persons charged: Lord Salisbury v. Nugent, 9 P. D. 23; and see Cave v. Torre, 54 L. T. 515; 32 W. R. 324; Hankinson v. Barningham, 9 P. D. 62; and particulars will not be ordered of allegations which are not material: Cave v. Torre, sup.

Where particulars were ordered of alleged false entries in books of account, it was not sufficient to specify the entries, but the general nature of the objections to the several items was to be indicated: Newport Slipway Dry Dock Co. v. Paynter, 34 Ch. D. 88, C. A.; and see Form 13, sup. p. 34.

Where the action is for an account, particulars, not being required to enable Deft to frame defence, will not in general be ordered: Augustinus v. Nerinckx, 16 Ch. D. 13, C. A.; secus, where the claim is for a specified sum made up of a number of items: Blackie v. Osmaston, 28 Ch. D. 119, C. A.; and the fact that an account is also asked for is not a sufficient ground for refusing particulars: Kemp v. Goldberg, 36 Ch. D. 505.

As to the proper order to be made for particulars of pedigree by a Plt claiming as heir-at-law, see Blackledge v. Anderton, W. N. (93) 112; and as to the right to particulars in such a case, see Palmer v. P., (1892) 1 Q. B. 319; Evelyn v. E., 28 W. R. 531; 42 L. T. 248; Phillipps v. P., 4 Q. B. D. at p. 134; Dan. 353, 822, 823. For forms, see D. C. F. 847 et seq.

R. 6 is a rule of pleading only, and the omission to comply with it ought not to be scanned too narrowly on a question as to discovery: per Bowen, L. J., Leitch v. Abbott, 31 Ch. D. 374, C. A. Where, in an action by principal against agent for fraud, the general nature of the fraud was indicated, but no particulars given, the Plt was held entitled (even though a settled account was pleaded) to discovery to enable him to give details of the fraud, before giving particulars: Whyte v. Ahrens, 26 Ch. D. 717, C. A.; Leitch v. Abbott, sup.; Sachs v. Spielman, 37 Ch. D. 295. And a Deft, by delivering statement of defence, does not waive his right to particulars: Sachs v. Speilman, 37 Ch. D. 295, where Deft's application for particulars was ordered to stand over till a statement of defence had been put in. And generally where the Deft has means of knowledge which the Plt has not, the Deft is not entitled to particulars until after he has given discovery: Millar v. Harper, 38 Ch. D. 110, C. A.; and see Union Electrical Light Co. v. Electrical Storage Co., 38 Ch. D. 325, C. A.

Whether particulars shall precede discovery or discovery precede particulars is a matter for the discretion of the Court. Where Deft's books gave them special means of ascertaining whether alleged frauds had been committed, they were not entitled to particulars before giving discovery: Waynes Merthyr Co. v. Radford, (1896) 1 Ch. 29.

The right to particulars is distinct from the right to production, and a Deft cannot refuse to give particulars of a transaction because the documents by which the transaction was carried out are privileged: Milbank v. M., (1900) 1 Ch. 376, C. A.

Where an order for particulars is not complied with, a further order may direct that the action shall be dismissed unless the particulars are delivered within a certain time: Davey v. Bentinck, (1893) 1 Q. B. 185, C. A.

In an action alleging fraudulent sale of inferior goods in Plts' name it was sufficient for the Plts to give times and places of sales, and not names and addresses of purchasers: Duke v. Wisden, 77 L. T. 67, C. A.

By O. XIX, 8, "the party at whose instance particulars have been delivered under a Judge's order shall, unless the order otherwise provides, have the same length of time for pleading after the delivery of the particulars that he had at the return of the summons." This rule does not apply where the party has been previously ordered to deliver defence within a month "peremptory": Falck v. Axthelm, 24 Q. B. D. 174, C. A.

The application for particulars is made at chambers (under O. XXX, v. sup. p. 25), and notice thereof must be served on the Plt. For form of summons or notice, see D. U. F. 221.

PROCEEDING TO TRIAL WITHOUT PLEADING.

By O. XVIII, provisions are made under which a Plt is enabled to proceed to trial without pleadings by a writ containing an indorsement stating that if the Deft appears the Plt intends to proceed to trial without pleadings. The effect of the indorsement is that no pleadings can be required or delivered except by order of the Judge. For the order and practice thereunder, see Dan. 469.

CHAPTER VI.

AMENDMENT.

SECTION I.—PLEADINGS.

1. Amendment of Pleading disallowed—O. XXVIII, 4.

UPON motion [or upon the application of] &c., and upon hearing &c., and upon reading &c., It is ordered that the amendment in the — paragraph of the Plt's (Deft's) statement of claim (defence) be disallowed, and be accordingly struck out of the same.—Directions as to costs.

For forms of summons or notice to disallow amendments, see D. C. F. 217.

2. Amendment at the Trial for the Purpose of opening Settled Accounts—O. XXVIII, 1, 6.

THIS action coming on &c.—Declare that the monthly cash accounts rendered &c. are to be treated as settled accounts.—“And this Court doth order that the Plts be at liberty within — days after the date of this order to amend their statement of claim in such manner as they may be advised, by inserting therein specific allegations relevant to the relief asked by them for opening the accounts alleged by the Defts to have been stated and settled.”—Plts M. &c. to pay to Deft C. the costs of the day, to be taxed.—Reserve further costs.—Adjourn further hearing.—And in default of amendment within the time limited the action to be dismissed with costs [if so, without further order].—See Mozley v. Cowie, Fry, J., 15 Dec. 1877, B. 2110; 26 W. R. 854.

NOTES.

It is not now in general necessary to draw up an order for amendment of a writ or pleadings, it being provided by O. LII, 14, that when an order has been made not embodying any special terms, nor including any special directions, but simply enlarging time for taking any proceeding or doing any act, or giving leave for the amendment of any writ or pleadings, it shall not be necessary to draw up such order unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise direct; but the production of a note or memorandum of such order, signed by a Judge, registrar, master, chief clerk, or district registrar, shall be sufficient authority for such amendment.

The rules as to amendment generally are contained in O. XXVIII, which provides, by r. 1, that at any stage of the proceedings the Court or a Judge may allow either party to alter or amend his indorsement or pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just, and all such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy; and by rr. 2, 3, without any leave, the Plt may amend his statement of claim, and the Deft his set-off or counter-claim, within the times thereby respectively limited: but a pleading so amended may, on the application of the opposite party within eight days after delivery, be disallowed, or allowed, subject to terms as to costs or otherwise: r. 4. The opposite party is then to plead to the amended pleading, or amend his pleading within the time he has to plead, or within eight days from the delivery of the amendment, whichever shall last expire; but if he has pleaded before the delivery of the amendment, and does not plead again or amend, he is to be deemed to rely on his original pleadings: r. 5.

By O. xx, 4, "whenever a statement of claim is delivered the Plt may therein alter, modify, or extend his claim without any amendment of the indorsement of the writ."

An amendment changing the character of the action is not within the rule, as, ex. gr., where the writ was for ordinary partnership accounts, and the statement of claim alleged misrepresentation and claimed return of premium: Cave v. Carew, W. N. (93) 42; 41 W. R. 359; 62 L. J. Ch. 530; 68 L. T. 254 (statement of claim struck out with liberty to deliver another in accordance with the writ). But in some recent cases greater latitude has been allowed.

Amendment of writ, as to indorsement, is under the above rules; as to parties, under O. xvi, inf. p. 45. As to amendment of writ, see Dan. 276 et seq.; D. O. F. 137 et seq.

By O. xxviii, 6, in all cases not provided for by the preceding rules, either party may apply to the Court or a Judge in Chambers, or to the Judge at the trial of the action, for leave to amend any pleading, and the amendment may be allowed upon terms as to costs or otherwise.

R. 9 provides that an amended indorsement or pleading is to be marked with the dates of the order for amendment and of the amendment, and the amended document is to be delivered to the opposite party within the time allowed for amendment (r. 10), but it is not necessary that the copy of the amended indorsement or pleading delivered to the opposite party should be marked: Hanmer v. Clifton, (1894) 1 Q. B. 238.

By r. 12, the Court or a Judge may, at any time, and on such terms as to costs or otherwise as may be thought just, amend any defect or error in any proceedings, and all necessary amendments shall be made for the purpose of determining the real question or issue raised by or depending on the proceedings.

The provisions of O. xxviii as to amendment apply to writs issued for service out of the jurisdiction, and the indorsement of claim on such a writ may accordingly be amended, if the amendment does not introduce a cause of action in respect of which leave for service out of the jurisdiction could not be given under O. xi: Holland v. Leslie, (1894) 2 Q. B. 450, C. A.

The discretionary powers of allowing amendments, given to the Courts by O. xxviii, have been widely exercised. The general rule is that amendments ought always to be allowed, except when the other party cannot be placed in the same position as if the pleading had been originally correct, but an injury would be occasioned to him by the amendment which cannot be compensated by costs: Steward v. N. Metropolitan Tram. Co., 16 Q. B. D. 556, C. A.; Weldon v. Neal, 19 Q. B. D. 394, C. A.; Clarapade v. Commercial Union Association, 32 W. R. 262; Tildesley v. Harper, 10 Ch. D. 393, C. A.

Leave to amend by raising a new case has been granted, after a day has been fixed for the hearing: Roe v. Davis, 2 Ch. D. 729; and also at the hearing: Budding v. Murdoch, 1 Ch. D. 43; by inserting allegations for the purpose of opening settled accounts: Moxley v. Cowie, 26 W. R. 854; 47 L. J. Ch. 271; 38 L. T. 908, Form 2, sup. p. 41; of setting aside a sale of shares: Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768; 27 W. R. 228; of charging wilful default on terms that Plt should enter into no new evidence, and pay costs of the hearing: King v. Corke, 1 Ch. D. 57; and, where necessary in order to settle the real question in dispute, a pleading may be amended even after verdict, to give effect to the finding of the jury: Noad v. Murrow, 40 L. T. 100, 103.

Amendment of reply after issue joined was allowed on motion on terms of Plts paying the costs which might turn out to have been thrown away by reason of the amendment, and the costs of the motion: Preston Corp. v. Fulwood L. B., 34 W. R. 200; 53 L. T. 718.

And in an action for the recovery of land leave was given to amend by adding an alternative cause of action arising out of the defence: Rushbrooke v. Farley, 33 W. R. 557; 52 L. T. 572; 54 L. J. Ch. 1079.

And if necessary the Court may order allegations to be re-inserted which had previously been ordered to be struck out: Mansel v. A. G., 4 P. D. 232.

But a Plt was not allowed to amend by setting up a claim which, since the issue of the writ, had become barred by the Statute of Limitations: Weldon v. Neal, 19 Q. B. D. 394, C. A.; nor a Deft, after close of pleadings, to set up a defence transferring liability to a vestry, the statutory period of limitation for suing whom had in the interval expired: Steward v. N. Metropolitan Tram. Co., 16 Q. B. D. 556, C. A. For a case in which amendment was allowed by withdrawal of an admission as to the receipt of money, but on terms of the money being brought into Court, see Hollis v. Burton, (1892) 3 Ch. 226, C. A.

And leave will not in general be granted to raise an entirely new case of fraud: Hendriks v. Montagu, 50 L. J. Ch. 456.

Leave to amend three months after joinder of issue, by raising a new case wholly inconsistent with the previous pleading, was refused: Clark v. Wray, 31 Ch. D. 68.

Delay may be a ground for refusing the leave: Clark v. Wray, sup.; or for allowing it, with imposition of special terms, ex. gr., payment of the costs of the application as between solr and client: Kurtz v. Spence, 36 Ch. D. 770, C. A.

An affidavit stating the nature, or showing the materiality, of the proposed amendments is no longer required: Cargill v. Bower, 4 Ch. D. 78; Chesterfield Co. v. Black, 25 W. R. 409. If such an affidavit is made, it is improper to cross-examine upon it: Conybeare v. Lewis, 29 W. R. 391; 44 L. T. 242.

If the amendment be not made within the time limited for that purpose by the order giving leave to amend, or, if no time be limited, within fourteen days from the date of the order, the order to amend shall on the expiration of the time limited, or of fourteen days, as the case may be, become ipso facto void, unless the time be extended: O. XXVIII, 7; and see O. LXIV, 7.

By O. LXIV, 5 (with a partial exception as to certain causes to be tried at assizes), the time of the Long Vacation is not to be reckoned in the computation of the times allowed for filing, amending or delivering any pleading, unless otherwise directed by the Court or a Judge.

By O. LXIV, 8, the time for delivering or amending any pleading may be enlarged by consent in writing without application to the Court or Judge.

Under the former practice leave to amend would not be given at the hearing, unless the matter of amendment related to the issues already raised: see Ld. Darnley v. L. C. & D. Rail. Co., 1 D. J. & S. 204, 215; Gossip v. Wright, 11 W. R. 632; or the position of the parties had become changed since bill filed: A. G. v. Cambridge Gas Co., 6 Eq. 282; but a Plt having no title to sue when he filed his bill could not obtain a decree upon a right of suit subsequently acquired and brought forward by amendment or supplemental bill: A. G. v. Corp. of Avon, 3 D. J. & S. 637; and see Peck v. Spencer, 5 Ch. 548.

For instances of amendment at the hearing under the old practice, see Maughan v. Blake, 3 Ch. 32; Ld. Darnley v. L. C. & D. Rail. Co., 1 D. J. & S. 204; Bierdermann v. Seymour, 1 Beav. 594; and after the hearing on further consideration, see White v. Hall, 1 Russ. & M. 332.

A Deft whose statement of defence has been held to be an insufficient denial under O. XIX, 19, will not, as a general rule, be refused leave to amend at the hearing: Re Truefort, Trafford v. Blanc, 34 W. R. 56, following Tildesley v. Harper, 10 Ch. D. 393, C. A.; but he will not be allowed to amend so as to raise merely technical points: Collette v. Goode, 7 Ch. D. 842; and see Byrd v. Nunn, 7 Ch. D. 284, C. A.; Thorp v. Holdsworth, 3 Ch. D. 637; Edevain v. Cohen, 43 Ch. D. 187, C. A.

Amendment at the hearing of a foreclosure action was allowed on payment of costs where a denial by Deft was not sufficiently specific, and the case came on upon admissions: Rutter v. Tregent, 12 Ch. D. 758; but was refused where the Deft had omitted to deny a material fact which must have been within his knowledge: Lowther v. Heuver, 41 Ch. D. 248, C. A.

In an action for trespass, where the Deft claimed a prescriptive right, the Court of Appeal, reversing Fry, J., allowed an amendment at the hearing by which the title of the Plt would be denied: Laird v. Briggs, 19 Ch. D. 22, C. A.

And where a case of fraud, after Plt's case was closed, arose on the cross-examination of the Defts, leave to amend was granted, but the evidence was to be confined to matters arising upon the cross-examination: Riding v. Hawkins, 14 P. D. 56.

In one case, where Plt sued as riparian proprietor to restrain trespass on a river, and at the hearing it appeared that the bed of the river was vested in the Crown, whose rights he had purchased since action brought, he was permitted to issue a new writ, and the hearing of the two actions was, by consent, then proceeded with: Bourke v. Davis, 44 Ch. D. 110.

But Defts were not allowed, after evidence closed, to amend by pleading merger of cause of action in a previous judgment against joint tort feors: Edevain v. Cohen, 41 Ch. D. 563; 43 Ch. D. 187, C. A.

As to amendment at hearing by adding parties, see inf. p. 47.

Liberty to amend after time for appealing had long expired was granted under special circumstances on special terms, in order that the other parties might not suffer any loss by the applicant's not having taken the proper course of appealing in due time: Kurtz v. Spence, 36 Ch. D. 770, C. A.

The jurisdiction being discretionary, the Court of Appeal is reluctant to interfere: Byrd v. Nunn, 7 Ch. D. 284, C. A.; Edevain v. Cohen, sup.; but has done so where the amendment was necessary in order to try the real question between the parties; Laird v. Briggs, sup.

Where the interest of the Plt is validly assigned pendente lite, and an order made giving the assignee leave to carry on the proceedings, the statement of claim should be amended by adding the new title of the action and showing the devolution of interest on the new Plt: Seear v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121, C. A.; and see inf. Chap. IX., "CHANGE OF PARTIES."

As to amendment of judgments and orders of Court, see inf. Chap. XV., "PASSING AND ENTERING."

As to costs of amendments, see O. LXV, 27 (31, 32), and inf. Chap. XVII., "COSTS."

And as to amendment of pleadings generally, see Dan. 341 et seq.

SECTION II.—AMENDMENT AS TO PARTIES.

1. Adding Plt—Amendment of Writ and Statement of Claim by naming the A. G. as Plt—O. XVI, 2.

UPON motion &c., This Court doth order that the Plts be at liberty, upon obtaining the allowance of His Majesty's A. G. (and without prejudice to the pending motion for an injunction &c.), to amend the writ of summons issued by them in this action on &c., and the statement of claim delivered by them on &c., by adding in the said writ and statement respectively His Majesty's A. G. as Plt in this action at the relation of the existing Plts, and by inserting in the said writ and statement of claim the names of Messrs. A., of &c., as solrs for the Plt and relators, and the names of Messrs. B., of &c., as agents for the said Messrs. A., and otherwise to amend the said writ and statement of claim as the Plts shall be advised.—Costs to be costs in the action.—See Caldwell v. Pagham Harbour Reclamation Co., V.-O. H., 17 Feb. 1876, A. 243; 2 Ch. D. 221.

2. Plt undertaking to amend and make A. G. a Party, Order discharged.

UPON motion by way of appeal &c. by counsel for the Plts, And upon hearing counsel for the Deft, and the Plts by their counsel undertaking to amend the writ of summons and their statement of claim in this action by adding His Majesty's A. G. as a Deft, This Court doth order that the Plts be at liberty to amend the said writ of summons and statement of claim accordingly, and also to amend the said statement of claim as they may be advised; And it is ordered that the said order, dated &c., be discharged.—Costs of Plts of appeal, and of the said order to be their costs in the action.—See Ellis v. Duke of Bedford, C. A., 14 Feb. 1899, A. 1085; (1899) 1 Ch. 494, C. A.

3. Order Nisi to add Defts in Consolidated Action—O. XVI, 11.

UPON motion &c., This Court doth order that J. and E. be added as Defts hereto, unless they shall, within — days after service of this order, show unto this Court good cause to the contrary.—See Re Wortley, Culley v. Wortley, M. R., 8 Dec. 1876, B. 2007; 4 Ch. D. 180.

4. Action defective for want of Parties—Trial to stand over—O. XVI, 11.

THIS action coming on for trial this day &c., And it being admitted by the Plts L. and W. that the late Plt B. is dead, and they by their counsel asking leave to amend, And upon hearing &c., This Court doth order that this action do stand over until the — day of —, to give time (or with liberty) to the Plts to remedy the defect caused by the death of the said B. [or to amend their writ and statement of claim by adding parties, and otherwise in relation thereto] as they may be advised; And this Court doth order that the Plts L. and W. do pay to the Defts M. &c. their costs occasioned by this action having been placed in the paper for trial on the — day of — and the — day of —; such costs to be taxed by the Taxing Master.—Lydall v. Martinson, Fry, J., 12 June, 1877, B. 1125; 5 Ch. D. 780.

NOTES.

ADDING OR STRIKING OUT PARTIES.

By O. XVI, 1, "All persons may be joined in one action as Plts, in whom any right to relief in respect of or arising out of the same transaction or series of transactions is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative, where if such persons brought separate actions any common question of law or fact would arise; provided that, if upon the application of any defendant it shall appear that such joinder may embarrass or delay the trial of the action, the Court or a Judge may order separate trials, or make such other order as may be expedient," and judgment may be given for such one or more of the Plts as may be found to be entitled to relief, for such relief as he or they may be entitled to, without any amendment. But the Deft, though unsuccessful, is to be entitled to his costs occasioned by so joining any person who shall not be found entitled to relief unless the Court or a Judge in disposing of the costs shall otherwise direct.

The words from the beginning of the rule to the word "expedient" were added on October 26, 1896, in substitution for the following words: "All persons may be joined as Plts in whom the right to any relief claimed is alleged to exist whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative."

The former rule was held in Smurthwaite v. Hannay, (1894) A. C. 494, H. L. (reversing C. A., (1893) 2 Q. B. 412), to deal merely with the parties to an action, and to have no reference to the joinder of several causes of action. Accordingly, where several holders of bills of lading, shippers and consignees, sued the shipowners, claiming damages for non-delivery of specified goods, the causes of action of the several plaintiffs being separate and distinct, it could not be so joined in one action.

And so numerous Plts under the Fatal Accidents (Lord Campbell's) Act (9 & 10 V. c. 93) cannot join in one action to recover damages for injuries resulting from a collision at sea caused by the alleged negligence of the Defts: Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co. v. Isune Kijima, (1895) A. C. 661, P. C. following Smurthwaite v. Hannay, sup.; and see Peddie v. Kyle (1900), 2 I. R. 261.

And see further as to the effect of the former rule, Sandes v. Wildsmith, (1893) 1 Q. B. 771 (where two Plts, being improperly joined, were to elect which should proceed, so much of the statement of claim as related to the other being struck out): Gort v. Rowney, 17 Q. B. D. 625, 635, C. A.

See also Carter v. Rigby, (1896) 2 Q. B. 113, C. A. (where by the flooding of the Defts' mine fifty of their miners were drowned, and it was held, under O. XLIV, 18, of the County Court Rules, that the causes of action were several, and that the relatives of the respective miners were not entitled to join as co-Plts in a single action against the owners of the mine).

Even under the new rule a Plt will not be permitted to join a personal action by himself against directors as shareholder for relief on the ground of fraud with a representative action, claiming relief on the ground of the commission of acts ultra vires, as such causes of action do not arise out of the same transaction, or series of transactions: Stroud v. Lawson, (1898) 2 Q. B. 44, C. A.

But where Defts published a series of books bearing the titles the "Oxford and Cambridge Publications" or the "Oxford and Cambridge edition," it was held that the two Universities were entitled to join as co-Plts in one action for an injunction in respect of the improper use of the words "Oxford and Cambridge" as the action arose out of the same series of transactions, and common questions of fact would arise: Universities of Oxford and Cambridge v. Gill, (1899) 1 Ch. 55.

And on a similar principle, several persons who separately took debentures in a company on the faith of statements in a prospectus and covering letter issued by the directors, were held entitled to sue the directors in one action for damages for misrepresentation: Drincqbier v. Wood, (1899) 1 Ch. 393.

And an action against co. and directors in respect of a fraudulent prospectus is maintainable although the relief against the several Defts differs in detail, and although the represve of a deceased director is joined as a Deft: Frankenburg v. Great Horseless Carriage Co., (1900) 1 Q. B. 504, C. A.

And an action under s. 7 of the Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875 (38 & 39 V. c. 86), was held to be maintainable against officials of various trade unions who conspired to beset workmen and prevent them from serving the Plt in time of strike: Walters v. Green, (1899) 2 Ch. 696.

By O. XVI, 2, "where an action has been commenced in the name of the wrong person as Plt, or where it is doubtful whether it has been commenced in the name of the right Plt, the Court or a Judge may, if satisfied that it has been so commenced through a bonâ fide mistake, and that it is necessary for the determination of the real matter in dispute so to do, order any other person to be substituted or added as Plt upon such terms as may be just."

The rule applies to mistakes of law as well as of fact: Duckett v. Gover, 6 Ch. D. 82; Val de Travers Co. v. London Tramways Co., 40 L. T. 133; 48 L. J. O. P. 312; W. N. (79) 46; and see Long v. Crossley, 13 Ch. D. 388.

The rule was held not to apply where after consideration it was decided that the original Plts had no sufficient interest in law to entitle them to sue: Clowes v. Hilliard, 4 Ch. D. 413; and see Luke v. S. Kensington Hotel Co., 7 Ch. D. 789.

The order cannot be made on ex parte motion: Tildesley v. Harper, 3 Ch. D. 277; Re Colbeck, Hall v. C., 36 W. R. 259.

The rule is to be read together with r. 11 (stated inf.): Tryon v. National Provident Institution, 16 Q. B. D. 678; and the provision in that rule as to written consent would seem to be applicable also to r. 2: S. C.; but see Sanders v. Peek, 32 W. R. 462.

For case in which the Court of Appeal under this rule directed an appeal to stand over with liberty to amend by adding Plts, on consent being obtained, and stayed proceedings under an order on further consideration made subsequently to service of notice of the appeal, see Gandy v. G., 30 Ch. D. 57, 71, C. A.

As to adding the trustee of a bankrupt Plt as a co-Plt, see Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 768, C. A.; 29 W. R. 600; and further, as to adding, striking out, or substituting parties, see Dan. 221, et seq.

By O. XVI, 11, after a provision that no action shall be defeated by reason of misjoinder, the Court or a Judge is empowered, at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may seem just, to order the name of any party, whether Plt or Deft, to be struck out, and the name of any party, whether Plt or Deft, who ought to have been joined, or whose presence is necessary to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all questions in the cause or matter to be added. No person shall be added as a Plt suing without a next friend, or as the next friend of a Plt under any disability, without his own consent in writing thereto.

The provision that the consent must be in writing practically overrules Cox v. James, 19 Ch. D. 55, and renders obsolete Turquand v. Fearon, 4 Q. B. D. 280.

The written consent must be obtained though the person sought to be joined is indemnified against costs: Tryon v. National Provident Institution, 16 Q. B. D. 678; and even though he be trustee for the original Plt: Besley v. B., 37 Ch. D. 648.

The amended writ must be personally served on the added parties and delivered like a pleading to the others: Dan. 284.

An action ought not to be dismissed for want of parties: Fairclough v. Marshall, 4 Ex. D. 37, C. A.; Van Gelder & Co. v. Sowerby Bridge Flour Society, 44 Ch. D. 374, C. A.

For instances of the exercise of this jurisdiction by making a co-Plt Deft at the hearing, see Roberts v. Evans, 7 Ch. D. 830; by adding a Deft, Honduras Rail Co. v. Tucker, 2 Ex. D. 301, C. A.; Day v. Radcliffe, 24 W. R. 844; after joinder of issue, Edward v. Lowther, 45 L. J. O. P. 417; 34 L. T. 255; 24 W. R. 434; by striking out a Deft improperly joined, Wilson v. Church, 9 Ch. D. 552; after the Deft struck out had delivered his statement of defence, Vallance v. Birm. &c. Land Corp., 2 Ch. D. 369; by adding alleged principal as co-Deft in an action against a broker for the breach of warranty of authority, Bennets & Co. v. McIlwraith, (1896) 2 Q. B. 464, C. A.; and in action by shipowner against consignees who had no property in the cargo by adding the shippers as Defts, in order that they might counter-claim against the Plt for short delivery and injury to cargo: Montgomery v. Foy, (1895) 2 Q. B. 321, C. A.

For cases in which it was not exercised, see Harry v. Davey, 2 Ch. D. 721; Norris v. Beazley, 2 C. P. D. 80; Mills v. Griffiths, 45 L. J. Q. B. 771; New Westminster Co. v. Hannah, 24 W. R. 899; De Hart v. Stevenson, 1 Q. B. D. 313; Showell v. Winkup, 60 L. T. 389.

There is no jurisdiction under O. XVI, 11, to add a party as Deft who is not directly interested in the issues between the existing parties to the action: Moser v. Mursden, (1892) 1 Ch. 487, C. A.

A third party has no right to object to the addition of new Defts unless he can show that he will be thereby injured: Byrne v. Brown, 22 Q. B. D. 657, C. A. As to adding or substituting a Plt after judgment, see The Duke of Buccleuch, (1892) A. 201 (P. C.).

It is common practice to allow a person entitled to take out admon to be added as a party, and then, if the estate proves to be interested, the order will not go until admon is taken out: Re Richerson, Scales v. Heyhoe, W. N. (93) 103; 41 W. R. 583.

A Plt who has no right to sue will not be permitted to amend by joining as co-Plt a person who has such right: Walcott v. Lyons, 29 Ch. D. 584, C. A.; and see Clowes v. Hilliard, 4 Ch. D. 415; but in Ayscough v. Bullar, 41 Ch. D. 341, C. A., where it was doubtful whether the existing Plt could sue alone, she was allowed to add a co-Plt on terms of paying costs of action up to amendment if, on the trial, it appeared that she was not entitled to sue.

In an action of nuisance by owners and tenant of leasehold houses, tenant declining to go on, two new tenants were added as co-Plts: House Property and Investment Co. v. H. P. Horse Nail Co., 29 Ch. D. 190; distinguishing Dalton v. Guardians of St. Mary Abbots, 47 L. T. 349, on the ground that there the person proposed to be added was owner of a distinct property; and in an action by one of several covenantees for specific performance of a covenant to make a road, the other covenantees were ordered to be joined: Dix v. G. W. Ry. Co., 55 L. J. Ch. 797; 54 L. T. 830; 34 W. R. 712. That the improbability of the success of the action is not, per se, a ground for refusing leave to amend by adding Plts, see Long v. Crossley, 13 Ch. D. 388. For an instance of adding a Deft, on his own application, to represent a class where there was already a Deft of that class, but not in a representative character, see Fraser v. Cooper, 21 Ch. D. 718. It is not right to give a party "leave to intervene" in an action, but he should be added as a Deft: Samuel v. S., 12 Ch. D. 152.

The discretion given by O. XVI, 11, ought to be exercised in accordance with the principles upon which, before the Jud. Acts, pleas in abatement would have been held good or bad: Wilson v. Balcarres, &c. Co., (1893) 1 Q. B. 422, C. A.; and see Roberts v. Holland, (1893) 1 Q. B. 665, 669.

As a consequence of the decisions in King v. Hoare, 13 M. & W. 494, and Kendall v. Hamilton, 4 App. Ca. 504, that a judgment against one of two joint debtors is a bar to proceedings against the other, where an action is brought against one only of several joint contractors, he is entitled as of right, to have his co-contractors joined as Defts: Pilley v. Robinson, 20 Q. B. D. 155; secus, where the co-contractor is a foreigner resident out of the jurisdiction: Wilson v. Balcarres, &c. Co., (1893) 1 Q. B. 422, C. A.; and where all the joint contractors are within the jurisdiction, but one has not been served, though the Plt has done his best to serve him, the action will not be stayed: Robinson v. Geisel, (1894) 2 Q. B. 685, C. A.

Where one Deft submits to judgment and pays part of the debt, the Plt may obtain judgment and execution against the co-Deft for the remainder: Weall v. James, 68 L. T. 515.

One of two joint promisees can maintain an action on the contract, making the other joint promisee a co-Deft if, after tender of an indemnity against costs, he refuses to be joined as a co-Plt: Cullen v. Knowles, (1898) 2 Q. B. 380.

The rule in King v. Hoare, sup., applies where both joint debtors are parties, and judgment by consent is obtained against one only: McLeod v. Power, (1898) 2 Ch. 295; secus, where the cause of action is different, as, ex. gr., where one joint contractor is sued, a cheque given by him for the joint debt: Wegg-Prosser v. Evans, (1895) 1 Q. B. 108, C. A.; (1894) 2 Q. B. 101.

Where one joint debtor has consented to judgment, the other, if he wishes to avail himself of the judgment as a defence, should plead it. A debtor not so pleading was ordered to pay costs up to the time of the consent judgment: McLeod v. Power, (1898) 2 Ch. 295; and see Re Hodgson, 31 Ch. D. 177, 188.

Under the former practice, on defect of parties, it was held discretionary either to dismiss the bill without prejudice to filing another, or to give leave to amend on payment of the costs of the day: see Stafford v. City of London, 1 P. W. 429; and the cause was usually ordered to stand over on payment by the Plt of the costs of the day: Jones v. J., 3 Atk. 110; Hill v. Kirwan, Jac. 164; and by Cons. Ord. 40, r. 22, such costs were fixed at £10.

This order being annulled, the costs of the day are not now a fixed amount.

Under an order to amend by striking out the name of Deft A. as party to an action, the name of Deft B. cannot be struck out without providing for his costs of the action: Wymer v. Dodds, 27 W. R. 675; 11 Ch. D. 436.

By O. LXV, 27 (50), where a cause or matter coming on for trial cannot be decided for want of parties or other defect on the part of the Plt, and is struck out and again set down, the Deft shall be allowed his taxed costs occasioned by the first setting down, although he does not obtain the costs of the cause or matter.

Where a second amendment of the bill was allowed, it was on payment of all the costs of both hearings: Biedermann v. Seymour, 1 Beav. 594.

An objection for non-joinder of Plts ought to be taken promptly, and not unnecessarily postponed to the trial: Sheehan v. G. E. Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 59; and see Roberts v. Evans, 7 Ch. D. 830.

Parties can be added at any time before final judgment: Hurst v. H., 21 Ch. D. 289, C. A. In a foreclosure action puisne mortgagees were added as Defts after judgment had been pronounced but not drawn up and entered: Keith v. Butcher, 25 Ch. D. 750; but in general there can be no amendment after final judgment. Therefore where decree had been made against a corp. for a perpetual injunction, but the operation was suspended for five years, an amendment could not be made by adding, as co-Plts, a local board who had, in the interval, succeeded to the rights and liabilities of the corp.: A. G. v. Corp. of Birmingham, 15 Ch. D. 423, C. A.

For case in which, after an order had been made on petition, an amendment was made by striking out names of co-Petrs, who had been joined without authority, and treating them as not having been served with the petition, see Re Savage, 15 Ch. D. 557; and as to the power of the Court to amend judgments and orders, see inf. Chap. XV., "PASSING AND ENTERING," p. 191.

A special case might be amended by adding parties after it was set down: Thistlethwaite v. Garnier, 5 D. & S. 73; Ainsworth v. Alman, 14 Beav. 576; or at the hearing, the case being again set down: Barnaby v. Tassell, 11 Eq. 363; and, on the marriage of a female Deft, without again setting down the case: Johnston v. Brown, 8 Eq. 584; and see inf. Chap. XXI., "SPECIAL CASE."

FORM OF APPLICATION.

By O. XVI, 12, applications to add, or strike out, or substitute a Plt or Deft may be made to the Court or a Judge at any time before trial by motion or at Chambers, or at the trial in a summary manner. For form, see D. C. F. 77.

If the amendment is only to add parties, the formal order to amend is usually made at the hearing, and judgment is then given subject to the amendment, with leave to the registrar to post-date the judgment if necessary.

By O. XVI, 49, provision is made for such amendments, if any, as the Court may think fit on third parties being admitted to defend the action.

As to correcting clerical mistakes in judgments or orders, see inf. Chap. XV., "PASSING AND ENTERING," p. 191.

CHAPTER VII.

DISCOVERY.

1. Leave to deliver Interrogatories after close of the Pleadings—
O. xxxi, 1.

UPON the application &c., and upon hearing &c., It is ordered that the Deft be at liberty to deliver interrogatories in writing for the examination of the Plt; and the costs of this application are to be costs in the action.

For forms of interrogatories and affidavit in answer, see R. S. C. App. B. 6, 7; D. C. F. 957, 959.

For forms of application for leave, see D. C. F. 956, 957.

2. Order to answer Interrogatories—O. xxxi, 11.

UPON the application of the Deft, and upon hearing &c., It is ordered that the Plts do, within &c., file an affidavit in answer to the interrogatories for their examination set forth in the schedule hereto.

The schedule should set forth verbatim the interrogatories to be answered.

A body corporate, or joint stock co., may be ordered to answer interrogatories by a member or officer: O. xxxi, 5.

3. Order for Further Answer to Interrogatories—O. xxxi, 11.

UPON the application of &c., and upon hearing &c., and upon reading an affidavit of the Deft B., filed &c., in answer to the interrogatories delivered by the Plts for the examination of the several Defts, and an affidavit of the Deft W. in answer thereto, filed &c., The Judge being of opinion that the answer of the Deft B. to the first of such interrogatories, and the answer of the Deft W. to the first and second of such interrogatories, are insufficient, and that the objections taken to such interrogatories respectively by such affidavits cannot be sustained, It is ordered that the Deft B. do, within — days after service of this order, file a further affidavit in answer to the said first interrogatory, and that the Deft W. do, within — days after service of this order, file a further affidavit in answer to the said first and second interrogatories.—Costs of all parties of application to be costs in the action.—See Chesterfield Co. v. Black, V.-C. H., 13 June, 1876, A. 1141.

The application for this order should be by summons: Chesterfield, &c. Colliery Co. v. Black, W. N. (76) 204. For form, see D. C. F. 960.

4. Order enlarging Time to answer Interrogatories—O. LXIV, 7.

UPON the application of the Defts, and upon hearing &c., and upon reading the order dated &c., an affidavit &c., It is ordered that the time limited by the said order for the applicants to file a (further) affidavit in answer to the interrogatories delivered by the Plts for the examination of the applicants be enlarged until &c.

This form may be adapted and used in all cases of enlarging time. For form of application, see D. C. F. 959.

5. Order to strike out Interrogatories—O. XXXI, 7.

UPON the application of the Plt, and upon hearing &c., and upon reading the interrogatories delivered by the Deft S. for the examination of the Plt, It is ordered that the said interrogatories be amended by striking out the words &c. in the first interrogatory, the whole of the second interrogatory, and the latter part of the fourth interrogatory, from the words &c. to the end.

6. Order to strike out Scandalous Matter from Interrogatories and Affidavits—O. XXXI, 7; XXXVIII, 11.

UPON the application of the Plts, and upon hearing the solrs for the applicants and for the Defts, and upon reading an order dated &c. (order on appeal to strike out allegations in pleadings), an affidavit of W. filed &c., and an affidavit of S. filed &c., It is ordered that the several parts of the interrogatories delivered for the examination of the Deft hereinafter mentioned be struck out for scandal and impertinence, that is to say, so much of the twelfth interrogatory as commences with the words &c. to the end thereof, and also the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth interrogatories; And it is ordered that part of the said affidavit of W., commencing in the thirteenth paragraph thereof with the words &c., to the end of the sixteenth paragraph thereof, and part of the said affidavit of S. commencing in the third paragraph thereof, with the words &c. to the end of the eighth paragraph thereof be struck out from the said affidavits respectively; And it is ordered that any of the office copies of the said (interrogatories and of the said) affidavits respectively that may be in the possession or power of any of the parties to this action be re-delivered to the proper officer at the Central Office for the purpose of having the hereinbefore-mentioned parts thereof respectively struck out for scandal and impertinence; And it is ordered that the Plts C. &c. do pay to the Defts W. &c. their costs occasioned by the introduction of such scandalous and impertinent matter, to be taxed by the Taxing Master as between solr and client.—See Christie v. C., V.-C. M. at Chambers, 9 June, 1873, A. 1952; S. C., 8 Ch. 499.

Orders similar to this and the preceding order will, it is apprehended, be rarely required now that under O. XXXI, 2, proposed interrogatories have to be submitted to the Judge on the application for leave to deliver them.

For forms of application, see D. C. F. 305, 957.

7. Order to make Affidavit of Documents, and for Inspection at Solr's Office and Sealing up—O. xxxi, 12, 13, 14.

NOTES.

DISCOVERY AND PRODUCTION GENERALLY.

For the rules of the Court of Chancery as to discovery and production of documents, and that every party to a suit in equity is entitled for the proof of his own case to the benefit of all the evidence, personal and documentary, which can be obtained from his opponents, material to the questions coming on for trial, see Wigram, Hare, and Kerr on Discovery; and see Dan. 1534 et seq., and Bowen, L. J., in Leitch v. Abbott, 31 Ch. D. 374, C. A.

The general right to discovery is not affected by the Jud. Acts, which relate only to procedure: A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 519, C. A.; Hunnings v. Williamson, 10 Q. B. D. 470; Ind, Coope & Co. v. Emmerson, 12 App. Ca. 300; Lyell v. Kennedy, 20 Ch. D. 489, 491, C. A.; 8 App. Ca. 217, 223; Kearsley v. Phillips, 10 Q. B. D. 466, C. A. It is not in principle more extensive than it formerly was in the Court of Chancery: Lyell v. Kennedy, sup.; and discovery will not be allowed where the Court of Chancery before the Acts would not have allowed it; e.g., when the subject of the action is a penalty: Hunnings v. Williamson, sup.; and as to discovery in actions for penalties, v. inf. p. 95.

A Plt is entitled to discovery of the facts upon which the Deft relies to establish his case, but not of the evidence which it is proposed to adduce: Eade v. Jacobs, 3 Ex. D. 335, C. A.; for illustrations of the effect of this principle, see inf., "RESISTANCE TO DISCOVERY," pp. 84—86.

Now that by virtue of the Jud. Act, 1873, s. 24 (2), Courts of equity and common law have concurrent jurisdiction, a plea of purchase for valuable consideration is no longer available as a bar to discovery in an action to recover possession of land: Ind, Coope & Co. v. Emmerson, 12 App. Ca. 300; and the ordinary rules of discovery apply to patent actions, notwithstanding the statutory provision for delivery of particulars: Birch v. Mather, 22 Ch. D. 629.

The rules of equity as to discovery are to prevail: Bolckow, Vaughan & Co. v. Fisher, 10 Q. B. D. 166, C. A.; Anderson v. Bank of Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 654, 658, C. A.; Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 426, C. A.; and see Kearsley v. Phillips, 10 Q. B. D. 466, C. A.; regard being had to the different natures of Chancery and common law actions: A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 530, C. A.; Mercier v. Cotton, 1 Q. B. D. 442, C. A.

ACTIONS FOR DISCOVERY ONLY.

Now that every Division of the High Court has equal power of compelling discovery, no action for discovery need be brought in one Division in aid of an action in another: Orr v. Diaper, 4 Ch. D. 92; and actions for discovery only can rarely now be necessary.

It has now been decided that an action for discovery only in aid of proceedings in a foreign Court will not lie: Dreyfus v. Peruvian Guano Co., 41 Ch. D. 151; following Bent v. Young, 9 Sim. 180; and observing upon Crowe v. Del Rio, 9 Sim. 185, n.

The Court will not compel discovery in favour either of an inferior Court or a Court which has power, in itself, to compel a discovery: Bent v. Young, 9 Sim. 191; Earl of Derby v. Duke of Athol, 1 Ves. sen. 202.

For cases in which discovery has been granted in aid of arbitrations, see Brit. Empire Shipping Co. v. Somes, 3 K. & J. 433; Ainsworth v. Starkie, W. N. (76) 8; and semble, it would not now be granted having regard to O. XXXVI, 50, 55c; and see inf. Chap. XXVI., "ARBITRATIONS."

In Orr v. Diaper, 4 Ch. D. 92, an action lay against shippers of goods bearing counterfeits of Plt's trade mark for discovery of names of consignors. For action in aid of proceedings to recover land in India, see Reiner v. Marquis of Salisbury, 2 Ch. D. 378.

As to whether an action will lie by principal against agent for the sole purpose of enforcing production of documents to a particular person, see Dadswell v. Jacobs, 34 Ch. D. 278, C. A.

Solrs or agents ought not to be made parties for discovery only: Burstall v. Beyfus, 26 Ch. D. 35, C. A.

PROCEDURE TO OBTAIN DISCOVERY.

The rules of procedure as to discovery and inspection are contained in O. XXXI, of which rr. 1—11 and r. 24 regulate discovery by interrogatories; rr. 12 and 13 refer to affidavit of documents; rr. 14—18 to production and inspection of documents; and rr. 19—22, both to discovery and inspection.

The leave of the Court for the delivery of interrogatories is now necessary in all cases: O. XXXI, 1, 2.

Where a writ is issued in the name of a firm, the action may be stayed until the Plts or their solrs shall have, in answer to a written demand, given the names and addresses of the members of the firm: O. XLVIII, 2; and where a firm is suing or being sued, any party may apply at Chambers (v. sup. p. 25) to a Judge for a statement of the names of the partners: O. XLVIII, 1; Dan. 77; but this did not apply to a Plt suing on behalf of himself and others (underwriters): Re Leathley, W. N. (76) 259.

By O. XLVIII, 1, two or more persons liable as co-partners and carrying on business within the jurisdiction may be sued in the name of the firm of which they were co-partners when the cause of action arose.

As to discovery in aid of execution, see O. XLII, 32—34, and inf. Chap. XXVII.; Irwell v. Eden, 18 Q. B. D. 588, C. A.

SECURITY FOR COSTS OF DISCOVERY.

Any party seeking discovery is required to pay a sum of money into Court to a separate account in the action, to be called "Security for Costs Account," to abide further order: O. xxxi, 26. In the case of interrogatories, the payment is to be made before delivery of them, and the amount is 5*l.*, and if the number of folios exceeds five, the further sum of 10*s.* for every additional folio. In other cases the payment is to be made before the application for discovery, and the amount is 5*l.*, but the Court or Judge may direct payment of an additional sum. The party seeking discovery must, with his interrogatories or order for discovery, serve a copy of the receipt for the payment into Court, and the time for answering or making discovery is to commence from the date of such service. The party from whom discovery is sought is not to be required to answer or make discovery unless and until the payment has been made: Ibid. For forms of request, &c., see D. C. F. 953, 954.

The rule does not apply to an application for production of a document in which both parties have a common interest: Brown v. Liell, 16 Q. B. D. 229.

Where one set of interrogatories was delivered to several Defts, each of whom was required to answer particular interrogatories, only one sum of 5*l.* was required to be paid: Eder v. Attenborough, 23 Q. B. D. 130; secus, semble, where separate sets are delivered: Ibid.; and Campbell v. Lord Poulett, W. N. (84) 48.

Where several Defts appeared by different solrs and severed in their defences, on application for discovery of documents and leave to interrogate, the Plts were required to pay two separate sums of 5*l.* in respect of each Deft: Liverpool & Manchester Bread Co. v. Firth, (1891) 1 Ch. 367, following Smith v. Reed, W. N. (83) 196. But where the application was for discovery of documents only, the fact of Defts severing was not a ground for ordering more than one deposit, and the test was rather considered to be whether there were separate grounds of action: Joyce v. Beall, (1891) 1 Q. B. 459.

In the event of non-payment, the party from whom discovery is sought is relieved from answering, but is not entitled to apply for an order to strike out the interrogatories: Eder v. Attenborough, 23 Q. B. D. 130.

The object of requiring the deposit is to check unnecessary applications for discovery. It is intended for the benefit of the clients themselves, not solely of the party from whom discovery is sought: Aste v. Stumore, 13 Q. B. D. 326, C. A. The Court has discretion to dispense with the deposit: Newman v. L. & S. W. Ry. Co., 24 Q. B. D. 454; distinguishing Boarder v. Lindsay, 34 W. R. 473; but is not bound to do so simply because the parties have so agreed: Aste v. Stumore, sup.

As to poverty being a ground for dispensing with the deposit, see Smith v. Went, 50 L. T. 382; 32 W. R. 512; Compagnie Pacifique v. Guano Co., W. N. (83) 166.

The power to order additional security in the case of discovery of documents is not confined to the occasion when the order is made, but may be exercised at any subsequent time if circumstances so require: Cooke v. Smith, (1891) 1 Ch. 509, C. A.

After the cause or matter has been finally disposed of, the amount deposited is, unless otherwise ordered, to be paid out to the party who paid it in, in the event of costs being adjudged to him, but, if he is ordered to pay costs, is to be subject to a lien for such costs: O. xxxi, 27. Where no taxation of costs is required, the taxing officer or master may grant a certificate which will operate as an order for payment: O. xxxi, 28.

LEAVE OF THE COURT.

By O. xxxi, 2, "On an application for leave to deliver interrogatories, the particular interrogatories proposed to be delivered shall be submitted to the Court or Judge. In deciding upon such application the Court or Judge shall take into account any offer which may be made by the party sought to be interrogated, to deliver particulars, or to make admissions, or to produce documents relating to the matter in question, or any of them, and leave shall be given as to such only of the interrogatories submitted as the Court or Judge shall consider necessary either for disposing fairly of the cause or matter or for saving costs."

A copy of the proposed interrogatories should be served on the party to be interrogated before the application is made: D. C. F. 956; and the particular interrogatories proposed to be delivered must be submitted: O. xxxi, 2; but the Court will not settle the interrogatories, or decide as to their relevancy in particular: see Martin v. Spicer, 32 Ch. D. 592; Swabey v. Dovey, 32 Ch. D. 352; Hall v. Liardet, W. N. (83) 165; D. C. F. 956.

In general discovery will not be allowed till after defence, as until then it is usually impossible to say what the matters in question are: Sachs v. Speilman, 37 Ch. D. 303; Mercier v. Cotton, 1 Q. B. D. 442, C. A.; Hancock v. Guerin, 4 Ex. D. 3; Webster v. Whewall, 15 Ch. D. 120; Republic of Costa Rica v. Strousberg, 11 Ch. D. 323, C. A.; Davies v. Williams, 13 Ch. D. 550; but there is no absolute rule of practice to that effect, at all events in the Chancery Division: Harbord v. Monk, 9 Ch. D. 617.

In a redemption action against a mortgagee in possession, production was ordered before defence, without any special case being made: Union Bank of London v. Manby, 13 Ch. D. 239, C. A.; and in Harbord v. Monk, 9 Ch. D. 616, in an action by a stockbroker to open accounts, and alleging fraud, both parties were to deliver interrogatories, the defence not to be put in until the Plt had answered the Deft's interrogatories.

A Deft will not in general be allowed to exhibit interrogatories before he has put in his defence: Disney v. Longbourne, 2 Ch. D. 704; and see Egremont v. Egremont Co., 14 Ch. D. 158; unless the discovery is in the nature of particulars which are necessary to enable him to prove his defence; Augustinus v. Nerinckx, 16 Ch. D. 13, C. A.; or to decide whether to defend: Hawley v. Reade, W. N. (76) 64; or how much to pay into Court: Megaw v. Diarmid, L. R. Ir. 10 C. L. 376; Horne v. Hough, L. R. 9 C. P. 135; Frost v. Brook, 23 W. R. 260; 32 L. T. 312; Clarke v. Bennett, 32 W. R. 550.

Documents referred to in a pleading must be produced as soon as the pleading is delivered, unless some special reason is shown: Quilter v. Heatley, 23 Ch. D. 42, C. A.; and quære, whether there is any general rule of practice that the Plt cannot obtain an order for production before he has delivered his statement of claim: Republic of Costa Rica v. Strousberg, 11 Ch. D. 323, C. A.; but general discovery of documents will not be allowed unless essential to the statement of the Plt's claim: Cashin v. Craddock, 2 Ch. D. 140, 147; and see Davies v. Williams, 13 Ch. D. 550; Phillips v. P., 40 L. T. 815, 822; 27 W. R. 940; British and Foreign, &c. Co. v. Wright, 32 W. R. 413; and, although particulars have been applied for by the Deft, the Plt will be allowed discovery if it is necessary to enable him to give details, and the Deft, from the nature of the case, has means of knowledge which the Plt has not: Leitch v. Abbott, 31 Ch. D. 374, C. A.; Millar v. Harper, 38 Ch. D. 110, C. A.; Waynes Merthyr Co. v. Radford & Co., (1896) 1 Ch. 29; even though the object of the action is to open settled accounts: Whyte v. Ahrens, 26 Ch. D. 717, C. A.; Sachs v. Speilman, 37 Ch. D. 295; and see sup. Chap. V., "PLEADINGS."

The allowance by a Judge of interrogatories to be administered to a party does not amount to a decision that the party is bound to answer them, but leaves him at liberty to take any objection to answering which he might otherwise have taken: Peek v. Ray, (1894) 3 Ch. 282, C. A. An appeal from the allowance of interrogatories by a Judge will not be allowed unless the Judge has gone on a wrong principle, or done substantial injustice: S. C.

As to refusal of discovery as not being sufficiently material at a particular stage of the action, see inf. "PREMATURE DISCOVERY," pp. 86—88.

INTERROGATORIES.

By O. xxxi, 1, "in any cause or matter the Plt or Deft, by leave of the Court or a Judge, may deliver interrogatories in writing for the examination of the opposite parties, or any one or more of such parties, and such interrogatories when delivered shall have a note at the foot thereof stating which of such interrogatories each of such persons is required to answer; provided that no party shall deliver more than one set of interrogatories to the same party without an order for that purpose; provided also that interrogatories which do not relate to any matters in question in the cause or matter shall be deemed irrelevant, notwithstanding that they might be admissible on the oral cross-examination of a witness."

An "opposite party" is one between whom and the party seeking discovery there is an issue joined: Molloy v. Kilby, 15 Ch. D. 164, C. A.; and see Shaw v. Smith, 18 Q. B. D. 193, C. A. Thus, Defts to counter-claim, not being Defts in the original action, cannot interrogate Plt: Molloy v. Kilby, sup.; but see Alcoy & Gandia Ry. Co. v. Greenhill, 74 L. T. 345, where discovery of documents as between co-Defts to a counter-claim was ordered.

Third parties having liberty to appear at the trial and oppose the Plt's claim are opposite parties liable to be interrogated: Eden v. Weardale Iron Co., 34 Ch. D. 233, C. A.; MacAlister v. Bishop of Rochester, 5 C. P. D. 194; and, being in the position of Defts, can interrogate: Eden v. Weardale Iron Co., 35 Ch. D. 287, C. A.; but a Deft is not in general an opposite party to his co-Deft: Brown v. Watkins, 16 Q. B. D. 125. An infant Plt or Deft could not be compelled to answer interrogatories: Mayor v. Collins, 24 Q. B. D. 361; or make discovery of documents: Curtis v. Mundy, (1892) 2 Q. B. 178; but as to proceedings for divorce, quære: Redfern v. R., (1891) P. 139, C. A.; nor a guardian ad litem, as he could not make admissions against the infant's interest: Ingram v. Little, 11 Q. B. D. 251; and a next friend is not a "party" to the action: Re Corsellis, Lawton v. Elwes, 52 L. J. Ch. 599; Dyke v. Stephens, 30 Ch. D. 189; 48 L. T. 425; 31 W. R. 414; but now, by r. 29, O. XXXI is made applicable to infant Plts and Defts, and to their next friends and guardians ad litem.

By O. XXXI, 5, "if any party to a cause or matter be a body corporate or a joint stock co., whether incorporated or not, or any other-body of persons empowered by law to sue or be sued, whether in its own name or in the name of any officer or other person, any opposite party may apply for an order allowing him to deliver interrogatories to any member or officer of such corporation, co. or body, and an order may be made accordingly."

This rule does away with the former practice in equity of making the secretary or some other officer, against whom no relief was claimed, a party for the purposes of discovery only: Wilson v. Church, 9 Ch. D. 552; and the answer now is that of the corp. and can be read against them: Welsbach Incandescent, &c. Co. v. New Sunlight, &c. Co., (1900) 2 Ch. 1, C. A.

A similar provision was made by C. L. P. Act, 1854, s. 51, as to which see Bechervaise v. G. W. Ry., L. R. 6 C. P. 36; and directors had to answer interrogatories after the commencement of a winding-up: Madrid Bank v. Bayley, L. R. 2 Q. B. 37.

The person requiring the discovery cannot select any person he thinks fit, but the corp. must name a proper person: Rep. of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 1 Ch. D. 171, C. A.; and see Manchester, &c. Co. v. Slagg, W. N. (82) 127.

The duty of the officer in answer is limited to knowledge obtained in the course of his employment by the co., or from other officers and agents similarly employed: Welsbach Incandescent, &c. Co. v. New Sunlight, &c. Co., sup.

Where a corp. elected to answer by their town clerk, who was a solr, he could not decline to answer questions on the ground of professional privilege: Swansea Corp. v. Quirk, 5 C. P. D. 106; secus, where by the terms of the order the corp. were required so to answer: Salford Corp. v. Lever, 24 Q. B. D. 695.

In an action against a municipal corp. for malicious arrest, the town clerk was interrogated: McFadzen v. Liverpool Corp. L. R. 3 Ex. 279.

The secretary of a co. is usually the proper person to answer: Berkeley v. Standard Discount Co., 13 Ch. D. 97, 99, C. A., under a winding-up as well as in an action; Re Alexandra Palace Co., 16 Ch. D. 58. Where the application is for delivery of interrogatories to a member of the co., notice of the application ought in general to be served upon him: Chaddock v. British South Africa Co., (1896) 2 Q. B. 153, C. A. If a member of the co. is examined, he cannot refuse to file his affidavit in answer until he has been paid his taxed costs of making it: Berkeley v. Standard Discount Co., sup.

The liquidator of a co. being wound up is subject to discovery as an ordinary litigant in proceedings against strangers or alleged contributories: Re Barned's Banking Co., 2 Ch. 350; but in questions between creditors, contributories, and officers of the co., it is the duty of the liquidator to give them every opportunity of becoming acquainted with anything material, but he can act only under the direction of the Court as to production of books, &c.: Gooch's Case, 7 Ch. 207; and cannot be required to make an affidavit of documents, except under special circumstances: Re Mutual Society, 22 Ch. D. 714, C. A.

The ordinary practice is for the co.'s solr to act for the person interrogated, who should not incur separate costs: Berkeley v. Standard Discount Co., sup.

And as to production of documents by officers of corps. &c., see inf. p. 71.

By O. xxxi, 28, "in any action against or by a sheriff in respect of any matters connected with the execution of his office, the Court or a Judge may, on the application of either party, order that the affidavit to be made in answer either to interrogatories or to an order for discovery shall be made by the officer actually concerned."

The suppliant in a petition of right is not entitled to discovery or production against the Crown: inf. Chap. XXV.; and see Lane v. Gray, 16 Eq. 552; secus, the Crown as against the suppliant: Tomline v. The Queen, 4 Ex. D. 282; Bray, 70.

A foreign sovereign suing in the Courts of this country must be taken so far to submit to the jurisdiction that he must give discovery: South African Republic v. La Compagnie Franco-Belge du Chemin de Fer du Nord, (1898) 1 Ch. 190; and see Prioleau v. U. S., 2 Eq. 659.

A recognised foreign government suing in an English Court was not required to name any co-Plt for purposes of discovery: U. S. v. Wagner, 2 Ch. 582; but could only obtain relief by complying with the rules as to discovery: Prioleau v. U. S., 2 Eq. 659; and the proceedings could be stayed until some person had been named who could be made Deft to a cross bill for discovery: Rep. of Peru v. Weguelin, 20 Eq. 140; but the English Deft could not himself choose a person for that purpose: Rep. of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, 19 Eq. 33; 1 Ch. D. 171, C. A.; and that the president of a republic should not be made a party for discovery, see Prioleau v. U. S.; Rep. of Costa Rica v. Erlanger, sup.

Where the agent of a foreign principal sues in his own name on a contract with him as agent, the Deft is entitled to the same discovery as if the principal were a party, and to a stay of proceedings until such discovery is made: Willis v. Baddeley, (1892) 2 Q. B. 324, C. A.

The object of interrogatories is not merely to give to the interrogating party information as to that of which he is ignorant, but to enable him to obtain admissions: A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 519, C. A.; and the fact that the information may be obtained on examination and cross-examination at the trial is no bar to the discovery: Ibid.; but (semble) interrogatories should not be made use of where the required admissions can equally well be obtained by particulars or otherwise: Clarke v. C., W. N. (99) 130, per Kekewich, J.

A Plt in an ejectment action has the same right to interrogate (in support of his own title) as a Plt in any other action: Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Ca. 217.

Where Defts in ejectment alleged possession by their tenants, the Plts were entitled to interrogate as to the dates, but not as to the nature, of the tenancies: Eyre v. Rodgers, 40 W. R. 137.

But in general a Plt in an action for a penalty will not be allowed to administer interrogatories: Hunnings v. Williamson, 10 Q. B. D. 459; Martin v. Treacher, 16 Q. B. D. 507; and v. inf. p. 95; Saunders v. Wiel, (1892) 2 Q. B. 18, 321; Mexborough (E.) v. Whitwood Dist. Council, (1897) 2 Q. B. 111, C. A.; secus, where the action, though in form for a penalty, is in substance for damages: Adams v. Batley, 18 Q. B. D. 625, C. A.

For form of interrogatories, see R. S. C., App. B. 6; D. C. F. 957; Cawley v. Burton, 32 W. R. 33.

Plts (exors) were allowed to interrogate as to the circumstances of an alleged payment to their testator of the sum claimed by them: Hills v. Wates, L. R. 9 C. P. 688.

A Deft may ask by interrogatories any questions tending to destroy the Plt's claim: Hoffman v. Postill, 4 Ch. 673.

As to Deft interrogating Plt in action for breach of contract, see Jourdain v. Palmer, L. R. 1 Ex. 102; and that he can do so as to the amount of damage or Plt's expenses when he bonâ fide desires to know what to pay into Court, Horns v. Hough, L. R. 9 C. P. 135; Frost v. Brook, 23 W. R. 260; 32 L. T. 312; Megaw v. Diarmid, L. R. Ir. 10 C. L. 376; but not as to witnesses: S. C.; nor so as to deter from giving evidence at all: Stock v. Ellis, 22 W. R. 17.

As the proper mode of obtaining discovery of documents is by an order for an affidavit of documents, an interrogatory as to documents was always discouraged, and no exceptions to the answer to it were allowed: Piffard v. Beeby, 1 Eq. 623; Barnard v. Hunter, 19 Jur. 165; 4 W. R. 34; though if it was answered at all, it was to be answered fully: Piffard v. Beeby, sup.; and now a general roving interrogatory, in the nature of a cross-examination on the affidavit of documents, will not be permitted: Hall v. Truman, Hanbury & Co., 29 Ch. D. 307, C. A.; Morris v. Edwards, 23 Q. B. D. 287, C. A.; S. C., 15 App. Ca. 309; Nicholl v. Wheeler, 17 Q. B. D. 101; Edison Co. v. Holland Co., W. N. (88) 31; Jacobs v. G. W. Ry. Co., W. N. (84) 33; secus, perhaps, an interrogatory as to specified relevant documents, where a special ground for requiring discovery is shown: Hall v. Truman, Hanbury & Co., sup.; Morris v. Edwards, 15 App. Ca. 314; and see Newall v. Telegraph, &c. Co., 2 Eq. 756.

And a party cannot be required to set out his imperfect recollection of a document not produced for his inspection, and not suggested to be lost or beyond the jurisdiction: Dalrymple v. Leslie, 8 Q. B. D. 5.

And, generally, as to the matters in respect of which an answer to interrogatories may be required, v. inf. "RESISTANCE TO DISCOVERY."

By O. xxxi, 7, any interrogatories may be set aside on the ground that they have been exhibited unreasonably or vexatiously, or struck out on the ground that they are prolix, oppressive, unnecessary, or scandalous; and any application for this purpose may be made within seven days after service of the interrogatories.

For Plt's interrogatories struck out in an action against the publisher of a newspaper for libel, see Wilton v. Brignell, W. N. (75) 239; 20 S. J. 121; Carter v. Leeds Daily News Co., W. N. (76) 11; and v. inf. p. 95.

The rule applies to interrogatories generally, and under it all or any of a set of interrogatories may be set aside or struck out; or the whole, though some are per se unobjectionable: Oppenheim v. Sheffield, (1893) 1 Q. B. 5, C. A. (disapproving Sammons v. Bailey, 24 Q. B. D. 727); Cowley v. Barton, 32 W. R. 33. But the rule is now of rare application: see D. C. F. 958; and sup. p. 65.

By O. xxxi, 3, in adjusting the costs of the cause or matter, inquiry shall at the instance of any party be made into the propriety of exhibiting interrogatories, and if it is the opinion of the taxing officer, or of the Court or Judge, either with or without an application for inquiry, that interrogatories have been exhibited unreasonably, vexatiously, or at improper length, the costs occasioned by the interrogatories and the answers thereto shall be paid in any event by the party in fault.

AFFIDAVIT IN ANSWER.

The affidavit in answer to interrogatories is to be filed within ten days, or such other time as a Judge may allow (r. 8), and, unless it is otherwise ordered, is, if exceeding ten folios, to be printed (r. 9). The form is given in R. S. C., App. B. 7.

A foreigner will be allowed a reasonable time for answering: The Emma, 24 W. R. (Adm.) 587; 34 L. T. 742; and see O. xi, 4.

By r. 6, "any objection to answering any one or more of several interrogatories on the ground that it or they is or are scandalous or irrelevant, or not bonâ fide for the purpose of the cause or matter, or that the matters inquired into are not sufficiently material at that stage, or on any other ground, may be taken in the affidavit in answer."

This course should always be taken where particular interrogatories are objected to: Sammons v. Bailey, 24 Q. B. D. 727; Gay v. Labouchere, 4 Q. B. D. 206; Spokes v. Grosvenor Hotel Co., (1897) 2 Q. B. 124, C. A.; and see Harvey v. Lovekin, 10 P. D. 122, 130, C. A.

As to the striking out pleadings on the ground of scandal, v. sup. p. 34; and as to the cases in which discovery may be resisted, v. inf. p. 82 et seq.

By r. 10, "no exceptions shall be taken to any affidavit in answer, but the sufficiency or otherwise of any such affidavit objected to as insufficient shall be determined by the Court or a Judge on motion or summons": see D. C. F. 961; and by r. 11, "if any person interrogated omits to answer, or answers insufficiently, the party interrogating may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order requiring him to answer, or to answer further, as the case may be. And an order may be made requiring him to answer or answer further, either by affidavit, or by viva voce examination, as the Judge may direct."

The rule of the Court has always been, that a Deft answering must answer fully: see Saull v. Browne, 9 Ch. 364; although his case depends on a variety of circumstances, and though he denies the Plt's case in toto, unless he can show that the discovery is sought vexatiously or oppressively, or is such as to be burdensome and injurious to him, and never likely to be used. A full answer is one which answers all interrogatories which are material to the points to be decided at the trial, and as to which no valid claim of privilege is set up. But in considering the question of sufficiency, the Court regards the substance and not the form of the answer: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 16, C. A.; Parker v. Wells, 18 Ch. D. 487, C. A.; Bolckow, Vaughan & Co. v. Fisher, 10 Q. B. D. 166, 170, C. A.

No answer can be required as to conclusions of law or inference from facts or construction of instruments; and a party cannot be required to admit on oath that which he has already admitted in his statement of defence: A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 519, C. A. But a question of fact must be answered, though it refer to written documents: Hoffman v. Postill, 4 Ch. 673.

Where particular questions are asked as to the contents of certain letters which are required to be set out, an answer simply that they contain no such matter, or that if any such letters were written or received, they have not been preserved, is insufficient: Rishton v. Grissell, 14 W. R. 578, 789; but in the case of a letter of which the writer (Deft in a libel action) has not preserved a copy, it is a sufficient answer that he does not recollect the contents with exactness: Dalrymple v. Leslie, 8 Q. B. D. 5.

As to referring to books instead of setting out the contents in an answer, see Drake v. Symes, Joh. 647; Telford v. Ruskin, 1 Drew. & S. 148.

An answer stating that the Deft had already answered precisely similar interrogatories filed in an action at law by the same Plt touching the same subject was held insufficient: Hudson v. Grenfell, 3 Giff. 388; 5 L. T. 417.

Plt in a copyright action is entitled to particular discovery as to the original sources from which Deft alleges he derived his information: Kelly v. Wyman, 17 W. R. 399; 20 L. T. 300.

The summons for further answer ought in general to specify the interrogatories or parts of interrogatories to which a further answer is required: Anstey v. N. & S. Woolwich Subway Co., 11 Ch. D. 439; Chesterfield Colliery Co. v. Black, 24 W. R. 783; but where all the answers are objected to, a summons for further answer may be in general terms: Furber v. King, 50 L. J. Ch. 496; 29 W. R. 536.

On a question of sufficiency, the party may refer to the whole of his answer, but must not endeavour to import into an admission matter unconnected with it: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1, C. A.; and see O. XXXI, 24; and inf. p. 97.

As a party is bound to answer to the best of his knowledge, information and belief, he must make reasonable endeavours to procure information from his agents (such as bankers or solrs) or servants, and an answer simply denying knowledge may be insufficient, if it does not show that he has made such endeavours: Bolckow, Vaughan & Co. v. Fisher, 10 Q. B. D. 161, C. A.; Anderson v. Bank of Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644, 657, 659; Alliott v. Smith, (1895) 2 Ch. 111; and see Welsbach Incandescent, &c. Co. v. New Sunlight, &c. Co., (1900) 2 Ch. 1, C. A.; secus, where there is nothing to show that the acts as to which he is interrogated were done in the presence of his servants or agents: Rasbotham v. Shropshire Union, &c. Co., 24 Ch. D. 110; and see A. G. v. Rees, 12 Beav. 50; Hall v. L. & N. W. Ry., 35 L. T. 848; Hennessy v. Wright, 36 W. R. 879; 24 Q. B. D. 445, n.; London, Tilbury & Southend Ry. Co. v. Kirk & Randall, 51 L. T. 599.

But an exor cannot be interrogated as to whether trust funds alleged to have been received by his testator had been paid by the latter to his bankers or solrs at a period so remote as twenty years prior to his death: Alliott v. Smith, (1895) 2 Ch. 111.

A party cannot be required to answer as to his information and belief with regard to facts, when such information and belief are derived solely from communications privileged on ground of professional confidence: Kennedy v. Lyell, 9 App. Ca. 81; and v. inf. p. 89.

Where a claim of privilege is set up, a further answer will not be required unless it is clear the claim cannot be substantiated; reasonable suspicion is not sufficient: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1, C. A.

It is only in cases of insufficiency that a further answer can be required; the duty of the Court being to consider sufficiency or insufficiency, not truth or falsity: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1, C. A.; but (per Bowen, L. J.) an embarrassing answer may be dealt with as insufficient: Ibid.

An evasive answer in an extreme case has been taken off the file: Furber v. King, 50 L. J. Ch. 496; 29 W. R. 536; Read v. Barton, 3 K. & J. 166; 3 Jur. N. S. 263; and see Hill v. Hart-Davis, 26 Ch. D. 470, C. A.; but in general a further answer will be ordered: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 28, C. A.; and see Hunter v. Nockolds, 2 Ph. 540; Marsh v. Hunter, 3 Madd. 437.

Where a further answer vivâ voce is directed, it may be made a term of the order that the costs of and occasioned by the application shall be borne by the party interrogated in any event, but in general the costs should be reserved: Vicary v. G. N. Ry. Co., 9 Q. B. D. 168.

Such answer only can be required vivâ voce as would have been sufficient in the affidavit, and any examination exceeding these limits must be at the cost of the party examining: Litchfield v. Jones, 54 L. J. Ch. 207; 51 L. T. 572; 33 W. R. 251.

Where a full answer had been given to the Plt, a voluntary liquidator, a strong case was required to induce the Court to allow a further examination under the Companies Act, 1862, s. 115: Re Metropolitan Bank, Heiron's Case, 15 Ch. D. 139, C. A.

Refusal to file an answer as complicated, informal, and uncertain, was sustained: Walker v. Daniell, 22 W. R. 595; 30 L. T. 357.

DISCOVERY OF DOCUMENTS.

By O. xxxi, 12, "any party may, without filing any affidavit, apply to the Court or a Judge for an order directing any other party to any cause or matter to make discovery on oath of the documents which are or have been in his possession or power, relating to any matter in question therein. On the hearing of such application the Court or Judge may either refuse or adjourn the same, if satisfied that such discovery is not necessary, or not necessary at that stage of the cause or matter, or make such order, either generally or limited to certain classes of documents, as may, in their or his discretion, be thought fit; provided that discovery shall not be ordered when and so far as the Court or Judge shall be of opinion that it is not necessary either for disposing of the cause or matter, or for saving costs."

The rule does not alter principles, but gives the Court discretion to refuse discovery where there is no reasonable prospect of its being of use: Downing v. Falmouth Sewerage Board, 37 Ch. D. 234, C. A.

On an application for an affidavit of documents, special evidence should not be adduced, but the Court will look at all the proceedings in the action, pleadings as well as evidence: Downing v. Falmouth Sewerage Board, sup. Where there is a mass of affidavits, notice should be given of the particular portions relied on: Ibid.

After reference of an action by consent to an arbitrator, no order for discovery can be made, as nothing remains but for the Court to record judgment according to the award: Penrice v. Williams, 23 Ch. D. 353.

As to the stage of the action at which application for discovery should be made, v. inf. p. 86; and for cases in which discovery or inspection may be ordered to await the decision of an issue or question, which ought to be decided first, or on which the right to it depends, v. r. 20.

The expression "any other party," in r. 12, is confined to opposite parties (as to meaning of which, v. sup. p. 66): Brown v. Watkins, 16 Q. B. D. 125; Shaw v. Smith, 18 Q. B. D. 193, C. A.; and therefore a Deft cannot in general obtain discovery of documents from his co-Deft: Brown v. Watkins, sup.

A person consenting to be treated as a party to an action may have production from the parties who obtained the consent order: Dent v. D., 1 Eq. 186.

O. XXXVII, 7, under which the Court has power "at any stage of the proceedings," to order attendance of any person for producing documents which he could be compelled to produce at the hearing, does not confer any new right of discovery against non-parties: Straker v. Reynolds, 22 Q. B. D. 357. The object of the rule was to remove the difficulty which existed in compelling production at any other stage than the hearing, and the Court has no jurisdiction to order a non-party to produce a document unless the parties are entitled to the production of it for the purpose of justice at the moment the order is made: Elder v. Carter, 25 Q. B. D. 194, C. A.; Re Smith, Williams v. Frere, (1891) 1 Ch. 323; and see Parnell v. Wood, (1892) P. 137, C. A.; Zumbeck v. Biggs, 82 L. T. 654; 48 W. R. 507; and as to the effect of an order under the rule (which is equivalent to a subpœna duces tecum), and that it may be made ex parte on a non-party, see Re Smith, Williams v. Frere, sup.

It was at one time doubted (Law v. Indisputable, &c. Co., 10 Ha. xx.), but afterwards settled, that where production of documents was required from a co., the secretary or some other officer should make an affidavit: see Ranger v. G. W. Ry., 4 D. & J. 74; and see Ryde Commrs. v. I. of W. Ferry Co., Form 12, p. 54; and as to delivering interrogatories to members or officers of corporations, v. sup. p. 66. The clerk of a co. making affidavit that the documents were in the custody of the warden and court of assistants, and that without their leave he had not access to them, but not stating that he had asked leave and been refused, had to make a further affidavit: A. G. v. Mercers' Co., 9 W. R. 83; 3 L. T. 438; and after an affidavit by directors that they had no documents in their possession other than those in the possession of the co., a further affidavit by them that they had no documents whatever in their possession or power, was held insufficient: Clinch v. Financial Corp., 2 Eq. 271.

Affidavit of documents on behalf of a municipal corp. has been ordered to be made by the town clerk: Corp. of Hastings v. Ivall, 8 Ch. 1017; and as to claim of privilege in such a case, v. sup. p. 66.

Defts who stated in their answer that they had been, but were no longer, treasurers and trustees of the society, could not be ordered to produce documents in the society's possession: Penney v. Goode, 1 Drew. 474; and where the officers have been changed since the transaction, see Moline v. Tasmanian Ry., 32 L. T. 828; and that they cannot evade giving discovery by resigning: Acomb v. Landed Est. Co., 14 W. R. 387; 14 L. T. 57. The solr of a co. is not an "officer" of it: Brown v. Thames, &c. Co., 43 L. J. C. P. 112.

As to production of a co.'s books by the secretary on his cross-examination, under a subpœna duces tecum, see In re Emma Mine, 10 Ch. 194; and as to examining officers of the co. and other persons in a winding-up, and requiring production of documents, see Companies Act, 1862, s. 115, and Buckley, 328 et seq.; N. Australian Co. v. Goldsborough, (1893) 2 Ch. 381; as to production to inspectors appointed by the Board of Trade, s. 58.

As to the right to inspect documents in the custody of the Court in Lunacy, see Re Strachan, (1895) 1 Ch. 439, C. A.; and as to discovery of documents in actions for libel, see Hope v. Brash, (1897) 2 Q. B. 188; Yorkshire Provident Co. v. Gilbert, (1895) 2 Q. B. 148, C. A.; Kelly v. Colhoun (1899), 2 I. R. 199.

The liquidator of a co., being an officer of the Court acting under its direction as to production of books, &c., will not, as of course, be ordered to make an affidavit of documents: Re Mutual Society, 22 Ch. D. 720, C. A.; Gooch's Case, 7 Ch. 207; and as to discovery by liquidators, v. sup. p. 66. And that a trustee in bankruptcy, Plt in an action, will not be allowed to avail himself of s. 27 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, so as to obtain discovery from a stranger, see Re Franks, Exp. Gittins, (1892) 1 Q. B. 646.

The Crown in proceedings against a corp. to establish rights to foreshore has the same right to discovery as a subject has against a subject in an ordinary action, not only of the documents relating to the parts of the river claimed, but also of acts of ownership and other things which tend to show that the Defts are not absolute owners of the foreshore: A. G. v. Newcastle-upon-Tyne Corp., (1897) 2 Q. B. 384, C. A.

As to discovery by a foreign government, v. sup. p. 67. Where Plts, a foreign republic, persisted in not filing a sufficient affidavit, a day was fixed for dismissal of bill and repayment to Deft of money paid into Court, unless sufficient affidavit then filed: Rep. of Liberia v. Imperial Bank, 9 Ch. 569; affirmed in D. P. sub nom. Rep. of Liberia v. Royce, 1 App. Ca. 139. An affidavit by the consul in England as to documents abroad that "to the best of his knowledge, remembrance, information and belief" there were no such documents, was insufficient: S. C.

AFFIDAVIT AS TO DOCUMENTS.

The affidavit to be made by the party against whom an order for production is made is to be in the Form 8 in App. B. to R. S. C.; D. C. F. 967; and is to specify those documents which the deponent objects to produce: r. 13.

As to examination of witnesses and production of documents in Scotland, see 22 V. c. 20; 48 & 49 V. c. 74, s. 2; Campbell v. A. G., 2 Ch. 571.

The applicant is obliged to accept the oath of the adverse party as to the description, relevancy, and possession of the documents: Wright v. Pitt, 3 Ch. 809; Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 19, C. A.; Wiedeman v. Walpole, 24 Q. B. D. 537; and the affidavit is therefore conclusive against the party seeking discovery, unless, either from the affidavit itself or from the documents therein referred to, or from the pleadings, it can be shown to be insufficient or inaccurate: Jones v. Monte Video Gas Co., 5 Q. B. D. 556, C. A.; Hall v. Truman, 29 Ch. D. 319, C. A.; Comp. Financiere v. Peruvian Guano Co., 11 Q. B. D. 55, C. A.; Morris v. Edwards, 15 App. Ca. 309; although it merely goes to knowledge, information and belief; Adams v. Fisher, 3 My. & C. 526; or belief on advice: Peile v. Stoddart, 1 Mac. & G. 192; Chart. Bank of India v. Rich, 4 B. & S. 73; 11 W. R. 830; unless there is something to show that the statement is untrue: Mansell v. Feeney, 2 J. & H. 313; 9 W. R. 532; Combe v. Corp. of Lond. 1 Y. & C. C. 651; Luscombe v. Steer, 37 L. J. Ch. 119; Greenwood v. G., 6 W. R. 119 (in which case the order should be for a further affidavit, and not for production at once: Corp. of Hastings v. Ivall, 8 Ch. 1017); or that the party has not examined the documents sufficiently to know their contents: Manby v. Bewicke, 8 D. M. & G. 476; 4 W. R. 757.

And see Gresley v. Mousley, 2 K. & J. 288; Commrs. of Sewers v. Glasse, 15 Eq. 302; Sutherland v. S., 17 Beav. 209.

The untruth may be shown by contradictory statements, by a discrepancy between the affidavit and other documents already produced, or by the nature of the case: Bowes v. Fernie, 3 M. & C. 632; Greenwood v. G., 6 W. R. 119; or by anything which, appearing on the face of the pleadings, is "enough to raise a reasonable suspicion that the Deft has further documents which may help the Plts to make out their case:" Turner, L. J., in Noel v. N., 1 D. J. & S. 473; Wright v. Pitt, 3 Ch. 809; Comp. Financiere v. Peruvian Guano Co., 11 Q. B. D. 55, C. A.; ex. gr., where a number of customers' names were given, but no books relating to the business: Saull v. Browne, 17 Eq. 402; and see Macfarlan v. Rolt, 14 Eq. 580; West. & Co. v. Clayton, 12 W. R. 123; 9 L. T. 534; Imp. Land Co. of M. v. Masterman, 22 W. R. 66; 29 L. T. 559.

And the rule as to the conclusiveness of the affidavit applies when the claim is for privilege on the ground that the documents relate exclusively to the party's own case: Bewicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400, C. A.; A. G. v. Emerson, 10 Q. B. D. 191, C. A.; Roberts v. Oppenheim, 26 Ch. D. 724, C. A.; unless the Court can see with reasonable certainty that the nature of the documents has been misrepresented or misconceived: A. G. v. Emerson, sup.; and see Roberts v. Oppenheim, sup.

And where the description of some of the documents in the schedule to the affidavit appeared not to agree with a claim of professional privilege, a further affidavit was ordered: Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Ca. 217, 229.

As to whether the affidavit can be regarded as conclusive in respect of specific documents of which inspection is sought under rr. 17, 18, see Wiedeman v. Walpole, 24 Q. B. D. 537; S. C., 24 Q. B. D. 626, C. A.

In one case the Court inspected one of the documents, and finding the affidavit was manifestly inaccurate as to it, ordered inspection of all: Ponsonby v. Hartley, W. N. (83) 13, 44; but the propriety of such a practice has been questioned: see Leslie v. Cave, 56 L. T. 332; 35 W. R. 515; and Re Holloway, 12 P. D. 169,

When the documents have been inspected by the Court by consent of the parties, no appeal will lie: Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423, C. A.

An affidavit prima facie sufficient cannot be impeached by a contentious affidavit: Jones v. Monte Video Gas Co., sup.; Morris v. Edwards, 23 Q. B. D. 287, C. A.; 15 App. Ca. 309; and see Richards v. Watkins, 6 Jur. N. S. 168; Reynell v. Sprye, 1 D. M. & G. 656, 712; or questioned by interrogatories: Nicholl v. Wheeler, 17 Q. B. D. 101, C. A.; Hall v. Truman, 29 Ch. D. 307, C. A.; except as to specified relevant documents upon a prima facie case being shown: Ibid.; and see Newall v. Telegraph, &c. Co., 2 Eq. 756; and Bray, 214, 505.

The documents must be described with sufficient distinctness to enable the Court to enforce its order: Taylor v. Batten, 4 Q. B. D. 85, C. A.; Bewick v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400, 410, C. A.; and see Fortescue v. F., 24 W. R. 945; Bovill v. Cowan, 5 Ch. 495; Hamilton v. Nott, 16 Eq. 112, 117; Budden v. Wilkinson, (1893) 2 Q. B. 432, C. A.; and possession must be admitted clearly. It has been held sufficient if the relevancy can be inferred from the description in the schedule, though no express admission of it appear in the body of the affidavit: Storey v. Lennox, 1 My. & C. 525. A party must examine his documents before answering or making affidavit as to their relevancy, to enable himself to schedule them correctly: Gabbett v. Cavendish, 3 Swa. 267, n.; and must show that he has tried to obtain the information required from his agents: Glengall v. Fraser, 2 Ha. 99; M'Intosh v. G. W. Ry., 4 D. & S. 544; and v. sup. p. 69.

A statement that the documents did not "relate to or evidence" the title of the Plt was too ambiguous: Felkin v. Herbert, 30 L. J. Ch. 798; 9 W. R. 756; and see McLean v. Jones, 66 L. T. 653; and inf. pp. 84, 85.

The inaccuracy of the affidavit as to one document does not of itself destroy privilege as to others: Leslie v. Cave, 56 L. T. 332; 35 W. R. 515.

As to the identification of letters, where numerous, by tying them up in bundles, and numbering or otherwise distinguishing them, so that they may be readily called for, see Cooke v. Smith, (1891) 1 Ch. 509, C. A.; Hill v. Hart-Davis, 26 Ch. D. 740, C. A.; Bewicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400, C. A.; Taylor v. Batten, sup.; Mayor of Bristol v. Cox, 26 Ch. D. 681; Walker v. Poole, 21 Ch. D. 836; Budden v. Wilkinson, (1893) 2 Q. B. 432, C. A.; but the practice must not be too freely used: see Milbank v. M., (1900) 1 Ch. 376, C. A.; and as to the description of documents or letters for which privilege is claimed, see Taylor v. Batten, 4 Q. B. D. 88; Bewicke v. Graham, sup.; Gardner v. Irvin, 4 Ex. D. 53, C. A.

The affidavit must not be confined to documents for which an order for production could be made under r. 14, as being in the possession or power of the deponent: v. inf. p. 74; but all documents must be included of which the party has any possession or property jointly with others, or even in which he has no property at all, provided they are in his corporeal possession (see Form 7, sup. p. 52): and see Price v. P., 48 L. J. Ch. 215; Vyse v. Foster, 13 Eq. 602; Swanston v. Lishman, 45 L. T. 360; Bray, 225.

Books of a solr employed by a trustee to receive rent of trust property were not required to be mentioned in the trustee's affidavit of documents: Eglinton v. Lamb, 35 L. J. Ch. 113; 12 Jur. N. S. 45; 13 L. T. 698; 14 W. R. 170; Colyer v. C., 30 L. J. Ch. 408; 4 L. T. 134; 9 W. R. 452. Production was ordered, at the instance of a purchaser under a decree, of documents relating to the property: Dent v. D., 35 L. J. Ch. 112.

An affidavit by husband and wife should state what documents they or either of them have or have had in the possession or power of them or either of them. It is not sufficient to state what documents are in their joint possession, as that might enable them to keep back documents of which one of them had separate possession: Fendall v. O'Connell, 29 Ch. D. 899, C. A.

Where underwriters were suing in the names of a foreign firm, they could not relieve themselves from making a further affidavit on the ground that they had done all they could to comply with the order, but the case was to be treated as if the nominal Plts were suing for their own benefit: Wilson v. Raffalovich, 7 Q. B. D. 553, C. A.

A party must make the affidavit though there is nothing to show that there are any documents: The Minnehaha, L. R. 3 A. & E. 148; and though he has good grounds against producing the documents. It is not sufficient for the deponent to state that documents are privileged; he should set forth the facts upon which the privilege is grounded: Gardner v. Irvin, 4 Ex. D. 49, C. A.; Taylor v. Batten, 4 Q. B. D. 85, C. A.

An affidavit unnecessarily prolix was ordered on motion to be taken off the file: Walker v. Poole, 21 Ch. D. 835.

It seems that documents for which privilege is claimed as relating to the party's own title only are sufficiently described by giving their dates: Taylor v. Oliver, 45 L. J. Ch. 774; 34 L. T. 902.

The Deft's time for filing the affidavit ought not to be extended until he has received from the Plts particulars of claims for damages: Maxim-Nordenfelt, &c. Co. v. Nordenfelt, (1893) 3 Ch. 122, C. A.

As to what documents must be produced under a subpœna duces tecum by a solr not a party, see Lee v. Angas, 2 Eq. 59; by a partner in a bank of the bank's books, A. G. v. Wilson, 9 Sim. 526; by the secretary of a co. on a petition to wind up, Re Emma Mine, 10 Ch. 194; as to allowing inspection by intended witnesses, v. inf. p. 81.

PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS.

By O. xxxi, 14, which reproduces in a somewhat different form the Chancery Procedure Act, 1852 (15 & 16 V. c. 86), ss. 18, 20, now repealed, "it shall be lawful for the Court or a Judge at any time during the pendency of any cause or matter, to order the production by any party thereto, upon oath, of such of the documents in his possession or power, relating to any matter in question in such cause or matter, as the Court or Judge shall think right; and the Court may deal with such documents, when produced, in such manner as shall appear just."

Orders for production are not made on the solrs of the parties: Cashin v. Craddock, 2 Ch. D. 140.

The right to production is not more extensive as against a Plt than a Deft: Minet v. Morgan, 8 Ch. 361; 21 W. R. 467; but see Boyd v. Petrie, 17 W. R. 903, and Hoffmann v. Postill, 4 Ch. 673.

Production cannot be ordered when no proceeding has been commenced: Re Burton, &c. Co., 31 L. J. Q. B. 62; but may be when only an appeal is pending: Re Nat. Funds Ass. Co., 24 W. R. 774.

Production was ordered on a Plt's application after replication: Lafone v. Falkland Isl. Co., 4 K. & J. 38; 6 W. R. 4; Parkinson v. Chambers, 1 K. & J. 72.

The Deft had no right to production until he had put in his answer: Smith v. Lay, 18 W. R. 915; Halliday v. Temple, 8 D. M. & G. 96; but see P. of W. v. Liverpool, 1 Sw. 114; 3 Sw. 570; but had though he had not filed an affidavit: Haldane v. Eckford, 7 Eq. 425; or a further affidavit of documents after an order to do so: Noel v. N., 1 D. J. & S. 468.

A Plt lost his right to move on an admission of relevancy in the answer by amending his bill, and thereby altering his case: Haverfield v. Pyman, 2 Ph. 202; but this depended on the nature and extent of the amendment: A. G. v. Thompson, 8 Ha. 118; Evans v. Richard, 1 Sw. 7; and in Warden v. Peddington, 32 Beav. 639, the Plt was held entitled to a further affidavit on account of his amendments.

Notice may be given, at any time, to any party to produce any document referred to in his pleadings or affidavits, and if the notice be not complied with (except for such cause as the Court shall consider sufficient), such document cannot be used in evidence: O. xxxi, 15. For form of such notice, see R. S. C., App. B. No. 9.

An affidavit not filed, but of which a copy has been furnished to the opposite party, is an affidavit within this rule, and under r. 18 an order may be made for inspection of documents referred to in such an affidavit: Re Fenner and Lord, (1897) 1 Q. B. 667, C. A.

The rule extends to the contract sued on, referred to by the Plt in an affidavit in answer to interrogatories: Morse v. Peachey, 39 W. R. 592.

Notice must be given (see the form R. S. C., App. B. No. 10) by the party required to produce of willingness to produce such documents for inspection at the office of his solr, at a time named (within two or four days, according as the documents have or have not been set out by him in his affidavit of documents), or in the case of bankers' books, or other books of account, or books in constant use in trade or business, at their usual place of custody, and any objection to production must then be stated: r. 17; and in default an order for inspection founded on an affidavit may be made by a Judge: r. 18.

The object of rr. 15 to 18 is to give parties the same advantage as if the documents had been fully set out in the pleadings, and immediate production of such documents must be given, unless special reason to the contrary can be shown: Quilter v. Heatley, 23 Ch. D. 42, C. A.

Production of books or documents in a district registry may be ordered in any action: Jud. Act, 1873, s. 66.

In lunacy, inspection of documents in the custody of the Court is allowed only on an order of a Master or Judge in lunacy. Inspection of reports made to the Court by its own medical adviser is never allowed, but with this exception, liberty to inspect will be given to any person who wants it for a reasonable and proper purpose, provided that the lunatic, if living, is not injured thereby: Re Strachan, (1895) 1 Ch. 439, C. A.; and see Re Smyth, 15 Ch. D. 286, C. A.

As to discovery by an infant party to an action, v. sup. p. 66.

To obtain production of a document as to which there is any dispute (and title deeds are subject to the same rule), the applicant must show that he has an interest in the document, i.e., that he requires its production for the legitimate purposes of the action; and that it is, or may be, evidence which may prove, or lead or assist him to prove, his case; and these points must be admitted by the affidavit of the other party: A. G. v. Thompson, 8 Ha. 112; and that it is not privileged for any of the reasons given inf. pp. 88 et seq. Where the Defts admitted that the Plt had had an interest under a settlement, but alleged that by subsequent deeds that interest had determined, they had to produce the settlement: Bugden v. South, 3 Jur. N. S. 783; 26 L. J. Ch. 425; 5 W. R. 128.

In general, and unless the case falls within the concluding proviso of r. 12 (v. sup. p. 70), the Court does not assume discretion to refuse to order production of documents not protected by privilege: Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423, C. A.; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 654, C. A.; but would not order it at the suit of a person claiming as next of kin against the Solr to the Treasury, to whom admon had been granted, until the Plt had made a prima facie case: Lane v. Gray, 16 Eq. 552; and see Wynne v. Humberston, 27 Beav. 421; 30 L. T. 306; nor where the cause had been set down for hearing: Waters v. Shaftesbury, 12 Jur. N. S. 3; 13 L. T. 558; 14 W. R. 259; nor where the production was wanted for a criminal prosecution: S. C. As to what documents the Plt in an action on a marine policy can have produced, see Kellock v. Home, &c. Co., 12 Jur. N. S. 653; China Steamship Co. v. Commercial Union Ass. Co., 8 Q. B. D. 142, C. A.; W. of England Bank v. Canton Co., 2 Ex. D. 472; Henderson v. Underwriting Association, (1891) 1 Q. B. 557.

In an action to restrain sewage nuisance, a general order as to documents in possession of the Deft board was refused, but an order was made limited to certain resolutions and correspondence with the Local Government Board: Downing v. Falmouth United Sewerage Board, 37 Ch. D. 234, C. A.

Privilege claimed for documents is not lost by their being referred to in the pleadings; the penalty for non-production being that they cannot afterwards be used in evidence: Roberts v. Oppenheim, 26 Ch. D. 724, C. A.

In all cases where documents are produced there is an implied undertaking, which may be enforced by injunction, not to divulge the contents: Wms. v. P. of W. Ins. Co., 23 Beav. 338. And the Court will take care that no vexatious or improper use be made of documents ordered to be produced; Mansell v. Feeney, 9 W. R. 610; and will be cautious where the party producing might be prejudiced thereby outside the case: Curver v. Pinto Leite, 7 Ch. 90; Heugh v. Garrett, 44 L. J. Ch. 305; and as to inspection under the Bankers' Books Evidence Act (42 & 43 V. c. 11), s. 7, see Re Marshfield, M. v. Hutchings, 32 Ch. D. 499, 502; and v. inf. p. 81.

On ordering production of letters marked "private and confidential," against the wish of the writer, an undertaking not to use them for any collateral object was required: Hopkinson v. Burghley, 2 Ch. 447; sup. p. 58, Form 23. And as to a creditor obtaining production after admon judgment in support of his claim, see In re M'Veagh, 1 D. J. & S. 399, sup. p. 59, Form 24, where the exors were Defts. After judgment the summons must specify the points on which discovery is sought: Haldane v. Eckford, 7 Eq. 425.

Under O. xxxi, 14, O. L, 3, and its general powers, the Court can order that photographs of documents be taken: Lewis v. E. of Londesborough, (1893) 2 Q. B. 191.

Irrespective of any question as to discovery, property, or privilege, if a document is made an exhibit to an affidavit, any person who has the right to inspect and take copies of the affidavit has a similar right as to the exhibit also: In re Hinchcliffe, (1895) 1 Ch. 117, C. A. Secus, where the exhibit is only for the information of the Judge, as ex. gr. the case laid by a pauper before counsel: Sloane v. Britain Steamship Co., (1897) 1 Q. B. 185, C. A.

PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS—POSSESSION OR POWER.

Possession of an agent is the possession of the principal, so that a party to an action must produce documents which are with his agents: Morrice v. Swaby, 2 Beav. 500; and all that he has a right to inspect are in his power, though wrongfully withheld; Taylor v. Rundell, 1 Ph. 222; unless they are held by the agents as agents for others also: Edmonds v. Foley, 30 Beav. 282; 10 W. R. 210 (et inf.); or are their own property: Colyer v. C., 9 W. R. 452; 30 L. J. Ch. 408. But in bankruptcy proceedings a clerk of the debtors, who were abroad, could not before adjudication be made to produce their documents: Exp. Byrne, 35 L. J. Bkcy. 43. They must be produced, though in the hands of agents abroad: Gabbett v. Carendish, 3 Sw. 267, n.; time being allowed: Morrice v. Swaby, sup.; Farquharson v. Balfour, T. & R. 184; Mertens v. Haigh, 3 D. J. & S. 528.

Represves of a deceased deputy steward of a manor, Defts to a bill by the lord, had to produce memoranda made by the deceased for his own use: Bp. of Winchester v. Bowker, 9 W. R. 404; 29 Beav. 479. But an exor had not to produce cheques drawn by his testator and in the hands of the bankers: Bayley v. Cuss, 10 W. R. 370.

A party to an action is not bound to produce documents deposited by him as a security for money lent before the institution of the suit, if too poor to redeem them: North v. Huber, 7 Jur. N. S. 767; 29 Beav. 437, following Re Williams, 7 Jur. N. S. 323; 30 L. J. Ch. 610; 4 L. T. 103; 9 W. R. 393; nor letters pawned by him with other goods before the suit commenced: Liddell v. Norton, Kay, xi.

But documents must be produced, although subject to a solr's lien, and he must be paid off if necessary: Exp. Shaw, Jac. 270; Rodick v. Gandell, 10 Beav. 270; this only refers, however, to a party's own solr: Palmer v. Wright, 10 Beav. 234; or his former solr, though the bill is disputed; but with liberty to apply in case the party really cannot obtain the documents: Lewis v. Powell, (1897) 1 Ch. 678; and the same rule holds good against a bankrupt unless he really cannot get the documents produced: Vale v. Oppert, 10 Ch. 340; and a bankrupt must state what documents have passed to his trustee: Anon., W. N. (76) 38.

As to how far a solr's lien may be a valid excuse for non-production, or a ground for production upon terms of paying money into Court or otherwise, see inf. Chap. XL., "SOLICITORS."

The order for production will not go unless the party has the sole possession of the documents: Kearsley v. Phillips, 10 Q. B. D. 465, C. A.; accordingly, one of the trustees of a mortgage could not be ordered to produce the documents relating to the mortgaged property in the absence of the other: Kearsley v. Phillips, sup.

Documents in the joint possession of a Deft and others, not parties to the action, are protected: Reid v. Langlois, 1 M. & G. 627; Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686; Murray v. Walter, C. & P. 114; Kearsley v. Phillips, 10 Q. B. D. 465, C. A.; and an order to produce a deed, admitted to be in the joint possession of two Defts, was after the death of one refused in the absence of his represves: Robertson v. Shewell, 15 Beav. 277. An application that a Deft should produce documents in the possession of an agent for himself and his co-tenant in common, not a party to the suit, was refused with costs;

Edmonds v. Foley, 30 Beav. 282; 10 W. R. 210; Murray v. Walter, C. & P. 114; but see Walburn v. Ingilby, 1 M. & K. 61.

Where joint possession is shown, it is not necessary that the deponent should state that the co-owner will not consent to the production: Kearsley v. Philips, 10 Q. B. D. 465, C. A.; but the nature of the joint possession ought to be shown: Bovill v. Cowan, 5 Ch. 495.

In Warwick v. Q. Coll. Ox., 4 Ex. 254, it was held that a party could not be ordered to produce documents relating to a compromise between him and non-parties: and see Bagnall v. Carlton, W. N. (76) 215; but in Hutchinson v. Glover, 1 Q. B. D. 138, in an action against shipowners for damage to cargo by a collision, compromises of other suits relating to the collision had to be produced, it not appearing that the other parties to the compromises objected. And a Plt in a patent suit was bound to answer as to compromises of other suits by him with reference to the same patent: Betts v. Neilson, W. N. (66) 170. Where private accounts between the Plt and Deft had been entered in books of a partnership between Deft and his father, who refused to allow production, an order against the father was refused: Hadley v. Macdougall, 7 Ch. 312; and as to producing partnership books on a subp. duces tecum, see A. G. v. Wilson, 9 Sim. 526; and see Zumbeck v. Biggs, 82 L. T. 654; 48 W. R. 507; Richards v. Watkins, 6 Jur. N. S. 168. Production was refused against a Deft in the absence of a co-Deft with whom he had deposited the document: Burbidge v. Robinson, 2 M. & G. 244; but possible injury to the mortgagor did not entitle a mortgagee to resist production of the mortgage deeds to persons interested in the mortgage money: Gough v. Offley, 5 D. & S. 653. And after the dissolution of a co., the liquidator having the absolute control over documents in his possession was bound to produce them: London & Yorkshire Bank v. Cooper, 15 Q. B. D. 473, C. A.; but no order could be made against the committee of a lunatic for inspection of documents which were in the custody of the Court, as the Plt should apply in the lunacy: Vivian v. Little, 11 Q. B. D. 370.

It is no ground for resisting production that other persons have an interest in the documents: Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686; Re Turner, 24 W. R. 54; Blenkinsopp v. B., 2 Ph. 607; Plant v. Kendrick, L. R. 10 C. P. 692; nor that it will disclose names of customers: Howe v. M'Kernan, 30 Beav. 547; as to documents of a partnership in possession of the Defts (shareholders), see Glyn v. Caulfield, 3 Mac. & G. 463.

A motion for production of documents in the hands of trustees was refused in the absence of the cs. q. t.: Ford v. Dolphin, 1 Drew. 222; and of documents in hands of Deft and a co-exor not a party: Morrell v. Wootten, 15 Jur. 319; Cridland v. De Mauley, 13 Jur. 442; Lazarus v. Mozley, 5 Jur. N. S. 1119; 1 L. T. 3.

Where Plt had obtained production of a document from a Deft, a motion by another Deft that Plt produce it to him was refused in the absence of the first: Reynolds v. Godlee, 4 K. & J. 88.

An allegation that deeds are in the possession of the Defts, or some of them, will not sustain the action against one of them who has no interest: Weise v. Wardle, 19 Eq. 171; and see M. of London v. Levy, 8 Ves. 398.

PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS—MORTGAGEES, ETC.

Under sect. 16 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, a mortgagee is bound to produce his deeds to the mortgagor at all reasonable times. In cases not within the section, a mortgagee is not in general ordered to produce the deeds until he is paid off: Chichester v. Donegal, 5 Ch. 497; Bank of New South Wales v. O'Connor, 14 App. Ca. 273, 283; nor to state their contents: S. C.; Bridgewater v. De Winton, 33 L. J. Ch. 238; 9 L. T. 568; 12 W. R. 40; and see Beavan v. Cook, 17 W. R. 872; 20 L. T. 689; Freeman v. Butler, 33 Beav. 289.

Although the Plt has no absolute right to discovery of documents before the Deft has delivered his defence, it may properly be allowed in a redemption action on the footing of wilful default against a mortgagee in possession: Union Bank of London v. Manby, 13 Ch. D. 239, C. A.

A mortgagee taking a release of the equity of redemption from a trustee thereof with notice of the trust, cannot refuse production of the conveyance in a suit by the cs. q. t. to redeem on payment of the amount paid: Smith v. Barnes, 1 Eq. 65.

Tenants in common, as between themselves, must produce; but where A. has mortgaged his share to B. (Edmonds v. Foley, 30 Beav. 283), B. cannot be made to do so; and where one had sold his share subject to a mortgage to himself, he could not be called on to show the deed in the absence of his mortgagor: Lambert v. Rogers, 2 Mer. 489.

A mortgagee admitting himself redeemable must set out the accounts: Elmer v. Creasy, 9 Ch. 69; and a Deft cannot refuse to produce documents because he has a lien on them for literary labour: Brougham v. Cauvin, 37 L. J. Ch. 691; 16 W. R. 688; 18 L. T. 281.

On payment of what is found due, the mortgagor (Deft) is entitled to delivery of the security and all documents on oath: Weeks v. Stourton, 13 W. R. 489; although other persons claim an interest in them: Re Turner, 24 W. R. 54.

As to production by Deft in a suit to establish the mortgage, see Hunt v. Elmes, 27 Beav. 62.

IMPEACHED DOCUMENTS.

In a suit to impeach a deed, the Court refused to order production of it on motion: Tyler v. Drayton, 2 S. & S. 309; secus, where it was charged and not denied that the alleged fraud appeared on the deed: Kennedy v. Green, 6 Sim. 6; and in a suit to set aside as fraudulent a bill of sale, or to redeem it if valid, the bill of sale was on motion ordered to be produced: Neate v. Latimer, 2 Y. & C. 257; 11 Bli. N. S. 149; 4 Cl. & F. 570; and where the production of the original deed can be required, all subsequent documents which depend upon and proceed from it must be produced: Jones v. J., Kay, vi.; Cannock v. Jauncey, 1 Drew. 497; and the Court ordered a mortgagee, who had been sold to the mortgagor, to produce the mortgage deed which was impeached: Davis v. Parry, 4 Jur. N. S. 431; 27 L. J. Ch. 294; 6 W. R. 174. Where the answer stated a release not anticipated by the bill, without volunteering to produce it, the Deft was not to produce it until the hearing: Atkyns v. Wright, 14 Ves. 211.

A mere allegation that a mortgage is invalid will not protect it from production: Crisp v. Platel, 8 Beav. 62.

Where an exor (Deft) alleged that the testator's signature to a receipt relied on by the Plt was a forgery, he produced numerous cheques signed by the testator; but was not bound to produce others which he alleged to be forgeries: Wilson v. Thornbury, 17 Eq. 517; but see Groves v. G., Kay, xix., et sup. p. 60; Boyd v. Petrie, 3 Ch. 818.

INSPECTION.

By O. xxxi, 18, if a party "offers inspection elsewhere than at the office of his solr, the Judge may, on the application of the party desiring it, make an order for inspection in such place and in such manner as he may think fit; and, except in the case of documents referred to in the pleadings or affidavits of the party against whom the application is made, or disclosed in his affidavit of documents, such application shall be founded upon an affidavit showing of what documents inspection is sought, that the party applying is entitled to inspect them, and that they are in the possession or power of the other party."

By r. 19, "an order upon the lord of a manor to allow limited inspection of the court rolls may be made on the application of a copyhold tenant supported by an affidavit that he has applied for inspection, and that the same has been refused."

By O. xxxi, 19A—

(1) "Where inspection of any business books is applied for, the Court or a Judge may, if they or he shall think fit, instead of ordering inspection of the original books, order a copy of any entries therein to be furnished and verified by the affidavit of some person who has examined the copy with the original entries, and such affidavit shall state whether or not there are in the original book any and what erasures, interlineations, or alterations. Provided that, notwithstanding such copy has been supplied, the Court or a Judge may order inspection of the book from which the copy was made.

(2) "Where on an application for an order for inspection privilege is claimed for any document, it shall be lawful for the Court or a Judge to inspect the document for the purpose of deciding as to the validity of the claim of privilege.

(3) "The Court or a Judge may, on the application of any party to a cause or matter at any time, and whether an affidavit of documents shall or shall not have already been ordered or made, make an order requiring any other party to state by affidavit whether any one or more specific documents, to be specified in the application, is or are, or has or have at any time been in his possession or power; and, if not then in his possession, when he parted with the same, and what has become thereof. Such applications shall be made on an affidavit stating that in the belief of the deponent the party against whom the application is made has, or has at some time had in his possession or power the document or documents specified in the application, and that they relate to the matters in question in the cause or matter, or to some of them."

The word "privilege" in (2), is not to be construed in a narrow sense, so as to exclude the case of an objection to discovery based on the ground of irrelevancy, but includes any ground upon which inspection is sought to be resisted: Ehrmann v. E., (1896) 2 Ch. 826; and as to the practice generally, see Williams v. Quebrada Ry., Ltd., & Copper Co., (1895) 2 Ch. 751.

The applicant must specify the particular documents so that they can be identified: White v. Spafford, (1901) 2 K. B. 241, C. A.

Inspection of court rolls was to be at the office of the steward: Carew v. Davis, 21 Beav. 213; and generally where inspection will suffice, and deposit in Court will be an injury to the Deft, the latter is not ordered: M. of Berwick v. Murray, 1 M. & G. 530.

No allowance is to be made for costs of inspection of documents, under O. XXXI, 15, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the taxing officer that there were good and sufficient reasons for such inspection: O. LXV, 27 (17); and as to payment and allowance of costs of copies or extracts, see O. LXV, 27 (18).

Under the old practice the strict rule was that the inspecting party was entitled to have the documents deposited at the Record and Writ Clerk's Office, and it afterwards grew to be the practice, as a matter of indulgence and convenience to the producing party, to allow them to be produced at the office of his solrs: Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 518, C. A.; but as this is a departure from strict principle, the costs of such production and inspection will not be allowed the successful party on a party and party taxation: Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 517, C. A.; Woodroffe v. Daniel, 10 Sim. 126; Flockton v. Peake, 12 W. R. 1023; 4 N. R. 456; and where the party inspecting had been, by an arrangement, furnished with copies, he had to pay the stationer's charge only: Kennedy v. George, 6 W. R. 218.

By O. LXI, 30, "where any deeds or other documents are ordered to be left or deposited, whether for safe custody or for the purpose of any inquiry in Chambers, or otherwise, the same shall be left or deposited in the Central Office, and shall be subject to such directions as may be given for the production thereof." As to mode of deposit, see Dan. 1374.

If a party state that documents in his possession are in daily use at his place of business, the order has been that the applicant be at liberty to inspect them there: see O. XXXI, 17, and sup. p. 75; and if he cannot obtain a satisfactory inspection there, he may apply for a further order: Grane v. Cooper, 4 M. & C. 263; and see Maund v. Allies, Ib., 508; Mornington v. Keane, 4 W. R. 793; Gardner v. Dangerfield, 5 Beav. 389; Mertens v. Haigh, Joh. 735; 11 W. R. 792; 3 D. J. & S. 528.

The Judge has a discretion (with which the C. A. will not readily interfere) as to the place of production and inspection, and having made the common order for inspection at the solr's office in London, may make a fresh order for inspection elsewhere: Prestney v. Corp. of Colchester, 24 Ch. D. 376, C. A.

A local board, as they were not carrying on a trade, had to send documents and minute book to London: A. G. v. Whitwood L. B., 19 W. R. 1107; 40

L. J. Ch. 592; but where the documents consisted principally of ancient charters and account books of a corp. kept at Colchester, inspection there was allowed as an indulgence, but with liberty to the Plt to apply for inspection of particular documents in London: Prestney v. Corp. of Colchester, 24 Ch. D. 376, C. A.

Where the documents were voluminous, and in Dublin, and were of consequence to the business there, Deft was to deliver a list, and Plt to have copies of all such as he pleased: Gabbett v. Cavendish, 3 Swa. 267, n.; failing agreement as to making copies the documents were to be deposited: Prentice v. Phillips, 2 Ha. 152.

In Wiedeman v. Walpole, 24 Q. B. D. 537 (S. C., 24 Q. B. D. 626, C. A., reversed on other grounds), it was held that the Court might order inspection of a specific document under O. xxxi, 18, notwithstanding that it was not disclosed by the affidavit of documents (which contained the usual averment negating the existence of relevant documents other than those specified), and it was said that rr. 17 and 18 both contemplated the possibility of a party obtaining inspection of documents as to which the other party had made no admission at all. And see now O. xxxi, 19A, sup. p. 79.

Jud. Act, 1873, s. 66, provides that the Court or any Judge of the division to which any cause or matter is assigned may order any books or documents to be produced in the office of any district registrar.

Under the common order to inspect, a party may take notes and make copies of any part not sealed up: Coleman v. W. Hartlepool Ry., 5 L. T. 266; Form 7, sup. p. 52; Pratt v. P., 51 L. J. Ch. 838; 30 W. R. 837; 47 L. T. 249; and, in general, a right to take copies is always treated as incidental to a right to inspect: Mutter v. Eastern and Midland Ry. Co., 38 Ch. D. 92, 105, C. A.

The statutory right of inspecting the registers of a co. given to holders of stock and debentures by the Companies Clauses Acts, 1845, ss. 45, 63, and 1863, s. 28, may be exercised at all reasonable times without reason assigned: Holland v. Dickson, 37 Ch. D. 669; and includes a right to take copies: Mutter v. Eastern and Midland Ry. Co., 38 Ch. D. 92, 105, C. A.; as also does the right of a creditor or member of a co. to inspect the register of mortgages under s. 43 of the Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 V. c. 89): Nelson v. Anglo-American Land Mortgage Agency Co., (1897) 1 Ch. 130; secus, the register of members under s. 32 of the same Act: Re Balaghât Gold Mining Co., 70 L. J. K. B. 866, C. A., overruling Boord v. African Land Co., (1898) 1 Ch. 596.

As to inspection of documents in possession of a co. under Companies Act, 1862, s. 156, see Re North Brazilian Sugar Factories, 37 Ch. D. 83; and as to inspection of books of co. under Companies Act, 1862, ss. 161, 162, by member dissenting from reconstruction of co., see In re Glamorganshire Bank, Morgan's Case, 28 Ch. D. 620, and Buckley, 376 et seq.; and as to the right of every contributory and every admitted creditor in the winding-up of a co. to inspect and take copies of depositions taken at a private examination, whether the evidence was given by himself or by others, see In re Standard Gold Mining Co., (1895) 2 Ch. 545.

Pending an appeal from an order to deposit documents in Court, inspection was deferred: Kelly v. Hutton, 15 W. R. 916; secus, where the appeal was as to the relief: Gardner v. L. C. D. Ry., 15 W. R. 137.

Although the common order for inspection under O. xxxi, r. 20 (v. inf. p. 86) has been made, the Court has jurisdiction to make a subsequent order that questions of law shall be determined before the actual inspection is given: Lever v. Land Secs. Co., Ltd.; De Carteret v. Land Secs. Co., Ltd., 70 L. T. 323; 42 W. R. 104.

As to inspection in patent suits, v. inf. Chap. LII. "PATENTS."

The order directs production to the party, his solrs and agents: see Forms 7—12, pp. 52—54; an undertaking to produce to a party implies production to his solr and agents, though not named: Williams v. P. of W. Ins. Co., 23 Beav. 338. The terms of the order are strictly adhered to: Dan. 1575.

The term "agent" does not include other Defts: Bartley v. B., 1 Drew. 233; nor a relative, though the only person conversant with the accounts: Summerfield v. Prichard, 17 Beav. 9; nor a professional accountant appointed pro re natâ, unless by special order which will be made if circumstances require it: Bonnardet v. Taylor, 1 J. & H. 383 (followed in Gibney v. Clayton, 27 L. R. Ir. 75); and see Swansea Vale Ry. v. Budd, 2 Eq. 274, where the Deft's surveyor was allowed to see plans, &c., on which the issue mainly depended. And on the application of a bankrupt's assignee, the accounts being extensive and kept in Indian currency, an accountant was allowed, the bankrupt himself being employed as such accountant, and the inspection could be made in the presence of any duly authorized clerk of the assignee's solrs: Lindsay v. Gladstone, 9 Eq. 132, sup. Form 21, p. 58; and in a complicated case inspection was to be allowed to any number of persons, not exceeding twelve, whose names and addresses Plt was to give, and to hire a large room for the purpose: Rep. of Peru v. Weguelin, 41 L. J. Ch. 165. In Blair v. Massey, Ir. Rep. 5 Eq. 623, inspection by Plt's counsel was allowed; and see Draper v. Manchester, &c. Ry., 7 Jur. N. S. 86; 30 L. J. Ch. 236; 3 L. T. 685; 9 W. R. 215, where it was suggested that "solr" meant solr in the cause, and "agent" some person connected with the suit or a general agent; and as to persons being personally disqualified from inspection by interest, see S. C.

A special order is required for inspection by intended witnesses, and will only be made on special grounds: Boyd v. Petrie, 3 Ch. 818; as where the genuineness of signatures is disputed: Groves v. G., Kay, App. xix. et sup. pp. 60, 74.

As to inspection for verifying copy by witnesses, see Phelps v. Prew, 3 E. & B. 430; 18 Jur. 245.

By the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879 (42 & 43 V. c. 11), s. 7, "on the application of any party to a legal proceeding, a Court or Judge may order that such party be at liberty to inspect and take copies of any entries in a banker's book for any of the purposes of such proceedings. An order made under this section may be made either with or without summoning the bank or any other party, and shall be served on the bank three clear days before the same is to be obeyed, unless the Court or Judge otherwise directs."

As to the mode of proof of entries in bankers' books, see Chap. VIII. "EVIDENCE."

Under the above section the Court has jurisdiction to permit any party to a proceeding in England to inspect and take copies of any entries in a banker's book in Scotland or Ireland: Kissam v. Link, (1896) 1 Q. B. 574, C. A.

The object of the Act is not merely to relieve bankers, but to facilitate proof of transactions recorded in their books: Arnott v. Hayes, 36 Ch. D. 731, C. A.; and see Fitzpatrick v. McDonald, 30 L. R. Ir. 249; Parnell v. Wood, (1892) P. 137, C. A., where an alternative application under the Act, or for a subpoena, was refused, the question whether the subpoena should be granted being a matter for the determination of the Judge at the trial.

Liberty was given to a residuary legatee, Plt in an admon action, to inspect at testator's bankers books for four years, containing entries of accounts of testator's business: Re Marshfield, M. v. Hutchings, 32 Ch. D. 499.

The procedure being in substitution for subpoena duces tecum, there is jurisdiction to make the order ex parte, but such jurisdiction will be cautiously exercised, and evidence of bona fides and materiality of the proposed inspection may be required: Arnott v. Hayes, sup. See form of order, sup. p. 61.

The jurisdiction under the section is subject to the general law as to discovery, so that where Deft states on affidavit that entries in his banking account are irrelevant, an order for inspection of them ought not to be made: S. Staffordshire Trams. Co. v. Ebbemith, (1895) 2 Q. B. 669, C. A.

The fact that the Plt has made an affidavit of documents to which he has scheduled his bankers' pass books does not debar the Deft from inspection, under sect. 7, of the entries in the bankers' books: Perry v. Phosphor Bronze Co., 71 L. T. 854, C. A.; distinguishing Parnell v. Wood, 92 P. 137.

The Court has, it seems, jurisdiction to order inspection of entries relating to banking accounts kept in names of persons other than parties to the action, if kept on their behalf: Howard v. Beall, 23 Q. B. D. 1; but this jurisdiction will be exercised with the greatest caution: Pollock v. Garle, (1898) 1 Ch. 1, C. A.; and the order will in general be made only where there are entries in an account which is in form or substance the account of one of the parties to the litigation: Pollock v. Garle, sup.; and the Court must be satisfied that those entries will be admissible in evidence against a party to the action at the trial; and that there are very strong grounds for thinking that there are entries in the account which are material to the case of the party asking for inspection: S. Staffordshire Trams. Co. v. Ebbsmith, sup.

Thus, where the Plt sued for rescission of a contract for the purchase of shares in a co. from the Deft, on the ground of misrepresentation by the Deft (inter alia) as to the balance of the co. at its bankers, the Court declined to order inspection of the co.'s banking account: Pollock v. Garle, (1898) 1 Ch. 1, C. A.

As to inspection of property, v. inf. p. 97.

SEALING UP PART.

A party swearing that parts of documents were immaterial was allowed to seal them up, producing the rest: Gerard v. Penswick, 1 Swa. 533; Mansell v. Feeney, 9 W. R. 610; 2 Jo. & H. 320; Form 7, sup. p. 52. Part of a pedigree may be sealed up by a Deft on the ground that it does not relate to the Plt's case: Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686; but not part of court rolls in a suit by a freehold tenant: Warwick v. Q. Coll., 36 L. J. Ch. 505.

Under the usual order giving leave to seal up parts, actual sealing cannot be insisted upon if it would interfere with the conduct of the opponent's business or be oppressive, but the covering up upon oath of the irrelevant parts of such books is a sufficient compliance with the order: Graham v. Sutton Carden & Co., (1897) 1 Ch. 761, C. A.; Form 9, sup. p. 53.

As to what portion of their books, and of letters relating to sales, the Defts in a trade-mark case could seal up, see Carver v. Pinto Leite, 7 Ch. 90. The question of materiality is more strictly sifted where the discovery is such that it might be used to prejudice the party making it independently of the suit: S. C., and see Heugh v. Garrett, 44 L. J. Ch. 305; L. R. 3 Eq. 683.

An answer admitting possession of documents without claiming privilege was allowed to be qualified by an affidavit (at Deft's cost: Smith v. Massie, 4 Beav. 417), so as to protect portions or the whole of them: Curd v. C., 1 Ha. 274, affirmed on appeal; and see Blenkinsopp v. B., 10 Beav. 277; liberty to seal up or not to deposit might be given after affidavit admitting possession: Talbot v. Marshfield, 1 Eq. 6; on a motion for production of documents sealed up by the Deft, the M. R. himself examined them, and, having satisfied himself that they might possibly serve the Plt, allowed him to inspect them: Caton v. Lewis, 22 L. J. Ch. 946; 1 W. R. 118; and so Wood, V.-C., where the affidavit was not explicit: Lafone v. Falkland Islands Co., 4 K. & J. 34; 27 L. J. Ch. 25; 6 W. R. 4; and see The Macgregor Laird, L. R. 1 Ad. & E. 307; Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423, C. A.; and generally as to the practice where a right to seal up is desired or claimed, see Bray, 233; Dan. 1568. And for form of affidavit, see D. C. F. 972.

Where a few unimportant portions had been improperly sealed up, the Plt was not entitled to a general unsealing: Jones v. Andrews, 58 L. T. 601.

In the case of partnership books, in an action by residuary legatees for accounts, surviving partner and exor of testator was not entitled to seal up such entries as he might swear to be irrelevant, but only such as related to specified private matters: Re Pickering, P. v. P., 25 Ch. D. 247, C. A.

As to allowing inspection of certain entries only in books, see Firkins v. Lowe, 13 Pr. 193; Goodall v. Little, 1 Sim. N. S. 155.

On a question of identity of land all parts of deeds which did not relate to parcels were sealed up: Earp v. Lloyd, 3 K. & J. 549; Luscombe v. Steer, 37 L. J. Ch. 119.

The books of a railway co. were produced, with liberty to seal up parts irrelevant or otherwise privileged: Wilson v. Northampton, &c. Ry., 14 Eq. 477.

RESISTANCE TO DISCOVERY—(1) IRRELEVANCY.

O. xxxi, 1, provides that interrogatories which do not relate to any matters in question in the cause or matter shall be deemed irrelevant, notwithstanding that they might be admissible on the oral cross-examination of a witness.

No discovery can be compelled which is not directly or indirectly material to the issue to be tried at the hearing: see Wigram, 158; Bray, 16 et seq.; Bleckley v. Rymer, 4 Drew. 248; Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686; Adams v. Lloyd, 3 H. & N. 351; Re Morgan, Owen v. M., 39 Ch. D. 316, C. A. But the right to discovery is not confined to facts directly put in issue, but extends to any facts the existence or non-existence of which is relevant to the existence or non-existence of the facts directly in issue: Marriott v. Chamberlain, 17 Q. B. D. 163, C. A. Thus, the alleged writer of a libellous letter may be asked whether he did not write another letter addressed to a third person: Jones v. Rickards, 15 Q. B. D. 439; and an interrogatory, the answer to which will enable the Court to make an immediate judgment, is relevant: Re Morgan, Owen v. M., 39 Ch. D. 316, C. A.

In an action by patentee against licensee for an account, when the Deft licensee denies user and sets up a plea of secret process, the Plt is entitled to full discovery, but not oppressively so as to compel disclosure of the secret process: Ashworth v. Roberts, 45 Ch. D. 623.

Nor is the right confined to the obtaining of information. It may be used to obtain an admission from the opposite party, so as to facilitate proof and save expense: A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 519, C. A.; Gumbrecht v. Parry, 32 W. R. 204; 49 L. T. 570; and see Dalrymple v. Leslie, 8 Q. B. D. 5.

If a fact is relevant, discovery of it cannot be resisted merely because particulars of evidence intended to be used or the names of proposed witnesses would thereby be disclosed: Marriott v. Chamberlain, 17 Q. B. D. 164, C. A.; Storey v. Lennox, 1 My. & Cr. 525; 1 Keen, 341.

The oath of the party that documents ordered to be produced are immaterial is sufficient, unless there be something in the nature of the case, or on the face of his statements, to show that this is not so: Minet v. Morgan, 8 Ch. 361; 21 W. R. 467; Combe v. Corp. of Lond., 1 Y. & O. Ch. 652, et v. sup. p. 72.

All documents admitted to be relevant must be produced, unless good reason be shown to the contrary: Storey v. Lennox, 1 My. & C. 525; and as to what amounts to an admission of relevancy, see S. C., and that scheduling them does, see Greenwood v. G., 6 W. R. 119.

An interrogatory asking in substance whether the Deft had not been in such a position that he must have knowledge of the truth or falsity of the allegations in the statement of claim, was held irrelevant: Re Morgan, Owen v. M., 39 Ch. D. 316, C. A.

A Deft sued as agent, and denying the agency by his answer, had not to answer as to what appeared to be his private affairs: G. W. Colliery Co. v. Tucker, 9 Ch. 376. Questions as to sale of surplus water were held relevant in a suit by a water co. to restrain diversion of a stream: Wilts, &c. Co. v. Swindon W. W. Co., 20 W. R. 353.

As to whether documents required merely for comparing handwriting are relevant, see Wilson v. Thornbury, 17 Eq. 517.

As to production of compromises with persons not parties, sup. p. 77.

Inquisitorial questions, such as would, were an answer to them compelled, make the Court a scourge to the country, need not be answered: Dos Santos v. Frietas, cited Wigram, 165; and see O. xxxi, 7, which provides for the expunging of any interrogatories which are "oppressive"; and Parker v. Wells, 18 Ch. D. 484, C. A.; A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 529, C. A.; but questions as to the amount of the Deft's pecuniary resources, whence derived, &c., must, if material, be answered: Newton v. Dimes, 3 Jur. N. S. 583; 30 L. T. 30; and a Deft required to give an account of partnership transactions was not allowed to refuse an account of the debts owing to the firm on the ground that it would disclose the private affairs of the customers: Telford v. Ruskin, 1 Dr. & S. 148; Howe v. M'Kernan, 30 Beav. 547; and where the Deft denied an alleged partnership in the purchase of land, interrogatories exhibited by the Plt to prove that they had been co-partners in various other similar purchases of land were held to be irrelevant and oppressive: Kennedy v. Dodson, (1895) 1 Ch. 334, C. A.; and an answer as to private dealings was compelled where fraud was alleged: Gartside v. Outram, 3 Jur. N. S. 39; 26 L. J. Ch. 113; 5 W. R. 35; and Defts (a co. alleged to be acting ultra vires) will not be compelled to give full information to rivals in trade: A. G. v. North Met. Tram. Co., (1892) 3 Ch. 70.

RESISTANCE TO DISCOVERY—(2) DISCOVERY RELATING EXCLUSIVELY TO OWN CASE.

The general principle is, that a party must give discovery of the facts upon which he relies to establish his case, but not of the evidence which it is proposed to adduce: Eade v. Jacobs, 3 Ex. D. 335, C. A.; and see Bidder v. Bridges, 29 Ch. D. 29, C. A.; A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 529, C. A.; Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686; Briton Medical Assoc. v. Britannia Fire Assoc., 59 L. T. 888; Garland v. Oram, 7 Times L. R. 86. This principle is otherwise expressed by the statement that a party has no right to see his adversary's brief: Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644, 656; The Palermo, 9 P. D. 6, C. A.; Saunders v. Jones, 7 Ch. D. 435.

Thus, details of conversations, upon which reliance is placed, may have to be set out: Eade v. Jacobs, 3 Ex. D. 335, C. A.; Lyon v. Tweddell, 13 Ch. D. 375; A. G. v. Gaskill, 20 Ch. D. 519, C. A.; Fisher v. Owen, 8 Ch. D. 645; and details as to communication to Plt of a creditor's deed, of which he claims the benefit: Johns v. James, 13 Ch. D. 370.

In an action to set aside a will for undue influence, Plt was entitled to ask what sums Deft had received from testator, or from his universal legatee since his death: Re Holloway, Young v. H., 12 P. D. 167; newspaper proprietors, Defts in an action for libelling Plt, as author of letters which they published, were obliged to state approximately the extent of the circulation of their paper, but not to answer as to the names of the persons from whom the letters were obtained, what was paid for them, and what inquiries were made and steps taken to test and verify information: Parnell v. Walter, 24 Q. B. D. 441; nor to state how many copies of the issue of the newspaper which contained the alleged libel were printed and circulated, the answer a "considerable number" being held sufficient: Whittaker v. Scarborough Post Newspaper Co., (1896) 2 Q. B. 148, C. A.; overruling Parnell v. Walter, sup., and Rumney v. Walter, 61 L. J. Q. B. 149; 65 L. T. 757; 40 W. R. 174, on this point; and discovery could not be required as to quantities of goods sold by Plts in action for injunction as to user of trade name, such quantities being evidence in support of Plt's case: Benbow v. Low, 16 Ch. D. 93, C. A.; explaining Saunders v. Jones, 7 Ch. D. 435, C. A.

In general, the names of persons who may be called as witnesses need not be disclosed: Eade v. Jacobs, sup.; unless such names are relevant facts in the case, or discovery of relevant facts cannot be made without disclosing them: Marriott v. Chamberlain, 17 Q. B. D. 154, C. A. Thus, Deft was not bound to give the names of persons in whose presence a verbal consent, relied on by him as a defence, was given: Eade v. Jacobs, sup.; nor a Plt, in action for dissolution of partnership, the names of persons in whose presence the Deft, his partner, misconducted himself: Lyon v. Tweddell, 13 Ch. D. 375; nor a newspaper proprietor, admitting publication of alleged libel, the name of the writer of the words, unless the identity of such writer were a fact material to some issue: Gibson v. Evans, 23 Q. B. D. 384; Hennessy v. Wright, 36 W. R. 880; 24 Q. B. D. 445, n., C. A.

Where a Deft made no case of his own, simply denying the Plt's case, he could not protect his documents as being only evidence of his own case, for Plt's case included matters charged as answers to an expected defence: A. G. v. Corp. of London, 2 M. & G. 247, 265.

As to whether Plt and Deft are in the same position as to this ground of privilege, see Hoffmann v. Postill, 4 Ch. 673; Minet v. Morgan, 8 Ch. 361; 21 W. R. 467.

In order to protect documents from production on this ground, it is material for the party to aver on oath that they form, support, or evidence his own title, and are intended to be or may be used by him in evidence accordingly, and that they do not contain anything forming or supporting the case or title of the opposite party: A. G. v. Emerson, 10 Q. B. D. 191, C. A.; and see Bewicke v. Graham, 7 Q. B. D. 400, C. A.; Bulman v. Young, 49 L. T. 736; 31 W. R. 766; Morris v. Edwards, 15 App. Ca. 309; but it is not necessary for him to state that they contain nothing impeaching his own case or title: A. G. v. Newcastle Corp., (1899) 2 Q. B. 478; C. A., following Morris v. Edwards, 15 App. Ca. 309; and see Budden v. Wilkinson, (1893) 2 Q. B. 432, C. A.; unless misconception of the nature of the documents is shown as matter of reasonable certainty and not merely of probable surmise: Frankenstein v. Gavin's House to House Cycle Cleaning and Ins. Co., (1897) 2 Q. B. 62, C. A.

A statement that documents were obtained by a Deft for his own defence, and that they did not relate to or evidence the "title" of the Plt, was not sufficiently distinct to protect them: Felkin v. L. Herbert, 30 L. J. Ch. 798; 9 W. R. 756; and see Mansell v. Feeney, 2 Jo. & H. 320; 9 W. R. 610.

In Bolton v. Liverpool, 1 M. & K. 88, a statement that the documents were the title deeds of the Defts was held sufficient to protect them without using the word exclusively, or denying their supporting the Plt's title: but see Minet v. Morgan, 8 Ch. 361; and A. G. v. Emerson, 10 Q. B. D. 191, C. A.; Combe v. London, 1 Y. & C. C. 651; Harris v. H., 4 Ha. 179.

If a Deft admit the relevancy of documents to a part of the Plt's case, and do not distinctly deny that they prove that part of the case, he is not privileged by a general statement that they are his own evidence: Smith v. D. of Beaufort, 1 Ha. 507; 1 Ph. 209; Gresley v. Mousley, 2 K. & J. 288; and he might lose his right to protect a deed relating solely to his own case, but put forward by himself, by making it by statement or by partial quotation part of his answer: Hardman v. Ellames, 2 M. & K. 732; Adams v. Fisher, 3 M. & C. 549; Latimer v. Neate, 4 Cl. & F. 570; 11 Bli. N. S. 149; Hunt v. Elmes, 27 Beav. 62; 5 Jur. N. S. 645; secus, if the Plt stated the deed and the Deft admitted and referred to it: Howard v. Robinson, 4 Drew. 522; see also Glover v. Hall, 2 Ph. 484.

And for a clear statement of the rule, see Combs v. Corp. of London, sup.

A waiver of privilege as to some documents does not preclude the assertion of it as to others in respect of which it was originally claimed: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1, C. A.

A Plt in an action to establish commonable rights had to give discovery as to the nature of his title, but not as to the evidence of it: Bidder v. Bridges, 29 Ch. D. 29, C. A.; Cayley v. Sandycroft, 33 W. R. 577; and as to right of Plt to discovery in an action for recovery of land, see Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Ca. 217; Bleazby v. B., 10 L. R. Ir. 60.

And in order to obtain protection for documents of title, he need not assert that they contain nothing impeaching his own title: A. G. v. Emerson, sup.; Morris v. Edwards, 15 App. Ca. 309; and a party is not entitled to see documents which only prove his title, if at all, by destroying his adversary's: Bolton v. Corp. of Liverpool, 3 Sim. 467; 1 M. & K. 88; and see Owen v. Wynn, 9 Ch. D. 33, C. A.; Jenkins v. Bushby, 35 L. J. Ch. 400; 14 L. T. 431; 14 W. R. 531; nor is he entitled to see documents because he may find evidence on which to turn the Deft out of possession: Bolton v. Corp. of Liverpool, 1 M. & K. 92; Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686.

And that a document relating to the Plt's own title, though referred to in the pleadings, need not be produced until defence is put in, see Webster v. Whewall, 15 Ch. D. 120.

Notwithstanding the provision in sect. 2 of the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, precluding purchaser of leasehold from calling for lessor's title, such a purchaser, in an action for specific performance, proving aliunde that the title is bad, and raising a definite objection, will, like an ordinary litigant, be entitled to production of relevant documents, but not if he merely denies the title or vaguely alleges the existence of restrictive covenants: Jones v. Watts, 43 Ch. D. 574, C. A.

A c. q. t. (though only of proceeds of sale of land) is prima facie entitled to discovery and production of documents in possession of the trustees relating to the trust estate: Re Cowin, C. v. Gravett, 33 Ch. D. 179.

A Deft must produce evidence common to both parties, such as (the question being identity or boundaries of land) maps and deeds in his possession: Earp v. Lloyd, 3 K. & J. 549, and cases there cited; Bolton v. Liverpool, sup.; Jenkins v. Bushby, 35 L. J. Ch. 400; 14 L. T. 431; 14 W. R. 531; Barry v. Scully, Ir. Rep. 6 C. L. 449; especially in a suit by a lessor against his lessee: Brown v. Wales, 15 Eq. 142.

And the former rule, that a Deft in an ejectment action cannot be compelled to give discovery of documents in his possession, no longer holds good: The New British, &c. Co. v. Peed, 3 C. P. D. 196; and see Eyre v. Rodgers, 40 W. R. 137.

In suits between partners each must produce all documents relating to the partnership: Adams v. Fisher, 3 My. & C. 547; secus, where there was an agreement that the Plt should have no right to examine the books or accounts: Turney v. Bayley, 4 D. J. & S. 332; 33 L. J. Ch. 500; overruling S. C., 34 Beav. 105.

As to production of title deeds by a mere stakeholder, holding them for whoever should turn out to be entitled to the land, see Whittingham v. Cusack, Ir. Rep. 7 Eq. 159.

Where title deeds relating to two estates were in custody of the solrs of the previous owner of both, the owner of one estate was only entitled to an order for deposit in Court with liberty to inspect: Wright v. Robotham, 33 Ch. D. 106.

An heir in tail, suing devisees, was entitled to discovery and inspection of any deeds creating estates in tail general only: Shaftesbury v. Arrowsmith, 4 Ves. 66; 4 R. R. 181; or to prove his pedigree: Wright v. Vernon, 1 Drew. 344; and heir-at-law Plt may see such parts of any deed as relate to his pedigree, the rest being sealed up: Rumbold v. Forteach, 3 K. & J. 44, 748; and as to different rights of heir-at-law and heir in tail, S. C., and Quin v. Ratcliff, 6 Jur. N. S. 1327; 9 W. R. 65; 3 L. T. 363; but an heir-at-law of a feme covert entitled in default of appointment could not see the deed creating the power: Bennett v. Glossop, 3 Ha. 578.

Assignee of co-heiresses suing to recover land was entitled to interrogate the Deft as to matters relevant to the pedigree and heirship of the co-heiresses, and as to alleged admissions by Deft that his possession of the land was as trustee for the ancestress: Lyell v. Kennedy, 8 App. Ca. 217.

In a suit against him by a copyhold tenant, the lord must produce documents, including the court rolls, without payment of fees: Hoare v. Wilson, 4 Eq. 1; although he denies Plt's title: Warrick v. Q. Coll., 3 Eq. 683.

But a person claiming adversely to the manor and manorial rights as owner in fee is not entitled to production of the court rolls: Owen v. Wynn, 9 Ch. D. 29, C. A.; and as to inspection of court rolls, see O. xxxi, 19, sup. p. 78.

In a suit against a bankrupt's assignees, evidence given by the Plt in the Court of Bankruptcy was not to be produced until the hearing: Gandee v. Stansfield, 4 D. & J. 1.

For cross-examining the Plt on his affidavit, the Deft was entitled to production of an examination in Bankruptcy therein mentioned: Bell v. Johnson, 9 W. R. 549; 4 L. T. 636.

In a suit for discovery in aid of a defence to an action, Plt was entitled to see the nature of the claim at law, but not the evidence to be adduced in support of it: Bellwood v. Wetherell, 1 Y. & C. Ex. 211; and was entitled to an admission or denial of facts stated in the bill: Garle v. Robinson, 3 Jur. N. S. 633.

A valuation of a surveyor, made with a view to the defence, was privileged: Llewellyn v. Badeley, 1 Ha. 527.

RESISTANCE TO DISCOVERY—(3) PREMATURE DISCOVERY.

By O. xxxi, 20, "if the party from whom discovery of any kind or inspection is sought objects to the same, or any part thereof, the Court or a Judge may, if satisfied that the right to the discovery or inspection sought depends on the determination of any issue or question in dispute in the cause or matter, or that for any other reason it is desirable that any issue or question in dispute in the cause or matter should be determined before deciding upon the right to the discovery or inspection, order that such issue or question be determined first, and reserve the question as to the discovery or inspection." For form of application, see D. C. F. 958.

Objections to answering any one or more interrogatories on the ground that "the matters inquired into are not sufficiently material at that stage" are now taken by the affidavit in answer: see r. 6.

Upon the principle that no discovery is necessary in respect of matters admitted, the Deft under the old practice could resist discovery by demurrer or plea, whereby the allegations in the Plt's bill were wholly or partially admitted.

The cases as to the grounds of resisting discovery by demurrer are collected, Seton, 4th edition, pp. 157, 158. The most important of these grounds, with reference to the new practice, under O. xxv, was where the Plt's case, being for relief, failed to show on the face of it a title to the relief sought, in which case it was demurrable, and a demurrer to relief was a bar to discovery: see Evan v. Portreeve, &c. of Avon, 29 Beav. 152; 6 Jur. N. S. 1361; 9 W. R. 84; 30 L. J. Ch. 165.

This ground of objection will now be raised under O. xxv, 4, by application to strike out the statement of claim as disclosing "no reasonable cause of action or answer": v. sup. p. 36, Chap. V., "PLEADINGS."

Discovery could also be resisted by demurrer on grounds peculiar to the demurring Deft, such as that he had no interest in, or was not a party to, the suit or action, and the evidence required from him could have been obtained by making him a witness: Plummer v. May, 1 Ves. 426; Fenton v. Hughes, 7 Ves. 290; Irving v. Thompson, 9 Sim. 17; Kerr v. Rew, 5 My. & C. 154. Thus a corp. might demur if the evidence required could be obtained from their officer: Saunders v. S., 3 Drew. 387.

Officers and agents of corporate bodies were sometimes made parties for discovery: Dummer v. Corp. of Chippenham, 14 Ves. 246; but now that discovery can be obtained from any member or officer of such bodies under O. xxxi, 5, sup. p. 66, such persons can no longer be necessary parties; and to make solrs or others parties for payment of costs or discovery is objectionable and "vexatious" within the meaning of O. xxv, 4: Burstall v. Beyfus, 26 Ch. D. 35, C. A.; Barnes v. Addy, 9 Ch. 244; and see Elder v. Carter, 25 Q. B. D. 194, 198, C. A.

Now that, by virtue of the Jud. Act, 1873, s. 24 (2), Courts of Equity and Common Law have concurrent jurisdiction, the defence of purchase for valuable consideration is no longer available as a bar to discovery in an action to recover land: Ind v. Emmerson, 12 App. Ca. 300.

The Court is reluctant, before the right to relief is established, to enforce discovery which may be injurious to the Deft, and will only be useful to the Plt if he succeeds in establishing his right to relief: Fennessy v. Clark, 37 Ch. D. 186, C. A.; Heugh v. Garrett, 44 L. J. Ch. 305; and see Leitch v. Abbott, 31 Ch. D. 374, C. A.; and Parker v. Wells, 18 Ch. D. 477, C. A., and observations of Sir G. Jessel in that case.

Where a bill was filed to establish Plt's right to land, as heir-at-law of an intestate, and the Defts pleaded a denial of Plt's heirship, in bar of all the relief and all the discovery, except as to whether the Plt was lineally descended from the intestate's grandfather, the Court protected certain documents which the Defts objected to produce, on the ground that they did not relate to anything to be tried at the hearing, "but, as we are advised and say, consist exclusively of documents which the Plt will be entitled to the production of by way of consequential relief," if he should succeed: Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686.

Where Deft denied an alleged trust, he was not obliged to go into matters of account, disclosure of which would not help the Plt to obtain a judgment or an immediate order for payment, but would involve a long examination of books: Parker v. Wells, 18 Ch. D. 477, C. A.

Where Plt's right to a particular account was denied, but the Deft made admissions sufficient for all purposes up to and including the decree, the Deft was not bound to give any further details respecting the account: Lockett v. L., 4 Ch. 340; De la Rue v. Dickinson, 3 K. & J. 388. And a Deft was not required to answer as to items of a settled account which Plt did not seek to set aside: Wier v. Tucker, 14 Eq. 25. But a Deft in a patent action cannot, by denying the validity of the patent, avoid giving discovery as to his own process until the validity has been established: Benno Jaffe, &c. Fabrik v. Richardson, 62 L. J. Ch. 710; 68 L. T. 404; 41 W. R. 534. Where the issue was agency, discovery of entries, which, unless the agency was established, were mere matters of private concern, was refused: Re Leigh, Rowcliffe v. L., 6 Ch. D. 256, C. A.; Verminck v. Edwards, 29 W. R. 189;

Schreiber v. Heymann, 63 L. J. Q. B. 749 (where discovery as to damages was refused, liability being disputed).

A partner could not be made to set out partnership accounts in his answer: Lockett v. L., 4 Ch. 336; and see Wier v. Tucker, 14 Eq. 25; Lyon v. Tweddell, 13 Ch. D. 375; nor a Plt to set out correspondence between him and a third person, an order to inspect which could be obtained: Hoffmann v. Postill, 4 Ch. 673.

But an exor was required to set out his accounts though he denied the Plt's right of suit as a creditor, but not to set them out in detail: Thompson v. Dunn, 5 Ch. 573; 18 W. R. 334, 854; Cull v. Inglis, 37 L. J. Ch. 385; 16 W. R. 477; but see Kettlewell v. Barstow, 7 Ch. 686.

An exor as a general rule is under an obligation to set out the accounts of his testator's estate, and will seldom be protected from discovery of his accounts: Thompson v. Dunn, 5 Ch. 573; 18 W. R. 334, 854; St. George v. St. G., 19 L. R. Ir. 225; and this obligation has not been affected by the Jud. Act: Re Sutcliffe, Alison v. A., 50 L. J. Ch. 574; 44 L. T. 547; 29 W. R. 732; but an exor will be protected from discovery of his accounts in a suit by legatees when he admits assets: Forbes v. Tanner, 11 W. R. 414; 9 Jur. N. S. 455; and see Pullen v. Smith, 5 Ves. 20.

A Deft in a suit for waste was bound to answer as to the number and value, &c. of trees cut down, though he claimed the right to cut them down: Newry v. Kilmorey, 19 W. R. 271.

In Adams v. Fisher, 3 My. & C. 526, where an exor sued the Deft as solr to the estate, and prayed an account, and the Deft by his answer denied that he was such solr, Lord Cottenham refused production of documents, admitted to be in his possession, relating to the estate: and see De la Rue v. Dickinson, 3 K. & J. 388. But Adams v. Fisher has been much questioned: see contra, Clegg v. Edmondson, 22 Beav. 125; S. C. compromised, 3 Jur. N. S. 299, L. JJ.; Great Luxembourg Rail. Co. v. Magnay, 23 Beav. 646, aff. L. JJ.; Reade v. Woodroffe, 24 Beav. 421; and Lord Lyndhurst's remarks on Adams v. Fisher in Lancaster v. Evors, 1 Ph. 349; and Lord Selborne's in Elmer v. Creasy, 9 Ch. 71; Hawkins v. Carr, L. R. 1 Q. B. 89; Robson v. Flight, 33 Beav. 268; Hills v. Wates, L. R. 9 C. P. 688.

And in an action for infringement of trade mark, after an order for trial of questions of fact, discovery as to sales by Deft was not granted until the Plt made his election whether to claim damages or an account of profits: Fennessy v. Clark, 37 Ch. D. 184, C. A.; and see Marriott v. Chamberlain, 17 Q. B. D. 154, 162, C. A.; Pape v. Lister, L. R. 6 Q. B. 242; Benbow v. Low, 16 Ch. D. 93, 96, 99, C. A. Discovery to show the amount of damage was not given until the question of liability had been decided, the two questions being severable: Elkin v. Clark, 21 W. R. 447; Schreiber v. Heymann, sup.

As to the discovery to be given in proceedings to remove trade marks from the register, see Re Wills' Trade Marks, (1892) 3 Ch. 201.

As to whether a Deft will be allowed discovery for the purpose of paying a proper sum into Court in discharge of alleged liability, see Frost v. Brook, 23 W. R. 260; 32 L. T. 312; Clarke v. Bennett, 32 W. R. 550.

A liquidator, Plt in an action, will not be permitted to evade an order postponing discovery by availing himself of the process of examination given by the Companies Act, 1862, s. 115: Re North Australian Territory Co., 45 Ch. D. 87, C. A.

PRIVILEGE—(1) COMMUNICATIONS WITH SOLICITOR OR COUNSEL.

As to the meaning of the word "privilege" and that it includes grounds for resistance to discovery generally, and not merely those which are usually and conveniently designated by it, see Ehrmann v. E., (1896) 2 Ch. 826, sup. p. 79.

A general protection from discovery is accorded to communications between client and solr or counsel.

The object of this privilege is to enable litigants to communicate freely and safely with their legal advisers: Nias v. N. & E. Ry., 3 My. & C. 357; Lawrence v. Campbell, 4 Drew. 489; Greenough v. Gaskell, 1 My. & K. 103; Reece v. Trye, 9 Beav. 319; and it ought not to be extended further than is necessary for that object: Glyn v. Caulfield, 3 Mac. & G. 463; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644.

It is therefore confined to communications between the client and his legal adviser, with the view of the client obtaining legal advice as regards the conduct of litigation or the right to property: Wheeler v. Le Marchant, 17 Ch. D. 675, C. A.; but see Lowden v. Blakey, 23 Q. B. D. 332, 334; and does not (except in the distinct and modified form noticed inf. p. 93) extend to facts communicated to the solr by a third party, nor to knowledge acquired by the solr from a third person as well as the client; and it must be clearly stated that the knowledge was obtained by the solr in his character of solr, and from the client: Spenceley v. Schulenburg, 7 East, 357; Desborough v. Rawlins, 3 M. & C. 515; Sawyer v. Birchmore, 3 M. & K. 572; Thomas v. Rawlings, 27 Beav. 140; Lewis v. Pennington, 6 Jur. N. S. 478; 29 L. J. Ch. 670; 8 W. R. 465; Ford v. Tennant, 32 Beav. 162; Marsh v. Keith, 1 Dr. & S. 342; Exp. Campbell, 5 Ch. 703; Page v. Ward, 17 W. R. 435; Re Land Credit Society of Ireland, 15 W. R. 703; but "all things reasonably necessary in the shape of communication to the legal advisers are protected from production or discovery in order that the legal advice may be obtained safely and sufficiently": Jessel, M. R., 17 Ch. D. 682, C. A. Thus, the privilege extends to communications between solr and his town agent, and the client and the town agent: Hughes v. Biddulph, 4 Russ. 190; and to correspondence passing through a third person acting as the medium of communication between the client or solr: Wheeler v. Le Marchant, sup.; Bunbury v. B., 2 Beav. 173; Reid v. Langlois, 1 M. & G. 638; Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644; Steele v. Stewart, 1 Ph. 471; Carpmael v. Powis, ibid. 687; Hooper v. Gumm, 10 W. R. 644; and between the solr and his witnesses: Curling v. Perring, 2 M. & K. 380; Holmes v. Baddeley, 1 Ph. 476; to communications between a Scotchman in Scotland and Scotch solrs in London, who acted as his legal advisers: Lawrence v. Campbell, 4 Drew. 485; 7 W. R. 336; to those between a co.'s officers, agents, engineers, &c. and the solrs of the co.: Wilson v. Northampton, &c. Ry., 14 Eq. 477; and with persons doing the work of the solr, so as to stand in his position: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 26; ex. gr., to the reports of an accountant employed by the solr: Walsham v. Stainton, 2 H. & M. 1.

The privilege may be claimed by the town clerk and solr of a municipal corp., interrogated by the opposite party: Corp. of Salford v. Lever, 24 Q. B. D. 695; unless the corp. have themselves elected to answer by him: Mayor of Swansea v. Quirk, 5 C. P. D. 106; but it does not extend to a person who is not a legal adviser, not acting for him; ex. gr., the "poursuivant" of a herald's college, employed in the conduct and support of a pedigree sought to be enrolled in the college: Slade v. Tucker, 14 Ch. D. 824; or a patent agent, or a solr acting in that capacity: Moseley v. Victoria Co., 55 L. T. 482.

The privilege is that of the client, not of the legal adviser, who is bound to claim it on the client's behalf: Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 649; Procter v. Smiles, 55 L. T. 527; 55 L. J. Q. B. 467; but is equally extensive whether asserted by the solr or the client: semble, Thompson v. Falk, 1 Drew. 26.

But as the privilege depends entirely on the employment of a solr, it cannot be claimed by a person conducting his own case: Kyshe v. Holt, W. N. (88) 128; and see Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 25, C. A.

A party cannot be required to answer as to his information and belief derived exclusively from privileged communications: Lyell v. Kennedy, 9 App. Ca. 81.

The advice or communication in order to be privileged must have been given by the legal adviser professionally and confidentially: see Wheeler v. Le Marchant, 17 Ch. D. 682; Bursill v. Tanner, 16 Q. B. D. 5, C. A.; Gardner v. Irvin, 4 Ex. D. 53, C. A.; O'Shea v. Wood, (1892) P. 286, C. A.; Reg. v. Bullivant, (1900) 1 Q. B. 163, 168, C. A.; S. C. nom. Bullivant v. A. G. for Victoria, (1901) A. C. 196, H. L.; Kennedy v. Lyell, 23 Ch. D. 405, 406; Foakes v. Webb, 28 Ch. D. 287; Reg. v. Cox, 14 Q. B. D. 153 (C. C. R.); and not as a friend: Smith v. Daniell, 18 Eq. 649; though after the dispute arose: Greenlaw v. King, 1 Beav. 137; or mere statements of fact: O'Shea v. Wood, (1892) P. 290, C. A.; but the solrs having, without the client's knowledge, ceased to practise, makes no difference: Devaynes v. Robinson, 20 Beav. 142; Calley v. Richards, 19 Beav. 401. And the principle extends to notes of examination of witnesses under sect. 27 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, by a trustee in bankruptcy, with the view of enabling his solr to advise him as to proceedings with reference to the bankrupt's affairs: Leaoyd v. Halifax Joint Stock Banking Co., (1893) 1 Ch. 686.

A solr had to answer to whom, when and why, he parted with documents of his client formerly in his possession: Banner v. Jackson, 1 D. & S. 472; and could not claim privilege so as to refuse discovery of the residence of a ward of Court: Ramsbotham v. Senior, 8 Eq. 575.

A solr employed to obtain the execution of a deed, and who was one of the witnesses, was not precluded from giving evidence as to what passed at the time of execution: Crawcour v. Salter, 18 Ch. D. 30, C. A.

And in general a solr must state the names of the clients on whose behalf he claims privilege: Bursill v. Tanner, 16 Q. B. D. 1, C. A.; and must disclose facts as to which he himself, if called as a witness, would be obliged to answer; e.g., in an action for specific performance of an agreement, whether interviews and correspondence had not taken place between the solrs of the parties, and between the Deft's solr and a third person in reference to the agreement: Foakes v. Webb, 28 Ch. D. 287.

The privilege does not extend to protect communications between solr and client for effecting a fraud impeached in the action: Mornington v. M., 2 J. & H. 703; Feaver v. Williams, 11 Jur. N. S. 902; 13 L. T. 270; Phillips v. Holmer, 15 W. R. 578; Re Postlethwaite, P. v. Rickman, 35 Ch. D. 725; Russell v. Jackson, 9 Ha. 392; Follett v. Jeffryes, 1 Sim. N. S. 3; and where a sale by trustees to one of themselves was impeached as fraudulent, communications between one of them and his co-trustee acting as his solr were not privileged: Re Postlethwaite, P. v. Rickman, 35 Ch. D. 725; and communications made to a solr by a client for the purpose of being guided in the commission of a crime were not privileged, although the solr was ignorant of the purpose for which his advice was sought: Reg. v. Cox, 14 Q. B. D. 153 (C. C. R.); but see Charlton v. Coombes, 4 Giff. 372; and as to documents shown to contain legal advice or opinions, Sankey v. Alexander, Jr. Rep. 8 Eq. 241. And that a client's address, communicated to his solr by him when applying for advice, is privileged, unless solr and client were jointly engaged in commission of some wrongful act, see Re Arnott, 60 L. T. 109; 37 W. R. 223.

The privilege continues, although the solr, &c. afterwards becomes interested in the matter in dispute: Chant v. Brown, 7 Ha. 79; where in a dispute between cs. q. t., one employed the trustee as his solr, communications between them were not privileged from the other c. q. t.: Tugwell v. Hooper, 10 Beav. 348; and as to the right of a c. q. t. in respect of documents relating to the trust, v. sup. p. 85. The privilege exists, though the solr claiming it be charged with fraud in conducting the client's business: Greenough v. Gaskell, 1 M. & K. 98; but see also Gartside v. Outram, 3 Jur. N. S. 40; 5 W. R. 35; 26 L. J. Ch. 113; or attempting to "evade" a statute: Bullivant v. A. G. for Victoria, (1901) A. C. 196, H. L.; but where fraud is alleged against a Deft, communications as to the subject-matter of the alleged fraud are not privileged, whether the solr is or is not a party to the alleged fraud: Williams v. Quebrada Ry., Ltd., (1895) 2 Ch. 751; the privilege is not lost by the client's death: Bullivant v. A. G. for Victoria, sup., and can in general be claimed by the represves of the client and the solr: Minet v. Morgan, 8 Ch. 361; 21 W. R. 467; Gresley v. Mousley, 2 K. & J. 288; but the privilege that belonged to a testator cannot be claimed by his exors against the beneficiaries under his will: Russell v. Jackson, 9 Ha. 387; nor can it be claimed by a solr in an action against him by the client: Gresley v. Mousley, 2 K. & J. 288; Wynne v. Humberstone, 27 Beav. 421; 32 L. T. 306.

The privilege does not extend to letters, &c. written by Deft's solr to a third party (the Deft's agent) before the dispute arose or could have arisen: Original, &c. Co. v. Moon, 30 L. T. 193, 585; but does generally extend to communications made before the suit began, and even before it was contemplated: Minet v. Morgan, 21 W. R. 467; 8 Ch. 361; and the cases discussed in the judgment of Lord Selborne: Turton v. Barber, 17 Eq. 329; Wilson v. Northampton, &c. Ry., 14 Eq. 477; Macfarlan v. Rolt, 14 Eq. 580; Mostyn v. West Mostyn Co., 34 L. T. 531; and see O'Shea v. Wood, (1891) P. 286, C. A.; (1891) P. 237.

So that documents (e.g., a case for counsel's opinion) are sufficiently protected by the words "relating to the matters stated in the bill": Nias v. N. & E. Ry., 3 My. & C. 355; or "with reference to questions connected with the matters in dispute in this cause": Minet v. Morgan, 8 Ch. 361; but in Paddon v. Winch, 9 Eq. 666, letters were not protected because not "in anticipation of the claim raised by the suit" and communications between co-Defts as to their defence were not protected: Goodall v. Little, 1 Sim. N. S. 155; Betts v. Menzies, 2 J. & H. 602; 26 L. J. Ch. 528; 5 W. R. 767; Glyn v. Caulfield, 3 Mac. & G. 463; secus, where one, a solr, acted as agent for the solr on the record: Hamilton v. Nott, 16 Eq. 112; and see Blenkinsopp v. B., 2 Ph. 607; Carr v. New Quebrada Co., W. N. (73) 208. As to client and solr being both Defts, see Gaskell v. Chambers, 26 Beav. 303.

Copies of documents, though procured by the solr for the purposes of the action, are not privileged, if the originals were not: Chadwick v. Bowman, 16 Q. B. D. 561.

Accounts prepared for the purposes of another action in which the transactions referred to were impeached as being in breach of trust were held privileged; secus, copy of depositions in which accounts were exhibited, and which were entered as read in an order compromising such other action: Goldstone v. Williams, Deacon & Co., (1899) 1 Ch. 47.

A collection of documents publici juris (e.g., entries in public records and registers, and of photographs of tombstones and houses) may be privileged if made for the purposes of the action, and the result of the professional skill of legal advisers: Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1, C. A.

Documents discovered by the Deft after judgment for Plt, and which were prepared for the defence of a previous action, defended at the cost of a predecessor in title of the Plt, remained privileged (but the Deft was not precluded on the ground of privilege from giving secondary evidence of their contents): Calcraft v. Guest, (1898) 1 Q. B. 759, C. A.; and so documents prepared by Plt's solr, and which came into existence for the purpose of private and confidential communications in an action, were held privileged in a different action by the same Plt against a different Deft in reference to the same subject-matter: Pearce v. Foster, 15 Q. B. D. 114, C. A.; and see those cases as to the rule being "once privileged always privileged;" and quære, whether such rule ought not to be limited by the consideration that the privilege is at an end when the purposes of the confidence on which it is grounded are exhausted: and see Bray, 409.

PRIVILEGE—(2) CASES AND OPINIONS OF COUNSEL.

Cases and opinions of counsel as to the matters in question are privileged in the same way as communications between solr and client, whether stated and obtained in contemplation of, or since the commencement of, the action, or not: Wilson v. Northampton, &c. Ry., 14 Eq. 477; Minet v. Morgan, 8 Ch. 361; 21 W. R. 467, and cases there; Bolton v. Corp. of Liverpool, 1 M. & K. 88, is overruled on this point; and see Manser v. Dix, 1 K. & J. 451; 3 W. R. 313; 1 Jur. N. S. 466.

Opinions of counsel and the friendly opinion of an ex-chancellor, privilege for which was claimed as taken "in anticipation of and relation to the litigation," but not as confidential communications, had to be produced: Smith v. Daniell, 18 Eq. 649; and see Anderson v. Bank of Brit. Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644.

The privilege has been extended to cases and opinions prepared and obtained with reference to prior suits between the same parties, and to suits between the Deft and other parties than the Plt, on the same matter: Combe v. Corp. of London, 1 Y. & C. C. 631; Thompson v. Falk, 1 Drew. 21. A fortiori, when the question in dispute is the same in the former as in the existing action: Bullock v. Corrie, 3 Q. B. D. 356; and see Pearce v. Foster, 15 Q. B. D. 114, C. A.; Holmes v. Baddeley, 1 Ph. 476. So also where the litigation had taken a different form from that contemplated: Lafone v. Falkland Isl. Co., 27 L. J. Ch. 25. And a copy of a case and opinion, lent to a Deft by a person who was litigating the same point with the Plt, was protected: Enthoven v. Cobb, 2 D. M. & G. 632.

The privilege is not necessarily lost by giving a copy of, or extract from, the opinion to the solr on the other side: Carey v. Cuthbert, Ir. Rep. 6 Eq. 599.

Cases, &c., in which Plt and Deft have a joint interest must be produced: ex. gr., an opinion which had been taken by the predecessor in title of them both: A. G. v. Berkeley, 2 J. & W. 291; and see Reynell v. Sprye, 10 Beav. 51. Privilege cannot in general be claimed as against cs. q. t. of the client, who are entitled to the production of documents held by their trustees in that character: Re Cowin, C. v. Gravett, 33 Ch. D. 179; Lewin, 1189; ex. gr., cases and opinions submitted and taken by the trustees for their guidance as such, for the cs. q. t. will have to pay the expense of them: Wynne v. Humberstone, 27 Beav. 421; Talbot v. Marshfield, 2 Dr. & Sm. 549; Re Postlethwaite, P. v. Rickman, 35 Ch. D. 722. Cases and opinions so taken must be produced in a hostile action against the trustees by the cs. q. t.: Devaynes v. Robinson, 20 Beav. 42; except those taken in contemplation of the action: Brown v. Oakshott, 12 Beav. 252; Bacon v. B., 34 L. T. 349; and as to exors and legatees, see Russell v. Jackson, 9 Ha. 387; Bowen v. Pearson, 9 Jur. N. S. 789; 11 W. R. 811; 8 L. T. 495. But cases and opinions taken for the purposes of the trustees' defence in litigation against them by their cs. q. t. are protected: Talbot v. Marshfield, sup.; Wynne v. Humberstone, sup.; Thomas v. Sec. of State for India, 18 W. R. 312; but evidence to show that opinions were taken for the trust, and had been printed and published, was not admitted: Underwood v. Same, 35 L. J. Ch. 545; 16 W. R. 752; 18 L. T. 351. Exors who had used part of the estate in their business had to produce the books: Vyse v. Foster, 13 Eq. 602. But a mere claimant to the trust estate cannot call for them: Wynne v. Humberstone, 27 Beav. 421; 32 L. T. 306; Newland v. Steer, 11 Jur. N. S. 596; 13 L. T. 111; 13 W. R. 1014; but see Cull v. Inglis, 16 W. R. 477; and Re Pine, M. R. in Cham., 18 Nov. 1863, Dan. 1588 et seq., where an order was made on a claimant coming in under a decree to produce documents, and see Groves v. G., Kay, xix.

Letters between trustees, and between trustees and their solrs relating to the trust before action brought, were not privileged against the beneficiaries: Re Mason, M. v. Cattley, 22 Ch. D. 609; and the solr of trustees of a settlement could not refuse, on the ground of professional privilege, to produce the settlement to a judgment creditor of a c. q. t.: Bursill v. Tanner, 16 Q. B. D. 1, C. A.; and a trustee cannot claim privilege for communications with his co-trustee employed as his solr: Re Postlethwaite, P. v. Rickman, 35 Ch. D. 722; and see Tugwell v. Hooper, 10 Beav. 348.

On similar principles, shareholders, in an action against the co., were entitled to discovery of professional communications between the co. and its legal advisers paid for out of the co.'s funds: Gouraud v. Edison Co., 57 L. J. Ch. 498; W. N. (88) 94; 37 W. R. 265, C. A.; and as to the right of a ratepayer to see cases and opinions taken by the corp., see Corp. of Bristol v. Cox, 26 Ch. D. 683.

Trustees are entitled to discovery as to any dealings with the trust property, so as to know who are their cs. q. t.: Hurst v. H., 9 Ch. 762. And letters from a joint solr of two persons (e.g., husband and wife) must be produced in a subsequent suit between them: Warde v. W., 3 Mac. & G. 365; see also Ford v. De Pontes, 7 W. R. 299; 5 Jur. N. S. 993; Tugwell v. Hooper, 10 Beav. 348, et sup.; Gresley v. Mousley, 2 K. & J. 288, sup. p. 90. A case for and opinion of a Dutch counsel were privileged: Bunbury v. B., 2 Beav. 177.

Indorsements on counsel's brief in the Probate Court, but not his instructions, were ordered to be produced, and shorthand notes of the proceedings: Nicholl v. Jones, 2 H. & M. 595; Walsham v. Stainton, Id. 1; and that shorthand notes of proceedings, though taken in anticipation of other proceedings, are not privileged, see Rawstone v. Corp. of Preston, 30 Ch. D. 110; Re Worswick, Robson v. Worswick, 38 Ch. D. 370; distinguishing Nordon v. Defries, 8 Q. B. D. 508, contra.

A draft settled by counsel of an advertisement of the result of successful proceedings in a trade-mark action is privileged: Lowden v. Blakey, 23 Q. B. D. 332.

PRIVILEGE—(3) COMMUNICATIONS WITH AGENTS, &C.

Information obtained through an agent employed by the solr is protected, if confidential, and made in anticipation of, or with a view to, proceedings in the litigation: Reid v. Langlois, 1 Mac. & G. 627; Greenough v. Gaskell, 1 My. & K. 98; Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423, C. A.; but it must have reference to impending or actual litigation: Wheeler v. Le Marchant, 17 Ch. D. 675, C. A.; Chart. Bank of India v. Rich, 4 B. & S. 73; M'Corquodale v. Bell, 1 C. P. D. 471; and see Steele v. Stewart, 1 Ph. 471; and the extension of the privilege to any communications with a mere agent, made with a view to litigation (see Ross v. Gibbs, 8 Eq. 522), has been distinctly disapproved: Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644.

The privilege extends to all information sent at the instance of the solr by an agent employed by him, or by the client on the recommendation of the solr: Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423, 427, C. A.; and if a document comes into existence for the purpose of being communicated to the legal adviser with the object of obtaining his advice, or of enabling him to prosecute or defend an action, it is privileged, as being something done for the purpose of serving as a communication between adviser and client: Southwark, &c. Co. v. Quick, 3 Q. B. D. 315, 322, C. A., where information obtained by the client suo motu, for the purpose of being submitted to his solr with a view to future litigation, was protected; and see Collins v. London General Omnibus Co., 63 L. J. Q. B. 428. And, as to protection of that "which comes into existence merely as the materials of the brief," see Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 644, 656, C. A.

A medical report to an insurance co., on which the insurance was founded, had to be produced in an action for the money assured: Mahoney v. Widows' L. A. Fund, L. R. 6 C. P. 252. A letter written to the English manager of the Defts by their manager abroad containing information as to threatened litigation, and intended for laying before their solrs, but not made as a "confidential communication," was not privileged: Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, 2 Ch. D. 654; 24 W. R. 724; and see English v. Tottie, 1 Q. B. D. 141. And production was ordered of letters between the Defts' solrs and their surveyor, and between the surveyor and the solrs, except such, if any, as the Defts should state by affidavit to have been prepared confidentially after the dispute had arisen, and for the purpose of obtaining information, evidence, or legal advice with reference to litigation existing or contemplated between the parties: Wheeler v. Le Marchant, 17 Ch. D. 675, C. A.

In Lafone v. Falkland Isl. Co., 4 K. & J. 34; 6 W. R. 4; 27 L. J. Ch. 25, the privilege was extended to a mere agent collecting evidence; and as to letters between Plt himself (who was not then employing a solr) and third persons, see Storey v. Lennox, 1 My. & C. 525; and see Richards v. Gellatly, L. R. 7 C. P. 127; Parr v. L. C. & D. Ry., 24 L. T. 558; M'Corquodale v. Bell, 1 C. P. D. 471; English v. Tottie, 1 Q. B. D. 141.

Correspondence between vendor and purchaser, referring to an expected claim by B., was to be produced in a suit by B. against the purchaser: Paddon v. Winch, 9 Eq. 666. An examination in bankruptcy taken in contemplation of the suit was privileged: Fenton v. Queens, &c. Co., 38 L. J. Ch. 263; 17 W. R. 585.

The rules in law and equity were not, it seems, uniform: see Wolley v. N. L. Ry., L. R. 4 C. P. 602; Chartered Bank v. Rich, 4 B. & S. 73; but any such difference has been now abolished, and the rules of equity prevail: Anderson v. Bank of British Columbia, sup.

As to communications being privileged as confidential between master and servant or workman, &c., and restraining disclosure, see inf. pp. 684 et seq., Chap. XXXI., "INJUNCTIONS"; Kerr, Inj., Chap. 11; and that fraud of the employer supersedes the private obligation of secrecy, Gartside v. Outram, 5 W. R. 35; 3 Jur. N. S. 39; and as to private letters, Hopkinson v. L. Burghley, 1 Ch. 447; Howard v. Gunn, 32 Beav. 462; and see Form 23, sup. p. 58; Allen v. Royden, 42 L. J. C. P. 206; Crowther v. Appleby, L. R. 9 C. P. 23. Notes prepared by the manager of a co. for an arbitration which never took place, were privileged in a suit against a co.: Carr v. New Quebrada Co., W. N. (73) 208.

Arbitrators, whose fees have not been paid, are privileged from disclosing anything tending to show the contents of the award: Ponsford v. Swaine, 1 J. & H. 433. Secus, where fraud and collusion were alleged and denied in general terms by the arbitrator: Padley v. Lincoln Water Co., 2 M. & G. 68.

Husband and wife are privileged from answering as to access before marriage, although the question is as to the parentage of a child born three months after their marriage: Anon., 22 Beav. 481; 23 Beav. 273.

As to making a party produce his private memoranda, see Mattock v. Heath, W. N. (75) 201.

The right to discovery may be lost by contract: Turney v. Bayley, 4 D. J. & S. 332; 33 L. J. Ch. 499; overruling S. C., 34 Beav. 105.

As to discovery and production in patent cases, v. inf., pp. 656, 657.

A communication made to the wrong person by a bonâ fide mistake was held privileged: Tompson v. Dashwood, 11 Q. B. D. 43.

PRIVILEGE—(4) PUBLIC POLICY.

On grounds of public policy, documents relating to affairs of state and the public service have been held privileged from discovery. Thus, in a cause of damage for a collision by a vessel belonging to the R. N., though production of the log-book was ordered, reports to the Admiralty were held privileged: The Bellerophon, 44 L. J. (Adm.) 5; 23 W. R. 248; 31 L. T. 756; and see Wright v. Mills, 62 L. T. 558; Hennessy v. Wright, inf., and cases there considered; and Fitzgibbon v. Greer, Ir. Rep. 9 C. L. 294; and Wadeer v. E. I. Co., 8 D. M. & G. 186; 2 Jur. N. S. 407, where exemption was claimed by the E. I. Co., and allowed, for documents of a political character.

The claim for privilege should be supported by the oath of the person at the head of the particular department of the public service with which the communication has taken place: Beatson v. Skene, 5 H. & N. 583; Hennessy v. Wright, 57 L. J. Q. B. 530; 59 L. T. 795; 36 W. R. 878; Kain v. Farrer, 37 L. T. 469; but it is not in every case essential that the principal officer of a government department should himself attend in Court to take the objection. In many cases the Court will be satisfied with the affidavit of a responsible officer: In Re Joseph Hargreaves, Ltd., (1900) 1 Ch. 347, C. A. (in which case the Judge, having made, under s. 115 of the Companies Act, 1862, an order that the surveyor of taxes should attend for examination and produce some balance-sheets of the co. which had been delivered to him for the purpose of assessment of income tax, the C. A., reversing Wright, J., declined to interfere with the discretion of the Judge).

PRIVILEGE—(5) CRIMINATING QUESTIONS.

Discovery need not be given if it would form evidence or links in a chain of evidence of facts that would expose the Deft—

(a) To criminal proceedings: Thorpe v. Macaulay, 5 Mad. 218; Macaulay v. Shackell, 1 Bli. N. S. 96; Parkhurst v. Lowten, 2 Swa. 202; Claridge v. Hoare, 14 Ves. 59. It is for the Court to decide if the answer would form a link in criminatory evidence: Sidebottom v. Adkins, 3 Jur. N. S. 631; 15 W. R. 743. Public or private trustees cannot refuse to answer as to corrupt execution of the trust: Dummer v. Corp. of Chippenham, 14 Ves. 245; and see A. G. v. Brown, 1 Swa. 265; M'Loughlin v. Dwyer, Ir. Rep. 9 C. P. 170. A wife may decline to answer on the ground that her answers might subject her husband to a charge of felony: Cartwright v. Green, 8 Ves. 405. A corporation cannot decline answering as to matters which could not form the subject of an indictment, or only of a prosecution in Sicily: K. of Two Sicilies v. Willcox, 1 Sim. N. S. 301, 334. And that a party cannot refuse to answer or to produce documents after having disclosed enough for a conviction, see S. C., and Ewing v. Osbaldiston, 6 Sim. 608. The privilege cannot be claimed after a pardon under the great seal for the supposed crime: R. v. Boyes, 7 Jur. N. S. 1158; 1 B. & S. 311.

A witness will not be excused from answering upon a mere statement of his belief that his answer may tend to criminate him. The Court must be satisfied that there is reasonable ground for him to apprehend danger, but where this is apparent, great latitude must be allowed: Re Reynolds, 20 Ch. D. 294, C. A.; and see Exp. Gilbert, In re Genese, W. N. (86) 134; Adams v. Lloyd, 3 H. & N. 351; 4 Jur. N. S. 590; 6 W. R. 752; M'Fadden

v. Mayor of Liverpool, L. R. 3 Ex. 279; Bradley v. Clayton, 26 L. R. Ir. 405; Kelly v. Colhoun (1899), 2 I. R. 199.

The party claiming protection for a document on this ground must pledge his oath that, to the best of his belief, its production would tend to criminate him: Webb v. East, 5 Ex. D. 108, C. A.; Kelly v. Colhoun, (1899) 2 I. R. 199; but in an action of libel Defts were not bound to swear that a letter on which the action was founded would subject them to a criminal prosecution in order to avoid production, because the letter, if material at all to Plt's case, must have contained criminating matter: Hill v. Campbell, L. R. 10 C. P. 222; see Greenfield v. Reay, L. R. 10 Q. B. 217; and see Tayl. Ev. pp. 964, 1182; and in answer to interrogatories in an action for libel, it was sufficient for the Deft, who denied publication, to object upon the ground that his answer might tend to criminate him, without saying that he believed it would do so: Lamb v. Munster, 10 Q. B. D. 110.

A party examined under 15 & 16 V. c. 80, s. 31 (for which O. LV, 16, is now substituted), could refuse to answer questions likely to prejudice him in a pending action: Venables v. Schweitzer, 16 Eq. 76.

(b) To ecclesiastical censures; as for an incestuous marriage: Brownsword v. Edwards, 2 Ves. 243; fornication: Finch v. F., Ib. 491; or simony: Parkhurst v. Lowten, 2 Swa. 214, 5. As to questions tending to degrade the witness, see Taylor, p. 1182.

(c) To penalties in actions by common informers: Martin v. Treacher, 16 Q. B. D. 507, C. A.; under the Metropolis Man. Act, 1855, s. 54; Hunnings v. Williamson, 10 Q. B. D. 459; in action for treble damages under 2 Will. & M., sess. 1, c. 5, s. 4, for pound-breach and rescue of chattels distrained for non-payment of tithe rent-charge: Jones v. J., 22 Q. B. D. 425; in action, under 11 Geo. 2, c. 19, for double the value of goods fraudulently removed by a tenant: Hobbs v. Hudson, 25 Q. B. D. 232, C. A.; under the Patents, &c. Act, 1883, s. 58, for infringement of copyright in a design: Saunders v. Wiel, (1892) 2 Q. B. 18, 321; secus, where the penalty is imposed merely by way of compensation, as under the Copyright Act (3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 15, s. 2): Adams v. Batley; Cole v. Francis, 18 Q. B. D. 625, C. A.; or where the proceedings are to obtain an order, disobedience to which involves a penalty, as ex. gr., under the Rivers Pollution Prevention Act, 1876 (39 & 40 V. c. 75), ss. 3, 10, for it must not be assumed that the order will be disobeyed: Derby Corp. v. Derbyshire County Council, (1897) A. C. 550, H. L. affirming, C. A., (1896) 2 Q. B. 297; and the rule does not apply to questions tending to expose the party to penalties under 13 Eliz. c. 5: May, Vol. Conv. 540, 541; Bunn v. B., 4 D. J. & S. 316; but did, under the late Stock Jobbing Act, 7 Geo. 2, c. 8, repealed by 23 & 24 V. c. 28: Short v. Mercier, 3 M. & G. 205; S. C., 2 D. & S. 635 (but this Act did not apply to railway shares: Williams v. Trye, 18 Beav. 366); and under a private Act, for acting as a broker without licence: Robinson v. Kitchen, 8 D. M. & G. 88; Green v. Weaver, 1 Sim. 404. As to penalties under the Solicitors Act, 6 & 7 V. c. 73, see Scott v. Miller, Joh. 220, 328; and see Aston's Case, 5 Jur. N. S. 615, 779; 4 D. & J. 320; and penalties under the Foreign Enlistment Act: The Mary, L. R. 2 A. & E. 319.

The witness must state his belief that the penalty would be incurred: Scott v. Miller, sup.

(d) To forfeiture of estate; as for simony: Parkhurst v. Lowten, 2 Swa. 194; 1 Mer. 391; 3 Mad. 121; or for infringing the Pluralities Act: Boteler v. Allington, 3 Atk. 457; or for assigning a lease without licence; or for breaches of covenants in leases: Mexborough (Earl) v. Whitwood Urban District Council, (1897) 2 Q. B. 111, C. A. (approving Pye v. Butterfield, 5 B. & S. 829, and overruling Seaward v. Dennington, 44 W. R. 696); Ld. Uxbridge v. Staveland, 1 Vez. 56; May v. Hawkins, 3 W. R. 550; 1 Jur. N. S. 600, Exch.; or by a marriage without consent: Chancey v. Fenhoulet, 2 Vez. 265; 2 Atk. 392; or for waste: Ib.; Boteler v. Allington, 3 Atk. 453; or (of marital rights) by a false oath of the consent of the bride's father: A. G. v. Lucas, 2 Ha. 566; or of estate by being an alien: Finch v. F., 2 Vez. 491; and as to forfeiture of an estate by an attempt to alienate, see Hambrook v. Smith, 17 Sim. 209; 21 L. J. Ch. 320; 16 Jur. 144; and see Hurst v. H., 9 Ch. 762; or by having acted as agent for the Confederate States of America: U. S. v. Macrae, 3 Ch. 79. But if the penalty would go to the Plt, and he waive it (L. Uxbridge v. Staveland, sup.), or if the time within which the penalty must be sued for has elapsed (Corp. Trin. Ho. v. Burge, 2 Sim. 411), discovery must be given.

Exposure to a civil suit alone is no bar to discovery: 46 Geo. 3, c. 37.

Leave to administer interrogatories ought not to be refused on the ground that it is plain they must criminate; the objection must be taken in the affidavit in answer: Harvey v. Lovekin, 10 P. D. 122, C. A.; Allhusen v. Labouchere, 3 Q. B. D. 654; Fisher v. Owen, 8 Ch. D. 645, C. A.

And where the objection is to producing a document, it should be taken in the affidavit of documents: Webb v. East, 5 Ex. D. 108, C. A.; Spokes v. Grosvenor Hotel Co., (1897) 2 Q. B. 124, C. A.

PROCESS IN DEFAULT OF DISCOVERY.

By O. XXXI, 21, "if any party fails to comply with any order to answer interrogatories, or for discovery or for inspection of documents, he shall be liable to attachment. He shall also, if a Plt. be liable to have his action dismissed for want of prosecution, and, if a Deft, to have his defence, if any, struck out, and to be placed in the same position as if he had not defended, and the party interrogating may apply to the Court or a Judge for an order to that effect, and an order may be made accordingly." For forms of application, see D. C. F. 962.

For form of order dismissing action for want of prosecution, see inf., Chap XI.

By r. 22, "service of an order for interrogatories or discovery or inspection made against any party on his solr, shall be sufficient service to found an application for an attachment for disobedience to the order. But the party against whom the application for an attachment is made may show in answer to the application that he has had no notice or knowledge of the order."

A solr, upon whom an order for interrogatories or discovery or inspection is served, is liable to attachment if he neglect, without reasonable excuse, to give notice thereof to his client: r. 23.

By O. XLIV, 2, no writ of attachment is to be issued without leave of the Court, to be applied for on notice to the party against whom the attachment is to be issued.

It has been held that the provisions for attachment do not apply to orders for discovery of names of partners under O. XLVIII, 1, sup. p. 63; nor to orders for accounts, under O. xv, 1: Pike v. Keene, 24 W. R. 322; 35 L. T. 341.

Though service on the solr is sufficient, yet O. XLI, 5, requiring indorsement on the copy served showing consequences of disobedience, applies, and attachment could not issue in the absence of such indorsement: Hampden v. Wallis, 26 Ch. D. 746, C. A.

Where the order for attachment was discharged on an insufficient affidavit, the order of discharge was discharged, so as to revive the original order, but attachment was not to issue for a fortnight: Price v. P., 48 L. J. Ch. 215.

Where Plt was shown at Deft's office a letter book, inspection of which was refused till counsel's opinion had been taken, and Deft subsequently asserted he had lost the book, an attachment was ordered: Mornington v. Keene, 4 W. R. 793.

Where the order is complied with after the issue of the writ of attachment, the enforcement of the writ ought to be stayed: Gay v. Hancock, 56 L. T. 726.

For cases in which the penalty by attachment has been enforced, see Thomas v. Palin, 21 Ch. D. 360; Litchfield v. Jones, 25 Ch. D. 64; Joy v. Hadley, 22 Ch. D. 571; Mellor v. Thompson, W. N. (83) 128.

Where the defence is struck out, the Deft is in default, and O. XXVII applies: Fisher v. Hughes, 25 W. R. 528.

The penalty of dismissal will not be enforced, except as a last resort: see W. N. (75) 202, 204; Hartley v. Owen, 34 L. T. 752; Twycross v. Grant, W. N. (75) 201, 229; Kennedy v. Lyell, W. N. (82) 137; Dauvillier v. Myers, W. N. (83) 58.

For the enforcement of the penalty against a Deft whose disobedience was wilful, see Haigh v. H., 31 Ch. D. 478.

An order, made in presence of Deft's solr, that if Deft did not file answers to interrogatories within three days judgment might be signed against him, need not be served upon him: Farden v. Richter, 23 Q. B. D. 124; and see O. LII, 14.

As to waiver of contempt by acceptance of answer after time, see Roberts v. Albert Bridge Co., 8 Ch. 753; and for the practice on attachment for default in answering in the Lancaster Court of C. P., see Coston v. Blackburn, L. R. 8 Q. B. 54.

USING DISCOVERY AT THE TRIAL.

By O. XXXI, 24, "any party may, at the trial of a cause, matter, or issue, use in evidence any one or more of the answers, or any part of an answer of the opposite party to interrogatories without putting in the others, or the whole of such answer: Provided always, that in such case the Judge may look at the whole of the answers, and if he shall be of opinion that any others of them are so connected with those put in that the last-mentioned answers ought not to be used without them, he may direct them to be put in."

As to the effect of this rule, see Lyell v. Kennedy, 27 Ch. D. 1, 15, 29, C. A.

Portions of the answer to a bill for discovery could not be read upon the trial at law without reading the whole, and documents admitted in the answer were part of it, and could not be read without reading the whole answer, unless by special order of the Court of Chancery that they should be produced at the trial: Brown v. Thornton, 1 M. & C. 243; Aston v. L. Exeter, 6 Ves. 288; Hylton v. Morgan, ib. 293. As to reading parts of an answer and withdrawing parts already read, see Freeman v. Tatham, 5 Ha. 329; and see O. XXXVII, 21—25.

As to reading a dismissed co-Deft's answer on appeal from the order dismissing him, see Nesbitt v. Berridge, 4 D. J. & S. 45.

INSPECTION OF PROPERTY.

An order for the inspection of any property the subject of the action may be made by the Court or a Judge, and authority given to enter any land or building to take samples and make observations or experiments: O. L, 3. The application for such order may be made by any party to the action: r. 6; or the Judge himself may inspect: r. 4; but inspection will not be ordered of articles not in the possession, power, or custody of the Defts, their servants or agents: Garrard v. Edge, 37 W. R. 501; 58 L. J. Ch. 397; 60 L. T. 557.

And inspection cannot be granted to one Deft of property belonging to another Deft when there is no right in question between them: Shaw v. Smith, 18 Q. B. D. 193, C. A.

The Court has power, under r. 3, to make an interlocutory order before trial, giving Plt liberty to enter upon Deft's land and make excavations: Lumb v. Beaumont, 27 Ch. D. 356.

And for cases as to inspection, see Whaley v. Brancker, 12 W. R. 570, 595; 10 Jur. N. S. 535; 10 L. T. 155; Cooper v. Ince Hall Co., W. N. (76) 24 (trespass); Barlow v. Bailey, W. N. (70) 136; Flower v. Lloyd, W. N. (76) 169, 230 (nuisance); Chaplin v. Puttick, (1898) 2 Q. B. 160, C. A. (stamp album sent abroad).

In Mitchell v. Darley Colliery Co., 10 Q. B. D. 457, inspection by Plt was allowed on his paying costs in any event.

DELIVERY OF DOCUMENTS OUT OF COURT.

1. To a Party or Purchaser.

LET (such of) the several documents deposited by &c., in the Central Office, pursuant to the order dated &c. (as relate to &c., or are mentioned in the schedule hereto), be delivered out to the Plt [or Deft] A. [or to

B. the purchaser of the (hereditaments comprised in Lot —, part of the) real estates of O., the testator in the pleadings named].

For forms of application, see D. C. F. 666, 980.

2. To a Party's Solr, to be produced in Evidence.

(By consent) Let the documents deposited by the Defts in the Central Office, pursuant &c., be delivered out to Mr. —, the Defts' solr, for the purpose of producing the same before &c., on examination of witnesses before examiner, the said Mr. — undertaking to re-deposit the same within a week after the examination is closed.—Plt to be at liberty to inspect the documents meanwhile.—See Clarke v. Brown, V.-C. S. in Chambers, 13 Dec. 1854, A. 152.

NOTES.

The Court refused to allow original documents in the custody of the Court to be taken abroad for the examination of witnesses, no special case being made: Lafone v. Falkland Isl. Co., 4 K. & J. 40; Re Stephens, L. R. 9 C. P. 187.

As to depositing court rolls of a manor, and that the possession of the Court is that of the depositor, see Carew v. Davis, 21 Beav. 213.

When deeds have been left in Court under an order for production for the purpose of discovery, on that purpose being satisfied the party who left the deeds has a right to have them back: Dunn v. D., 3 Drew. 17; affd., 7 D. M. & G. 25; but not where the order was for deposit, or the rights as to the deeds have been declared: Ibid. Nor in an action to raise portions will the Court, without the consent of the mortgagees, deliver back the deeds to the tenant for life: Jenner v. Morris, 1 Ch. 603.

By O. LXI, 28, "no affidavit or record of the Court shall be taken out of the Central Office without the order of a Judge or Master, and no subpoena for the production of any such document shall be issued." As to the practice under the rule, see Dan. 513; and generally for the practice respecting the delivery out of documents, see "PRACTICE MASTERS' RULES," Dan. 1375; and for forms, see D. C. F. 979 et seq.

For form of summons or notice, see D. C. F. 312.

3. Witness to attend to be Cross-Examined on his Affidavit—
O. xxxviii, 1.

UPON the application &c., It is ordered that A. do attend before the (Judge) at &c. at — o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of being cross-examined on his affidavit in support of the Plt's motion [or petition or summons] or whenever thereafter the said motion shall come on to be heard.

Davies*, V.-C. B., 1 Feb. 1877, A. 359; and see Gilbert v. Smith, V.-C. M., 31 Jan. 1877, A. 174.

5. Order directing the Governor of Holloway Prison to Produce a Witness (in Prison for Contempt).

See D. C. F. 337; Dan. 548; Prison Act, 1898 (61 & 62 V. c. 41), s. 11.

6. Order appointing Special Examiner to take Examination of a Witness—O. XXXVII, 5.

UPON the application &c., It is ordered that S. of &c. be appointed examiner for the purpose of taking the examination of B. of &c. as a witness on behalf of the Deft.

This form is also applicable to an examination de bene esse, in which case those words must be inserted after the word "examination."

For order for the oral examination of witnesses before a district registrar, see Brewster v. Woodall, V.-C. H. at Chambers, 12 Nov. 1877, A. 1912.

7. Order to take Examination of Witness de bene esse before an Examiner of the Court.

UPON the application of the Plt, and upon hearing &c., and upon reading an affidavit of the Plt filed &c. whereby it appears that B. is — years of age, It is ordered that the Plt be at liberty to examine the said B. as a witness in this cause before one of the examiners of the Court de bene esse upon giving to the said B. and to the Deft T. forty-eight hours' notice of the time when such examination is to be taken; And the costs of the said examination are to be included in the costs of this action.—See Peck v. Trower, M. R. at Chambers, 4 Aug. 1877, B. 1450.

For forms of application, see D. C. F. 346, 347.

8. Another Form.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Plts [or upon the application], Let W. B., of —, be examined as a witness in this action before one of the examiners of the Court de bene esse upon giving to the said W. B. and to the Defts — hours' notice of the time when such examination is to be taken.—See Barton v. The North Staffordshire Ry. Co., Kay, J., 7 May, 1887, A. 670.

9. Witness to be examined before one of the Examiners of the Court—
O. XXXVII, 39.

UPON motion [or upon the application of] &c., Let A. be examined before one of the examiners of the Court.

10. To take Evidence de bene esse in an Action to perpetuate Testimony where the Pleadings are not closed.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Plt, and upon reading an affidavit of A. filed &c. of service of notice of this motion on the Deft, Let this action proceed notwithstanding the default of the Deft in not delivering a statement of defence, And let all witnesses in this action be examined de bene esse before one of the examiners of the Court, notwithstanding the pleadings are not closed.—M. of Bute v. James, V.-C. B., 25 June, 1886, A. 893 ; 33 Ch. D. 157.

In this order the V.-C. followed the analogy of Coveney v. Athill, 1 Dickens, 355.

11. Publication of Evidence taken in an Action to perpetuate Testimony.

UPON motion &c., This Court doth order that the depositions of G. H., B. J. &c., taken in the first above-mentioned action of V. v. V. to perpetuate testimony on &c., be published when the evidence in the secondly-mentioned action is closed, but not before the — day of — ; and this order is to be without prejudice to any question as to the admissibility of such depositions in evidence at the hearing of the secondly-mentioned action, and either party in the same action is to be at liberty to apply to have the time for such publication extended ; and the costs of this application are reserved till the hearing of the same action.—See Vane v. V., V.-C. M., 9 March, 1876, B. 470. And see Mogridge v. Hall, Lady Llanover v. Homfray, Phillips v. Lady Llanover, V.-C. H., 13 Ch. D. 380 ; 28 W. R. 487 ; affd. C. A., 19 Ch. D. 224 ; 30 W. R. 557 ; and Brandon's Trusts, M. R., 13 Ch. D. 773.

For form of notice of motion, see D. C. F. 808.

12. Another Form.

UPON motion &c., Let the depositions of &c. taken in this action to perpetuate testimony, and any other deposition taken in this action, and not already published, be published forthwith, but without prejudice to any exception that may be made against reading any of the said depositions as evidence; And let any persons interested be at liberty to take certified copies of such depositions, and to make such use of proceedings, interrogatories and depositions in this action as they may be advised.—Berkeley v. B., Stirling, J., 24 June, 1890, A. 845.

For an order for a commission to the Tribunal Civil de première Instance du Département de la Seine to take evidence of witnesses residing in France, see Imperial Land Co. of Marseilles v. Masterman, L. JJ., 27 May, 1874, A. 1843. The object of this order was to enforce the attendance of hostile witnesses.

For an order in the nature of a mandamus to the Chief Justice and Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal (now "the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal": Wilson v. W., 32 W. R. 282; 9 P. D. 88), to take the cross-examination of witnesses resident in their jurisdiction pursuant to the 13 Geo. III. c. 63, and 1 V. c. 22, see Williamson v. Barbour, M. R. at Chambers, 20 July, 1876, B. 1472.

For an order on motion under the Foreign Tribunals Evidence Act, 1856 (19 & 20 V. c. 113), for the examination upon oath of witnesses resident in England pursuant to rogatory letters issued by the Court of the Third Division of the Judicial Circuit of Lisbon, see Re Duchess of Saldanha, M. R., 5 March, 1879, B. 401.

And for subsequent order that the depositions so taken be filed in the same way as if taken in an action in this Court, and that the applicant be at liberty to take office or certified copies of them for the purpose of using them in the proceedings in Portugal, with liberty to apply to take the depositions off the file and transmit them to the Portuguese Court, if necessary, see S. C., M. R., 9 May, 1879, B. 895.

For an order appointing four examiners to examine witnesses abroad, two alone to act, and providing that the others shall act in the event of the incapacity of either of the two, see London Bank of Mexico v. Hart, V.-C. G., 11 June, 1868, B. 1991; S. C., 6 Eq. 467, where the form of the order is given.

NOTES.

Under the Attendance of Witnesses Act, 1854 (17 & 18 V. c. 34), s. 1, a Judge of any of the Superior Courts of England, Ireland or Scotland may order that a writ of subpoena ad testificandum shall issue in special form to compel the personal attendance at any trial of any witness who is not within the jurisdiction, and the service of any such writ in any part of the United Kingdom shall be as valid as if served within the jurisdiction; and Jud. Act, 1884 (47 & 48 V. c. 61), s. 16, gives power to any Judge of the High Court to make such an order, even when the Court is not sitting.

By O. xxxvii, 1, "in the absence of any agreement in writing between the solrs of all parties, and subject to the rules, the witnesses at the trial of any action or at any assessment of damages shall be examined voir dire and in open Court, but the Court or a Judge may at any time for sufficient reason order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit, or that the affidavit of any witness may be read at the hearing or trial, on such conditions as the Court or Judge may think reasonable, or that any witness whose attendance in Court ought for some sufficient cause to be dispensed with be examined by interrogatories or otherwise before a commissioner or examiner: provided that, where it appears to the Court or Judge that the other party bonâ fide desires the production of a witness for cross-examination, and that such witness can be produced, an order shall not be made authorizing the evidence of such witness to be given by affidavit."

By r. 5, "the Court or a Judge may, in any cause or matter where it shall appear necessary for the purposes of justice, make any order for the examination upon oath before the Court or Judge or any officer of the Court, or any other person, and at any place, of any witness or person, and may empower any party to any such cause or matter to give such deposition in evidence therein on such terms, if any, as the Court or a Judge may direct."

Under r. 1 the Court may, in an admon action, and after the Master has made his certificate, receive, if it think fit, fresh affidavit evidence on further consideration: May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347; and see Re Revill, Leigh v. Rumney, 53 L. T. 542; Re Michael, Dessau v. Lewin, 52 L. T. 609.

By O. XVI, 21, "in all causes or matters to which any infant or person of unsound mind, whether so found by inquisition or not, or person under any other disability, is a party, any consent as to the mode of taking evidence or as to any other procedure, shall, if given with the consent of the Court or a Judge by the next friend, guardian, committee, or other person acting on behalf of the person under disability, have the same force and effect as if such party were under no disability and had given such consent. Provided that no such consent by any committee of a lunatic shall be valid as between him and the lunatic unless given with the sanction of the L. C. or Lords Justices sitting in Lunacy."

Where in an agreement to take evidence by affidavit at the hearing the word "only" was not used, it was not such an agreement under O. XXXVII, 1, as to prevent a witness being examined at the trial: Glossop v. Heston, &c. Local Board, 26 W. R. 433; 47 L. J. Ch. 536.

The consent must be a formal consent in writing: New Westminster Brewery Co. v. Hannuh, 1 Ch. D. 278; but a guardian (Fryer v. Wiseman, 24 W. R. 205), or a guardian ad litem (Knatchbull v. Fowle, 1 Ch. D. 604), may consent on behalf of infants without an order. For form of consent, see D. C. F. 306.

As to the power of the Court to exclude the affidavit evidence altogether, and direct oral examination of the witnesses, see Lovell v. Wallis, 53 L. J. Ch. 494; 46 L. T. 593; and as to the reluctance of the Court to try actions for rectification of deeds except on oral evidence, see Bonhote v. Henderson, (1895) 1 Ch. 742; (1895) 2 Ch. 202, C. A.

Where, after consent given, a party finds that necessary witnesses are reluctant to give evidence, the Court, on his application to be relieved from his consent, will direct the examination of such witnesses vivâ voce, and, at the option of the other party, discharge the agreement, and order all the evidence to be taken vivâ voce at the trial: Warner v. Mosses, 16 Ch. D. 100, C. A.

By O. XXXVIII, 25, "within fourteen days after a consent for taking evidence by affidavit as between the parties has been given, or within such time as the parties may agree upon, or the Court or a Judge may allow, the Plt shall file his affidavits and deliver to the Deft or his solr a list thereof."

By r. 26, "the Deft, within fourteen days after delivery of such list, or within such time as the parties may agree upon, or the Court or a Judge may allow, shall file his affidavits and deliver to the Plt or his solr a list thereof."

By r. 27, "within seven days after the expiration of the said fourteen days, or such other time as aforesaid, the Plt shall file his affidavits in reply, which affidavits shall be confined to matters strictly in reply, and shall deliver to the Deft or his solr a list thereof."

Affidavits not strictly in reply will be disregarded at the trial: Gilbert v. Comedy Opera Co., 16 Ch. D. 594.

By r. 28, "when the evidence is taken by affidavit any party desiring to cross-examine a deponent who has made an affidavit filed on behalf of the opposite party, may serve upon the party by whom such affidavit has been filed a notice in writing, requiring the production of the deponent for cross-examination at the trial, such notice to be served at any time before the expiration of fourteen days next after the end of the time allowed for filing affidavits in reply, or within such time as in any case the Court or a Judge may specially appoint; and unless such deponent is produced accordingly, his affidavit shall not be used as evidence unless by the special leave of the Court or a Judge. The party producing such deponent for cross-examination shall not be entitled to demand the expenses thereof in the first instance from the party requiring such production."

The penalty of having his affidavit rejected does not relieve the deponent from the obligation to attend at his own expense: Re Baker, Connell v. B., 29 Ch. D. 711.

By r. 29, "the party to whom the notice mentioned in r. 28 is given shall be entitled to compel the attendance of the deponent for cross-examination in the same way as he might compel the attendance of a witness to be examined."

A witness cannot refuse, after being sworn, to give evidence until his expenses are paid: Re Working Men's Mutual Society, Ltd., 25 Ch. D. 297, C. A.

A Plt having called the Deft as a witness has no right to cross-examine him except by leave: Price v. Manning, 42 Ch. D. 372, C. A.; overruling Clarke v. Saffery, Ryan & Moo. 126.

It is for the Judge to decide whether a witness is so hostile as to justify his cross-examination by the party calling him: Price v. Manning, sup.; Rice v. Howard, 16 Q. B. D. 681.

By O. xxxvii, 21, "evidence taken subsequently to the hearing or trial is to be taken as nearly as may be in the same manner as evidence taken at, or with a view to, the hearing or trial"; and by O. xxxvii, 22, "the practice with reference to the examination, cross-examination, and re-examination of witnesses at a trial is to extend and be applicable to evidence taken in any cause or matter at any stage." The effect of these rules, read together with O. xxxviii, 28, is that the expense of producing a deponent who has made an affidavit either previously (Mansel v. Clanricarde, 54 L. J. Ch. 982; 53 L. T. 496), or subsequently to (Backhouse v. Alcock, 28 Ch. D. 669), the trial cannot be demanded in the first instance from the party requiring such production.

The notice to produce a witness should state the occasion or place at which the examination is to take place. If the notice is insufficient the penalty of exclusion of the affidavit will not take effect: De Mora v. Concha, 32 Ch. D. 133, C. A.; S. C., H. L., Concha v. C., 11 App. Ca. 541.

It appears doubtful whether r. 28 applies where a witness is out of the jurisdiction: De Mora v. Concha, 32 Ch. D. 133, C. A.; and see same case sub nom. Concha v. C., 11 App. Ca. 541.

Liberty was given to use the affidavits of persons who by death, lunacy, or illness could not be cross-examined, saving just exceptions: Ridley v. R., 34 Beav. 329; Braithwaite v. Kearns, 34 Beav. 202; Davies v. Otty, 35 Beav. 214; Tanswell v. Scurrah, 11 L. T. 761; Lautour v. A. G., 43 L. J. Ch. 313; secus, where the illness and death of a witness were concealed: Evans v. Cook, 22 W. R. 252 (Ir.); or the witness had left the country: Bingley v. Marshall, 6 L. T. 682; and nothing short of absolute necessity justifies the Court in relaxing the rule: Parker v. M'Kenna, 43 L. J. Ch. 802; 30 L. T. 807.

As to demanding the expenses of witnesses on production under the old practice, see Richards v. Goddard, 10 Ch. 288.

A Plt, though entitled to costs generally, had to pay the expenses of witnesses whom he had declined to cross-examine at the hearing, after obtaining leave to do so: Guilfoyle v. Hutchinson, Ir. Rep. 8 Eq. 298.

On the cross-examination, on a petition for winding-up, of the secretary of a co. as to accounts, the Petr was entitled to have the books produced: Re Emma Mine, 10 Ch. 194.

An affidavit cannot be withdrawn in order to avoid cross-examination: Clarke v. Law, 2 K. & J. 28; 4 W. R. 35; Pike v. Dickinson, 21 W. R. 862; Re Quartz Hill, &c. Co., Exp. Young, 21 Ch. D. 642, C. A.

As to time for giving notice to cross-examine, see Ranken v. Alfaro, 24 W. R. 54.

As to cross-examination on accounts, v. inf. Chap. XLIII., "ACCOUNT," p. 1362; and see Connell v. Baker, 29 Ch. D. 711.

By O. xxxviii, 30, "when the evidence under this order is taken by affidavit such evidence shall be printed, and the notice of trial shall be given at the same time or times after the close of the evidence as in other cases is by these rules provided after the close of the pleadings; provided that other affidavits may be printed if all parties interested consent thereto, or the Court or a Judge so order."

But where the evidence is, by order made after notice of trial, taken by affidavit, evidence may be filed after the notice of trial: Waring v. Lacey, 24 W. R. 318.

Any party may, without leave of the Court, issue a subpoena for the examination of a witness at any stage of an action: Raymond v. Tapson, 22 Ch. D. 430, C. A.; but the Court will not suffer the privilege to be used oppressively: S. C.; Fenton v. Cumberlege, 52 L. J. Ch. 756; 48 L. T. 776; (as, ex. gr., where there is no possibility of the case being heard during the current sittings for which the subpoenas run); London & Globe Finance Corp. v. Kaufman, W. N. (99) 240; 69 L. J. Ch. 196; 48 W. R. 458; and see Dan. 546,

As to the power of the Court to order issue of subpoena to compel attendance of witnesses before an arbitrator or referee, see 52 & 53 V. c. 49, s. 18, and inf. p. 409, Chap. XXVI., "ARBITRATIONS."

There is no power to grant a writ of habeas corpus to bring up a party to an action who is in prison in order that he may conduct his case in person: Weldon v. Neal, 15 Q. B. D. 471.

In order to bring up a witness who is in prison on civil process, it is not the proper course to move for a writ of habeas corpus, but the visiting justices require an order on the governor of the prison, who will comply with it; and v. sup. p. 100.

Where on replication new issues were raised by the Plt's affidavits, the Deft had leave to file evidence in reply: Leech v. Bolland, 10 Ch. 362; and affidavits ready, but omitted to be filed, were admitted: Armstrong v. A., Ir. Rep. 7 Eq. 84. It is not of course to give an opportunity of answering evidence filed by leave after the proper time: Poupard v. Fardell, 18 W. R. 59.

A motion for leave to use further evidence could not be made ex parte: Richards v. Curlewis, 18 Beav. 462; and the leave had to be applied for before the hearing: Smith v. Pilgrim, 2 Ch. D. 127.

After Deft's case at the trial was closed, the Plt was not allowed to call a witness whom he erroneously, but without being misled by the Deft, expected the Deft would call: Barker v. Furlong, (1891) 2 Ch. 172.

As to using fresh evidence on appeal, v. inf. p. 869, Chap. XXXVI., "APPEALS."

As to going into further evidence in Chambers to dispute the Plt's debt after an order for admon, see Cardell v. Hawke, 6 Eq. 464.

The outlawry of the Plt, though not pleaded, was an answer to his motion to enlarge the time for closing the evidence: Knowles v. Rhydedefed Co., Joh. 514.

By O. LXIV, 7, the Court or a Judge may abridge or enlarge the time fixed for doing any act, or taking any proceedings, upon such terms, if any, as the justice of the case may require, although the application is not made until after the expiration of the time appointed or allowed.

The usual practice, when a party is out of time, is to enlarge the time, on his paying the costs of the application: Eaton v. Storer, 22 Ch. D. 91, C. A.

As to giving leave to give notice to read affidavits (already filed) after the proper time, see Lautour v. A. G., 43 L. J. Ch. 313.

After the time for closing the evidence had expired, the Court would only extend it under special circumstances: Thompson v. Partridge, 4 D. M. & G. 794; Poupard v. Fardell, 18 W. R. 37; and the subsequent discovery of an important witness was not enough: Thexton v. Edmonston, 5 Eq. 373; but in Watson v. Cleaver, 20 Beav. 137, Deft having, seven months after notice of motion for decree, given material evidence in another cause, Plt, applying immediately under Cons. Ord. 33, r. 8 (now obsolete), had leave to use it, subject to Deft having an opportunity of explaining it; and in Wilson v. Gann, 23 W. R. 546, the evidence of a new witness was allowed to be used. But Defts were allowed to file affidavits in answer to specific charges as to character made in affidavits filed immediately before: Scott v. Corp. of Liverpool, 1 D. & J. 369; and a Plt was allowed, under special circumstances, to read an affidavit filed after the time, reserving the right to cross-examine: Hope v. Threlfall, 1 S. & G. xxi; and see Douglas v. Archbutt, 23 Beav. 293.

A Judge may, at any period of a case, for his own satisfaction, allow further evidence to be called by either party, even though it be doubtful whether it is admissible, on the request of the party desiring it as a right: Budd v. Davison, 29 W. R. 192.

READING EVIDENCE TAKEN IN ANOTHER CAUSE OR MATTER.

By O. XXXVII, 3, "an order to read evidence taken in another cause or matter shall not be necessary, but such evidence may, saving all just exceptions, be read on ex parte applications by leave of the Court or a Judge, to be obtained at the time of making any such application, and in any other case upon the party desiring to use such evidence giving two days' previous notice to the other parties of his intention to read such evidence."

The rule merely does away with the necessity for obtaining an order, and does not authorize the reading of evidence which was not admissible before the rule passed: Printing Telegraph, &c. Co. v. Ducker, (1894) 2 Q. B. 801, C. A.

By r. 24, "no affidavit or deposition filed or made before issue joined in any cause or matter shall, without special leave of the Court or a Judge, be received at the hearing or trial thereof, unless, within one month after issue joined, or within such longer time as may be allowed by special leave of the Court or a Judge, notice in writing shall have been given by the party intending to use the same to the opposite party of his intention in that behalf."

A notice to read affidavits in the action for some other purpose should not be given in general terms, but should specify the particular passages to be relied on: Downing v. Falmouth United Sewerage Board, 37 Ch. D. 234.

EXAMINATION DE BENE ESSE.

There is jurisdiction to make an order for the examination de bene esse of witnesses upon ex parte application, the order being taken by the applicant at his peril, and subject to its being discharged upon proper grounds, but the order is not of course, merely on the ground that the witnesses are over seventy years of age: Bidder v. Bridges, 26 Ch. D. 1, C. A.; and the general practice will not be applied, without discrimination, in a case where the witnesses are numerous: Ibid.

As to examining witnesses de bene esse before the Jud. Acts, see Bellamy v. Jones, 8 Ves. 31; Macintosh v. G. W. Ry. Co., 1 Ha. 328; Shirley v. Ferrers, 3 P. W. 77.

An affidavit was required showing the age or state of health of the witness and the materiality of his evidence; or where the application was on the ground that the person to be examined was the only witness to a particular fact, this was to be stated in the affidavit: and see Bidder v. Bridges, sup.

If the person was about to go abroad, evidence as to the matters upon which he was to be examined was not required: Grove v. Young, 3 D. & S. 397; Hope v. H., 3 Beav. 317.

Where the witness is out of the jurisdiction a special examiner will be appointed: Crofts v. Middleton, 9 Ha. xviii; Pillan v. Thompson, 10 Ha. lxxvi; Reeves v. Hodson, 21 L. T. 124; but the application for such examiner or for a commission must be made as soon as the case is set down for trial: Stewart v. Gladstone, 7 Ch. D. 394.

As to admitting evidence taken de bene esse in a former suit, the issue in the two suits being the same, and there being privity of estate between the parties to the two suits, see Llanover v. Homfray, Phillips v. Llanover, 19 Ch. D. 224, C. A.

Depositions taken de bene esse can only be used at the trial if it is shown that the witness is then incapable of being examined: Barton v. N. Staffordshire Ry. Co., 56 L. T. 561; 35 W. R. 536.

Where the Court below refused to admit the evidence of a witness, and, pending appeal, the witness was taken dangerously ill, an order was made to take the evidence de bene esse upon an undertaking as to costs: Solr of the Treasury v. White, 55 L. J. P. D. 79; W. N. (86) 144.

EXAMINATION BY COMMISSION.

For forms of order for commission to examine witnesses, see R. S. C. App. K. 36, 37; and for form of commission, see App. J. 13; D. C. F. 324.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 323; and see Dan. 550.

By O. xxxvii, 6a, if the Court or a Judge shall so order, there shall be issued a request to examine witnesses in lieu of a commission. For forms of request (which are now generally adopted for all foreign countries, see Dan. 549), see R. S. C. App. K. 37a, 37b, 37c; D. C. F. 330, 331.

In some foreign countries, as, ex. gr., Germany, it is unlawful for any person, not an officer of the Courts of the country, to administer an oath.

Requests are also issued to Colonial and Indian Courts.

The request will not be issued merely to obtain the inspection of documents in a foreign country: Cape Copper Co. v. Comptoir d'Escompte de Paris, 38 W. R. 763.

By 48 & 49 V. c. 74, s. 2, when any commission, order, or request for the examination of witnesses is addressed to any Court or Judge in India or the colonies, or elsewhere in His Majesty's dominions beyond the jurisdiction, such Court or Judge may nominate some fit person to take the examination in lieu of the Court or Judge.

In a communication from the Foreign Office, dated the 26th Nov. 1892, addressed to the Senior Registrar, with respect to the procedure to be adopted when the evidence of Spanish witnesses is to be taken for use by or before a Court of Justice in Great Britain, it is stated that such evidence should be obtained in future by means of letters of request, addressed by the British Court to the competent Spanish Tribunal, and forwarded and returned through the diplomatic channel.

A party is not entitled to a commission ex debito justitiæ upon showing that a material witness is resident out of the jurisdiction, but the matter is one for the discretion of the Court having regard to all the circumstances: Coch v. Allcock, 21 Q. B. D. 178, C. A.; such as the materiality of the proposed evidence to the issue raised: Langen v. Tate, 24 Ch. D. 522, C. A.; the difficulty and expense of bringing the witnesses to this country, or procuring their attendance at the trial: Lawson v. Vacuum Brake Co., 27 Ch. D. 137, C. A.; Coch v. Allcock, sup.; Armour v. Walker, 25 Ch. D. 673, C. A.; the necessity for the purposes of justice that the examination should take place in this country: Armour v. Walker, 25 Ch. D. 673, C. A.; the bona fides of the application: Berdan v. Greenwood, 20 Ch. D. 764, C. A. (where the application of the Plt was refused because the Court thought he was keeping out of the way): In re Boyse, Crofton v. C., 20 Ch. D. 760; Langen v. Tate, 24 Ch. D. 524, C. A.

The discretion will be exercised in a stricter manner where the Plt asks for a commission to examine himself: Coch v. Allcock, sup.; Light v. Governor of Anticosti, 58 L. T. 25; but less strictness will be shown where the application is by a Deft who has not (like a Plt) chosen his own forum: Ross v. Woodford, (1894) 1 Ch. 38; and see New v. Burns, W. N. (94) 196, C. A.; 64 L. J. Q. B. 104; 71 L. T. 681; 43 W. R. 182.

The order was not confined to witnesses mentioned by name, but ten days' notice was to be given to the other side of the names and addresses of the witnesses whom it was proposed to examine: Nadin v. Bassett, 25 Ch. D. 21, C. A.; Armour v. Walker, 25 Ch. D. 673, C. A.

A commission to a foreign Court was refused where it appeared that the cross-examination of the witness, which was important, would not be conducted there in the way usual in this country: Re Boyse, Crofton v. C., 20 Ch. D. 760; and a commission or letters of request ought not to be issued unless the desired evidence is directly material to an issue in the cause, and not merely evidence which may be incidentally useful in corroboration of other evidence: Ehrmann v. E., (1896) 2 Ch. 611, C. A.

Any objection to the reception of secondary evidence should be taken before the commrs: Robinson v. Davies, 5 Q. B. D. 26; or as to irregularity in taking a deposition: Richards, Tweedy & Co. v. Hough, 51 L. J. Q. B. 361; 30 W. R. 676.

When a single commr is appointed abroad, the commission should authorize him to administer the oath to himself: Wilson v. De Coulon, 22 Ch. D. 841.

Where the identity of a Plt not heard of for twenty years was disputed, words were added to the order directing that the depositions were "not to be admissible at the trial without the consent of the Deft," who thus had the means to compel the Plt to come from New Zealand to be identified: Nadin v. Bassett, 25 Ch. D. 21, C. A.

ACTION TO PERPETUATE TESTIMONY.

Witnesses will not be examined to perpetuate testimony unless an action has been commenced for the purpose: O. XXXVII, 37; and the action will not be set down for trial: r. 38.

By O. xxxvii, 35, "any person who would, under the circumstances alleged by him to exist, become entitled upon the happening of any future event, to any honour, title, dignity, or office, or to any estate or interest in any property, real or personal, the right or claim to which cannot by him be brought to trial before the happening of such event, may commence an action to perpetuate any testimony which may be material for establishing such right or claim."

And by r. 36, "in all actions to perpetuate testimony touching any honour, title, dignity, or office, or any other matter or thing in which the Crown may have any estate or interest, the A. G. may be made a Deft, and in all proceedings in which the depositions taken in any such action, in which the A. G. was so made a Deft, may be offered in evidence, such depositions shall be admissible notwithstanding any objection to such depositions upon the ground that the Crown was not a party to the action in which such depositions were taken."

If the Deft in an action to perpetuate testimony makes default in pleading, the proper course is for the Plt to move that the examination of witnesses be proceeded with as if the pleadings had closed: M. of Bute v. James, 33 Ch. D. 157, following Coveney v. Athill, 1 Dickens, 355.

Where it was desired to perpetuate testimony as to the illegitimacy of one of the children of a divorced lunatic, the course was for the Court to make a settlement of some of the lunatic's property on his children, and for the legitimate children to raise the question of the right of the other child to participate, and then bring an action to perpetuate testimony: In re Stoer, 9 P. D. 120, C. A.

As to the former practice (under the Perpetuation of Testimony Act, 1842, 5 & 6 V. c. 69; from which O. xxxvii, 35, is taken), see Dan. 1272, 1273.

FORM AND CONTENTS OF AFFIDAVITS.

By O. xxxviii, 3, "affidavits shall be confined to such facts as the witness is able of his own knowledge to prove, except on interlocutory motions, on which statements as to his belief, with the grounds thereof, may be admitted. The costs of every affidavit which shall unnecessarily set forth matters of hearsay, or argumentative matter, or copies of or extracts from documents, shall be paid by the party filing the same."

And as to disallowance of such costs, see O. lxv, 27 (20); Young v. Young Manufacturing Co., (1900) 2 Ch. 723, C. A.

Evidence on "information and belief" is not admissible and need not be contradicted when the application, although interlocutory in form, finally decides the rights: Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259, C. A.; and even on an interlocutory application an affidavit of information and belief will be excluded where the informant might have been subpoenaed, and the exclusion will cause no irremediable injury: Re Anthony Birrell, Pearce & Co., (1899) 2 Ch. 50; or the source of the information or belief is not stated: Young v. Young Manufacturing Co., sup.

The Court has discretion to take affidavits off the file: Fox v. Bearblock, 30 W. R. 342; 46 L. T. 145.

A motion to take affidavits off the file on the ground of length and irrelevancy was refused, and the attention of the Court ought to be drawn to such matters at the hearing: Owens v. Emmens, W. N. (75) 210, 284. Objections for irregularity should be taken when a deposition is tendered in evidence, and not by motion to take it off the file: De Britto v. Hillel, 15 Eq. 213; but in Walker v. Poole, 21 Ch. D. 835, the order was made on motion.

By O. xxxviii, 7, "every affidavit shall be drawn up in the first person, and shall be divided into paragraphs, and every paragraph shall be numbered consecutively, and as nearly as may be shall be confined to a distinct portion of the subject. Every affidavit shall be written or printed bookwise. No costs shall be allowed for any affidavit or part of an affidavit substantially departing from this rule."

By O. lxvi, 7 (k), "it shall be stated in a note at the foot of every affidavit filed on whose behalf it is filed," and a copy of such note is to appear on office copies, and on copies supplied to the other side.

By O. xxxviii, 8, every affidavit shall state the description and true place of abode of the deponent; and see Re Levy, Levin v. Levin, 37 W. R. 396;

60 L. T. 317; Ellam v. E., 62 L. T. 331; and see r. 13 as to certificate required to be made by the officer taking the affidavit of an illiterate or blind deponent.

Affidavits by marksmen were ordered to be filed, although the usual statement in the jurat that they had been read over had been omitted: Fernyhough v. Naylor, 23 W. R. 228; and see Verner v. Cochrane, 23 L. R. Ir. 422. An affidavit sworn before a British vice-consul abroad was received, though the words "before me" were omitted in the jurat: Eddowes v. Argentine Loan Co., 59 L. J. Ch. 392; 62 L. T. 514; 38 W. R. 629.

In Ch. D. an affidavit, with an interlineation not properly initialled, ought not to be filed without an order of the Court (i.e., the Judge or Master of the Ch. D.): Re Cloake, 61 L. J. Ch. 69; 40 W. R. 74; 65 L. T. 455.

It is the duty of the solr to cause every affidavit sworn and used to be filed, and if he neglects so to do he may be visited with costs: Taylor v. Gates, 72 L. T. 436, C. A.

BEFORE WHOM AND WHERE AFFIDAVITS MAY BE SWORN.

By the Jud. Act, 1873, s. 77 (inter alios), commrs to take oaths or affidavits connected with any of the Courts, the jurisdiction of which is transferred to the Supreme Court, are to be attached thereto; and every person who on or before Jan. 1, 1890, was authorized to administer oaths in the Supreme Court is deemed to be a commr for oaths within the Commrs for Oaths Act, 1889 (52 & 53 V. c. 10), ss. 13, 14. As to such commrs and their appointment by L. C., see Stringer's Oaths, 4—32, 66, 139.

By O. XXXVIII, 4, "affidavits sworn in England shall be sworn before a Judge, district registrar, commr to administer oaths, or officer empowered under the rules to administer oaths"; by r. 5, every commr to administer oaths shall express the time when, and the place where, he shall take an affidavit, otherwise it shall not be held authentic, nor be admitted to be filed without leave of the Court or a Judge; and by the Commrs for Oaths Act, 1889, s. 5, every commr before whom any oath or affidavit is taken or made under this Act shall state truly in the jurat or attestation at what place and on what date the oath or affidavit is taken or made.

The oath need not be administered at the solr's office: Re Record and Writ Clerks, 3 D. M. & G. 723.

By O. XXXVIII, 16, and Commrs for Oaths Act, 1889, s. 1, sub-s. 3, an affidavit must not be sworn before the solr for the party on whose behalf it is to be used: Hopkin v. H., 10 Ha. ii; or his clerk or partner: see r. 17: Wood v. Harpur, 3 Beav. 290; or "correspondent" (a country solr): Parkinson v. Crawshay, W. N. (94) 85; but may before the clerk of the Plt, a solr, but not acting as such in the cause: Foster v. Harvey, 3 N. R. 98; affirmed on appeal, dissentiente, L. J. K. B., 4 D. J. & S. 59; see also Re Gregg, 9 Eq. 137; Barwick v. Yeadon L. B., 24 W. R. 23; 33 L. T. 322.

An affidavit sworn in a lunatic asylum by an inmate without any notice in the jurat of that fact, was ordered to be taken off the file with costs: Spittle v. Walton, 11 Eq. 420.

For observations of Kay, J., as to the duty of commrs to administer oaths where a witness is swearing to the contents of an affidavit, see Bourke v. Davis, 44 Ch. D. 110. But see Stringer, 76.

By the Commrs for Oaths Act, 1889, s. 3, (1) any oath or affidavit required for the purpose of any Court or matter in England, or for the purpose of the registration of any instrument in any part of the United Kingdom, may be taken or made in any place out of England before any person having authority to administer an oath in that place.

(2) In the case of a person having such authority otherwise than by the law of a foreign country, judicial and official notice shall be taken of his seal or signature affixed, impressed, or subscribed to or on any such oath or affidavit.

As to the practice which obtains in the Supreme Court, of requiring affidavits, &c., sworn or taken in foreign countries before persons having authority to administer oaths by the law of a foreign country, to be properly verified by a British consul or vice-consul, or by the certificate of the High Court of the country, see Cooke v. Wilby, 25 Ch. D. 769; Brittlebank v. Smith, 50 L. T. 491; 32 W. R. 675; Stringer, 42; Dan. 529.

By the Commrs for Oaths Act, 1889 (52 V. c. 10), s. 6 (as amended by the Commrs for Oaths Act, 1891, s. 2), (1) every British ambassador, envoy, minister, chargé d'affaires, and secretary of embassy or legation exercising his functions in any foreign country, and every British consul-general, consul, vice-consul, acting consul, pro-consul, and consular agent, acting consul-general, acting vice-consul, and acting consular agent, exercising his functions in any foreign place may, in that country or place, administer any oath, and take any affidavit, and also do any notarial act which any notary public can do within the United Kingdom; and every oath, affidavit, and notarial act administered, sworn, or done by or before any such person shall be as effectual as if duly administered, sworn, or done by or before any lawful authority in any part of the United Kingdom.

(2) Any document purporting to have affixed, impressed, or subscribed thereon or thereto the seal and signature of any person authorised by this section to administer an oath in testimony of any oath, affidavit, or act being administered, taken, or done by or before him, shall be admitted in evidence without proof of the seal or signature being the seal or signature of that person, or of the official character of that person.

For the similar provisions of O. XXXVIII, r. 6, v. inf. p. 237.

As to affirmation in lieu of affidavit under the Oaths Act, 1888 (51 & 52 V. c. 46), see Stringer, 89; and as to swearing in the Scotch form, Ib. 80; Dan. 520; D. C. F. 343.

Where a statutory declaration taken before a notary in New South Wales was not intituled in the cause, the signatures had to be verified by affidavit: Whiting v. Bassett, 14 Eq. 70; and see Jearrad v. Tracey, 11 W. R. 97.

Where an affidavit was sworn before a notary abroad, and bore his seal, his signature was required to be verified by affidavit: Re Davis, 8 Eq. 98; or by a British consul there: Haggitt v. Iniff, 5 D. M. & G. 910; followed in Re Burnett, M. R., 28 June, 1856; secus, where the fund was only 35*l.*: Mayne v. Butler, 13 W. R. 128; 11 L. T. 410; or the other side consented: Lyle v. Ellwood, 15 Eq. 67; Re Lane, 22 W. R. 39; and in a suit in which infants, jointly with their mother, were Plts, an affidavit sworn not before the consul, but a burgermeister, was allowed to be filed, the mother consenting: Bell v. Turner, 17 Eq. 439; and an affidavit, sworn before a notary, certified by the governor of a foreign state to be a notary public thereof, the jurat stating the date but not the place where it was sworn, was allowed to be filed: Meek v. Ward, 10 Ha. i.

When the deponent is outside His Majesty's dominions, and resides at a considerable distance from a British consul or vice-consul, the affidavit may be sworn before a notary public: see Cooke v. Wilby, 25 Ch. D. 769, where an affidavit sworn before a notary public was allowed to be filed, the nearest consul being 150 miles away: see also Brittlebank v. Smith, 32 W. R. 675; 50 L. T. 491; where the nearest British consul was 250 miles off, but certified that the clerk of a Circuit Court before whom the affidavit was sworn was authorized to administer oaths.

By O. XXXVIII, 14, "the Court or a Judge may receive any affidavit sworn for the purpose of being used in any cause or matter, notwithstanding any defect, by misdescription of parties or otherwise, in the title or jurat, or any other irregularity in the form thereof"; and see Commissioners for Oaths Act, 1889 (52 V. c. 10), s. 6, and Eddowes v. Argentine Loan and Mercantile Agency Co., 38 W. R. 629; 59 L. J. Ch. 392; 62 L. T. 514, that this rule applies to the omission in the jurat of the words "before me," where the affidavit, on the face of it, shows before whom it was in fact sworn.

As to mistake in the title to an affidavit, see Dan. 531; and as to affidavits generally, Ib. 527 et seq.

EXAMINATION BEFORE AN EXAMINER.

The examination of witnesses, under rr. 1 and 5 of O. XXXVII, will now, unless the Judge shall otherwise direct, be taken before one of the examiners of the Court, whose appointment and proceedings are regulated by rr. 39—50 of the same Order.

By O. XXXVII, 10, the examiner is to be supplied with a copy of the writ and pleadings; and by r. 11, the examination is to take place in the presence of the parties, their counsel, solrs, or agents, and the witnesses are to be subject to cross-examination and re-examination.

By O. xxxvii, 13, "if any person duly summoned by subpoena to attend for examination shall refuse to attend, or if, having attended, he shall refuse to be sworn or to answer any lawful question, a certificate of such refusal, signed by the examiner, shall be filed at the Central Office, and thereupon the party requiring the attendance of the witness may apply to the Court or a Judge ex parte or on notice for an order directing the witness to attend, or to be sworn, or to answer any question, as the case may be."

If a witness objects to answer any question, the question and the objection are to be taken down by the examiner and transmitted (r. 14) to the Central Office to be filed, and the validity of the objection shall be decided by the Court or a Judge; and by r. 15 the witness may be directed to pay any costs occasioned by his refusal or objection.

A witness is not bound to attend before an examiner unless served with a subpoena: O. xxxvii, 20; Stuart v. Balkis Co., 53 L. J. Ch. 791; 32 W. R. 676; 50 L. T. 479.

If a witness when so served refuses to be sworn, the proper course is, not to move to commit him for contempt of the order directing the examination, but for an order that he do attend at his own expense: Stuart v. Balkis Co., ibid.

The jurisdiction to appoint a special examiner still remains, but the Court is reluctant to exercise it: Marquis of Bute v. James, 33 Ch. D. 157.

A contributory in a winding-up desiring to summon a witness before a special examiner must do so by chief clerk's summons, and not by subpoena: Re Westmoreland Green and Blue Slate Co., 40 W. R. 171; 66 L. T. 52.

On the application of one of several Plts, an order for an examiner was granted to examine co-Plts as witnesses abroad: Banque Franco-Egyptienne v. Lütcher, 28 W. R. 133; 41 L. T. 468.

Where a mass of correspondence is produced, and it is proposed to cross-examine upon it seriatim, the proper course is to have an adjournment, with a view to selection of that part which is material: Re Maplin Sands, W. N. (94) 41, 184, C. A.; 71 L. T. 56, 594.

By O. xxxvii, 16, "when the examination of any witness before an examiner is concluded, the original depositions, authenticated by the signature of the examiner, are to be transmitted by him to the Central Office, and there filed."

The examiner's omission to sign the deposition, or to take it down in his own handwriting, is not necessarily fatal: Stephenson v. S., 19 Beav. 585; Bolton v. B., 2 Ch. D. 217.

It is not proper to insert in the order for examination any words giving leave to give the depositions in evidence at the trial: Barton v. N. Staffordshire Ry., 35 W. R. 536; 56 L. T. 601; but r. 18 provides that no deposition is to be given in evidence at the trial without the consent of the party against whom the same may be offered, unless the Court or Judge otherwise directs, or is satisfied that the deponent is dead, or out of the jurisdiction, or unable, from sickness or infirmity, to attend.

An examiner may allow a witness to be treated as hostile by the party calling him: Ohlsen v. Terrero, 10 Ch. 127; dissenting from Wright v. Wilkin, 6 W. R. 643.

There is no jurisdiction to order the examination ex parte of witnesses before an examiner for the purposes of trial: Warner v. Mosses, 16 Ch. D. 100.

The examiner may exercise his discretion as to the most convenient order of examination of witnesses: Stuart v. Balkis Co., sup.

As to the power of adjourning the examination and recalling witnesses, see In re Metropolitan Electric Co., Exp. Offer, 54 L. J. Ch. 253; 51 L. T. 816.

On cross-examination of witnesses on application by a shareholder for rectification of the co's register, the shareholder's witnesses should be cross-examined first: Re Doré Gallery Co., 62 L. T. 758; 38 W. R. 491.

The Court, as a general rule, disapproves of the practice of the Masters taking examinations before themselves: M'Alister v. Walters, W. N. (90) 204; and see ib. 224; and Dan. 791.

As to correction of error in transcript of shorthand notes of evidence before examiner in Adm. Div., see The Knutsford, (1891) P. 219.

BANKERS' BOOKS.

According to the provisions of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879 (42 V. c. 11), s. 3, a copy of an entry in a banker's book shall, in all legal proceedings, be received as prima facie evidence of such entry, and of the matters, transactions, and accounts therein recorded; and by sect. 4 a copy of such an entry is not to be received in evidence under the Act, "unless it be first proved that the book was, at the time of the making of the entry, one of the ordinary books of the bank, and that the entry was made in the usual and ordinary course of business, and that the book is in the custody or control of the bank. Such proof may be given by a partner or officer of the bank, and may be given orally or by affidavit."

The copy must also (sect. 5) be further proved in the same manner to have been examined with the entry, and to be correct: Harding v. Williams, 14 Ch. D. 197, C. A.

The effect of sect. 3 is to make the entries admissible against any one, ex. gr., entries in Deft's bankers' books admissible against Plt. S. C.

As to production of bankers' books, v. sup. Chap. VII., p. 81.

And see further as to the effect of the Act, Dan. 507, 508.

2. Continuing Proceedings against Represve of an accounting Party—

O. XVII, 4.

UPON motion [or upon the application of] &c. [Form 1], It is ordered that the judgment dated &c., and the several proceedings thereunder, and the accounts and inquiries thereby directed, be carried on between the Plt and B. and C. (represves) as Defts in like manner as the same might have been carried on between the Plt and the Deft A. if he had not died; And it is ordered that what on taking the said accounts shall appear to have come to the hands of the said late Deft A. be answered by the said B. and C. his exors, out of his assets in a due course of admon; And in case they shall not admit assets of the said A. for that purpose, it is ordered that an account be taken of his personal estate come to the hands of the said B. and C., or either of them, or to the hands of any other person or persons, by the order or for the use of the said B. and C. or either of them.

For form of petition of course, see D. C. F. 92.

3. Infant born after Action brought—O. XVII, 4.

UPON motion &c., Let the proceedings in this action be carried on between the Plts and the Defts, and the said infant C., And Let an inquiry be made whether any proceedings affecting the interest of the infant C. have been had in this action since his birth, and, if so, whether it will be fit and proper, and for the benefit of the said infant C., that he should be bound thereby, And if it shall be so certified, Let the said infant C. be bound accordingly.—Peter v. P., Chitty, J., 27 March, 1884, B. 384; 26 Ch. D. 181.

For form of petition of course to continue proceedings against infant born after judgment, see D. C. F. 91.

4. Continuing Proceedings against Admor of Executrix who is also Admor de bonis non of Testator.

UPON motion &c., This Court doth order that the judgment, dated &c., and the several proceedings &c. be carried on between the Plt and the said J. in like manner as thereby directed between the original parties to this action; 1. And it is ordered that an account be taken of the personal estate of H., the testator &c., come to the hands of the Deft J. as the admor de bonis non (or of the effects left unadministered) of the testator, or of any other &c.; And it is ordered that what on taking such account shall appear to be due from the Deft J., as such admor, be answered by him personally; And it is ordered that what, on taking the accounts directed by the said former judgment, shall appear to be due from the estate of the late Deft S., the extrix of the testator H., be answered by the Deft J. as the admor of her effects, out of her assets, in a course of admon; 2. And in case the Deft J. shall not admit assets of the late Deft S. for that purpose, then it is ordered that an account be taken of the personal estate of the said S. come to the hands of the Deft J. or of any other &c.—See Gardner v. Hulme, M. R., 21 March, 1843, A. 1125.

5. Order to substitute a Registered Public Officer, under Country Bankers Act, 1826 (7 Geo. IV. c. 46), s. 9.

UPON motion &c., and upon hearing counsel for the — Banking Co., who alleged that A., one of the public registered officers of the said co., having on behalf of the said co. &c. [state the proceedings in the action concisely]; that it appears by the affidavit of &c., that the said A. is dead [or has resigned, or has been removed]; and that B. is one other of the public officers of the said co., and is duly registered and appointed to sue and be sued on behalf of the said co.; And upon reading the said affidavit, This Court doth order, that this action be continued, carried on, and prosecuted in the name of the said B., as one of the public registered officers of the said co., in the room of the said A., as the nominal Plt in this action.—See Percival v. Roberts, V.-C. E., 28 March, 1849, B. 703; Meek v. Burnley, M. R., 12 Jan. 1863, B. 6; Scott v. Moorhouse, V.-C. M., 22 June, 1872, B. 1714.

By 7 Geo. IV. c. 46, s. 9, suits instituted by or against a banking co. in the name of the registered public officer, may, in case of his decease, resignation, or removal, be continued by or against any other public officer of the co. for the time being; and such orders may now be obtained in Chambers.

For form of petition of course, see D. C. F. 93.

NOTES.

The practice as to change of parties by marriage, death, or transmission of interest, pending litigation, has been greatly simplified by the Rules of Court under the Jud. Acts.

By O. XVII, 1, a cause or matter shall not become abated by reason of the death, marriage, or bankruptcy of any of the parties, if the cause of action survive or continue; and shall not become defective by the assignment, creation, or devolution of any estate or title pendente lite.

This rule has been held to apply only when the cause of action survives or continues in some person who is before the Court: Eldridge v. Burgess, 7 Ch. D. 411; Jackson v. N. E. Ry. Co., 5 Ch. D. 844; In re Shephard, Atkins v. S., 43 Ch. D. 131, C. A.

Accordingly, the marriage, death, or bankruptcy of a sole Plt or Deft will still cause an abatement, or render the action defective: Eldridge v. Burgess, sup.; but not the bankruptcy &c. of one or more out of several Plts or Defts jointly and severally interested: Lloyd v. Dimmack, 7 Ch. D. 398.

In cases within the rule the action may be continued between the surviving Plts and Defts without any such order as would in general have been necessary under the former practice of the Court of Chancery: Lloyd v. Dimmack, sup.; and see Hinde v. Morton, 2 H. & M. 368; Fallowes v. Williamson, 11 Ves. 306; Boddy v. Kent, 1 Mer. 361; Mitf. Pl. [56—60]. The rule at Common Law, as regulated by the C. L. P. Act, 1852, ss. 135, 141, 142, and C. L. P. Act, 1854, s. 92, was similar, though the procedure was different.

Where the death or bankruptcy of a Plt or Deft terminates the cause of action, or the interest of the party, so as to leave no subject for litigation remaining, the action is necessarily at an end: see Twycross v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 40, C. A.; Chapman v. Day, 49 L. T. 436; 31 W. R. 767; Wymer v. Dodds, 11 Ch. D. 438; unless by amendment a cause of action can be shown: Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768.

As to the application of the maxim "actio personalis moritur cum personâ," see Phillips v. Homfray, 24 Ch. D. 456, C. A.; Re Batthyany, B. v. Walford, 36 Ch. D. 278, C. A.; Concha v. Murrietta, 40 Ch. D. 543, C. A.; Finlay v. Chirney, 20 Q. B. D. 494, C. A.; and that it does not apply to the equitable right to a mandatory injunction in respect of obstruction of light to freeholds of the deceased, see Jones v. Simes, 43 Ch. D. 607; and that the exors of the wrongdoer cannot be sued merely because his estate might have benefited by the wrong complained of: Re Duncan, Terry v. Sweeting, (1899) 1 Ch. 387; and that an action arising out of a statutory duty to the deceased (e.g., to compel a local authority to make a sewer to dispose of the liquids proceeding from the factory of the deceased) will survive to his exors, see Peebles v. Oswaldtwistle Urban District Council, (1896) 2 Q. B. 159, C. A.

Where Deft in action of tort dies before judgment, and at a date later than six months after the last of the acts complained of, further proceedings cannot be carried on against his legal pers. represves: Kirk v. Todd, 21 Ch. D. 484, C. A.

Where the cause of action survives or continues in a person not a party to the record, he may, if proceedings are to be carried on by him, bring himself, or if they are to be carried on against him, be brought before the Court in the manner provided by the subsequent rules of O. XVII: Twycross v. Grant, sup.; Jackson v. N. E. Ry. Co., 5 Ch. D. 844; Wright v. Swindon, &c. Ry. Co., 4 Ch. D. 164.

By r. 2, "in the case of the marriage, death, or bankruptcy, or devolution of estate by operation of law, of any party to a cause or matter, the Court or a Judge may, if it be deemed necessary for the complete settlement of all the questions involved, order that the husband, pers. represve, trustee, or other successor in interest, if any, of such party be made a party, or be served with notice thereof in such manner and form as is prescribed (see r. 4), and on such terms as the Court or Judge shall think just, and shall make such order for the disposal of the cause or matter as may be just."

Rule 2 does not apply where there is no transmission of interest; thus, husband Petr in divorce action having died after decree nisi, his represve could not revive: Stanhope v. S., 11 P. D. 103, C. A.; or where tenant for life, suing in ejectment, dies and is succeeded by his son as tenant in tail: Ferrall v. Curron, (1899) 2 I. R. 470.

By r. 3, "in case of an assignment, creation, or devolution of any estate or title pendente lite, the cause or matter may be continued by or against the person to or upon whom such estate or title has come or devolved."

Where the Plt pendente lite has validly assigned his interest, and the assignee has obtained leave to carry on the proceedings in like manner as the Plt might, the statement of claim should be amended by adding a new title to the action showing that the assignee is the real Plt, and an averment showing the devolution of the original Plt's interest: Seear v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121, C. A.

Where a garnishee order absolute has been made in favour of a judgment creditor of the Plt, there is a devolution of estate by operation of law within r. 2, and the creditor is entitled to be added as co-Plt, but not to the conduct of the action: Wallis v. Smith, 51 L. J. Ch. 577; 46 L. T. 473.

Where sole Plt becomes bankrupt and his trustee declines to proceed, the action may be stayed by order in Chambers: Warder v. Saunders, 10 Q. B. D. 114; Jackson v. N. E. Ry. Co., 5 Ch. D. 844.

The Plt cannot, after his discharge, claim to have the stay removed on the ground that he has purchased the assets from the trustee: Selig v. Lion, (1891) 1 Q. B. 513; 39 W. R. 254.

That the intention and effect of an order of revivor against a trustee in bankruptcy is to substitute him for, and place him in the exact position of, the original Deft, see Chorlton v. Dickie, 13 Ch. D. 160; and see Johnston v. English, 55 L. T. 55; 55 L. J. Ch. 910; 35 W. R. 29; Cockshott v. London General Cab Co., W. N. (77) 214; 47 L. J. Ch. 120; 26 W. R. 31.

The trustee of an uncertified bankrupt who had sued for remuneration and damages upon an agreement prior to his bankruptcy, was added as co-Plt, with conduct of the action: Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 768.

Where an action is brought by the committee of a lunatic, and the lunatic is subsequently adjudicated bankrupt, the right of action vests in his trustee in bankruptcy, who cannot be added as a defendant against his will: Farnham v. Milward & Co., (1895) 2 Ch. 730.

As to the right of assignee of Plt's trustee in bankruptcy to continue the action, see Seear v. Lawson, 15 Ch. D. 426, C. A.; Howard v. Fanshawe, (1895) 2 Ch. 581; and as to the right of an undischarged bankrupt to sue, &c., if the trustee does not interfere, Jameson v. Brick and Stone Co., 4 Q. B. D. 208; Cohen v. Mitchell, 25 Q. B. D. 262, C. A.; Re Ball (1899), 2 I. R. 313, C. A.

Trustee in bankruptcy, substituted for bankrupt Deft, by asking for a statement of claim adopts the whole action, including a pending appeal, and becomes liable for costs: Borneman v. Wilson, 28 Ch. D. 53, C. A.

Where sole Deft in an action on a bill of exchange became bankrupt, the action could not be continued against the trustee, as the debt could be proved in the bankruptcy: Barter v. Dubeux, 7 Q. B. D. 413, C. A.; and see Greenwood v. Humber & Co., W. N. (98) 162; secus, where the action was in respect of a debt incurred by fraud, and it was possible Plts might obtain some relief against the trustee: Hale v. Boustead, 8 Q. B. D. 453, citing Emma Silver Mining Co. v. Grant, 17 Ch. D. 122.

Where trustee in bankruptcy, suing in his official name, is removed and a new trustee appointed, the new trustee must obtain an order to continue the action and give notice to the other parties under rr. 4, 5: Pooley's Trustee v. Whetham, 28 Ch. D. 38, C. A.

By r. 4, "where by reason of marriage, death, or bankruptcy, or any other event occurring after the commencement of a cause or matter, and causing a change or transmission of interest or liability, or by reason of any person interested coming into existence after the commencement of the cause or matter, it becomes necessary or desirable that any person not already a party should be made a party, or that any person already a party should be made a party in another capacity, an order that the proceedings shall be carried on between the continuing parties, and such new party or parties, may be obtained ex parte on application to the Court or a Judge, upon an allegation of such change or transmission of interest or liability, or of such person interested having come into existence."

The order to continue or carry on proceedings under these rules may be obtained in Chambers, or by petition of course at the Registrar's Chambers, or by motion of course: see Roffey v. Miller, 24 W. R. 109; Crane v. Loftus, 24 W. R. 93; Walker v. Blackmore, W. N. (76) 112; Middleton v. Pollock (No. 1), W. N. (76) 250; Twycross v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 40; Jackson v. N. E. Ry. Co., 5 Ch. D. 844-9; Dan. 245 et seq.

On a motion or petition of course, proof of the allegations is not required, though the order may be discharged for erroneous statements in the petition: see Brignall v. Whitehead, 8 Jur. N. S. 183; 30 Beav. 229; 5 L. T. 301; 10 W. R. 69.

It is doubtful whether r. 4 is applicable after final judgment: Arnison v. Smith, 40 Ch. D. 567, C. A.; Guy v. Churchill, 40 Ch. D. 481.

Where two out of fifty-four Plts in an action for deceit died before judgment, an application after judgment by the exors of the two for an order under the rule was refused: Arnison v. Smith, sup.

Leave to revive under r. 4 for the purpose of appealing against a final decree twelve years old was refused, and (semble) such an order should not, in the absence of fraud, collusion, or irregularity, be made after the expiration of the time limited for appealing: Fussell v. Dowding, 27 Ch. D. 237.

Where a sole Plt who has given notice of appeal dies before it is heard, an order of course to carry on the appeal may be made: Ranson v. Putton, 17 Ch. D. 767, C. A.

The exor and devisee of a sole deceased Plt was allowed to carry on an action for a mandatory injunction in respect of obstruction of light to freehold premises of the deceased: Jones v. Simes, 43 Ch. D. 607.

On the death of a sole Plt, a person who has had leave to attend the proceedings may apply for leave to prosecute the action: Burstall v. Fearon, 24 Ch. D. 126.

Where exor, sole Deft in creditor's action, died pending application for a receiver, an interim receiver was appointed, Plt undertaking that admon de bonis non should be taken out with all speed: Re Parker, Oash v. P., 12 Ch. D. 293; but where, pending an application for a receiver by way of equitable execution, the judgment debtor died, an order for such receiver could not be made in the absence of any person to represent the debtor's estate: Re Shephard, Atkins v. S., 43 Ch. D. 131, C. A.

Where exor, after judgment in favour of his testator and notice of appeal, obtains an order for revivor, he becomes a substantive party, and is personally liable for costs: Boynnton v. B., 4 App. Ca. 733.

And where the liquidator of a co. obtains leave to continue an action and does so, he adopts the action ab initio, and if unsuccessful must pay all the costs: In re London Drapery Stores, (1898) 2 Ch. 684.

On death of counter-claiming Deft, his exors were entitled to obtain an ex parte order against Plts who had obtained an order against them: Andrew v. Aitken, 21 Ch. D. 175.

In case of the decease of a lunatic Plt suing by and with his committee, the order for the exor, &c., to carry on proceedings discharges the committee from the action, and (unless otherwise directed) from all liability for costs: Harland v. Garbutt, W. N. (81) 8.

On the death of a sole petr before the hearing (see Re Dynevor Collieries Co., W. N. (78) 199) pending the other inquiries directed by the order made on the hearing, the petition may be ordered to be carried on by the represves of the Petr: Re Atkin's Estate, 1 Ch. D. 82.

An assignment of his debt by a petitioning creditor does not give the assignee the right to obtain a winding-up order: Re Paris Skating Rink Co., 25 W. R. 701; 5 Ch. D. 595.

On default in pleading, and subsequent bankruptcy of a sole Plt, notice of motion by the Defts to dismiss for want of prosecution was ordered to be served on his trustees in bankruptcy: Wright v. Swindon, &c. Ry. Co., 4 Ch. D. 164.

Where proceedings have been taken after an action has become defective by birth of an infant, he should be made a party by the common order under r. 4, and the order should go on to direct an inquiry whether any proceedings affecting his interest have been taken in the action since his birth, and if so whether it will be for his benefit to be bound thereby (see form 3, sup. p. 114), and if so certified he is to be bound accordingly. If the inquiry is answered in the negative, the Plt or person having conduct can still proceed by supplemental action (as in Capps v. C., 4 Ch. 1). The advantages of making the infant a party in the first instance are that an appearance can be entered for him, and that if he refuses to appear the order can be worked out: Peter v. P., 26 Ch. D. 181.

Where Plts refused to apply to add infants born after judgment, Defts were entitled to an order, under r. 4, to add them: Wicks v. W., W. N. (87) 15.

Infant co-Plt having attained twenty-one, and become co-trustee with Deft, was added as co-Deft on an ex parte application: Re Gould, G. v. G., 51 L. T. 416.

Revivor was dispensed with in a legatee's suit, commenced in 1758, where there was a fund in Court, and it was impossible to trace the represves of the original Defts: Ballard v. Milner, W. N. (95) 14, C.

By O. xvii, 5, the order when made is to be served upon the continuing and new parties to the action, or their solrs, and every person served not already a party to the action is bound to enter an appearance in the same time and manner as if served with a writ of summons.

By r. 6, any person not under disability, or under any disability other than coverture, but having a guardian ad litem, may apply to the Court or Judge to discharge or vary such order within twelve days from the service of it; and by r. 7, any person under such disability, not having a guardian ad litem, may apply within twelve days from the appointment of a guardian or guardians ad litem for him; and until such period has expired, the order is to have no force or effect againit him.

By O. xvii, rr. 1—4, the former technical distinctions between supplemental bills, bills of revivor and supplement, and original bills in the nature of bills of revivor and of supplemental bills, are finally abolished.

By O. xvii, 8 (adapted from Cons. Ord. 32, r. 4), when the Plt or Deft in a cause or matter dies, and the cause of action survives, but the person entitled to proceed fails to proceed, the Deft (or the person against whom the cause or matter may be continued) may apply in Chambers (see O. xxx, sup. p. 25) to compel the Plt (or the person entitled to proceed) to proceed within such time as may be ordered: and in default of such proceeding, judgment may be entered for the Deft, or, as the case may be, for the person against whom the cause or matter might have been continued; and in such case, if the Plt has died, execution may issue as in the case provided for by O. xlii, 23.

When the action has been transferred to the County Court, the application to compel Plts to proceed should be made in that Court: Duke v. Davis, (1893) 2 Q. B. 260, C. A.

And see Dan. 239 et seq.

SECTION II.—DISPENSING WITH AND APPOINTING REPRESENTATIVES.

1. Order to carry on Proceedings without a Represve—O. xvi, 46.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for all parties, and upon reading the order dated &c., and an affidavit of &c., whereby it appears that J. and H., two of the grandchildren of G., the testator in the writ named, are dead, and that there is no legal pers. represve to either of them, This Court doth order, that the proceedings in this action, and the inquiries and several other matters directed by the order, dated &c., be carried on and prosecuted, notwithstanding the absence of any person representing the respective estates of the said J. and H.—Gladwin v. G., M. R., 8 Feb. 1853, A. 422.

For admon order dispensing with the represves of deceased exors and trustees, where persons not sui juris were interested, see Whittington v. Gooding, 10 Ha. xxix.

For order for exors of deceased Deft to carry on proceedings for the purpose of enforcing payment of the costs of a discontinuance under O. xxvi, 1, see Re Overton, Hansby v. Llewellyn, 13 July, 1892, B. 543.

2. Order appointing Plt to represent deceased Plts—O. XVI, 46.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Plts, and upon reading an affidavit of &c., This Court doth order, that the Plt W. be appointed to represent the estates of the Plts G., E. &c., respectively deceased, for the purposes of this action.—Vince v. Walsh, V.-C. W., 11 June, 1853, B. 893; Walker v. Daniell, V.-C. B., 5 Nov. 1874.

3. Order at the Hearing appointing a Deft to represent deceased Defts.

THIS action coming on &c., This Court doth order that the (trial of this action) do stand over; and the Deft E. by his counsel consenting hereto, It is ordered that the Deft E. be appointed to represent the estate of the Deft H., deceased, and also the estate of the Deft D., deceased, for all the purposes of this action.—See Joint Stock Discount Co. v. Brown, V.-C. J., 24 May, 1870, A. 1499; 8 Eq. 376.

4. Appointment of Persons to represent various Classes in order to decide Questions of Construction—O. XVI, 32 (a) (b).

UPON motion &c. Let the following &c.: 1. An inquiry whether any of the persons who were the next of kin, according to the Statute for the distribution of intestates' estates, of the testator P. at the time of his death, died before the — day of — (period for distribution of the estate), and if so, whether any of such next of kin left any child or children them respectively surviving, who died before the said — day of —, and any such child or children who survived that date; And in case it shall appear that any of the said next of kin so dying left any such child or children who died before the said — day of —, then Let a proper person be appointed in Chambers to represent such child or children so dying (for the purpose of obtaining the judgment of the Court upon the construction of the will of the said testator); And in case it shall appear that any of the said next of kin so dying left any such child or children who survived that date, then Let one of the said last-mentioned children, if any are still living, and if they are all dead, then Let a proper person be appointed in Chambers to represent such last-mentioned children for the purpose aforesaid. 2. An inquiry whether H. R. P. in the testator's will named is living or dead, and if dead, whether or not he survived the testator; And in case he survived the testator, who is his legal pers. repesve; And if it shall appear that he survived the testator and has no legal pers. repesve, then Let a proper person be appointed in Chambers to represent his estate for the purposes of this action; And Let proper persons be appointed in Chambers to represent for the purpose of obtaining the judgment of the Court on the construction of the testator's will the following persons and classes respectively, that is to say, 1. The persons who were at the death of the testator his next of kin according to the Statute for the distribution of intestates' estates; 2. The heir-at-law of the testator at the time of his death; 3. The children, if any, of the said heir-at-law, who died before the said — day of —; 4. The children, if any, of the said heir-at-law, who survived the said — day of —; After such inquiries have been made and persons appointed the Master to certify in respect of the matters aforesaid independently of and without waiting for completion of the certificate in respect of the inquiries hereinafter directed. Usual admon judgment of personal estate.—See Re Peppitt's Estate, Chester v. Phillips, V.-C. B., 16 Dec. 1876, B. 3544; 4 Ch. D. 230.

By O. XVI, 9, "where there are numerous persons having the same interest in one cause or matter, one or more of such persons may sue or be sued, or may be authorized by the Court or a Judge to defend in such cause or matter, on behalf, or for the benefit, of all persons so interested."

This rule adopts the practice of the Court of Chancery, that where several persons are interested in establishing and contesting a particular right, individuals may be selected on the one side as Plts to assert, and on the other as Defts to contest, the claim, and the right may be finally determined in an action thus constituted, so as to bind all parties, though not actually present as parties to the action: see Commrs. of Sewers v. Gellatly, 3 Ch. D. 610, 615; and see Dan. 196, 362.

The order should state that the Court has proceeded in the absence of any person representing, or entitled to represent, the estate of the deceased person, or has appointed some person to represent such estate: Re Richerson, Scales v. Heyhoe, (1893) 3 Ch. 146.

Under this rule a part owner of a ship may sue on behalf of himself and his co-owners: De Hart v. Stevenson, 1 Q. B. D. 313.

The rule is not confined to persons who have or claim some beneficial proprietary right: D. of Bedford v. Ellis, (1901) A. C. 1, H. L., observing upon Temperton v. Russell, (1893) 1 Q. B. 435, 715, C. A.

When numerous persons have the same interest, if one of them is sued as a Deft an order should be obtained in the form "It appearing that the residuary legatees [or other class] are numerous, and that A. is one of them, order that A. do defend on behalf of or for the benefit of all persons so interested," and when such an order is made the absent parties are bound as though they had been present throughout: May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 718.

In a bondholders' action, an order having been made in favour of the class represented by the Plt, a dissentient member of the class could not appeal; but, semble, his proper course was to apply to the Court below to be made Deft: Watson v. Cave, 17 Ch. D. 19, C. A. Where Plts sued on behalf of a class except Deft, but did not obtain an order enabling the Deft to be sued as representing dissentients, another member of the class was at his own instance made Deft to represent all such dissentients: Fraser v. Cooper, Hall & Co., 21 Ch. D. 718.

In the case of the ordinary action by a creditor for admon of a deceased debtor's real and personal estate, the writ must be indorsed with a claim on behalf of himself and all other the creditors: Re Royle, Fyer v. R., 5 Ch. D. 540; Worraker v. Pryor, 2 Ch. D. 109; Re Vincent, 26 W. R. 94; not following Cooper v. Blissett, 1 Ch. D. 691; Dan. 196; secus, where admon of personal estate only is sought: Re Blount, Naylor v. B., 27 W. R. 865; Re Greaves, Bray v. Tofield, 18 Ch. D. 554.

By r. 32, "(a) in any case in which the right of an heir-at-law, or the next of kin, or a class, shall depend upon the construction which the Court or a Judge may put upon an instrument, and it shall not be known or shall be difficult to ascertain, who is or are such heir-at-law, or next of kin, or class, and the Court or a Judge shall consider that in order to save expense, or for some other reason, it will be convenient to have the questions of construction determined before such heir-at-law, next of kin, or class, shall have been ascertained by means of inquiry or otherwise, the Court or Judge may appoint some one or more persons to represent such heir-at-law, next of kin, or class, and the judgment of the Court or Judge in the presence of such persons shall be binding upon the heir-at-law, next of kin, or class so represented.

"(b) In any other case in which an heir-at-law, or customary heir, or any next of kin or a class shall be interested in any proceedings, the Court or Judge may, if, having regard to the nature and extent of the interest of such persons or any of them, it shall appear expedient on account of the difficulty of ascertaining such persons, or in order to save expense, appoint one or more persons to represent such heir, or to represent all or any of such next of kin or class, and the judgment or order of the Court or Judge in the presence of the persons so appointed shall be binding upon the persons so represented."

Devisees who might prove to be entitled under a will other than that which had been admitted to probate were treated as a class under the rule: Re Nash; Lewis v. Darby, W. N. (93) 199.

In illustration of this rule, see Re Peppitt's Estate, Chester v. Phillips, 4 Ch. D. 230, Form 4, sup., in which case questions as to the meaning of the words "heirs" and "children" arose on a will, and great difficulty in discovering the heir was apprehended; and see Re Gardiner, W. N. (87) 59.

On the decease of an interested person without a legal pers. represve, the Court, under O. XVI, 46, may proceed in the absence of a represve, or appoint one for the purposes of the cause, matter, or proceeding, on such notice, if any, as it thinks fit. And the order so made, and any consequent orders, are to bind the deceased's estate as if a duly constituted legal pers. represve had been a party to the cause, matter, or proceeding.

Clause (a) of the rule is adapted from 15 & 16 V. c. 49, s. 44 (now repealed), which was held to be generally applicable only in cases where, from insolvency or some other cause, there was difficulty in obtaining representation to the deceased: Long v. Stone, Kay, App. xii; Davies v. Boulcott, 1 Dr. & Sm. 23; Bliss v. Putman, 29 Beav. 20.

The application is usually made by ex parte motion, but the order may be obtained at the hearing: Mendes v. Guedalla, 10 W. R. 465; Hewitson v. Todhunter, 22 L. J. Ch. 76; 1 W. R. 78; Re Peppitt, Chester v. Phillips, 4 Ch. D. 230, Form 4, sup. p. 120; and see Dan. 251; D. C. F. 75; or, if required in respect of matters pending at Chambers, by ex parte summons: and see Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768.

Before drawing up the order, notice should be given to the person entitled to administer: Davies v. Boulcott, 1 Dr. & Sm. 23; Joint Stock Discount Co. v. Brown, 8 Eq. 376, 380.

An order may be made under the rule against the will of the Defts authorizing them to defend on behalf of a class: Wood v. McCarthy, (1893) 1 Q. B. 775.

An order appointing a person to represent a class, such as next of kin, is not binding on one of the next of kin who has a distinct and independent interest in another capacity: Re Lart, Wilkinson v. Blades, (1896) 2 Ch. 788.

On summons by represve against residuary legatee to determine whether residuary personalty goes to the next of kin, the represve may be appointed to represent the next of kin: Re Hake, W. N. (95) 116.

Under 15 & 16 V. c. 86, s. 44, now repealed by 46 & 47 V. c. 49, the intention being that the Court should have power either to appoint a person to represent the estate, or to go on without a represve, if it considered that the interests of the estate were sufficiently protected (see Joint Stock Discount Co. v. Brown, 8 Eq. 380), a wide discretion was given and exercised as to appointing or dispensing with a represve: Tarratt v. Lloyd, 2 Jur. N. S. 371; Hewitson v. Todhunter, 22 L. J. Ch. 76; 1 W. R. 78.

Accordingly the Court has dispensed with the represve of a person in the same interest with the Plt: Cox v. Taylor, 22 L. J. Ch. 910.

— with the represves of some members of classes of children entitled under a will per stirpes or per capita: Abrey v. Newman, 17 Jur. 153; 10 Ha. App. lvii; 22 L. J. Ch. 627.

— with a represve of one of two exors who had died intestate and insolvent, and to whom representation could not be obtained: Moore v. Morris, 13 Eq. 139; Band v. Randle, 2 W. R. 331; 2 Eq. R. 439; Rogers v. Jones, 1 Sm. & G. 17.

But a represve could not be dispensed with:

—where the estate of the deceased person was that which was being administered, or against which relief was sought in the action: Silber v. Stein, 1 Drew. 295; Rowlands v. Evans, 33 Beav. 202; Bruiton v. Birch, 22 L. J. Ch. 911; 1 Eq. R. 136; or, being subject to liability, was not otherwise represented in the action: Cox v. Stephens, 11 W. R. 922; 9 Jur. N. S. 1144; 8 L. T. 721.

—nor where the represve of the deceased person had active duties to perform: Fowler v. Bayldon, 9 Ha. App. lxxviii.

—nor to enable the solrs of a sued party to receive a small sum out of Court: Rawlins v. M'Mahon, 1 Drew. 225.

—nor where Deft in a foreclosure action died insolvent before foreclosure absolute: Aylward v. Lewis, (1891) 2 Ch. 81.

The Court would not appoint a person against his will to represent the estate of a deceased person: P. of Wales Co. v. Palmer, 25 Beav. 605; Hill v. Bonner, 26 Beav. 372; Joint Stock Discount Co. v. Brown, 8 Eq. 380; and see Re Curtis and Betts, W. N. (87) 126; nor where there was personal responsibility attached to the position: Fyfe's Case, 17 W. R. 870.

The proper person to be appointed was the person who would be appointed admor ad litem: Dean of Ely v. Gayford, 16 Beav. 561; and where the will was disputed, the person named as exor: Hill v. Ld. Bexley, 15 Beav. 340; Robertson v. Kemble, W. N. (67) 305.

The represve of a policy holder who died insolvent and intestate was dispensed with in an action by an equitable mortgagee of the policy against the insurance co., the next of kin disclaiming and declining to take out admon: Curtius v. Caledonian Ins. Co., 19 Ch. D. 534, C. A.; but quære, whether the mere fact of the insolvency of the assured would be sufficient: Webster v. British Empire Ass. Co., 15 Ch. D. 169, C. A.

Where a sole Plt died insolvent and intestate, a person to represent his estate was appointed, so that the Deft might have some one against whom to move for dismissal for want of prosecution: Wingrove v. Thompson, 11 Ch. D. 419.

CHAPTER X.

CONSENT AND COMPROMISE.

1. Judgment or Order made by Consent.

AND the Plt and the Defts A. and B. [or all parties] by their counsel consenting to the following judgment [or order], This Court doth order &c.

This form is to be used where the judgment or order contains several directions, all of which are consented to; in other cases the words "by consent" should preface the particular direction, as in Form 2, and every order made by consent should show that fact on its face: Michel v. Mutch, 34 W. R. 251; 54 L. T. 45; 55 L. J. Ch. 485.

2. Direction inserted by Consent in Judgment or Order.

AND it is by consent ordered &c.

For forms of waivers, undertakings, or submissions prefatory to decrees, judgments, or orders, see inf. Chap. XIV., "FRAME OF JUDGMENTS."

3. Stay of Proceedings on the Terms of a Compromise.

UPON motion &c. that the Defts might be restrained &c., And upon reading &c., And the Defts having paid to the Plt the sum of £—(agreed sum) in full satisfaction of all damages and costs, This Court doth by consent order that all further proceedings in this action, except such as may be necessary for enforcing this order, be stayed upon the terms set forth in the schedule hereto [add schedule stating terms of the proposed compromise,—as that the Defts be at liberty to carry up and build their building &c. to the top of the third storey from the ground, and to roof the same in with a slanting roof as shown in the plan made by P., in the Plt's affidavit mentioned, the Defts by their counsel undertaking not to carry the said building higher than the top of the said third storey from the ground with such slanting roof as aforesaid].—See Fawcett v. Nevile, Greenlay v. Nevile, Lush, J., for V.-C. H., 23 Oct. 1878, A. 2013, 2033.

A compromise ought not to be introduced into the body of the order, but either identified or scheduled.

For orders to stay proceedings upon terms imposed by the Court, see inf. p. 131.

NOTES.

By the Jud. Act, 1873, s. 49, no order made by the High Court of Justice, or any Judge thereof, by the consent of the parties, shall be subject to any appeal, except by leave of the Court or Judge making such order.

Primâ facie any order made in the presence and with the consent of counsel is binding on all parties to the proceedings or action, and on those claiming under them: Stannard v. Harrison, 19 W. R. 811; 24 L. T. 570; Harrison v. Rumsey, 2 Ves. 488; Moss v. Leatham, 2 Moo. P. C. 73, and cannot be varied or discharged unless obtained by fraud, or collusion, or by an agreement contrary to the policy of the Court: see Buck v. Fawcett, 3 P. W. 242; Cole v. Langford, (1898) 2 Q. B. 36; Bowker v. Hunter, 2 Dick. 611, where agreements not to appeal were held bad; or if the consent was given without sufficient materials, or in misapprehension or ignorance of material facts, or in general for a reason which would enable the Court to set aside an agreement: see Wilding v. Sanderson, (1897) 2 Ch. 534, C. A.; Huddersfield Banking Co. v. Lister, (1895) 2 Ch. 273, C. A.; Holt v. Jesse, 3 Ch. D. 183, 4; Davenport v. Stafford, 8 Beav. 508; Furnival v. Bogle, 4 Russ. 142; Exp. Banner, Re Blythe, 17 Ch. D. 480, C. A.; and see Carew v. Cooper, 12 W. R. 767; A. G. v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388; and though the mistake was on one side only: Mullins v. Howell, 11 Ch. D. 763; if such mistake was induced by the other party: Wilding v. Sanderson, (1897) 2 Ch. 534, C. A.; Jennings v. J., (1898) 1 Ch. 378. And the admission of an exor as to his testator's liability, if made bonâ fide, is binding on the residuary legatee: Re Youngs, Doggett v. Revett, 30 Ch. D. 421, C. A.

Even on application of both parties a judgment by consent cannot be set aside, if a third person would thereby be prejudiced, e.g., an alleged joint contractor with Deft: The Belcairn, 10 P. D. 161, C. A.; Hammond v. Schofield, (1891) 1 Q. B. 452; and see Huddersfield Banking Co. v. Lister, sup.

As a general rule both the solr in the action (not, however, it seems, his clerks, unless specially authorized, see Hodson v. Drewry, 7 Dowl. Prac. Ca. 569) and counsel have power to bind their client by a contract or compromise, or abandonment of claim made in Court, unless the compromise includes matters not within the scope of the action, or their authority to compromise has been expressly restricted or prohibited, or the terms consented to by the client have, by misapprehension, been departed from: see Lewis's v. Lewis, 45 Ch. D. 281; Matthews v. Munster, 20 Q. B. D. 141, C. A.; Strauss v. Francis, L. R. 1 Q. B. 379; Rumsey v. King, 33 L. T. 728; Butler v. Knight, L. R. 2 Ex. 109; Re Wood, 21 W. R. 104; Thomas v. Harris, 27 L. J. Ex. 353; Prestwich v. Poley, 18 C. B. N. S. 806 (limiting and explaining Swinfen v. S., 2 D. & J. 381; 1 C. B. N. S. 364; 18 C. B. 485; Fray v. Voules, 1 Ell. & E. 839); Cordery, Solicitors, 88; and counsel has authority to consent not to appeal: Re West Devon Great Consols Mine, 38 Ch. D. 51, C. A.

Where acting upon general instructions, counsel consents to a compromise under misapprehension, neither the counsel nor the client is bound; and upon the question of the extent of the authority of counsel, the Court will accept the statement of counsel if made from his place at the Bar, without requiring it to be made on oath: Hickman v. Berens, (1895) 2 Ch. 638, C. A.; approving Holt v. Jesse, 3 Ch. D. 177.

After a judgment has been passed and entered (by being filed, see O. LXII, 2 (1), whether taken by consent or otherwise, the Court cannot set it aside otherwise than in a fresh action brought for the purpose (Ainsworth v. Wilding, (1896) 1 Ch. 673; Preston Banking Co. v. Allsup, (1895) 1 Ch. 141, C. A.; Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259, 266; Emeris v. Woodward, 43 Ch. D. 185; and see Flower v. Lloyd, 6 Ch. D. 297), unless (1) there has been a clerical mistake or an error arising from an accidental slip or omission within O. XXVIII, 11, or (2) the judgment as drawn up does not correctly state what the Court actually decided and intended to decide (in which cases the application may be made by motion in the action: Ainsworth v. Wilding, sup.), but in general and in the absence of conflicting evidence (see S. C.) until the judgment or order by consent has been drawn up, passed, and entered—but not afterwards—it is open to any of the parties to withdraw a consent given under mistake, misapprehension, or ignorance of material facts: A. G. v. Tomline, 7 Ch. D. 388; Craven v. Stanley, M. R., 5 May, 1876, Reg. Min. fo. 39; S. C., 4 Ch. D. 251; and see Rogers v. Horn, 26 W. R. 432; but the consent, once given, cannot be withdrawn arbitrarily: Harvey v. Croydon Union, 26 Ch. D. 249, C. A.; Elsas v. Williams, 54 L. J. Ch. 336; West Devon Great Consols Mines, 38 Ch. D. 51, C. A.; Holt v. Jesse, 3 Ch. D. 177; or on the mere allegation that the consent was given inadvertently, without evidence of mistake or misapprehension: Davis v. D., 13 Ch. D. 861.

The action to set aside the consent judgment on the ground of mistake may be maintained by a party who has failed to obtain from the Court a decision in his favour upon the construction of it: Wilding v. Sanderson, (1897) 2 Ch. 534, C. A.

But although the Court has no jurisdiction to alter or vary an order after it has been passed or entered, it may make a supplemental order, e.g., an order excluding a party from the benefit of a previous order except upon terms as to costs or otherwise: Re Scowby, (1897) 1 Ch. 741, C. A.

A co. or corp. may be bound by consent to an order, or by the compromise of an action or claim in the same way as a private person: Bath's Case, 8 Ch. D. 334; Dixon v. Evans, L. R. 5 H. L. 606, 618; but in order to bind a co. there ought, it seems, to be some formal proceeding, either by the action of the directors sitting as such, or something equivalent to a resolution of the shareholders in general meeting: Miles v. New Zealand Alford Estate Co., 32 Ch. D. 266, C. A.

An agreement by a local board compromising an action not being a contract necessary for carrying the Public Health Act, 1875, into execution, was enforceable though not under seal: A. G. v. Gaskill, 32 Ch. D. 537.

In the case of infants, the Court, though it has power to sanction a compromise on their behalf (v. inf. Vol. II., Chap. XXXVIII., "INFANTS": Hopgood v. Parkin, 11 Eq. 80), will not make an order affecting their interests, by arrangement, unless satisfied that it will be for their benefit, and that it has been consented to by their next friend or guardian ad litem, and also by their solrs or counsel: Re Birchall, Wilson v. B., 16 Ch. D. 41, C. A. (where Jessel, M. R., stated the practice adopted by himself and his predecessor). A next friend has no authority to bind the infant by a compromise which is only for the next friend's benefit, as by agreeing after non-suit not to appeal in consideration of the Deft not asking for costs: Rhodes v. Swithinbank, 22 Q. B. D. 577, C. A. An inquiry may be directed to ascertain whether the compromise is for the benefit of the infant.

A trustee in bankruptcy, suing in that capacity, has the right of an ordinary litigant to compromise the action: Leeming v. Lady Murray, 13 Ch. D. 123.

As to incapacity of repesve Defts to consent to judgment against those whom they represent, see Rees v. Richmond, 62 L. T. 427.

As to the effect of an order of compromise in an admon action made in the presence of the parties and sanctioned by the Court, and rescinding a contract for the purchase of land by the testator, on the terms that the vendor should retain the deposit money, see In re Cockcroft, Broadbent v. Groves, 24 Ch. D. 94, 101.

A bonâ fide compromise of a real claim is a good consideration, whether the claim would have been successful or not: Miles v. New Zealand Alford Estate Co., 32 Ch. D. 266, C. A.; approving Cook v. Wright, 1 B. & S. 559; Callisher v. Bischoffsheim, L. R. 5 Q. B. 449; Ockford v. Barelli, 20 W. R. 116; 25 L. T. 504; and questioning Exp. Banner, Re Blythe, 17 Ch. D. 480, C. A.

There is no rule that parties may not compromise an action without the intervention of their solrs, but they must do so honestly, and not with intent to cheat the solrs of their proper charges: The Hope, 8 P. D. 146, C. A.; Price v. Couch, 60 L. J. Q. B. 767; Re Margetson and Jones, (1897) 2 Ch. 314 (where one solr attempted to defeat the lien of another solr employed to tax the bill of the former); and see Dunthorne v. Bunbury, 24 L. R. Ir. 6; and the solr's lien for costs attaches to money received by way of compromise, where it is in substance the fruit of the action: Ross v. Buxton, 42 Ch. D. 190; Moxon v. Sheppard, 14 Q. B. D. 627; and see inf. Vol. II., Chap. XL., "SOLICITORS." Where an order was made directing taxation of costs and staying all proceedings, except for the purpose of enforcing a compromise, as the parties were the only persons who could apply to enforce the agreement, the solr could not obtain payment of his costs under it: Rowlands v. Williams, 53 L. T. 135; W. N. (85), 194.

A compromise entered into after Plt's death and before grant of admon was enforceable by the admix, as the admon related back to the death: Baker v. Blaker, 55 L. T. 723.

Where proceedings are compromised, an order may be made by consent in the terms of the agreement of compromise, at the trial, or on any interlocutory application, or on appeal: see Fawcett v. Neville, Form 3, sup. p. 124;

Re Briscoe's Trusts, 20 W. R. 504; 26 L. T. 149; Hopgood v. Parkin, 11 Eq. 80.

Or an independent application may be made to stay proceedings on the terms of the agreement: Eden v. Naish, 7 Ch. D. 781.

Such an application may be made in Chambers or by motion: S. C. In cases of complication it has been made by petition: Dawson v. Newsome, 2 Giff. 272; 8 W. R. 725. For forms, see D. C. F. 1022, 1023.

Upon such an application the Court will enforce the agreement against an unwilling party to it, even though it includes proceedings in different Divisions: Eden v. Naish, sup.; Scully v. Lord Dundonald, 8 Ch. D. 658; et v. inf. Chap. L., "SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE," pp. 2284, 2285.

An order by consent dismissing an action for want of prosecution, unless it proceeds upon a compromise of the action, is no bar to another action between the same parties in respect of the same subject-matter: Magnus v. Nat. Bk. of Scotland, 58 L. T. 617; 57 L. J. Ch. 902; 36 W. R. 602; but see Parker v. Simpson, 18 W. R. 204.

As to the jurisdiction of the Court under Jud. Act, 1875, s. 24 (7), to enforce a compromise in the winding up of a co., see Re Gaudet Frères Steamship Co., 12 Ch. D. 882.

As to the jurisdiction of the Court to enforce a compromise on summary application in the action, see Dan. 16; and as to compromise on behalf of persons under disability, see Dan. 46.

COMPROMISE IN ABSENCE OF PARTIES INTERESTED.

By O. XVI, 9a, "where in proceedings concerning a trust, a compromise is prepared, and some of the persons interested in the compromise are not parties to the proceedings, but there are other persons in the same interest before the Court and assenting to the compromise, the Court or a Judge, if satisfied that the compromise will be for the benefit of the absent persons, and that to require service on such persons would cause unreasonable expense or delay, may approve the compromise and order that the same shall be binding on the absent persons, and they shall be bound accordingly, except where the order has been obtained by fraud or non-disclosure of material facts."

The Court under this rule can bind non-assenting or absent persons, but not dissentients, otherwise than by setting aside the full amount to which they can be entitled: Collingham v. Sloper, (1894) 3 Ch. 716, O. A.; and see S. C. (No. 2), (1901) 1 Ch. 769, O. A. And the Court has no jurisdiction to limit a time within which unascertained bondholders or other parties concerned must come in, or be excluded: Ib. For a case in which the Court sanctioned a compromise in the absence of three out of seven residuary legatees, see Re Wrigglesworth, W. N. (01) 172.

CHAPTER XI.

DISCONTINUANCE AND DISMISSAL.

SECTION I.—DISCONTINUANCE OF ACTION.

1. Judgment after Notice of Discontinuance—O. xxvi, 3.

THE Plt having by a notice in writing wholly discontinued his action [or withdrawn so much of his claim in this action as relates to —], and the Taxing Master having taxed the costs of the Deft [or of so much of this action as relates to—] as by the Taxing Master's certificate filed &c., appears at £—, It is this day adjudged that the Deft B. do recover against the Plt A. the said sum of £—.

For another form, see D. C. F. 283.

2. Order to Discontinue—O. xxvi, 1.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Plt, and upon hearing counsel for the Defts, and upon reading &c., this Court doth [if so, by consent] order that this action be discontinued; And it is ordered that the Plt A., do on or before &c., pay to the Defts B. and C. their costs of this action, to be taxed [if so, where discontinuance is as to one of several Defts, add:] And such discontinuance and payment of costs are to be without prejudice to the question by whom, or out of what fund, such costs shall be ultimately borne.

3. Counter-claim dismissed by Consent.

UPON the application &c., It is, by consent, ordered that the counter-claim delivered by I. stand dismissed out of this Court as against B. without costs.—Union Bank of London v. Ingram, M. R. at Chambers, 19 April, 1877, B. 798.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 284.

NOTES.

By O. xxvi, 1, "the Plt may, at any time before receipt of the Deft's defence, or after the receipt thereof, before taking any other proceeding in the action (save any interlocutory application), by notice in writing wholly discontinue his action against all or any of the Defts, or withdraw any part or parts of his alleged cause of complaint, and thereupon he shall pay such Deft's costs of the action, or, if the action be not wholly discontinued, his costs occasioned by the matter so withdrawn. Such costs shall be taxed, and such discontinuance or withdrawal, as the case may be, shall not be a defence to any subsequent action. Save as in this rule provided, it shall not be competent for the Plt to withdraw the record or discontinue the action without leave of the Court or a Judge, but the Court or a Judge may, before, or at, or after the hearing or trial, upon such terms as to costs, and as to any other action, and otherwise as may be just, order the action to be discontinued, or any part of the alleged cause of complaint to be struck out. The Court or a Judge may, in like manner, and with the like discretion as to terms, upon the application of a Deft, order the whole or any part of his alleged grounds of defence or counter-claim to be withdrawn, or struck out; but it shall not be competent to a Deft to withdraw his defence, or any part thereof, without such leave."

By Cons. Ord. 23, r. 13, upon which the above order was founded, a dismissal of the bill, upon the Plt's own application after the cause was set down to be heard, or, on his default at the hearing, was, unless the Court otherwise ordered, equivalent to a dismissal on the merits, and might be pleaded in bar to a second suit for the same matter.

Under this rule, the Plt, notwithstanding a pending motion for an injunction, was entitled to dismiss his bill with costs: Markwick v. Pawson, 4 N. R. 528; and see Curtis v. Lloyd, 4 My. & Cr. 194.

The only way in which an action can be discontinued is under O. XXVI, 1, and a Plt can no longer elect to be non-suited: Fox v. Star Newspaper Co., (1898) 1 Q. B. 636, C. A.; (1900) A. C. 19, H. L.; Dan. 481.

There is jurisdiction under the rule, on the application of the Plt, to make an order staying all proceedings, each party to bear his own costs, except such as were unnecessarily occasioned to the Defts: Musman v. Borst, 40 W. R. 352; 66 L. T. 171; distinguishing Lambton v. Parkinson, 35 W. R. 545; but the Deft will not be compelled to pay costs in auxiliary proceedings before another tribunal: Lloyd's Bk. v. Princess Royal Colliery, 48 W. R. 460. The words "Court or Judge" include a Master in Ch. D.: S. C. (No. 2), W. N. (00) 99; 82 L. T. 559; 48 W. R. 427.

By O. XXVI, 3, a Deft may enter judgment for the costs of an action if it is wholly discontinued, or for the costs occasioned by the matter withdrawn if the action be not wholly discontinued, in case such costs are not paid within four days after taxation.

The application to discontinue or to dismiss may, if the Deft consents, be by petition of course, but otherwise by motion or summons.

An application to dismiss certain Defts with their costs, but without prejudice to the question by whom, or out of what fund, such costs should ultimately be paid, may be made by motion ex parte: see Berndston v. Churchill, W. N. (66) 8; Clements v. Clifford, 14 W. R. 22.

The parties by whom, and to whom, the costs are to be paid should be named in the order, with a view to suing out process under O. XLII, 17; and see Re Leeds Banking Co., 1 Ch. 150.

A written notice by the Plt's solrs stating that they are "instructed not to proceed further with the action" is a sufficient notice of discontinuance: The Pomerania, 4 P. D. 195; but see Moore v. Dickinson, 38 W. R. 278; 63 L. T. 371.

The words "taking any other proceeding in the action," in the beginning of O. XXVI, 1, refer to a proceeding which is with the view of continuing the action, not of putting an end to it, as by taking out of Court money paid in satisfaction of claim: Spencer v. Watts, 23 Q. B. D. 350.

Discontinuance of action puts an end to an appeal, which will be simply struck out: Conybeare v. Lewis, 13 Ch. D. 469, C. A.

An amendment which entirely alters the ground of action cannot be treated as a discontinuance: Bourne v. Coulter, 53 L. J. Ch. 699; 50 L. T. 321.

Plt is not entitled to discontinue his action after it has been entered for trial: Matthews v. Antrobus, 49 L. J. Ch. 80.

After a finding of the arbitrator in favour of the Deft on all material points, the Plt will not be allowed to discontinue his action: Stahlschmidt v. Walford, 4 Q. B. D. 217.

Where Plt is induced to discontinue by improper action of Deft (e.g., by adducing false evidence), the remedy for consequent loss is by an independent action: United Telephone Co. v. Tasker, 59 L. T. 852.

Discontinuance by Plt does not put an end to a counter-claim by Deft: McGowan v. Middleton, 11 Q. B. D. 464, C. A.; overruling Vavasseur v. Krupp, 15 Ch. D. 474; nor relieve solrs who have instituted the action without authority from being ordered to pay Plt's costs: Gold Reefs of W. Australia v. Dawson, (1897) 1 Ch. 115.

By O. XXVI, 4, "if any subsequent action shall be brought before payment of the costs of a discontinued action, for the same, or substantially the same, cause of action, the Court or a Judge may, if they or he think fit, order a stay of such subsequent action until such costs have been paid." For an instance of the exercise of the jurisdiction under this rule, see Hall v. Paulet, 66 L. T. 645.

An action in the High Court, where the subject-matter is under 10*l.*, will be dismissed with costs; the High Court having now only the jurisdiction the Court of Chancery and Courts of Common Law had before the Judicature Act: Westbury-on-Severn Rural Sanitary Authority v. Meredith, 30 Ch. D. 387, C. A.

Under O. XIX, 7, a further and better statement of the nature of the claim or defence, or further and better particulars, may be ordered upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as may be just; and r. 8 provides that an order for particulars should not operate as a stay of proceedings, unless the order otherwise provides.

For forms of orders for particulars, see R. S. C. App. K. Forms 11, 12, 12a, 13; and as to particulars generally, v. sup. pp. 39, 40.

SECTION II.—STAY OF PROCEEDINGS.

1. Proceedings stayed until Satisfaction of Judgment in another Division.

UPON motion &c., This Court doth order that all further proceedings in this action be stayed until after the Plt shall have paid to the Defts the sum of £—, which by the judgment of the Q. B. Division, dated &c., in an action wherein &c., was awarded to be paid by the Plt C. to the Defts M. and G. for their costs of the defence of the said action in the Q. B. Division.—Direction for taxation and payment by the Plt C. of the costs of the Defts M. and G. of this motion.—Cannot v. Morgan, V.-C. M., 16 Dec. 1875, A. 1937.

For various forms of application in reference to stay of proceedings, see D. C. F. 1018 et seq.

2. Stay of Proceedings until Payment of Costs by Plt.

UPON motion &c. for the Defts, And upon hearing counsel for the Plts, and upon reading &c. (order directing taxation and payment of costs by Plts, the Taxing Master's certificate, &c.), This Court doth order that all further proceedings in this action be stayed until the costs by the said order directed to be taxed and paid be paid by the Plts W. &c. to the Defts B. &c.; And the Defts' costs of this application, and consequent thereon, are to be costs in the action.—White v. Bromige, V.-C. H., 4 Aug. 1877, B. 1620.

For the subsequent order to dismiss the action for want of prosecution without further order, in default of payment of such taxed costs by a day specified, see S. C., SECT. III., inf. p. 136.

For order upon adjourned summons staying all further proceedings in an action, on the ground that it was frivolous, vexatious, and an abuse of the process of the Court, see Edmunds v. A. G., V.-C. M., 9 March, 1878, A. 627; 26 W. R. 550; 47 L. J. Ch. 345; 38 L. T. 213.

3. Stay of Proceedings without Costs on Submission by Defts to Plt's Demand.

UPON motion &c. for the Defts &c., and the Defts (exors of a will under which Plt claimed an annuity) by their counsel undertaking to pay to the Plt the sum of £—, and it appearing that the Defts have set apart a sufficient sum to meet the annuity of £— in the statement of claim mentioned, This Court doth order that all further proceedings in this action be stayed, but without costs to either party.—See Rudd v. Rowe, V.-C. J., 30 June, 1870, B. 1936; 10 Eq. 610.

4. Stay of Proceedings on Terms.

UPON the application of the Deft &c.; And both parties by their solrs consenting to this order, and the Plt, by his solr, undertaking, after payment of his costs, hereinafter mentioned, to vacate the registration of the charge registered by him &c., and to enter up satisfaction of the judgment and execution in the action in the Q. B. Division, It is ordered that upon the Deft paying to the Plt B. the sum of £— due to the Plt upon an agreement dated &c., and interest thereon at the rate of £— p. c. per ann. from the — day of —, and also the costs of the Plt as mortgagee, to be taxed &c., all further proceedings in this action be stayed.—Beal v. Morris, V.-C. H. at Chambers, 24 March, 1879, A. 653.

5. Stay of Proceedings as to Party Wall on Undertaking by Consent.

UPON motion &c. for the Plts, And upon hearing counsel for the Deft, and the Deft by his counsel undertaking on or before &c., to serve an amended notice stating the kind and extent of buildings which he proposes to erect, and to give the Plts a month from service of the amended notice for giving their counter-notice, and the Plts by their counsel consenting to the Deft's retaining the benefit of the notice dated &c., so that the Deft can commence work on &c., This Court doth by consent order that all further proceedings in this action be stayed.—Hobbs v. Grover, C. A., 16 Nov. 1898, A. 4178; (1899) 1 Ch. 2, C. A.

6. Order preventing frequent frivolous Applications in pending Actions.

UPON motion &c. by the Plt H. W. G., in person, on behalf of himself and the Plts in the first-mentioned action, to arrest the minutes of judgment in the second-mentioned action on the following grounds,—(1) that an alleged fraud had been committed on the Court and on the infant Plts and Defts by &c.; (2) that an alleged fraudulent conspiracy was entered into between &c., to prevent the judgment in the first-mentioned action from being carried into execution; (3) that the Court would direct the official referee to inquire into the nature of this case on the grounds of alleged fraud &c., and upon hearing counsel for &c., Dismiss application with costs. And Let the applicants, or any of them, be not allowed to make any further applications in these actions, or either of them, to this Court or to the Court below, without the leave of this Court being first obtained. And if notice of any such application shall be given without such leave being obtained, the respondents shall not be required to appear upon such application, and it shall be dismissed without being heard.—Grepe v. Loam, C. A., 4th Nov. 1887, A. 1622.

7. Injunction against Proceeding with Arbitration.

Usual undertaking as to damages. Let the Defts W. M. & Co. be restrained until judgment in this action or until further order from proceeding or attempting to proceed with any arbitration having reference to any disputes between the Plt and the Defts in respect of the cargo of hay or the partnership in the writ mentioned. Costs of the motion to be costs in the action.—See Kitts v. Moore & Co., Vac. Judge for North, J., 17 Oct. 1894, A. 09, affirmed by C. A., 4 Dec. 1894, A. 0389, (1895) 1 Q. B. 253.

NOTES.

Proceedings in an action may be stayed:—

(a.) If the writ of summons has been issued without the authority or privity of the solr whose name is indorsed thereon, in which case “no further proceedings shall be taken thereupon without leave of the Court or a Judge”: O. VII, 1. As to the authority requisite, see Dan. 263 et seq.; Cordery, 78 et seq.

(b.) If, in an action by partners in the name of a firm, the Plts or their solr fail to comply with a demand in writing by the Deft for a declaration in writing of the names and places of residence of all the persons constituting the firm—but, “when the names of the partners are so declared, the action shall proceed in the same manner and the same consequences in all respects shall follow as if they had been named as the Plts in the writ”: O. XLVIII, r. 2.

(c.) If any question of law, which it would be convenient to have decided before any evidence is given, or any question or issue of fact is decided, has been directed to be raised for the opinion of the Court by special case, or in such other manner as the Court or a Judge may deem expedient, in which case “all such further proceedings as the decision of such question of law may render unnecessary, may thereupon be stayed”: O. XXXIV, 2; and see Dixon v. Rowe, 35 L. T. 548.

The Court has jurisdiction to restrain a creditor whose debt is bond fide disputed from presenting a petition to wind up a solvent co.: Cercle Restaurant Castiglione Co. v. Lavery, 18 Ch. D. 535; and see in Re A Company, (1894) 2 Ch. 349, where the Court restrained the advertisement of an oppressive winding-up petition, and stayed all proceedings upon it.

An action for malicious prosecution is not necessarily frivolous and vexatious because the prosecution was by a trustee in bankruptcy brought by order of the Court: Mittens v. Foreman, 58 L. J. Q. B. 40.

For form of order, where repeated frivolous applications had been made, prohibiting any further applications without the leave of the Court, see Grepe v. Loam, Bulsteel v. Grepe, 37 Ch. D. 168, C. A., v. sup. p. 131.

By the Vexatious Actions Act, 1896 (59 & 60 V. c. 51), s. 1, the A. G. is empowered to apply to the High Court for an order under the Act, and if he satisfies the High Court that any person has habitually and persistently instituted vexatious legal proceedings without any reasonable ground for instituting such proceedings, whether in the High Court or in any inferior Court, and whether against the same person or against different persons, the Court may, after hearing such person or giving him an opportunity of being heard, after assigning counsel in case such person is unable on account of poverty to retain counsel, order that no legal proceedings shall be instituted by that person in the High Court or any other Court, unless he obtains the leave of the High Court or some Judge thereof, and satisfies the Court or Judge that such legal proceeding is not an abuse of the process of the Court, and that there is prima facie ground for such proceeding. A copy of such order shall be published in the London Gazette.

The Act is retrospective. In making an order under it, the Court will look at the number, general character and result of actions brought, and if these have been of a vexatious character, habitually and persistently instituted without reasonable ground, an order will be made: Exp. A. G., Re Alexander Chaffers, 76 L. T. 351; 45 W. R. 365.

An action may also be stayed as frivolous, vexatious, and an abuse of the process of the Court: Dawkins v. Prince Edward of Saxe Weimar, 1 Q. B. D. 499; Edmunds v. A. G., 26 W. R. 550; 47 L. J. Ch. 345; 38 L. T. 213; Castro v. Murray, L. R. 10 Ex. 213; and see Lawrance v. Lord Norreys, 39 Ch. D. 213, C. A.; S. C., 15 App. Ca. 210; Willis v. Earl Howe, (1893) 2 Ch. 543; Willis v. Earl Beauchamp, 11 P. D. 59, C. A.; Macdougall v. Knight, 25 Q. B. D. 1, C. A.; Metropolitan Bank v. Pooley, 10 App. Ca. 210; Kellaway v. Bury, 66 L. T. 599; Dan. 1649.

If the Plt's title to sue has, since judgment, been put an end to, e. g., in an admon action by revocation and fresh grant of admon, all further proceedings may be stayed on the application of the person who has acquired the title to sue: Houseman v. H., 1 Ch. D. 535.

Proceedings may also be stayed without costs where the Deft offers to comply with the Plt's demand, and would have done so if applied to before suit: Rudd v. Rowe, 10 Eq. 610, Form 3, sup.

If the Plt has been ordered to pay, or give security for costs, or to do any act, proceedings in his action may be stayed until compliance with such order, and in default the Deft may take proceedings to obtain an order to dismiss for want of prosecution.

Mere non-payment of costs of interlocutory proceedings by a Plt is not a ground for staying proceedings: Re Wickham, Marony v. Taylor, 35 Ch. D. 272, C. A. (dissenting from Re Youngs, Doggett v. Revett, 31 Ch. D. 239; and Re Neal, Weston v. Neal, 31 Ch. D. 437); Morton v. Palmer, 9 Q. B. D. 89; secus, where payment of costs is vexatiously withheld and an application is made before trial: Re Wickham, sup.; or if the action is vexatious, or has been vexatiously conducted by Plt: Graham v. Sutton Carden & Co., (1897) 2 Ch. 367, C. A.; but where a Plt having failed in one action, brings another action for the same cause, the second action must be stayed until the costs in the first have been paid: McCabe v. Bank of Ireland, 14 App. Ca. 413; Martin v. Earl Beauchamp, 25 Ch. D. 12; Morton v. Palmer, sup.; though in the second action the Plt sues in a different character, if substantially by virtue of the same alleged title: Martin v. Earl Beauchamp, sup.; and see Peters v. Tilly, 11 P. D. 145; Denis v. Gorman, 4 L. R. Ir. 356; secus, where the second proceeding is by the liquidator in the winding-up of the Plt. co.: Re United Service Assoc., (1901) 1 Ch. 97; and where an action by a married woman by a next friend was dismissed for non-compliance with an order for security for costs, a second action by her by another next friend against same Defts, for same cause, was stayed until the costs of the first action were paid: Re Payne, Randle v. P., 23 Ch. D. 288, C. A.

For case in which proceedings have been stayed pending security for damages, see Richards v. Howell, W. N. (83) 159, 168.

As to staying proceedings where concurrent actions are brought in this country and in a foreign country, on the ground "nemo bis vexari" &c., and that such proceedings cannot be regarded as vexatious where there is a better remedy in the foreign Court, see McHenry v. Lewis, 22 Ch. D. 397, C. A.; Peruvian Guano Co. v. Bockwoldt, 23 Ch. D. 225, C. A.; Hyman v. Helm, 24 Ch. D. 531, C. A.; Re Christiansberg, 10 P. D. 141; Thornton v. T., 11 P. D. 176; Mutrie v. Binney, 35 Ch. D. 614, C. A.

The Court has jurisdiction, under sect. 85 of the Companies Act, 1862, to restrain quasi criminal proceedings against a co. by a common informer, for the recovery of penalties: Re Briton Medical Ass. Assoc., 32 Ch. D. 503.

A groundless action against official liquidators in their personal capacity was stayed: Graham v. Edge, 20 Q. B. D. 683, C. A.

As to staying proceedings in action for recovery of land by next friend of non compos, where Court is of opinion that the action is not beneficial to the non compos, see Waterhouse v. Worsnop, 49 L. T. 140.

As to staying proceedings in action by exor before probate, see Tarn v. Commercial Bank of Sydney, 12 Q. B. D. 294, following Webb v. Adkins, 14 C. B. 401.

As to the jurisdiction to stay proceedings for administration in this country on it appearing that proceedings equally beneficial to infant Plt are pending in a Scotch Court, see Ewing v. Orr-Ewing, 9 App. Ca. 34.

As to staying proceedings under foreclosure judgment against will of Deft, see Blake v. Harvey, 29 Ch. D. 827, C. A., and inf. Chap. XLVII. "MORTGAGES."

By O. LVIII, 16, an appeal is not to operate as a stay of proceedings under the decision appealed from except so far as the Court appealed from, or any Judge thereof, or the Court of Appeal, may order. As to stay of proceedings pending appeal, v. inf. Chap. XXXVI. "APPEALS."

As to transfer and consolidation of actions, v. inf. Chap. XXXIV.

SECTION III.—DISMISSAL FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION.

1. Order to dismiss for not delivering Statement of Claim—

O. XXVII, 1.

UPON the application of the Defts by summons dated &c., and upon hearing the solr for the applicants, who alleged that the Plt has not delivered any statement of claim within the time limited for that purpose, as by an affidavit of &c., filed &c., appears; and upon reading &c. [enter evidence, and if Plt does not appear, an affidavit of service of the summons on him, or, and upon hearing the solr for the Plt], It is ordered that this action do stand dismissed out of this Court for want of prosecution, with costs to be taxed &c. And it is ordered that the Plt A. do pay to the Defts B. &c. the amount of their said costs when taxed.

For forms of application, see D. C. F. 274, 1024 et seq.

2. The Like—In Default of Answer to Interrogatories, or Discovery, or Inspection of Documents—O. xxxi, 21.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Deft, who alleged that the Deft duly delivered interrogatories in writing for the examination of the Plt, and that by an order, dated &c., the Plt was directed to answer the said interrogatories [or that by an order, dated &c., it was ordered: Recite direction for Plt to give discovery or inspection of documents], and that the Plt having been duly served with the said order, has failed to comply therewith, as by the affidavit of &c., filed &c., appears; Whereupon, and upon reading the said order and affidavit, This Court doth order that this action do stand dismissed &c. [Form 1].

Under this rule a party failing to comply with an order to answer interrogatories, or for discovery or inspection, is also liable to attachment, et v. sup. Chap. VIII. "EVIDENCE."

For form of application, see D. C. F. 981.

3. The Like—In Default of giving Notice of Trial—O. xxxvi, 12.

UPON the application of the Deft &c., And upon hearing the solrs for the applicant and for the Plt, It is ordered that in default of the Plt, on or before the — day of —, giving notice to the Deft of the trial of this action, this action do stand dismissed out of this Court for want of prosecution, without further order, with costs to be taxed &c.

For an order, with direction that the costs are to include the Deft's costs of an application for injunction and receiver, see Crick v. Hewlett, Pearson, J., 24 July, 1884, A. 1147; 27 Ch. D. 354.

For order dismissing action unless notice of trial be given and the trial entered within a certain time, see Siever v. Spearman, 74 L. T. 132.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 359.

4. Plt out of Jurisdiction—Dismissal for Want of Prosecution in Default of Security for Costs.

WHEREAS by an order, dated &c., it was ordered that the Plt should, on or before &c., procure some sufficient person on her behalf to give security, according to the course of the Court, by bond to the Deft, in the penal sum of £100, conditioned to answer costs, in case any costs should be awarded to be paid by the Plt M., or in lieu thereof the Plt M. was to be at liberty to lodge in Court, to the credit of &c., "Security for Costs," the sum of £100; Now upon the application of the Deft H., and upon hearing the solrs for the applicant and for the Plt, and upon reading &c., It is ordered that the Plt M. do give security for costs, or lodge the said sum of £100 in Court, as directed by the said order, within one month from the date of this order, or in default thereof it is ordered that this action do, without further order, stand dismissed out of this Court for want of prosecution, with costs to be taxed; And it is ordered that in that case the Plt M. do pay to the Deft H. the amount of her costs when taxed; And it is ordered that in the meantime all further proceedings in this action be stayed.—Patritzke v. Harris, V.-C. H. at Chambers, 27 April, 1878, B. 1132.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 1014.

5. Dismissal in Default of Payment by Plt of Costs under former Order.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for the Defts, who alleged that the Plts had not paid to the Defts the sum of £—, the amount of the costs taxed under the order dated &c.; And upon reading an affidavit of &c., of service of notice of this motion, an order dated &c. (directing taxation and payment of costs by the Plts), the Taxing Master's certificate filed &c., an affidavit of &c., This Court doth order that the Plts A. &c., do on or before the — day of —, pay to the Defts B. &c., the said sum of £—, being the amount of the said taxed costs; And it is ordered that in default of such payment this action do, without further order, stand dismissed out of this Court, with costs, including the costs of this application, such costs to be taxed &c.; And it is ordered that the Plts A. &c., do pay to the Defts B. &c., the amount of their said costs when taxed.—White v. Bromige, V.-C. H., 31 Jan. 1878, B. 290; 26 W. R. 312.

Unless the words “without further order” are inserted, a further order to dismiss upon default being made will be necessary. But see Dan. 628.

NOTES.

DISMISSAL FOR WANT OF PROSECUTION.

A Deft may obtain an order to dismiss the Plt's action for want of prosecution—

(a) If the Plt being bound to deliver a statement of claim does not deliver the same within the time allowed for that purpose (six weeks from Deft's entry of appearance, see O. XX, 1(a): O. XXVII, 1, or other time limited by order for directions under O. XXX, v. sup. p. 25).

(b) If the Plt fails to comply with an order to answer interrogatories or for discovery or inspection of documents: O. XXXI, 21.

(c) If the Plt fails to give notice of trial within six weeks after the close of the pleadings, or within such extended time as may be allowed: O. XXXVI, 12. And so if in London or Middlesex notice is given, but the trial is not entered within six days, as required by O. XXXVI, 16, so that the notice is “no longer in force”: Crick v. Hewlett, 27 Ch. D. 354. It is in the discretion of the Court either to dismiss the action, or to order that it be dismissed unless notice of trial be given and the trial entered within a time certain: Siever v. Spearman, 74 L. T. 132.

(d) If the Plt does not within fourteen days from entry of Deft's appearance take out a summons for directions or for summary judgment under O. XIV: O. XXX, 8.

The C. A. has no original jurisdiction to entertain a motion to dismiss for want of prosecution: Robarts v. French, 43 W. R. 258, C. A.; 72 L. T. 147; W. N. (95) 22.

It seems that in the Chancery Division the application to dismiss for want of prosecution should be made at Chambers rather than by motion in Court: per Jessel, M. R., in Freason v. Lowe, 26 W. R. 138; but if there is reason to expect a contest the motion is properly made in Court: Evelyn v. E., 13 Ch. D. 138. If notice of motion is given, and Plt does not at once submit to speed the cause, and tender the costs of the notice, the Deft, if the usual order is made, will have his costs of the motion in Court: Ibid.; and see Pascoe v. Richards, 29 W. R. 330; 50 L. J. Ch. 337; 44 L. T. 871; Thomas v. Palin, 21 Ch. D. 360.

If the Plt, who has made default in pleading, has become bankrupt, the trustee in bankruptcy must be served with notice of the application to dismiss: Wright v. Swindon Rail. Co., 4 Ch. D. 164.

And see Price v. Rickards, 9 Eq. 35, where the trustee of a creditor's deed of assignment executed by Plt pending suit was ordered within three weeks to take proper proceedings for the purpose of prosecuting the suit, and in default that the bill be dismissed without further order.

Where the Plt appears and gives an explanation of his delay, he is generally put under an undertaking to take further proceedings within some short limited period (a week or fourteen days), and ordered to pay the costs of the application: see Higginbottom v. Aynsley, 3 Ch. D. 288; Sutton v. Huggins, W. N. (75) 235; and the order ought to provide that in default of his taking the particular step within the period limited, the action shall stand dismissed without further order.

If at the end of such extended time the required step has not been taken, the action is at end, and cannot be restored by subsequent order: see Whistler v. Hancock, 3 Q. B. D. 83; Script Phonography Co. v. Gregg, 59 L. J. Ch. 406; Collinson v. Jeffery, (1896) 1 Ch. 644; nor will the consent of the parties to enlarge the time avail: King v. Davenport, 4 Q. B. D. 402; and see Dan. 628.

Filing interrogatories for the examination of the Plt did not affect the Deft's right to dismiss for want of prosecution: Jackson v. Ivimey, 1 Eq. 693; nor an order on Plt to give security for costs, with stay of proceedings, obtained by the Deft: Le Grange v. McAndrew, 4 Q. B. D. 210.

A Deft who has become bankrupt may move to dismiss: Levi v. Heritage, 26 Beav. 560; secus, a Deft in contempt, until his contempt is cleared: Vowles v. Young, 9 Ves. 173; or unless the Plt has so acted as to waive the contempt: Herrett v. Reynolds, 2 Giff. 409.

And non-compliance with an order to make a further affidavit of documents, obtained, but not served on him, does not prevent a Deft from moving to dismiss: Howe v. Grey, 16 L. T. 345.

Where an action has been dismissed for want of prosecution, the same not having been set down, the Plt may bring a new action, but must pay the costs of the old one first: Re Orrell Colliery Co., 12 Ch. D. 681; 28 W. R. 145; and see Magnus v. National Bank of Scotland, 36 W. R. 602.

The costs of an action dismissed for want of prosecution are in the discretion of the Court or Judge under O. LXV, 1; and by sect. 49 of the Judicature Act, 1873, the exercise of that discretion is not the subject-matter of appeal, except by leave of the Court or Judge making the order: Snelling v. Pulling, 29 Ch. D. 85, C. A.

On a motion to dismiss for want of prosecution under O. XXXVI, 12, or that the Plt should give security for costs, the Court has discretion to order the Plt to give security: Willmott v. Freehold House Property Co., 33 W. R. 554; 52 L. T. 743.

One Deft cannot move to dismiss for want of prosecution for non-delivery of reply where Plt has, with his knowledge, consented to an extension of time as to other Defts, so that the pleadings are not closed: Ambroise v. Evelyn, 11 Ch. D. 759.

Where the party who has obtained an order for a new trial has not entered the action for trial, the C. A. has no original jurisdiction to entertain a motion to dismiss the action for want of prosecution, but application must be made in Chambers: Robarts v. French, 43 W. R. 258; 72 L. T. 147, C. A.

SECTION IV.—DISMISSAL AT THE HEARING.

1. Dismissal of Action.

THIS action coming on &c. [Recitals as in Form 1, p. 141], This Court doth order that this action do stand dismissed out of this Court [if so, without costs as against the Defts B. and C., and] with costs as against the [other] Defts, such costs to be taxed by the Taxing Master (in case the parties differ); And it is ordered that the Plt A. do pay unto the Defts [name all the Defts who are to have costs] the amount of their said costs when taxed.

1A. The Like.

THIS action coming on &c. [Recitals as in Form 1, p. 141], This Court doth order that this action do stand dismissed out of this Court with costs to be taxed by the Taxing Master, and to be paid by the Plt A. to the Deft B.

For various usual directions as to costs, see Chap. XVII. For costs out of a fund in Court, see Chap. XVI.

2. Judgment for Deft.

THIS action coming on &c., This Court doth order and adjudge that the Plt do recover nothing against the Deft; and that the Deft do recover against the Plt the sum of £— for his ascertained costs of defence [or his costs of defence to be taxed &c.].

3. Dismissal of Action when Plt does not appear—O. xxxvi, 32.

THIS action coming on for trial [the — day of — and] this day before this Court, in the presence of counsel for the Deft, no one appearing for the Plt, although the Deft has been served by the Plt with notice of trial; And upon hearing counsel for the Deft, This Court doth order that this action do stand dismissed out of this Court with costs &c. [Form 1].

4. Judgment dismissing Action in Default of Plt's Appearance set aside, and Action restored on Payment of Costs of the Day—O. xxvii, 15; xxxvi, 33.

UPON motion &c., and upon hearing counsel for the Deft, It is ordered that the judgment in this action, dated &c., whereby it was ordered that the Plt's action should stand dismissed out of this Court with costs, be set aside; And it is ordered that the Plt C. do pay unto the Deft J. his costs occasioned by this action being placed in the paper of causes for hearing on the — day of —, and of this application, such costs to be taxed &c.; And upon payment of the said costs it is ordered that this cause be restored to the list of actions for trial before this Court.—Cockle v. Joyce, Fry, J., 16 Nov. 1877, A. 2010; 7 Ch. D. 56.

For form of notice of motion, see D. C. F. 370.

NOTES.

By O. xxxvi, 31, "if when a trial is called on, the Plt appears and the Deft does not appear, then the Plt may prove his claim so far as the burden of proof lies upon him."

In order to complete such proof the Plt will be required to prove service of notice of trial on the Deft: Cockshott v. London Cab Co., 26 W. R. 31; 47 L. J. Ch. 120; but see Chorlton v. Dickie, 13 Ch. D. 160; 28 W. R. 228.

If the Plt (having given notice of trial) does not appear when the action is called on for trial, the Deft is entitled, under O. xxxvi, 32, to judgment dismissing the action with costs: see Farrell v. Wale, 36 L. T. 95; and will not be required to prove that he has been served with notice of trial: James v. Crow, 7 Ch. D. 410 (not following on this point Cockle v. Joyce, Ib. 56); and see Exp. Lows, Ib. 160; Re Palmer, Skipper v. S., 32 W. R. 83; 49 L. T. 553.

If the Deft has a counter-claim he must, in order to obtain judgment on it, prove the claim so far as the burden of proof lies on him: see O. xxxvi, 32.

Where one of several Defts has, in default of notice of trial by the Plt, given notice of trial under O. xxxvi, 12, his co-Defts cannot, it seems, have the action dismissed as against them, at least if they have not been served with the notice of trial: see Tatton v. Lond. & Lanc. &c. Co., 8 Eq. 450.

As to notice of trial, and entering the action for trial, see Chap. XII., p. 147 et seq.

On payment of the costs of the day and of the application, an action which has been dismissed for non-appearance of the Plt, or in which judgment has been obtained by the Plt in the absence of the Deft, through mistake on the part of his solr, may be restored to the paper: Birch v. Williams, 24 W. R. 700; Burgoine v. Taylor, 9 Ch. D. 1; and see Southampton Steamboat Co. v. Rawlins, 11 Jur. N. S. 230; 34 L. J. Ch. 287; 13 W. R. 512.

The application to set aside a judgment obtained in default of appearance at the trial, must be made within six days after the trial: O. xxxvi, 33; and see Walter v. James, 34 W. R. 29; 53 L. T. 597; but an extension of time has been granted when the default was that of the solr and not of the party who applied within six days after hearing that the trial had taken place: Michell v. Wilson, 25 W. R. 380.

An appeal to set aside such a judgment will not be encouraged: Vint v. Hudspeth, 29 Ch. D. 322, C. A.

An application to set aside a judgment by default was refused, the defence of the Deft making the application having been struck out for wilfully refusing production of documents: Haigh v. H., 31 Ch. D. 478.

Where a solr brings an action without authority, the order will be that he pay the costs of the Plt as between solr and client, and those of the Deft as between party and party, following the common law practice as preferable to the old Chancery practice: Newbiggin-by-the-Sea Gas Co. v. Armstrong, 13 Ch. D. 310, C. A.; Nurse v. Durnford, 13 Ch. D. 764; and so, mutatis mutandis, where an infant is joined as co-Plt on the assumption that he is of full age: Geilinger v. Gibbs, (1897) 1 Ch. 479; and quære, whether solr and client costs might not, in special cases, be given to Deft as well as Plt: Andrews v. Barnes, 39 Ch. D. 133, C. A.

As to dismissal of third party, when the whole matter cannot be disposed of at one trial, see Schneider v. Batt, 8 Q. B. D. 701, C. A.; Dan. 235.

Where the decision on a point of law under O. xxv, 2, substantially disposed of the whole action, the action was dismissed: Percival v. Dunn, 29 Ch. D. 128; O'Brien v. Tyssen, 28 Ch. D. 372.

An action will lie to set aside a judgment by default (notwithstanding O. xxvii, 15); but quære, whether, as a condition precedent to its continuance, payment into Court of the sum due on the judgment may not be ordered: Wyatt v. Palmer, (1899) 2 Q. B. 106, C. A.

RES JUDICATA.

As to the requisites to constitute res judicata, see The Duchess of Kingston's case, 2 Sm. L. C., 8th ed., 832; Caird v. Moss, 33 Ch. D. 22, 28, C. A. (per Kay, J.); Dan. 411 et seq.

An unsuccessful litigant cannot be allowed to commence the litigation anew upon the mere allegation of an additional fact; he must be able to show that such fact entirely changes the aspect of the case, and that information of it was not, and could not by reasonable diligence be obtained by him before: Phosphate Sewage Co. v. Malleon, 4 App. Ca. 801.

Where damage to goods and injury to person are caused by one and the same wrongful act, distinct causes of action arise, and judgment in respect of the damage to the goods is no bar to a subsequent action in respect of the personal injury: Brunsdon v. Humphrey, 14 Q. B. D. 141, C. A.

In pleading res judicata, it is not necessary to set forth in detail the pleadings in the previous action; but the Court will look at them in order to judge whether the same questions were at issue: Houston v. Marquis of Sligo, 29 Ch. D. 448, C. A.

Whether a previous judgment obtained before trial, but after writ issued, can operate as res judicata, quære: Houston v. Marquis of Sligo, sup.

After money had been paid under a judgment founded on the construction of an agreement, an action to rectify the agreement, on the ground that such construction was contrary to the intention of all parties, could not be maintained: Caird v. Moss, 33 Ch. D. 22, C. A.

There can be no res judicata in respect of an issue the finding of which was not necessary to the decision in the previous case, but which was merely decided incidentally: Concha v. C., 11 App. Ca. 541; and as to the meaning of "incidentally," see Priestman v. Thomas, 9 P. D. 210, C. A.; In re Deeley's Patent, (1895) 1 Ch. 687, C. A. (where, on petition for revocation, unsuccessful Plts in an infringement action were not estopped from asserting validity of a claim which had been held to be an anticipation).

Where in a patent action judgment was given upholding the validity of the patent, the same Deft in a second action was held to be estopped from denying the validity, notwithstanding that he alleged anticipations discovered in the interval: Shoe Machinery Co. v. Cutlan, (1896) 1 Ch. 667.

A judgment by consent or default is as effective an estoppel inter partes as a judgment on a contested case: Re S. American and Mexican Co., Exp. Bank of England, (1895) 1 Ch. 37, C. A. (distinguishing Jenkins v. Robertson, L. R. 1 H. L. Sc. 117); and a judgment which would not per se constitute res judicata may do so if there is what amounts to an undertaking between the parties that the decision of the Judge on a question involved shall be treated as final: Horrocks v. Stubbs, 74 L. T. 58, C. A.

As to the effect of a previous county court judgment, see Clarke v. Yorke, 52 L. J. Ch. 32; 31 W. R. 62; 47 L. T. 381; Webster v. Armstrong, 54 L. J. Q. B. 236.

A petitioner in divorce proceedings is not precluded from repeating charges of adultery contained in a previous petition which has been dismissed: Hall v. H., 48 L. J. P. D. 57; 40 L. T. 525; 25 W. R. 664.

An heir at law made Deft, as one of the next of kin, but not cited as heir in a probate action to establish the will, and unsuccessfully contesting its validity, cannot afterwards dispute it in respect of the real estate: Beardsley v. B., (1899) 1 Q. B. 746.

A person who is not a party to proceedings in the Probate Division, in which the validity of a will is questioned, is bound by the result only if he was cognizant of the proceedings, and had a right to intervene: Young v. Holloway, (1895) P. 87.

As to estoppel by conduct where a person, not a party to an action or summons, nor technically bound by the judgment, but fully cognizant of the proceedings, stands by and deliberately takes the benefit of a decision under which a particular fund is distributed, see Re Lart, Wilkinson v. Blades, (1896) 2 Ch. 788; Mohan v. Broughton, (1899) P. 211; (1900) P. 56, C. A.

NOTES.

Causes or matters assigned to the Chancery Division are to be tried by a Judge without a jury unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise order: O. xxxvi, 3; and the question whether a Chancery action shall be tried by a jury is absolutely within the discretion of the Judge: Gardner v. Jay, 29 Ch. D. 50, C. A., although there are two causes of action, only one of which is specifically assigned to that Division: Sheppard v. Gilmore, 34 W. R. 179; 53 L. T. 625; Lynch v. Macdonald, 37 Ch. D. 227; 36 W. R. 419.

As to trial by jury, see inf. Chap. XXII., "ISSUES."

NOTICE AND ENTRY OF TRIAL.

By O. xxxvi, 11, notice of trial may be given by the Plt or other party in the position of Plt with the reply (if any), whether it closes the pleadings or not, or at any time after the issues of fact are ready for trial; but by r. 12 (as read together with O. xxx, v. sup. p. 25), if the Plt does not within six weeks after the close of the pleadings, or such time as may be fixed under O. xxx, or within such extended time as the Court or a Judge may allow, give notice of trial, the Deft may, before notice of trial given by the Plt, give notice of trial, or may apply to the Court or Judge to dismiss the action for want of prosecution.

Where the action is under O. xviiiA (v. sup. p. 40), Plt must, within ten days after appearance of Deft, serve twenty-one days' notice of trial: r. 2.

Where a plaintiff does not deliver a reply, he cannot give notice of trial until the expiration of twenty-one days after the delivery of the statement of defence: Robinson v. Caldwell, (1893) 1 Q. B. 519.

A Deft cannot set the action down on motion for judgment: Litton v. L., 3 Ch. D. 794.

The six weeks is not a "time appointed for doing any act or taking any proceeding" within O. LXIV, 7, and cannot be abridged by the Court: Saunders v. Pawley, 14 Q. B. D. 234.

The notice of trial (ten days, except in cases by consent, see O. XXXVI, 14, and R. S. C. App. B., Form 16) must be given before entering the trial, and must state whether it is for the trial of the action, or of issues therein, and is not to be countermanded, except by consent or leave given on such terms as to costs, or otherwise, as may be just: O. XXXVI, 13, 14, 15, 19.

A notice of trial before a Judge in Middlesex, headed "V.-C. Bacon," was held sufficient: Gaines v. Arabon, V.-C. B., 22 March, 1879; and see Harris v. Gamble, 7 Ch. D. 877.

Where an action is to be tried at the assizes, the Judge, on summons under O. XXX, 1, has jurisdiction suo motu to order that the Deft shall take notice of trial at a period less than ten days before the commission day, and that the case shall not come on for trial until a day which will make the notice a ten days' notice: Baxter v. Holdsworth, (1899) 1 Q. B. 266, C. A.

By r. 34, the Judge may postpone or adjourn the trial for such time, and upon such terms, if any, as he shall think fit.

As to trial before referees or with assessors, see Chap XXVI., "ARBITRATIONS."

As to directing issues of fact to be tried before a jury, see Chap. XXII., "ISSUES."

Under O. XXXVI, 1, the Plt may lay the venue where he pleases, although the action is assigned to the Chancery Division by sect. 34 of the Jud. Act, 1873: Philips v. Beale, 36 C. D. 62; or to any Judge (r. 1a). The place of trial must be named in the original statement of claim: Locke v. White, 33 Ch. D. 308, C. A. This abolition of local venue confers no new jurisdiction (e.g., to entertain action for damages for trespass to foreign land): Companhia de Moçambique v. British S. Africa Co., (1893) A. C. 602, H. L.; (1892) 2 Q. B. 358, C. A.

Where the venue was laid at Liverpool, it was held that it was no sufficient ground to change it to Middlesex that the action was specially assigned to the Chancery Division: Philips v. Beale, 26 Ch. D. 621, C. A.

In order to have the venue changed, the Deft must show serious injury to his case, and no injury to the Plt: Shroder & Co. v. Myers & Co., 34 W. R. 261, C. A.

Pressure of business at the assizes is not a sufficient ground for remitting the action to the Judge of the Chancery Division to whom it is assigned: Fairburn v. Household, 53 L. T. 513, C. A.; and see Jackson v. Braithwaite, 63 L. T. 231.

Where the balance of convenience is that an action should be tried in London, the venue will, on the application of the Deft be changed to Middlesex, though the Plt has by his claim named another venue: Green v. Bennett, 32 W. R. 848; 50 L. T. 706; 54 L. J. Ch. 85; Powell v. Cobb, 29 Ch. D. 486, C. A.

Causes will not be heard in private without the consent of both parties, except in cases which affect lunatics, or wards of Court, or where the whole object of the suit would be defeated by a public hearing: Andrew v. Raeburn, 9 Ch. 522; Nagle-Gillman v. Christopher, 4 Ch. D. 173; Badische Anilin v. Levinstein, 24 Ch. D. 156; Mellor v. Thompson, 31 Ch. D. 55, C. A.; Malan v. Young, 53 J. P. 822.

THIRD PARTY.

Under O. XVI, 52, where a third party appears, the Deft giving the third party notice may apply for directions, and the Court or a Judge may, if satisfied that there is a question proper to be tried as to the liability of the third party, order the question, as between the third party and such Deft, "to be tried in such manner, at or after the trial of the action, as the Court or Judge may direct; and if not so satisfied may order such judgment as the nature of the case may require to be entered in favour of the Deft giving the notice against the third party."

The rules as to third parties do not apply to originating summonses: Re Wilson, A. G. v. Woodall, 45 Ch. D. 266.

No question can be determined between the third party and the Deft unless the order giving directions is obtained: Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198; and so as between co-Defts, see Tritton v. Bankart, 56 L. J. Ch. 629; 56 L. T. 306; 35 W. R. 474.

If the third party on an application for directions declines to state any defence, judgment may be given against him: Gloucestershire Banking Co. v. Phillipps, 12 Q. B. D. 533.

In Coles v. Civil Service Supply Association, 26 Ch. D. 529, the form of order was that the third party, who did not admit his liability, should have liberty to appear at the trial, and take such part as the Judge should direct, and be bound by the result, and that the question of his liability to indemnify the Deft should be tried at the trial of the action, but subsequent thereto.

This form of order will be adhered to whenever it gives the third party all reasonable protection, as a Plt ought not to be embarrassed and put to expense by persons who are not necessary parties to his action being allowed to proceed as though they were Defts: Barton v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 38 Ch. D. 144, C. A. Where such an order has been made, the third party may appear by counsel and have the question tried immediately after the trial without having obtained directions as to pleadings or otherwise, as the Deft should obtain such directions if he desires them: Blore v. Ashby, 42 Ch. D. 682.

As to refusal to give directions, and dismissal of third party from the action where the Plt would be embarrassed by proceedings between him and the Deft giving the notice, see The Bianca, 8 P. D. 91; Schneider v. Batt, 8 Q. B. D. 701, C. A.

The Court has power to order the third party to pay to the Plt the costs occasioned by his defence: Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198.

Where the Deft set up a defence which failed he paid the costs of the action, but the third party being found liable to the Deft paid the costs of the third party proceedings: Blore v. Ashby, sup.

And as to the scope and effect of the procedure, see Dan. 230 et seq.

ENTERING THE ACTION FOR TRIAL—MARKING “SHORT.”

Actions for trial in the Chancery Division are set down at the Chancery Registrar's Office upon production of a copy of the notice of trial, on the list of the Judge to whose Court the action is attached, and unless marked “short,” or advanced by order, come on for trial in their turn: see Dan. 578.

Unless within six days after notice of trial is given the trial shall be entered by one party or the other, the notice of trial shall be no longer in force: O. xxxvi, 16; see Tonsley v. Heffer, 19 Q. B. D. 153. And when the cause is not entered for trial within the time limited, the Deft may move to dismiss for want of prosecution: Crick v. Hewlett, 27 Ch. D. 354; but see Page v. Gilmore, 30 L. R. Ir. 299.

A Deft cannot set down the action on motion for judgment: Litton v. L., 3 Ch. D. 794.

By O. xxxvi, 8, the Court or a Judge may in any cause or matter at any time, or from time to time, order that different questions of fact arising therein be tried by different modes of trial, or that one or more questions of fact be tried before the others, and may appoint the places for such trials, and in all cases may order that one or more issues of fact be tried before any other or others.

An application under this rule to have one issue in an action tried before another will only be granted on very special grounds: Piercy v. Young, 15 Ch. D. 475.

Under O. xxxvi, 4, 6, an action proper to be tried by a jury will be ordered to be so tried, though commenced in the Chancery Division: Coles v. Civil Service Supply Association, 26 Ch. D. 529; but the onus rests with the party desiring this mode of trial: Cardinall v. C., 25 Ch. D. 772; and that the Court has a discretion as to the mode of trial, see Coote v. Ingram, 35 Ch. D. 117.

All actions in which witnesses are to be examined before the Court must be certified as such by the Plt's solr, and thereupon will be so marked in the cause book. Usually special days or certain days of the week are fixed for the trial of actions and causes so marked.

Where any cause or matter becomes abated, or in the case of any change of interest under O. XVII, the Plt's solr must certify the fact to the proper officer, who will cause an entry thereof to be made in the list or cause book: O. XVII, 9. And by r. 10, any cause or matter standing over generally, or marked as "abated" for twelve months, shall be struck out. But a cause may for special reasons be ordered to stand over generally, notwithstanding this rule: Brooke v. Todd, 6 Jur. N. S. 664; 2 L. T. 480. When a cause has been struck out under this rule, the notice of trial is no longer in force, and another notice of trial must be given before the Plt can re-enter the cause for trial: Le Blond v. Curtis, 33 W. R. 561; 52 L. T. 574.

Actions may be marked "short," without the consent of the solrs for the Defts, on production of the certificate of the Plt's counsel that the cause or action is fit to be so heard.

If a Deft who has not consented can show any fair reason why the cause should not be heard as short, it goes into the general list, but counsel's certificate is prima facie ground for setting it down as short: Felstead v. Gray, 18 Eq. 92. When the Deft does not appear at the hearing, an affidavit of notice that it has been marked to be heard as short is required: Molesworth v. Snead, 11 W. R. 934; 2 N. R. 512; 32 L. J. Ch. 709. In Dymonds v. Croft, 24 W. R. 700, the notice filed as against a Deft (under O. XIX, 10) who had not entered appearance was held sufficient, although it did not state that the action had been marked short.

And unless by consent of all parties, it will not be marked so as to come on before the day for which the notice of trial has been given, or in the case of causes for further consideration, until after the expiration of ten days.

A cause is not fit to be heard short unless the evidence is by affidavit. Per M. R., W. N. (75) 193.

An action for rectification of a settlement is not proper to be heard as a short cause: Clennell v. C., W. N. (84) 14.

As to motions for judgment heard as short causes, v. inf. Chap. XIII., "MOTION FOR JUDGMENT."

By O. XXXVI, 30, the party entering the action for trial must deliver to the proper officer two copies of the whole of the pleadings, one of which shall be for the use of the Judge at the trial. The other is for the use of the registrar.

If the solr neglects to deliver the papers, he may be personally ordered to pay the costs occasioned thereby: see O. LXV, 5.

DEFAULT OF EITHER SIDE APPEARING AT THE TRIAL—O. XXXVI.

By O. XXXVI, 31, 32, if when a trial is called on, the Deft does not appear, the Plt may prove his claim, so far as the burden of proof lies upon him; and if the Deft appears, and the Plt does not, the Deft, if he has no counter-claim, is entitled to judgment dismissing the action, but if he has a counter-claim, then he may prove such claim so far as the burden of proof lies upon him.

The Plt is always required to prove service of notice of trial on the Deft: Cockshott v. London General Cab Co., 47 L. J. Ch. 126; 26 W. R. 31; W. N. (77) 214; but see Chorlton v. Dickie, 13 Ch. D. 160; but Deft need not prove that notice of trial was served upon him: Re Palmer, Skipper v. S., 49 L. T. 553; 32 W. R. 83; Dacres-Patterson v. Foote, W. N. (90) 70.

An affidavit of service of notice of trial must have been filed and produced in Court when the action was called on, or at latest before the rising of the Court the same day: Lord Milltown v. Stuart, 8 Sim. 34; but see Secar v. Webb, 25 Ch. D. 84, C. A.; and now the original affidavit of service, stamped with a proper filing stamp, may be handed to the registrar, who will send it to be filed: see O. XXXVIII, 15.

By a communication from Cotton, L. J., dated 29th May, 1884, "the members of the Court of Appeal, after considering the subject of affidavits of service not sworn on the date of the order, think the registrars may, until an opinion of the Court is expressed to the contrary effect, accept affidavits of service sworn and filed at any time before the order is drawn up. But if the affidavit be sworn after the date of the order, the order is not to be post-dated, and the affidavit is not to be entered formally as evidence. The registrars are in such a case to make a memorandum in the margin of the order that the affidavit has been sworn and filed, and the recital may be introduced into the order, 'no one appearing for A. B., although duly served &c., as by affidavit appears.'"

By O. XXXVI, 33, any verdict or judgment obtained where one party does not appear, may be set aside upon such terms as may seem fit, on application made within six days after the trial.

ENTERING EVIDENCE AS READ GENERALLY.

Every order contains a reference to the evidence on which it is made, and particularly notices the documentary evidence; generally specifying the nature of the document and its date, if any, or if it be referred to as an exhibit, either specially noticing the exhibit mark, or identifying the exhibit by reference to the affidavit or deposition.

Where the Deft is not called upon for his defence, but the Plt's action is dismissed on his own case, the Deft is entitled to have entered in the judgment as read all the evidence on which he intended to rely: Manby v. Bewicke, 3 Jur. N. S. 685; 5 W. R. 867; although the Deft's witnesses have not been cross-examined, as that may be done on appeal: Chabord v. New Russia Co., M. R., 26 July, 1871, A. 2362.

Where the Plt fails on his own evidence, and the action is dismissed, the usual course is not to enter the evidence as read, but provide for the costs of it by a special direction: see Singer v. Wilson, 2 Ch. D. 448.

Affidavits used in support of an application ought to be entered as read, notwithstanding that they have been so entered in a Master's certificate: Mutual, &c. Society (C. A.), 6 Aug. 1885. An affidavit used on a motion, but not filed until afterwards, may be entered in the order as read, provided it does not interfere with the date of the order (which may be post-dated accordingly): Re King & Co.'s Trade Mark, (1892) 2 Ch. 462.

It is not for the registrar to state what facts are proved, but only what evidence is admitted: and for the Court itself to say what facts are established by it: Trulock v. Robey, 2 Ph. 396.

And it is material that the evidence should be entered in such a way as will show precisely what was received: Watson v. Parker, 2 Ph. 5; M'Mahon v. Burchell, Id. 137; although the judgment only directs issues or inquiries: Parker v. Morrell, Id. 453; Drake v. D., 25 Beav. 641; thus, when any evidence tendered is objected to, the Court should adjudicate on its admissibility, and either receive it or reject it, in which case that circumstance should be noticed in the judgment: Form 19, p. 144. Evidence ought not to be entered as read de bene esse: Watson v. Parker, Parker v. Morrell, supra.

The entry of the evidence, followed by a statement that both sides consent that such entry should be without prejudice to its admissibility, is improper, as the Court should adjudicate on its admissibility: M'Mahon v. Burchell, 2 Ph. 137. This case and Watson v. Parker, and Parker v. Morrell, were followed by C. A. in De Mora v. Concha, 32 Ch. D. 133.

Where, to save time, documentary evidence was to be entered as read, if the parties could agree, and they could not agree, the Court permitted a rehearing, confined to the subject of the evidence: Wyld v. Ward, 1 Y. & J. 536.

Documents annexed to depositions taken in India, and referred to as exhibits, but omitted to be marked by the commr, were by order on motion on notice allowed to be used as evidence: Impey v. I., V.-C. E., 20 Feb. 1845, A. 866.

As to the disadvantages of "annexing" exhibits to affidavits, see Dan. 534.

In Lopdell v. Creagh, 1 Bli. N. S. 255, after an appeal had been lodged in the House of Lords, an order made on motion in the Court below, expunging part of the evidence as entered by mistake, was reversed as irregular, the proper course being to apply to the House for leave to move in the Court below to rectify the mistake.

But in H. L. only the evidence entered in the decree could be looked at: Fernie v. Young, L. R. 1 H. L. 63.

So, on a motion to rectify minutes: Eden v. E. Bute, 1 B. P. C. 465. Where the evidence had not been in fact read or relied on, an order for entering the evidence as read, made on motion to rectify minutes, was reversed on appeal, but leave was given to re-hear the cause: S.C.; but see Manby v. Bewicke, 5 W. R. 867; 3 Jur. N. S. 685.

Where evidence is improperly admitted by the Court below and not objected to, the objection cannot be taken in the Court of Appeal: Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259, C. A.

Under O. xxxvii, 1, the Court may, in an admon action, and after the Master has made his certificate, receive, if it think fit, fresh affidavit evidence on further consideration: May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347.

As to the power of the Court of Appeal to receive further evidence, see O. lviii, 4, and Chap. XXXVI., "APPEALS."

ENTERING DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE.

A will proves itself thirty years from its date: Mann v. Ricketts, 7 Beav. 93, and cases there cited; but in Charman v. C., M. R., 23rd March, 1808, A. 780, the thirty years were reckoned from the death of the testator, and this seems more reasonable, as the testator might live more than thirty years after the date of the will; and since the Wills Act, 1 V. c. 26, the will speaks only from the day of the death: and see Taylor, 86, 1210. In Bulkeley v. Jones, M. R., 23 July, 1856, A. 1560, a will dated in July, 1813, and proved in June, 1831, was received as evidence of title to land, but this decree went by default.

A will of which probate had not been granted was held to be evidence on production of an affidavit of one of the attesting witnesses: Re Wickens' Trusts, 27 W. R. 880.

Letters testimonial sealed by the Supreme Court of Victoria, setting forth verbatim a will of real estate made in the colony, and stating that it had been duly proved, were accepted as sufficient for the purposes of the usual preliminary judgment in a partition action: Waite v. Bingley, 21 Ch. D. 674; but on petition by appointee under will for payment out of Court, probate in the Supreme Court of New Zealand was not sufficient: E. Limehouse Bd. of Works, Re Vallance, 24 Ch. D. 177.

For the purpose of construing a will the Court is entitled to look at the original: Re Harrison, Turner v. Hellard, 30 Ch. D. 390, C. A.

In a pedigree case the will of the father or reputed father of a person whose legitimacy is disputed, is admissible evidence to disprove the legitimacy: Murray v. Milner, 12 Ch. D. 845.

And a declaration by A., in a draft will, that B. passed as his wife, was admissible in evidence as to the marriage of A. and B., and, being relevant, was not to be excluded because the document was not complete for its primary purpose: In re Lambert, 56 L. J. Ch. 122; 56 L. T. 15; but where the question was not pedigree, but infancy, a declaration by a deceased parent as to his child's age could not be received: Haines v. Guthrie, 13 Q. B. D. 818, C. A.

Where a deed more than thirty years old purports to be an appointment under a special power, and to be executed by the attorney of the donee of the power, although the execution of it by the attorney as such ought to be presumed, yet there is no rule of law which justifies the presumption that the attorney was duly authorized to execute the power: In re Airey, A. v. Stapleton, (1897) 1 Ch. 164.

For the practice with regard to documents which prove themselves, and generally as to documentary evidence, see Dan. 501 et seq.; and as to the former practice of proving exhibits viva voce, or by affidavit at the hearing, see Dan. 519, 520; a deed impeached by the answer cannot be so proved: Hitchcock v. Carew, Kay, xiv.; a witness summoned on a subpœna duces tecum need not be sworn: per Chitty, J., Lewin v. L., 9 July, 1885. As to entries against interest by persons since dead, see Taylor v. Witham, 24 W. R. 877; Bewley v. Atkinson, 13 C. D. 283, 297; Newbould v. Smith, 29 Ch. D. 127, C. A.; Massey v. Allen, 13 Ch. D. 558; Hope v. H., W. N. (93) 20.

Entries by a person in discharge of his official duty are only evidence of the facts therein stated, when the facts are parts of a transaction effected by such person himself, which it is his duty to record: Polini v. Gray, Sturla v. Freccia, 12 Ch. D. 411, C. A.; 5 App. Ca. 623; ex. gr., a survey and report made by a surveyor in 1816 in discharge of a duty imposed upon him by the 8th section of 34 G. 3, c. 75, upon the occasion of a sale of Crown lands, and produced out of the proper custody: Evans v. Merthyr Tydfil District Council, (1899) 1 Ch. 241, C. A., distinguishing Phillips v. Hudson, L. R. 2 Ch. 243.

An entry in a stockbroker's book is not admissible in evidence, either as a declaration against interest, or as an entry in the ordinary course of business by a person whose duty it was to make it: Massey v. Allen, 28 W. R. 212; 13 Ch. D. 558; and an entry in an agent's diary is not admissible unless it was his duty to make the whole entry: Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574.

An unsigned entry in a book in which it appeared to be the practice to sign the entries, was not admitted as evidence: Fox v. Bearblock, 17 Ch. D. 429.

An entry of a payment of interest in a deceased creditor's book, which would have the effect of reviving a statute-barred simple contract debt, is not admissible in evidence as an entry against interest: Newbould v. Smith, 29 Ch. D. 882; but see S. C., 14 App. Ca. 423.

And as to admission of a note book from the British Museum, a document out of the Cottonian MSS., and an entry in a parish church book, see Bidder v. Bridges, 34 W. R. 514; 52 L. T. 529; Lauderdale Peerage Case, 10 App. Ca. 692.

The fact that a deposition taken in a suit to perpetuate testimony and duly sealed up by the examiners, is found unsealed, is not evidence of user or adoption by the party on whose behalf the deponent was examined so as to render it admissible as an admission by conduct: Evans v. Merthyr Tydfil District Council, (1899) 1 Ch. 241, C. A.

The admission by the deceased person must have been actually against interest when made; an admission by a bankrupt that a debt is due is not admissible by reason of the mere possibility of there being a surplus after paying creditors: Exp. Edwards, Re Tollemache, 14 Q. B. D. 415, C. A.

As to the admissibility of declarations by testator to prove contents of a lost will, see Woodward v. Goulstone, 11 App. Ca. 469.

For a case in which an ancient document, coming from the proper custody and stating a compromise on terms by a former tenant abandoning his claim of right to trespass, was admissible as evidence of an act of ownership by a predecessor in title, though not as an admission by the tenant, see Blandy-Jenkins v. Earl of Dunraven, (1899) 2 Ch. 121, C. A.

The Gen. Ord. 43, of 26th Aug. 1841, as to proving exhibits by affidavit at the hearing, was not included in the Cons. Ord. 1860; but by Prel. Ord. r. 5, and now by O. LXXII, 2, the practice under it (though rarely resorted to) has remained. A deed could be proved as an exhibit at the hearing of a motion for decree: Woodburn v. Grant, 22 Beav. 487; but the Court had a discretion, and would not allow important evidence to be unexpectedly slipped in at the last moment; and where an order of course, to prove in support of the main issue a letter of which no notice had been given, was obtained during the hearing of a cause, the Court refused to allow proof: Wilson v. Thornbury, 10 Ch. 239. As to the former practice, see Dan. 519, 520.

Judgments in other Courts under Cons. Ord. 19, r. 4, and office copy proceedings in other Courts (Manby v. Bewicke, 3 Jur. N. S. 685; 5 W. R. 867), might be read without an order; but in Hill v. Hibbit, 7 Eq. 421, an application that evidence taken de bene esse in one suit might be read in another was refused, and in White v. Cox, 2 Ch. D. 397, V.-C. B. held that the bill, answer, and decree in another suit must be proved by an affidavit which should also prove the identity of the first Deft in that suit with the Plt in this; and proceedings in a Sheriff's Court in Scotland were admissible as to matters of pedigree: Lyell v. Kennedy, 14 App. Ca. 437.

As to reading evidence taken in another cause or matter, v. sup. Chap. VIII., "EVIDENCE," p. 105,

The report of a Judge of an Irish Court, and the shorthand notes of his judgment exhibited to an affidavit, were allowed to be used as evidence of what was decided in Ireland: Houstoun v. M. of Sligo, 29 Ch. D. 448, 458, C. A.

A judgment may be proved by the production of a duly certified copy of an entry in the entry book of judgments of the Court in which the judgment was recovered: Exp. Anderson, Re Tollemache, 14 Q. B. D. 606, C. A.

The file of the proceedings in bankruptcy is not in the nature of a record: Exp. Bacon, Re Bond, 17 Ch. D. 447, C. A.

As to admissibility and effect of previous decrees and judgments as evidence in subsequent actions brought in assertion of prescriptive rights, see Earl de la Warr v. Miles, 17 Ch. D. 535, C. A.; Neill v. Duke of Devonshire, 8 App. Ca. 135; Hanbury v. Jenkins, 70 L. J. Ch. 730.

By Jud. Act, 1873, s. 61, all writs and documents and exemplifications and copies thereof, purporting to be sealed with the seal of the district registry, shall be received in evidence without further proof.

And by O. VIII, 2, the production of a writ of summons which has been renewed is sufficient evidence of its renewal and of its original date.

Where two causes strongly resemble each other in point of fact, but the allegations of fact are not the same in each, the record of one cannot be referred to for the purpose of explaining or supplying anything in the other: Gann v. Johnson, L. R. 4 H. L. 265.

A press copy of a letter, in the handwriting of the Plt, scheduled to his affidavit of documents, was admitted as evidence on the part of the Deft, though objected to by the Plt as not proved: Wilson v. Compton, L. JJ., 26th Feb. 1874, B. 931.

Production by a witness of a copy of a letter made by him, which letter he swore he would have posted in the ordinary course of business, was held to be evidence of posting: Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574.

A letter from the master of a ship to the owners is admissible as evidence against them in regard to facts therein stated, but the opinion of the master expressed in such letter is not evidence: The Solway, 10 P. D. 137; citing Nothard v. Pepper, 17 C. B. N. S. 39.

Verbal declarations or written entries by a deceased person against his interest are sufficient evidence of the truth: see Bewley v. Atkinson, 13 Ch. D. 283, 297; Taylor, 437.

The 13 & 14 V. c. 35, s. 28 (repealed by 46 & 47 V. c. 49), empowered the Court, at the hearing of the cause, or on further directions, to receive proof by affidavit of all proper parties being before the Court, and of matters requiring proof, before ordering payment of moneys belonging to any married woman, and of other matters not directly in issue in the cause.

As to what matters might and might not be so proved, see Devey v. Thornton, 9 Ha. 233; Bush v. Watkins, 14 Beav. 33; Fowler v. Reynal, 15 Jur. 1019, 2 D. G. & Sm. 749; 3 M. & G. 500; Hoghton v. H., 15 Beav. 278; Bear v. Smith, 5 D. & S. 92; Fallows v. Dillon, 2 W. R. 507; Bateman v. Margerison, 2 W. R. 607, 6 Ha. 496; Delevante v. Child, 6 Jur. N. S. 118; 1 L. T. 397.

Now, by O. xxxvii, 1, the Court or Judge may at any time, for sufficient reason, order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit, or that the affidavit of any witness may be read at the hearing or trial, on such conditions as the Court or Judge may think reasonable. But whether this applies on motion for judgment, qu.: Ellis v. Robbins, 50 L. J. Ch. 512.

The Births and Deaths Registration Act, 1836 (6 & 7 W. 4, c. 86), s. 38, enacts that all certified copies of entries purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the General Register Office, shall be received as evidence of the birth, death, or marriage, to which the same relates, without any further or other proof of such entry; but the identity of the person named in such certificate must be proved. Extracts from the district registries were not formerly received by the Court, but they are now generally admitted as evidence. In Re Bunny, M. R., 25th Feb. 1871, certificates signed by the Registrar General of New Zealand were accepted without verification. And so also entries of baptisms in India were admitted: Queen's Proctor v. Fry, 4 P. D. 231.

And as to entries of marriages in India, see Radcliffe v. R., 1 Sw. & Tr. 467; The Peerless, 1 Lush. 42.

A certificate of birth is not evidence of the date of the birth, but only of the fact of the birth having taken place before the date of registration : Re Wintle, 9 Eq. 373.

An entry in a baptismal register of the date of birth, though not per se proof that the child was born on the day stated, will not be rejected altogether as an item of evidence upon an inquiry as to the child's legitimacy : Re Turner, Glenister v. Harding, 29 Ch. D. 985; and see Taylor, Evid. (9th ed.) 1170.

A description of age and birthplace in the report of a foreign government, not material for the purpose for which the report was made, is not admissible as evidence of the facts therein stated : Sturla v. Freccia, 12 Ch. D. 411; 5 App. Ca. 623.

By the Stamp Act, 1891 (54 & 55 V. c. 39), s. 64, and sched., a certified copy or extract of or from any register of births, baptisms, marriages, deaths, or burials, requires an adhesive penny stamp, which is to be cancelled by the person signing the copy or extract.

Probate or letters of admon are not received as evidence of the death, but only to show who represents the deceased.

By the Evidence Act, 1851 (14 & 15 V. c. 99), s. 7, foreign and colonial acts of state, judgments, &c., are provable by certified copies, without proof of seal or signature, or judicial character of the person signing the same.

Foreign law is a matter of fact, to be decided on the evidence of advocates practising in the Courts of the country whose law is to be ascertained; but if the witnesses in their evidence refer to any passage in the code of their country, as containing the law applicable to the case, the Court is at liberty to look at those passages and consider what is their proper meaning : Concha v. Murietta, 40 Ch. D. 543, C. A.

The status and boundaries of foreign states are matters within the judicial cognizance of the Court, which, if in doubt, will apply for information to the Foreign Secretary, whose reply is conclusive : Foster v. Globe Venture Syndicate, (1900) 1 Ch. 811.

By sect. 8, apothecaries' certificates are admissible without proof of seal; by sect. 9, documents admissible without proof of seal, &c., in England or Wales, are equally admissible in Ireland; by sect. 10, documents admissible without proof of seal, &c., in Ireland, are equally admissible in England and Wales; by sect. 11, documents admissible without proof of seal, &c., in England, Wales, or Ireland, are equally admissible in the colonies; by sect. 12, registers of British vessels, and certificates of registry, are admissible as prima facie evidence of their contents, without proof of signature, &c.; by sect. 13, conviction or acquittal of a person charged, may be proved by the certificate of the clerk of the Court.

By sect. 14, whenever any book or other document is of such a public nature as to be admissible in evidence on its mere production from the proper custody, and no statute exists which renders its contents provable by means of a copy, any copy thereof, or extract therefrom, shall be admissible in evidence in any court of justice, or before any person now or hereafter having by law, or by consent of parties, authority to hear, receive, and examine evidence, provided it be proved to be an examined copy or extract, or provided it purport to be signed and certified as a true copy or extract by the officer to whose custody the original is intrusted. The officer is to furnish such copy or extract on being paid for it at the rate there mentioned.

Under sect. 14, extracts from parish registers of marriages, &c., purporting to be signed by the incumbent or his curate, are now received without further verification : Re Hall, 17 Jur. 29; 9 Ha. xvi; Re Porter, 2 Jur. N. S. 349; 2 W. R. 386; inf. Vol. II. p. 1257; The Queen v. Weaver, L. R. 2 C. C. R. 5; and see (as to census returns) Dublin Corp. v. Bray Commrs (1900), 2 I. R. 88.

As to extra-parochial registers, see the Non-Parochial Registers Act, 1840 (3 & 4 V. c. 92), and see Births and Deaths Registration Acts, 1858 (21 & 22 V. c. 25); 1874 (37 & 38 V. c. 88), the latter Act repealing Act of 1858 except sects. 1 to 4.

As to extracts from registers of births and baptisms in Scotland, as evidence of the marriage of the parents, see Lyle v. Ellwood, 19 Eq. 98.

Scottish parochial registers and certified extracts from them are receivable in evidence in England : Lyell v. Kennedy, 14 App. Ca. 437.

It being shown that foreign registers of births could not be removed, the contents of an entry were proved by a copy verified by a witness who had himself compared it with the original : Burnaby v. Baillie, 42 Ch. D. 282.

Copies of entries of baptisms and of marriages in India transmitted to the India Office are admissible in evidence: Queen's Proctor v. Fry, 4 P. D. 231; Ratcliff v. R., 1 Sw. & Tr. 467; The Peerless, 1 Lush. 42.

The report of a committee appointed by a public department in a foreign state, though addressed to that department and acted on by the government is not necessarily admissible here as evidence of all the facts therein stated: Sturla v. Freccia, 5 App. Ca. 623.

A statutory certificate under seal of execution of works entitling a co. to a charge is only prima facie evidence in favour of the co.: Landowners W. of England Drainage Co. v. Ashford, 16 Ch. D. 411.

The discretion given to the Bank of England of requiring stricter evidence of proof of title than is ordinarily admitted by the Court of Chancery, will not be interfered with: see 33 & 34 V. c. 71 (National Debt Act, 1870), s. 24: Prosser v. Bank of England, 13 Eq. 613; see also Riseley v. Shepherd, 21 W. R. 782; and directors of an insurance office were entitled to further evidence of death of c. q. vie than an order under 6 Anne, c. 27: Doyle v. City of Glasgow Life Assurance Co., 53 L. J. Ch. 527.

By O. LXI, 7, all copies, certificates, and other documents appearing to be sealed with the seal of the Central Office shall be presumed to be office copies, &c., issued from the Central Office, and if duly stamped may be received in evidence without further authentication.

The C. L. P. Act, 1854 (17 & 18 V. c. 125), s. 26, enacts that it shall not be necessary to prove by the attesting witness any instrument "to the validity of which attestation is not requisite," and such instrument may be proved by admission or otherwise, as if there had been no attesting witness.

On unopposed applications for payment of money out of Court, any deed required to be proved is usually required to be proved by the attesting witness: Re Reay, 1 Jur. N. S. 222; Pedder v. P., M. R., 24th Nov. 1859, Reg. Min. f. 63; Re Rice, 32 Ch. D. 35, C. A. And in non-contentious cases generally it is the rule that a deed should be proved by the attesting witness: per Cotton, L. J., in Re Felthouse, 14 June, 1884. If the attesting witness be dead, or abroad, or cannot be found, the proper course is to prove these circumstances, and the signature of the witness. Where the attesting witness was abroad, the Court of Appeal required an affidavit that an endeavour had been made to find a witness to prove his handwriting, before allowing the deed to be proved by proving the handwriting of the grantor: Re Rice, sup., overruling Re Muir, 21 W. R. 749. A deed under seal requires proof of the delivery by the party, not merely of the signature. A power of attorney to receive money, though usually under seal, need not be so: v. inf. p. 238.

Where all parties are represented, sect. 26 applies, and proof by the attesting witness can be dispensed with: Worthington v. Moore, Chitty, J., 24 Feb. 1891; 64 L. T. 338.

A party to a deed is, of course, competent to admit or to prove his own execution thereof; but where it has to be executed with certain formalities, quære whether he can admit or prove more than his own signature.

Absence of seal from deeds, there being no evidence that they ever had been sealed, rendered them invalid. Though it is unimportant what a seal is made of, yet there must be something in the nature of an impression on the deed: Nat. Prov. Bank v. Jackson, 33 Ch. D. 1, C. A.

By sect. 27, disputed writing may be compared by witnesses with any writing proved to be genuine, and the writings and evidence submitted to the Court and jury.

By the Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879 (42 & 43 V. c. 11), s. 3, a copy of any entry in a banker's books is (subject to the provisions of that Act) to be received as prima facie evidence of such entry, and of the matters, transactions, and accounts therein recorded, in all legal proceedings, i.e. (see s. 10), any civil or criminal proceeding or inquiry in which evidence is or may be given, including an arbitration. Sect. 4 provides for the proof to be given that the book from which the entry is taken is a banker's book, and sect. 5 for the mode of verification of the copy. An affidavit of the manager of a bank setting out copies of certain entries from the bank books is prima facie evidence of the entries: Harding v. Williams, 14 Ch. D. 197, C. A.

As to inspection under the Act, v. sup. p. 81; and see Dan. 507.

Sect. 3 is not confined to legal proceedings in which the originals would be admissible as evidence, but makes the copies admissible evidence against any one, e. g., entries in Deft's bankers' books evidence against Plt: Harding v. Williams, 14 Ch. D. 197, C. A.; Dan. 507.

For orders under the Act, see Henry v. Lawrill, 27 May, 1880; Doyle v. Mulkern, 13 June, 1884; Re Pickering's Estate, Pickering v. P., 2 Dec., 1884.

By O. xxxi, 15, no party may put in evidence any document referred to in his pleadings or evidence which he has failed to produce for inspection after notice to do so, unless he can satisfy the Court that he has some cause for not producing it: Webster v. Whewall, 15 C. D. 120. The effect of this rule and r. 17 is not to take away the privilege, but merely to impose a penalty: Roberts v. Oppenheim, 32 W. R. 654.

As to proving proclamations, orders, and regulations issued by his Majesty, or by the Privy Council, or by the Treasury, the Admiralty, the Secretaries of State, the Board of Trade, or the Poor Law Board, see the Doc. Ev. Act, 1868 (31 & 32 V. c. 37); by 33 & 34 V. c. 79, s. 21, the Postmaster-General; by 34 & 35 V. c. 70, s. 5, the Local Government Board; and by 40 & 41 V. c. 21, s. 51 (the Prison Act, 1877), rules under that Act. By the Doc. Ev. Act, 1882 (45 V. c. 9), s. 2, documents in the above-mentioned Acts referred to, printed under the superintendence of his Majesty's Stationery Office, are to be receivable in evidence.

As to proving declarations of nationality under the Naturalization Act, 1870, and entries in any register thereunder, and proving certificates of naturalization, and of re-admission to British nationality, see that Act (33 V. c. 14), s. 12. The usual qualified certificate under the Naturalization Act, 1870, effects only a partial naturalization, and a French subject does not, by taking out such a certificate, lose his French status, as he cannot be completely naturalized, except by authority of the French Government: Re Bourgoise, 41 Ch. D. 310, C. A.

By 33 & 34 V. c. 75, s. 83, orders, minutes, certificates, notices, requisitions, and documents of the Education Department may be proved by the production of a copy purporting to have been signed by a secretary or under-secretary of the department.

STAMPS.

By s. 14 of the Stamp Act, 1891 (54 & 55 V. c. 39), which came into operation on the 1st Jan. 1892, it is provided that upon the production of an instrument chargeable with any duty as evidence in any Court of civil jurisdiction, or before an arbitrator or referee, notice shall be taken by the Judge, arbitrator or referee of any omission or insufficiency of the stamp thereon, and if the instrument is one that may legally be stamped after the execution thereof, it may, on payment to the officer of the Court whose duty it is to read the instrument, or to the arbitrator or referee, of the amount of the unpaid duty, and the penalty payable on stamping the same, and a further sum of 1*l.*, be received in evidence, saving all just exceptions, on other grounds. An instrument which was held to be a bill of exchange, and not an equitable assignment, could not be stamped: Exp. Shellard, 17 Eq. 109; but see Bryce v. Bunnister, 3 Q. B. D. 569.

Formerly it was the duty of the registrar to call the attention of the Judge to the omission or insufficiency of the stamp. The duty of taking notice thereof is, by the above-cited section, cast upon the Judge, but the registrar is to receive the stamp duty and penalty, and the sum of 1*l.*, mentioned above; but though he omits to do so, yet all documents which have to be entered in the judgment must be duly stamped before the order is passed.

But in practice the Court accepts the undertaking of the solr as its own officer that documents shall be stamped before the order is drawn up, without requiring any signature of the registrar's book or other document, the undertaking being treated as satisfying the obligations of the Act of 1891: Re Coolgardie Goldfields, Re Cannon, Son & Morten, (1900) 1 Ch. 475, 478 (referring to Jennings v. Christopher, ex relatione Lavie, Registrar).

A solr giving such an undertaking is personally responsible. Where such an undertaking was given and not fulfilled, the Court directed that the order should be drawn up without entering the unstamped documents and ordered the solr within four days to produce the documents to the registrar duly stamped: S. C.

Since the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888 (51 & 52 V. c. 8), the amounts payable on deeds unstamped, or insufficiently stamped, produced in evidence, have been as follows:—(1.) The deficient amount of the duty. (2.) 10*l.* penalty. (3.) 1*l.* under sect. 16 of the Stamp Act, 1874. (4.) When the unpaid duty exceeds 10*l.*, interest on the deficiency at the rate of 5*l.* p. c. per ann. from the date of the deed until payment. (5.) An additional penalty equivalent to the whole (not the deficiency) of the stamp duty thereon, unless a reasonable excuse for the delay in stamping, or for the omission to stamp, or the insufficiency of the stamp, be afforded to the satisfaction of the Judge.

Under s. 15 of the Stamp Act, 1891, the penalties are as follows:—"Save where other express provision is in this Act made, any unstamped or insufficiently stamped instrument may be stamped, after the execution thereof, on payment of the unpaid duty and a penalty of 10*l.*, and also by way of further penalty, where the unpaid duty exceeds 10*l.*, of interest on such duty at the rate of 5*l.* p. c. per ann. from the day upon which the instrument was first executed up to the time when the amount of interest is equal to the unpaid duty."

Receipts for payments not duly stamped were received in evidence by consent. The Stamp Act not permitting the stamp to be added ex post facto, either with or without a penalty, the Court held it was not bound to object under the Act: Orange v. Pickford, V.-C. K., 4 June, 1860, Reg. Min. f. 79; following Thompson v. Webster, L. J.J., 21 July, 1859, Reg. Min. f. 121; 12 Nov. 1859, Reg. Min. f. 19.

Where an instrument is capable of being viewed in two different aspects involving different rates of stamp duty, it may be admitted in evidence if relied on in the aspect in which it is properly stamped: Adams v. Morgan, 12 L. R. Ir. 1; 14 L. R. Ir. 140, citing Buck v. Robson, 3 Q. B. D. 686; Bryce v. Bannister, ib. 569; Fisher v. Calvert, 27 W. R. 301.

As to agreements requiring a stamp, see Carlill v. Carbolic Smoke Ball Co., (1892) 2 Q. B. 484, 490, and cases there cited.

Probate or letters of admon insufficiently stamped must be properly stamped before the judgment is drawn up.

An unstamped deed was allowed to be given as evidence of an act of bankruptcy: Exp. Squire, 4 Ch. 47.

The Court will not receive parol evidence of a written agreement never stamped; though fraudulently destroyed by the person against whom it is sought to be enforced: Smith v. Henley, 1 Ph. 391. Secus, where the evidence was a draft or other writing admitting of being stamped: S. C. 395; Blair v. Ormond, 1 D. & S. 428; Bousfield v. Godefroi, 5 Bing. 418. But in the absence of evidence it will be presumed that the agreement was stamped; and see Gilchrist v. Herbert, W. N. (72) 33, 133; 26 L. T. 381; 20 W. R. 348; Tayl. Ev. 145, 148; Hart v. H., 1 Ha. 1, where, under the circumstances, the Court directed an inquiry what had become of the agreement.

Missing instruments are generally presumed to have been duly stamped unless some evidence to the contrary be given, when the burden of proof is shifted to the person setting up the instrument: Tayl. Ev. 133; Marine Investment Co. v. Haviside, L. R. 5 H. L. 624; Closmadeuc v. Carrell, 2 Jur. N. S. 474; Cole v. Binks, Kay, J., 25 March, 1885, where the action for specific performance was dismissed with costs.

In May v. M., 33 Beav. 81, an unsatisfactory copy of a lost agreement was not allowed to be stamped in order to its being put in evidence.

All instruments executed out of the kingdom are liable to stamp duty, if they relate to property, or are to be acted upon within the kingdom; and also all instruments executed within the kingdom: Wright v. Commrs of Inland Revenue, 11 Exch. 458; 24 L. J. Exch. 49; and see Grenfell v. Same, 1 Ex. D. 242.

Where, as in the case of some foreign deeds which are retained by the notary abroad, the Court acts on a copy, there is no provision for levying the stamp duty by stamping a copy: Brown v. Collins, Kay, J., 13 and 30 July, 1883, Reg. Min. Book, f. 155.

A mortgage deed stamped only with a deed stamp and not with an ad valorem stamp, is not "duly stamped" within sect. 17 of the Stamp Act, 1870: Whiting to Loomes, 14 Ch. D. 822; affd. 17 Ch. D. 10, C. A.

An allotment letter though unstamped is receivable as evidence of the allotment having been received: Re Whitley Partners, Steel's Case, 49 L. J. Ch. 176.

A bill drawn in France on the Bank of England was properly stamped by the holder with a penny stamp: Re Boyse, Crofton v. C., 33 Ch. D. 612.

As to whether an instrument should be stamped as a debenture or a promissory note, see British India Steam Navigation Co. v. Commrs of Inland Revenue, 7 Q. B. D. 165.

An agreement for sale of goodwill was not a conveyance on sale within sect. 70 of the Stamp Act, 1870, although in equity the purchaser thereby became owner: Commrs of Inland Revenue v. Angus, 23 Q. B. D. 579, C. A.; but see 52 V. c. 7, s. 18.

A promissory note insufficiently stamped is not admissible as a receipt for the money: Ashling v. Boon, (1891) 1 Ch. 568; but may be used by the Plt for the purpose of refreshing the Deft's memory and obtaining from him an admission of a loan: Birchall v. Bullough, (1896) 1 Q. B. 325; and as to document requiring to be stamped as an agreement or as a promissory note, see Yeo v. Dawe, 53 L. T. 125.

A letter amounting to an order for payment of money cannot be admitted in evidence if unstamped: Re Whitting, Exp. Rowell, 48 L. J. Bkcy. 46.

A settlement of contingent reversionary interests in specified sums of stock vested in trustees, with power to vary securities at discretion, is liable to duty under sect. 3: Onslow v. Commrs of Inland Revenue, 24 Q. B. D. 584; (1891) 1 Q. B. 239, C. A.

Sect. 11 of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1889 (52 & 53 V. c. 7), amending sect. 38 (c) of the Act of 1881 (44 & 45 V. c. 12), has been held to be retrospective, so that the amended construction of the expression "voluntary settlement" was to be applied although the property had passed to the beneficiaries, and the proceedings to recover the duty been taken previously to the Act of 1889: A. G. v. Theobald, 24 Q. B. D. 557.

Property appointed under a power in a marriage settlement to a volunteer passes under such settlement within sect. 38 of 44 & 45 V. c. 12: A. G. v. Chapman, (1891) 2 Q. B. 526; and as to what constitutes within the section a voluntary settlement whereby a life interest is reserved to the settlor, see S. C., and A. G. v. Gosling, (1892) 1 Q. B. 545.

As to stamp on "policy of insurance for any payment by way of indemnity against loss or damage of or to any property," see Mortgage Ins. Co. v. Commrs of Inland Revenue, 20 Q. B. D. 645.

Compensation for loss of trade on compulsory sale of land under the Lands Clauses Act (Scotland) (8 & 9 V. c. 19) was held to be part of the consideration for sale: Inland Revenue v. Glasgow & S. W. Ry. Co., 12 App. Ca. 315.

Court fees are to be paid by stamps, and no document is to be received in evidence unless properly stamped; but if any such document is received, filed, or used without the proper stamp through inadvertence or mistake, the same may be stamped under the direction of the Court or the person on whom the regulations are binding, and under such conditions as may be prescribed by the regulations: 42 & 43 V. c. 58, s. 3.

By the Revenue Act, 1898 (61 & 62 V. c. 46), s. 9, the fees to be collected under the Public Offices Fees Act, 1879, are to be a debt due to the Crown and recoverable in such manner and by such persons as the Treasury may direct, and if so directed as part of the Inland Revenue.

The ruling of a Judge at the trial as to the sufficiency of a stamp is final: O. xxxix, 8; Blewitt v. Tritton, (1892) 2 Q. B. 327, C. A.

I. R. Commrs*, (1895) 1 Q. B. 484; Sweetmeats Automatic Co. v. I. R. Commrs, (1895) 1 Q. B. 484.

Provided that—(a) The ad valorem stamp duty upon any such decree or order shall not exceed the duty on a sum equal to the value of the property to which the decree or order relates, and where the decree or order states that value, that statement shall be conclusive for the purpose of determining the amount of the duty; and (b) Where ad valorem stamp duty is paid upon such decree or order, any conveyance following upon such decree or order shall be exempt from the ad valorem stamp duty.

FORM AND CONTENTS OF AFFIDAVITS.

By O. XXXVIII, 3, "affidavits shall be confined to such facts as the witness is able of his own knowledge to prove, except on interlocutory motions on which statements as to his belief, with the grounds thereof, may be admitted. And the costs of every affidavit which shall unnecessarily set forth matters of hearsay, or argumentative matter, or copies of or extracts from documents, shall be paid by the party filing the same;" and as to costs, see O. LXV, 27 (20).

Evidence on "information and belief" is not admissible, and need not be contradicted where the application, although interlocutory in form, finally decides the rights: Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259, C. A.

A motion to take affidavits off the file on the ground of length and irrelevancy was refused, and the attention of the Court ought to be drawn to such matters at the hearing: Owens v. Emmens, W. N. (75) 210, 234. Objections for irregularity should be taken when a deposition is tendered in evidence, and not by motion to take it off the file: De Britton v. Hillel, 15 Eq. 213.

Affidavits by persons having no personal knowledge of the facts, and merely echoing the statement of claim, should not be filed, and the costs are to be disallowed: per M. R., W. N. (76) 59.

By O. XXXI, 24, any party may, at the trial of a cause, matter or issue, use in evidence any one or more of the answers, or any part of an answer, of the opposite party to interrogatories without putting in the others, or the whole of such answer; but the Judge may look at the whole of the answers, and if he shall be of opinion that any others of them are so connected with those put in that the last-mentioned answers ought not to be used without them, he may direct them to be put in.

ADMISSIONS IN PLEADINGS.

By O. XXXII, 1, "any party to a cause or matter may give notice, by his pleading, or otherwise in writing, that he admits the truth of the whole or any part of the case of any other party."

If such admissions are contained in one of the pleadings entered as read, they need not be specially mentioned.

By O. XIX, 13, "every allegation of fact in any pleading, not being a petition or summons, if not denied specifically or by necessary implication, or stated to be not admitted in the pleading of the opposite party, shall be taken to be admitted, except as against an infant, lunatic, or person of unsound mind not so found": see Hammer v. Flight, 24 W. R. 346; 35 L. T. 127; Symonds v. Jenkins, 24 W. R. 512; 34 L. T. 277.

By r. 17, each party must deal specifically with each allegation of fact of which he does not admit the truth; and by r. 19 he must not do so evasively, but must answer the point of substance: see Thorp v. Holdsworth, W. N. (76) 159.

By r. 20, "when a contract, &c., is alleged in any pleading, a bare denial of the same by the opposite party shall be construed only as a denial in fact of the making of the express contract, &c. in fact, or of the matters of fact from which the same may be implied at law, and not of its legality or its sufficiency in law, whether with reference to the Statute of Frauds or otherwise."

By O. XXIV, 3, where a Deft pleads a ground of defence which has arisen after the action commenced, Plt may deliver a confession of such defence, and, unless otherwise ordered, sign judgment for his costs up to that time. See inf. Form 8, p. 169.

Judgment signed by Plts for costs under the rule was set aside on motion by Defts on terms of their withdrawing the ground of defence, the Court reserving the costs of it, the signing of the judgment and the motion: Bridgetown Waterworks Co. v. Barbados Water Supply Co., 38 Ch. D. 378; and see Harrison v. Marquis of Abergavenny, 57 L. T. 36; W. N. (87) 156.

ADMISSIONS, CONSENTS, SUBMISSIONS, AND UNDERTAKINGS—WAIVERS.

The Court frequently proceeds upon admissions of facts by the parties, or some of them, or by their counsel at the bar, consents, submissions, undertakings, or waivers of claim; in which case such admissions, &c., should be inserted in the judgment or order immediately before the ordering part, if they relate to the whole, or immediately before the part to which they relate, if they do not relate to the whole: see Maybery v. Brooking, 7 D. M. & G. 673, 679.

PROOF OF DOCUMENTS OR COPIES BY ADMISSION.

O. XXXII, 2, provides that "either party may call upon the other party to admit any document, saving all just exceptions; and in case of refusal or neglect to admit, after such notice, the costs of proving any such document shall be paid by the party so neglecting or refusing, whatever the result of the cause or matter may be, unless at the trial or hearing the Court or a Judge shall certify that the refusal to admit was reasonable; and no costs of proving any document shall be allowed unless such notice be given, except where the omission to give the notice is, in the opinion of the taxing officer, a saving of expense."

As to form of notice, see r. 3.

By r. 9, "if a notice to admit or produce comprises documents which are not necessary, the costs occasioned thereby shall be borne by the party giving such notice."

By r. 7, an affidavit of the solr or his clerk of the due signature of any such admissions, is to be sufficient evidence of them, but where both sides appear it has not been the practice in Chancery to prove the signatures.

The parties also, to save expense, often voluntarily enter into admissions in writing of facts or documents which are not in dispute; and such admissions, being signed by the parties, or by their solrs, and used at the hearing, are entered as read in the judgment.

The original admissions are endorsed by the registrar as those entered as read in the decree, and filed, pursuant to O. LXI, 15, in the Central Office, where a memorandum of the filing is made in the margin of the judgment before it is passed.

No documents are evidence in the cause unless they are put in at the trial. The mere fact that they are admitted in the admissions does not make them evidence in the cause. Every document which it is intended to use in evidence ought to be formally put in, and marked by the registrar. Per James, L. J., in Watson v. Rodwell, 11 Ch. D. 153, C. A.

ADMISSION OF FACTS.

O. XXXII, 4, provides that "any party may, by notice in writing, at any time not later than nine days before the day for which notice of trial has been given, call on any other party to admit, for the purposes of the cause, matter, or issue only, any specific fact or facts mentioned in such notice. And in case of refusal or neglect to admit the same within six days after service of such notice, or within such further time as may be allowed by the Court or a Judge, the costs of proving such fact or facts shall be paid by the party so neglecting or refusing, whatever the result of the cause, matter, or issue may be, unless at the trial or hearing the Court or a Judge shall certify that the refusal to admit was reasonable, or unless the Court or a Judge shall at any time otherwise order or direct. Provided that any admission made in pursuance of such notice is to be deemed to be made only for the purposes of the particular cause, matter, or issue, and not as an admission to be used against the party on any other occasion, or in favour of any person other than the party giving the notice: provided also, that the Court or a Judge may at any time allow any party to amend or withdraw any admission so made, on such terms as may be just."

For forms of admission by agreement and notice, see D. C. F. 288—296.

MEMORANDUM AS TO MARKING DOCUMENTS REFERRED TO IN ADMISSIONS.

The Court of Appeal having considered the dictum of Lord Justice James, in Watson v. Rodwell, 11 Ch. D. 153, C. A., were of opinion that the requirements of the Court of Appeal as to the entering of documentary evidence in decrees and orders would be sufficiently met by the adoption of the following practice:—

All documents produced to witnesses, or with regard to the admissibility of which any question has been raised in the Court below, should be specially marked, even if included in the admissions.

It is not necessary that other documents referred to in the Court below, which are included in formal admissions, should be marked.

It will be sufficient, as a general rule, to enter "the admissions and the several documents therein referred to" according to the present practice.

This memorandum having been submitted to Lord Justice Cotton, in order to ascertain if it correctly embodied the effect of their lordships' observations, was returned by him to the registrar with a letter as follows:—

"I showed the memorandum which you sent me to Lords Justices Baggallay and Lindley, and they agreed with it.

"It does not provide for the case of a bundle of correspondence being put in at the trial and being admitted in evidence without proof. In such a case each of the letters must be marked, unless the solrs of the parties will go through the bundle and mark the letters so as to identify them. If they do so, it will, we think, be sufficient to enter as read, 'a bundle of letters' (giving their number) 'on each of which the solrs of Plts and Defts have signed their initials.'

"Of course, these instructions are only given to apply to cases where the Judge before whom the case is heard has not given any directions as to the course to be adopted. We cannot interfere with any such directions."

No judgment or order wherein any written admissions of evidence are read, is to be passed until the admissions shall have been filed at the Central Office, and a note thereof made on the judgment or order by the proper officer: O. LXI, 15.

Letters, &c., which are not actually read, or put in, although they are in the admissions, and are set out in counsel's briefs, ought not to be entered in the judgment: per Chitty, J., in Skipworth v. Sayle, 18 April, 1883.

Admissions between co-Defts are not to be entered as evidence against the Plt, and cannot be included in the general costs of action: Dodds v. Tuke, 25 Ch. D. 617.

GROUND OF JUDGMENT.

Formerly the Court, in some instances, directed the reason of its decree to be specially entered therein: Maynard v. Moseley, 3 Swa. 653; Onions v. Tyrer, 1 P. W. 343; Gibson v. Kinven, 1 Vern. by Raith. 67, n.; Dux Hamilton v. Dom. Mohun, L. C., May, 1710, A. 340; How v. Garrard, L. C., 5 May, 1710, A. 301.

But this practice is not usual: Exp. E. Ilchester, 7 Ves. 373.

Nevertheless, the utility of it has been noticed: Bax v. Whitehead, 16 Ves. 24; Gordon v. G., 3 Swa. 478.

And it is sometimes adopted: Gordon v. G., sup.; Jenour v. J., 10 Ves. 573; A. G. v. Clupham, 4 D. M. & G. 607; Austin v. A., 11 Jur. N. S. 536.

DECLARATION OF RIGHT.

The Court frequently prefaces its judgments by declarations of matters of fact, or of the rights of the parties, and then proceeds to decree the consequent relief. Thus, in judgments to execute the trusts of wills relating to real estate, the Court often declares the will to be well proved, and that the same ought to be established, and the trusts thereof performed; and so, where the Court gives effect to an agreement, or an equitable mortgage, or construes a will or other instrument, or sets an instrument aside, and in other cases.

* And where a party establishes his right to property, the direction to transfer it to him is often prefaced by a declaration of his title: Jenour v. J., 10 Ves. 568.

Formerly it was not the practice to make a declaration in orders on petition or motion; but in Re St. Nazaire Co., 12 Ch. D. 88, C. A., it was approved of, and it is now the usual practice.

The practice as to declaring rights and determining questions not only as between the Plt and Deft, but as between co-Defts, and also between Plt or Deft and other persons whom it is desirable to bind once for all by the judgment in the action, has been materially altered under the new procedure: see Jud. Act, 1873, s. 24 (7); O. XVI, 48—55; O. XXI, 11, 12, 13; Treleven v. Bray, 1 Ch. D. 176; Harry v. Davey, 2 Ch. D. 721.

And by O. LIVA, 1, "in any Division of the High Court, any person claiming to be interested under a deed, will, or other written instrument may apply by originating summons for the determination of any question of construction arising under the instrument, and for a declaration of the rights of the persons interested." See Dan. 774; D. C. F. 521.

The word "indemnity" in O. XVI, 48, means a right arising from contract, express or implied, or under some statute, or depending upon some equitable doctrine, and must not therefore be confounded with a claim for damages: Birmingham, &c. Land Co. v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 34 Ch. D. 261, C. A.; 35 W. R. 173.

Formerly the Court would not decide rights between co-Defts: Thomas v. Lloyd, 25 Beav. 620; except where necessary in order to determine the right of the Plt, or unless the evidence was clear and the case ripe for decision: Jolly v. Arbutnot, 4 D. & J. 245; Gresley v. Mousley, 4 D. & J. 99;

Cottingham v. E. Shrewsbury, 3 Ha. 637; but this is now altered by Jud. Act, 1873, s. 24 (7): and see O. xvi, 48—55; O. xxi, 11—13.

For form of order where issues are raised between co-Defts, see Bagot v. Easton, V.-C. B., 11 Ch. D. 392.

Formerly it was not the practice of the Court in ordinary suits to make a declaration of right, except as introductory to relief which it proceeded to administer; but by the 13 & 14 V. c. 35 (Sir G. Turner's Act), s. 14, the Court was empowered, on a special case being stated for its opinion, to make such a declaration of it without administering any consequent relief. This Act is repealed by 46 & 47 V. c. 49 (sched.), but is in substance re-enacted by O. xxxiv, 8.

By O. xxv, 5, "no action or proceeding shall be open to objection on the ground that a mere declaratory judgment or order is sought thereby, and the Court may make binding declarations of right whether any consequential relief is or could be claimed or not": and see O. xxxiv, 8.

The power conferred by O. xxv, 5, is discretionary: Re Berens, W. N. (88) 95; and to be exercised with caution, Dan. 631; and the Court has always been reluctant to make declarations of future rights: Langdale v. Briggs, 4 W. R. 703; 8 D. M. & G. 426; 26 L. J. Ch. 45; *Honour v. THIS action, having on the &c., been tried by (name the Judge) and a common [or special] jury of the county of —, and the jury having found a verdict for the Defts, and the said Judge having ordered that judgment be entered for all the Defts with costs, as by the associate's certificate appears; Therefore it is adjudged that the Defts recover against the Plts their costs of defence, to be taxed &c. [in every case inserting consequential directions from Associate's certificate].

As to the form of order for the trial of an action, or any question in an action pending in the Chancery Division before a jury, see Wood & Ivery, Ltd. v. Hamblet, 6 Ch. D. 113.

For form of order on motion for judgment after trial, see also Hunt v. City of London, &c. Co., V.-C. H., 26 Nov. 1878, A. 2369.

N.B.—This order was drawn up upon a brief signed by Bruce, J.

3. Judgment after Trial with Jury—Perpetual Injunction—Costs.

THIS action, having been tried before the Hon. Mr. Justice Wills and a common jury of the county of Berks, on the 13th and 14th days of January, 1886, when the Judge adjourned the case for further consideration, and the jury having found [take findings from Associate's certificate, which in this case are as follows] that the Plt had a right of way (1) "on foot," and assessed the damages at 1s.; (2) "with hand carts," and assessed the damages at 1s.; (3) "with carts drawn by horses," and assessed the damages at 1s.; and on the 22nd day of January, 1886, at Reading, the Judge having directed [take directions from Associate's certificate, which in this case are as follows] that judgment should be entered for the Plt for 3s. and for his costs of suit and granted an injunction as prayed, And the Judge having directed that execution of such judgment should be stayed for fourteen days, and if within that time notice of motion for a new trial should be given and the costs paid to the Plt's solr upon his personal undertaking to return same in case this judgment should be set aside, then that the stay should be continued pending the application to the Divisional Court, as by the Associate's certificate appears, Therefore it is adjudged [here follow directions consequential upon contents of Associate's certificate, which in this case are as follows] that the Plt recover against the Deft 3s. and his costs of this action, to be taxed by the Taxing Master, And it is ordered that the Deft A. P. and his agents be perpetually restrained from wrongfully obstructing &c., But execution under this judgment and the operation of the said injunction are suspended

For form of notice of motion or summons, see D. C. F. 190.

NOTES.

DEFAULT OF APPEARANCE.

Judgment in default of appearance may be entered:—

1. Where the writ is specially indorsed under O. III, 6: O. XIII, 3, 4.
2. Where it is not specially indorsed: O. XIII, 5—8.
3. For the recovery of land: O. XIII, 8.

By O. XIII, 3, “where the writ of summons is indorsed for a liquidated demand, whether specially or otherwise, and the Deft fails, or all the Defts, if more than one, fail, to appear thereto, the Plt may enter final judgment for any sum not exceeding the sum indorsed on the writ, together with interest at the rate specified (if any), or (if no rate be specified) at the rate of five p. c. per ann., to the date of the judgment and costs.”

Under this rule judgment may be signed for the liquidated demand notwithstanding that the writ is also indorsed with a claim for an account and foreclosure: Bissett v. Jones, 32 Ch. D. 635; but if the demand has been reduced by payment, judgment can only be entered for the amount actually due at time of entry: Hughes v. Justin, (1894) 1 Q. B. 667, C. A.

Where the Plt has taken no step for a year, a month's notice must be given under O. LXIV, 13, before judgment can be signed: Webster v. Myer, 14 Q. B. D. 231, C. A.; but the rule does not apply to the issue of execution as to costs, by sequestration or otherwise: Taylor v. Roe, 62 L. J. Ch. 391; W. N. (93) 26; 68 L. T. 253.

Where a writ of summons is indorsed under O. III, 8 (in a case, that is, of ordinary accounts, as, for instance, a partnership, exorship, or ordinary trust account), and the Deft fails to appear, the Plt may, after filing an affidavit of service, or of notice in lieu of service, as the case may be (O. XIII, 2), obtain an immediate order for the account claimed, with usual directions: O. xv, 1. But only common accounts and inquiries can be directed under this rule, and not accounts and inquiries the right to which depends on the Plt establishing a case for them at the hearing: Re Gyhon, Allen v. Taylor, 29 Ch. D. 834, C. A. The order is to be made on an application at Chambers supported by an affidavit of the grounds of the application : O. xv. 2.

Where the writ was against a firm, and one member of the firm entered appearance as such, but the others did not appear, judgment in default of appearance could not go against the firm : Adam v. Townend, 14 Q. B. D. 103 ; and see Jackson v. Litchfield, 8 Q. B. D. 474.

Where the writ was served first on the firm and afterwards on an alleged partner, and judgment by default was signed against the firm within eight days after service on such partner, he was entitled to have the judgment set aside : Alden v. Beckley, 25 Q. B. D. 543.

By O. XIII, 4, "where the writ of summons is indorsed for a liquidated demand, whether specially or otherwise, and there are several Defts, of whom one or more appear to the writ, and another or others of them fail to appear, the Plt may enter final judgment, as in the preceding rule, against such as have not appeared, and may issue execution upon such judgment without prejudice to his right to proceed with the action against such as have appeared."

By r. 5, "where the writ is indorsed with a claim for detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or either of them, and the Deft fails, or all the Defts if more than one fail, to appear, the Plt may enter interlocutory judgment, and a writ of inquiry shall issue to assess the value of the goods and the damages, or the damages only, as the case may be, in respect of the causes of action disclosed by the indorsement on the writ of summons. But the Court or a Judge may order that, instead of a writ of inquiry, the value and amount of damages, or either of them, shall be ascertained in any way which the Court or Judge may direct."

By r. 6, "where the writ is indorsed as in the last preceding rule mentioned, and there are several Defts, of whom one or more appear to the writ, and another or others of them fail to appear, the Plt may sign interlocutory judgment against the Deft or Defts so failing to appear, and the value of the goods and the damages, or either of them, as the case may be, may be assessed, as against the Deft or Defts suffering judgment by default, at the same time as the trial of the action or issue therein against the other Deft or Defts, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise direct. Provided that the Court or a Judge may order that, instead of a writ of inquiry or trial, the value and amount of damages, or either of them, shall be ascertained in any way which the Court or Judge may direct."

By r. 7, "where the writ is indorsed with a claim for detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or either of them, and is further indorsed for a liquidated demand, whether specially or otherwise, and any Deft fails to appear to the writ, the Plt may enter final judgment for the debt or liquidated demand, interest and costs against the Deft or Defts failing to appear, and interlocutory judgment for the value of the goods and the damages, or the damages only, as the case may be, and proceed as mentioned in such of the preceding rules of this Order as may be applicable."

By r. 8, "in case no appearance shall be entered in an action for the recovery of land, within the time limited by the writ for appearance, or if an appearance be entered but the defence be limited to part only, the Plt shall be at liberty to enter a judgment that the person whose title is asserted in the writ shall recover possession of the land, or of the part thereof to which the defence does not apply."

Rule 8 does not provide expressly for the case of one out of several Defts making default, but the practice has been established in the Queen's Bench Division to allow judgment to be signed as against the Deft or Defts who have made default, although there are other Defts who are not in default. The effect of the judgment is to prevent the Deft against whom judgment has been signed from entering appearance before final judgment is obtained. The final judgment being that the Plt recovers possession of the land, includes all the Defts.

By r. 9, "where the Plt has indorsed a claim for mesne profits, arrears of rent, double value, or damages for breach of contract, or wrong or injury to the premises claimed, upon a writ for the recovery of land, he may enter judgment as in the last preceding rule mentioned for the land, and may proceed as in the other preceding rules of this Order mentioned as to such other claim so indorsed."

By r. 10, "where judgment is entered pursuant to any of the preceding rules of this Order, it shall be lawful for the Court or a Judge to set aside or vary such judgment upon such terms as may be just."

DEFAULT OF PLEADING.

Judgment in default of pleading can only be entered in actions for—

1. Debt or liquidated demand: O. xxvii, 2, 3.
2. Detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or either of them: O. xxvii, 4, 5.
3. For debt or liquidated demand, and also for detention of goods and pecuniary damages, or pecuniary damages only: O. xxvii, 6.
4. For the recovery of land: O. xxvii, 7.
5. And also where the writ for the recovery of land is indorsed for mesne profits, arrears of rent, or damages for breach of contract: O. xxvii, 8.

A probate action proceeds notwithstanding the default: r. 10.

In all other actions, if the Deft makes default in delivering a defence, the Plt may (on leave under O. xxx, v. sup. p. 25) set down the action on motion for judgment: r. 11; and where Plt has not put in a defence to a counter-claim, the Deft cannot sign judgment for default of pleading, but must move for judgment: Jones v. Macaulay, (1891) 1 Q. B. 221, C. A.; Higgins v. Scott, 21 Q. B. D. 10, C. A.; though the action has been dismissed for want of prosecution: Roberts v. Booth, (1893) 1 Ch. 52.

The provisions of O. xxvii must be read in connection with those of O. xxx: v. sup. p. 25.

Notwithstanding r. 13 (v. sup. p. 38), a statement of defence delivered out of time is not to be treated as a nullity: Gill v. Woodfin, 25 Ch. D. 707, C. A.; Montagu v. Land Corp. of England, 56 L. T. 730; nor was a reply under the rules of 1875: Graves v. Terry, 9 Q. B. D. 170; and as to mode of dealing with such a defence on motion for judgment, see Gibbings v. Strong, 26 Ch. D. 66, C. A.; Montagu v. Land Corp. of England, sup.

Where an action is proceeding in default of appearance under O. xiii, 12, as if the Deft had appeared, pleadings and documents (including an amended writ: Re Hartley, Nuttall v. Whittaker, (1891) 2 Ch. 121) are to be delivered by being filed: O. xix, 10; and the Plt can then proceed in default of pleading under O. xxvii, 2—8.

Where the Deft is personally served with statement of claim it need not also be filed: Renshaw v. R., 28 W. R. 409; 49 L. J. Ch. 127; 42 L. T. 353; Phillips v. Kearney, 58 L. J. Ch. 344.

Notwithstanding O. xx, 4, which provides that the Plt may alter, modify, or extend his claim without any amendment of the indorsement of the writ, the Plt cannot, when the Deft has not entered appearance, obtain judgment for more than he has claimed by the writ: Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160; Kingdon v. Kirk, 37 Ch. D. 141; Law v. Philby, 56 L. T. 522; 35 W. R. 450.

Where the Plt does not put in a reply to a counter-claim, judgment on the counter-claim must be obtained on motion for judgment.

Where Plt after appearance of Deft delivers a statement of claim without taking out a summons for directions, and then, in default of defence, moves for judgment under O. xxvii, 11, the Deft cannot require that the motion should be dismissed, but his only remedies are to take out a summons to have the action dismissed under O. xxx, 8, sup. p. 25, or to move to have the notice of motion set aside as irregular: Kemp v. Colman, 80 L. T. 54 (where Channell, J., said that the Rule Committee seem to have overlooked O. xxvii, 11 when framing O. xxx).

MODE OF ENTERING JUDGMENT (1.) ON DEFAULT GENERALLY.

In the Chancery Division, judgments upon default, as well as all other judgments, are entered at the registrar's office by filing under O. lxii, 2: v. inf. p. 187. The documents required to be produced being produced and examined, and found regular and sufficient, judgment is entered.

Judgments by default are entered under date of, and take effect from, the day on which the requisite documents are left with the proper officer: see O. xli, 4.

Two printed forms of judgment properly filled up are to be produced to the registrar.

Where the writ is specially indorsed, interest, calculated up to the day of entering judgment, should, if claimed, be added to the amount indorsed on the writ; and as no amount has been fixed for costs, the judgment will be "with costs to be taxed," and the Taxing Master will tax the costs with or without notice, as the case may require.

The documents being produced and found correct, both copies of the judgment will be marked as examined. In judgments for default of appearance the affidavit of service, and in judgments for default of pleading the statement of claim, must be filed by the solr, and a note of filing will be made on the judgment on which the fee stamp (10s.) is impressed.

The registrar will then pass the judgment as he would any other judgment or order by putting his initials to it, and affixing his seal to the duplicate, and the judgment will be entered immediately at the entering seat, and the duplicate handed out. When entered the judgment will be marked with the folio of the entry, indexed and transmitted in due course to the Central Office.

On applying in the Chancery Division to enter judgment in default of appearance there must be produced—

1. The original writ.
2. The affidavit of service. This must show when, where, and how such service was effected (see O. LXVII, 9), and must also comply with the provisions of O. IX, 15: see sup. Chap. II. p. 19. Before the judgment is passed the affidavit must be filed, and a note of the filing marked on the judgment.
3. A certificate of non-appearance obtained at the Central Office: Dan. 305; D. C. F. 184.

The affidavit of service cannot be dispensed with: Ford v. Mieske, 16 Q. B. D. 57.

Service of the writ must be personal, unless substituted or other service has been ordered (O. IX, 2), except in cases mentioned in rr. 3, 8, and O. XLVIII, 6, 7. In the case of substituted service the order for such service must be produced. In case of such service being by post the writ and order are (unless the order shall otherwise direct) to be deemed to be served on the day following the day on which a prepaid letter containing such copies shall have been posted: P. M. R. 17.

In the case of partners or a firm, or a corporation, service must be in accordance with O. XLVIII, 6, 7. When the Defts are sued as a firm, judgment will be against the firm, and execution will issue in accordance with O. XLVIII, 8; v. inf. p. 424.

On applying to enter judgment for recovery of possession of part of land under O. XIII, 8, the certificate of the Central Office of limited defence must be produced, or the notice signed by the Deft or his solr, which is referred to in O. XII, 28.

On applying to enter final judgment in default of pleading under O. XXVII, 2, 3, 7, 8, or interlocutory judgment under rr. 4, 5, 8, the certificate of the Central Office of appearance must be produced, and also the statement of claim, unless it appears by such certificate that the Deft did not require a statement of claim to be delivered.

If the statement of claim does not show the date of delivery, which (unless otherwise directed under O. XXX, v. sup. p. 25) must be ten clear days before judgment is entered (O. XXI, 6), the date must be indorsed.

Before the judgment is passed the statement of claim must be filed at the Central Office, and the filing will be noted in the margin of the judgment.

PROCEEDINGS IN DISTRICT REGISTRIES.

Where a cause or matter is proceeding in a District Registry, all proceedings, except where by the rules it is otherwise provided, or the Court or a Judge shall otherwise order, are to be taken in the District Registry, down to and including the entry of final judgment, and every final judgment and every order for an account by reason of the default of the Deft or by consent is to be entered in the District Registry in the proper book, in the same manner as a like judgment or order in an action proceeding in London would be entered in the Central Office: O. xxxv, 1. Where the writ of summons is issued out of a District Registry, and the Plt is entitled to enter interlocutory judgment under any of the rules of O. XIII, or where the cause or matter is proceeding in a District Registry, and he is entitled to enter interlocutory judgment under any of the rules of O. xxvii, in either such case interlocutory judgment, and when damages shall have been assessed final judgment, is to be entered in the District Registry, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise order: r. 2.

Where final judgment is entered in a District Registry, costs are to be taxed there unless otherwise ordered: O. xxxv, r. 4; but where objections on taxation of costs have been carried in and dealt with by the District Registrar, the Judge, under O. xxxv, 4, and O. LXV, 27 (41), has jurisdiction to order that the items in dispute shall be referred to a Taxing Master of the Supreme Court for retaxation: Stevens v. Griffin, (1897) 2 Q. B. 368, C. A.

Where a writ is issued out of a District Registry, if the Deft resides or carries on business there he must, and if not he may, appear in the district: O. xii, 1—5, and see O. iv, 1—3, as to issue and indorsement of writ.

When any Deft (unless a merely formal Deft, or one who has “no substantial cause to interfere in the conduct of the action”) appears in London, the action proceeds in London: O. xii, 7.

If appearance by a sole Deft or by all the Defts is entered in the district the action proceeds there: r. 6.

A Deft to a district writ appearing in London must give notice the same day to the Plt: r. 9.

As to default in such a case, see O. XIII, 11; Dan. 298.

“When a cause or matter in the Chancery Division is proceeding in a District Registry, all certificates of the chief clerk” (Master) “and taxing officer, and all other documents (required to be filed) used in London before the Judge in Chambers, or before any taxing officer or referee, and not already filed in the District Registry, are to be filed in the same office as they would have been filed in if the proceedings had originally commenced in London, and if the Court or Judge shall so direct, office copies thereof shall be transmitted to the District Registry”: O. xxxv, 21; and actions for trial elsewhere than in London or Middlesex are to be entered for trial with the Associates, and not in the District Registries: O. xxxvi, 22b; and see Jud. Act, 1873, s. 64.

As to the entry of interlocutory and final judgments in the District Registry, see O. xxxv, 2; and as to entry in Central Office, see r. 3.

When a cause or matter is proceeding in a District Registry, writs of execution for enforcing any judgment thereon, and all summonses under the Debtors Act, shall issue from the District Registry unless otherwise ordered, and where final judgment is entered in the District Registry costs are to be taxed there unless otherwise ordered: r. 4.

Where an action proceeds in a district the registrar may exercise all such authority and jurisdiction as may be exercised by a Judge at Chambers, except such as a Master or chief clerk is precluded from exercising: r. 6.

Under this rule a District Registrar has concurrent jurisdiction with that of a Master to set aside or vary a final judgment in default of appearance signed in the registry: Townend v. Kirkham, (1898) 1 Q. B. 51, C. A., commenting on Hood v. Yates, (1894) 1 Q. B. 240.

Where a cause or matter is proceeding in the District Registries of Liverpool or Manchester, the registrar may act as a chief clerk of the Judge of the Chancery Division to whom the cause or rule is assigned, and as registrar and Taxing Master according to directions to be given by the Judge, provided that no order for payment of money out of Court for an amount exceeding 50% shall be made except by the Judge in person, and provided that no District Registrar who is a practising solr shall tax costs: r. 6a.

Applications are to be made in the same manner as at Chambers: r. 7; and to be in like manner subject to reference or appeal to and control by the Judge to whom the action is assigned: rr. 8—12.

The discretion of a Judge to order a sale, in actions where the accounts are being taken in a District Registry, to take place in his Chambers will not be interfered with by the Court of Appeal: Macdonald v. Foster, 6 Ch. D. 193, C. A.

Jud. Act, 1873, s. 49, as to appeals from orders by consent, or as to costs only, does not apply to orders by a District Registrar: Foster v. Edwards, 48 L. J. C. P. 767.

Accounts and inquiries ought not to be taken by District Registrars unless the judgment so directs: Re Bowen, Bennett v. Bowen, 20 Ch. D. 538; Re Smith, Hutchinson v. Ward, 6 Ch. D. 692.

Certificates or reports by District Registrars should follow the form and practice of a Master's certificate: Re Bowen, sup.

Payment of money into Court in an action commenced in District Registry should be under the Ch. Funds Act and Rules, not into a bank to "the credit of the District Registrar": Finlay v. Davis, 12 Ch. D. 735.

As to setting down on motion for judgment actions in which default has been made in a District Registry, v. inf. p. 182.

By Jud. Act, 1873, s. 66, the Court or a Judge may direct any books or documents to be produced, or accounts or inquiries taken or made in the office of or by any District Registrar, and may act on his report.

Actions may be removed from the District Registry:

1. In any case by an order of the Court or a Judge, or of the District Registrar: Jud. Act, 1873, s. 65; O. xxxv, 16.

2. By notice from the Deft or his solr, served on the other parties, and delivered to the District Registrar: see r. 14; (a) when the writ is specially indorsed under O. III, 6, and the Deft has obtained leave to defend, or has appeared, and the Plt has not for four days given notice of an application for an order against him under O. XIV; (b) when the writ is not specially indorsed, at any time after the Deft has appeared, and before delivering a defence, or the expiration of the time for doing so: O. xxxv, 13. But a merely formal, &c. Deft, has no right to give such notice: r. 14.

Actions may by order be removed from London to a District Registry: rr. 16, 17.

When an action is removed, the file and a copy of the entries in the books are transmitted: r. 20; Jud. Act. 1873, s. 65.

And as to removal from District Registry, v. post, Chap. XXXIV., "TRANSFER AND CONSOLIDATION," p. 830.

O. XXXV, 5, provides that where an action proceeds in a District Registry all proceedings relating to (a) leave to enter judgment under O. XVI, 50 and 51, (b) leave to issue or renew writs of execution, (c) examination of judgment debtors for garnishee purposes, (d) garnishee orders, (e) charging orders nisi, (f) interpleader orders (Aug. 1894), shall, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise order, be taken in the District Registry.

By 44 & 45 V. c. 68, s. 22, a District Registrar shall not, either by himself or his partner, be directly or indirectly engaged as solr or agent for a party to any proceeding whatsoever in the District Registry of which he is registrar.

CHAPTER XIII.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT.

1. Judgment upon Motion for Judgment—O. XL, 1.

UPON motion for judgment this day made unto this Court by counsel for the Plt, and upon hearing counsel for the Deft, This Court doth order and adjudge.

For forms of notice of motion, &c., see D. C. F. 352 et seq.

2. Judgment upon Motion for Judgment in default of Defence where Deft has not entered Appearance—O. XXVII, 11.

UPON motion for judgment in default of the Deft delivering a defence this day made unto this Court by counsel for the Plt [If Deft has not entered appearance, and upon reading the writ of summons issued in this action on the &c., the Central Office certificate of no appearance having been entered for the Deft, dated &c., an office copy of the statement of claim, filed as against the Deft on the &c., an office copy notice of this motion [if marked short, and that this action would be marked short], filed as against the Deft, on the &c. [Enter further evidence], This Court doth &c.

3. The like, where Deft has entered Appearance.

UPON motion for judgment &c. [see Form 2], and upon reading the writ of summons issued in this action on the &c., the Central Office certificate of appearance having been entered for the Deft, dated &c., the statement of claim, with the certificate of the Plt's solr indorsed thereon, showing that the Deft has not delivered any defence, an affidavit of &c., of service of notice of this motion on the Deft [Enter further evidence], This Court doth &c.

Where the Deft appears in Court by counsel or in person, neither the certificate of appearance nor that of the Plt's solr as to no defence need be read.

4. Judgment at Trial against some Defts and upon Motion for Judgment against others—O. XXVII, 12.

THIS action coming on for trial this day before this Court against the Deft A., in the presence of &c., and counsel for the Plt this day also moving for judgment in default of the Defts B. and C. delivering a defence, upon hearing the pleadings in this action [Enter evidence, as above, Forms 2 & 3], and what was alleged by counsel for the Plt and the Deft A. This Court doth &c.

5. Defendants not competent to consent Submitting to Judgment.

THIS action coming on &c., for trial &c., in the presence of counsel for the Plt and Defts &c., and the Plt by his counsel withdrawing the charges of fraud and all imputations made by her against the Defts, and the Defts A. and B. by their respective counsel consenting to this judgment, and that no order shall be made as to their costs of this action up to and including this judgment, and the Defts E. and F. by their counsel stating to this Court that they have no defence to the action, and submitting to judgment for the Plt, and the Plt by her counsel not asking for costs against the last-named Defts, Let &c.—Rees v. Richmond, Kekewich, J., 13 Dec. 1889, B. 1756.

In this case two Defts were defending on behalf of themselves and all other parties interested under a settlement, and were held incapable of consenting to a judgment setting aside the settlement.

NOTES.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT.

O. XL, 1, directs that "except where by the Act or Rules it is provided that judgment may be obtained in any other manner, the judgment of the Court is to be obtained by motion for judgment."

When the Defts are sued as a firm, judgment must be against the firm, and execution will issue in accordance with O. XLVIII, 8.

In the following cases (as also after trials before a jury, as to which v. inf. Chap. XXII., "Issues"), judgment is to be obtained by setting down the action on motion for judgment:—

(a.) Under O. XXVII, 11, 12, in all actions other than those referred to in the preceding rules of that Order (e.g., actions for debt or liquidated demand, detention of goods, pecuniary damages only, recovery of land, and probate actions) where the Deft or one of several Defts makes default in delivering a defence the Plt may set down the action on motion for judgment, and such judgment shall be given as upon the statement of claim the Court or a Judge shall consider the Plt is entitled to.

(b.) Under O. XXVII, 14, in any case in which issues arise, other than between Plt and Deft, if any party make default in delivering any pleading, the opposite party may apply for such judgment, if any, as he may appear to be entitled to.

(c.) In cases where (under O. XXXVI, 8, &c.) issues have been tried, or issues or questions of fact determined: O. XL, 7.

The Plt must set down the action and give notice of motion within ten days, or the Deft may do so: Ib.

(d.) By leave of the Court, in cases where some only of several issues or questions of fact have been tried or determined, and the others have become unnecessary, or may be postponed: O. XL, 8.

On motion for judgment in default of defence, under O. XXVII, 11, the Plt will only be granted such relief as is asked by his statement of claim: Faithfull v. Woodley, 43 Ch. D. 287.

And see, as to necessary allegations in actions of foreclosure, Bolingbroke v. Hinde, 29 Ch. D. 795; Platt v. Mendel, 27 Ch. D. 246; 32 W. R. 918; and for specific performance, Tacon v. National Standard Land Co., 56 L. J. Ch. 529; 56 L. T. 156; Smith v. Buchan, 36 W. R. 631; Law v. Philby, 35 W. R. 450; 56 L. T. 230; Wethered v. Cox, W. N. (88) 165.

O. XXVII, 11, applies to default of pleading to counterclaim; Street v. Crump, 25 Ch. D. 68; Higgins v. Scott, 21 Q. B. D. 10; Jones v. Macaulay, (1891) 1 Q. B. 221, C. A.; Roberts v. Booth, (1893) 1 Ch. 52.

On such a motion the Court cannot accept any evidence, but must give judgment according to the pleadings only: Smith v. Buchan, 36 W. R. 631; 58 L. T. 710.

Where at the hearing it is necessary to amend the statement of claim, it must be re-served on the Deft: S. C.

No affidavit in support of the statement of claim is required, even in specific performance actions: Bagley v. Searle, 35 W. R. 404.

Where minutes of judgment are not left, the notice of motion must state the precise words of the judgment asked for: De Jongh v. Newman, 56 L. T. 180; 35 W. R. 403; W. N. (87) 59; and see Bagley v. Searle, 56 L. T. 306.

Where the defence of infant Defts was withdrawn, the Court required the statement of claim to be proved by affidavit: Fitzwater v. Waterhouse, 52 L. J. Ch. 83; Gardner v. Tapling, 33 W. R. 473; but see National Provincial Bank v. Evans, 51 L. J. Ch. 97; 30 W. R. 177; and Ellis v. Robbins, 50 L. J. Ch. 512, tending to show that the Court cannot, on motion for judgment, order evidence to be taken by affidavit, and that, as there can be no implied admission against an infant (see O. XIX, 13), the proper course, in case of default of defence by an infant Deft, is to give notice of trial; and see Dan. 566.

In an action for infringement of a patent, the particulars of breaches delivered with the statement of claim are to be regarded as part thereof: United Telephone Co. v. Smith; Same v. Mitchell, 38 W. R. 70; 61 L. T. 617.

Where a Deft's defence is struck out, under O. XXXI, 21, for default in answering interrogatories, judgment may be moved for under this rule: Haigh v. H., 31 Ch. D. 478; Fisher v. Hughes, 25 W. R. 528; Tacon v. National Standard Land Co., 56 L. J. Ch. 529; 56 L. T. 165, 529.

By O. XIX, 10, "every pleading or other document required to be delivered to a party, or between parties, shall be delivered in the manner now in use to the solr of every party who appears by a solr, or to the party if he does not appear by a solr, but if no appearance has been entered for any party, then such pleading or document shall be delivered by being filed with the proper officer."

A notice of motion for judgment may be delivered or filed under this rule: Dymond v. Croft, 3 Ch. D. 513; Morton v. Miller, 24 W. R. 723; though the Deft be out of the jurisdiction; Gardiner v. Hardy, W. N. (76) 185.

In case of default of appearance, upon the Plt filing a proper affidavit of service, and (if the writ is not specially indorsed) a statement of claim (which cannot be dispensed with even under O. XXX, v. sup. p. 25), the action may proceed as if the party served had appeared (O. XIII, 12). And every pleading or document required to be delivered shall be delivered (O. XIX, 10); and all writs, notices, &c., in respect of which personal service is not requisite, may be served (O. LXVII, 4) by filing with the proper officer.

The object of the provision as to filing in O. XIX, 10, is to avoid the necessity of obtaining an order for substituted service every time a step is taken in the action: Dymond v. Croft, sup. (per Jessel, M. R.).

Where Deft fails to appear, Plt cannot by his statement of claim enlarge the scope of his action by claiming some relief not asked by the indorsement on the writ: Law v. Philby, 35 W. R. 450; 56 L. T. 522; Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160.

As to dismissal of third party where the whole matter cannot be disposed of by one trial, see Schneider v. Batt, 8 Q. B. D. 701, C. A.; and see Baxter v. France, (1895) 1 Q. B. 591, C. A.; Dan. 235, 236.

ADMISSIONS ON PLEADINGS OR OTHERWISE.

By O. XXXII, 6, "any party may at any stage of a cause or matter where admissions of fact have been made, either on the pleadings or otherwise, apply to the Court or a Judge for such judgment or order as upon such admissions he may be entitled to, without waiting for the determination of any other question between the parties; and the Court or a Judge may upon such application make such order, or give such judgment as the Court or Judge may think just."

The relief under this rule is discretionary, and will be granted only on the application of all the Plts: Re Wright, Kirke v. North, (1895) 2 Ch. 747.

The order under this rule may be obtained on application in Chambers: London Steam Dyeing Co. v. Digby, 57 L. J. Ch. 505; 36 W. R. 497; 58 L. T. 724; but the usual course is to move for judgment, unless there are special reasons for proceeding in Chambers: Cook v. Haynes, W. N. (84) 75. Where the Defts wrote a letter containing admissions which would have enabled the Plts to obtain an order by summons, extra costs occasioned by proceeding by motion were disallowed: Allen v. Oakey, W. N. (90) 121; 62 L. T. 724.

Where there is no actual admission, but only a constructive admission by default, the motion must be set down: Caroli v. Hurst, 31 W. R. 839; 48 L. T. 759.

A Deft cannot set down the action on motion for judgment under this rule: Litton v. L., 3 Ch. D. 794; but see Pascoe v. Richards, 29 W. R. 330; 50 L. J. Ch. 337; 44 L. T. 87.

As to the meaning of the words, "at any stage," see Brown v. Pearson, 21 Ch. D. 716, where Plt was allowed to move after joinder of issue and notice of trial given.

Whether admissions contained in an affidavit are within the words, "or otherwise," or whether those words refer only to cases in which notice to admit has been given under O. XXXII, 1 or 4, quære: Landergan v. Feast, 34 W. R. 469, 691; 55 L. T. 42.

Under the Rules of 1875, O. XL, 2 (not revived by Rules of 1883), the indorsement on a writ was held not to be a pleading: Wallis v. Jackson, 23 Ch. D. 204; 31 W. R. 519.

Unless the allegations in a statement of claim are specifically denied by the defence, the Plt is entitled to move for judgment: Rutter v. T'regent, 12 Ch. D. 758; and that allegations in a counterclaim must also be specifically dealt with, see Benbow v. Low, 13 Ch. D. 553; Green v. Sevin, 13 Ch. D. 589.

Where the motion was made in an action for infringement of patent, on the admission of an infringement in ten instances, the Plt was confined to an inquiry as to damages in respect of those ten instances: United Telephone Co. v. Donohoe, 31 Ch. D. 399, C. A.

Where in an action for a liquidated demand the Defts admitted the claim, but counterclaimed for a larger sum, and the counterclaim was not shown to be frivolous or unsubstantial, the Plt could not sign judgment on admissions: Mersey Steamship Co. v. Shuttleworth, 10 Q. B. D. 468; 11 Q. B. D. 531, C. A.; but see now O. XXVII, 9, providing that where defence goes to a separable part of Plt's claim, and judgment is entered, if there is a counterclaim execution shall not issue without leave of the Court. In Showell v. Bouron, 52 L. J. Q. B. 284; 31 W. R. 550; 48 L. T. 613; Plts were held entitled to judgment, but on terms that, if counterclaiming Deft brought the debt into Court, execution should be stayed.

O. XXXII, 6 is to be read as if the words "if any" were inserted after the word "question;" so that the Plt may move for the whole relief sought by his statement of claim: Clutton v. Lee, 24 W. R. 607; 7 Ch. D. 541, n.; 45 L. J. Ch. 684. Where the order is equivalent to a decree, further consideration should be adjourned: Bennett v. Moore, 1 Ch. D. 692.

Husband and wife having put in a joint defence, which was no defence as regarded the husband, Plt was entitled to final judgment against him; Jenkins v. Davies, 1 Ch. D. 696; 24 W. R. 690; W. N. (76) 49.

Orders have been made on motion under this rule—for partition: Gilbert v. Smith, 2 Ch. D. 686; against Defts admitting a partnership, and that they had not accounted, but alleging that Plt was indebted to them: Turquand v. Wilson, 1 Ch. D. 85; in a partition action for sale and an account of rents and profits received by the Plt in possession: Burnell v. B., 11 Ch. D. 213; against an agent on his admission of the agency: Rumsey v. Reade, 1 Ch. D. 643; and in a suit against a trustee for a breach of trust, his statement that he did not know and could not set forth whether the Plts were, &c., was a sufficient admission of title of the Plts as cs. q. t., and payment into Court of the amount was ordered: Symonds v. Jenkins, 24 W. R. 512; 34 L. T. 277; Bennett v. Moore, 1 Ch. D. 692; Dan. 468, 469.

In an action for specific performance of an agreement for purchase of land the Plt, after reply, moved for judgment upon admissions of fact in the statement of defence, and was held not to be too late, but to be entitled to the order: Brown v. Pearson, 21 Ch. D. 716.

As to setting down the action against one Deft, under this rule, and against others on default of pleading, see O. XXVII, 12, and Bridson v. Smith, 24 W. R. 392; Gillott v. Ker, 24 W. R. 428.

By O. XXIV, 3, where a Deft pleads a ground of defence which has arisen after the action commenced, Plt may confess it, and, unless otherwise ordered, claim costs up to that time. See form of judgment, sup. p. 169, Form 8.

SETTING DOWN—MARKING “SHORT.”

After some conflicting decisions as to hearing motions for judgment as interlocutory motions (see Bowen v. B., 24 W. R. 246; Pearce v. Spickett, W. N. (76) 109; Hale v. Snelling, ib. 77), the Judges directed that “motions for judgment in actions shall not be brought on as ordinary motions, but shall be set down in the cause book.

“They can be marked short on production of the usual certificate of counsel, and will then be placed in the paper on the day for which notice is given, if a short cause day, or on the first short cause day after the notice expires. If not marked short, they will come into the general paper in their regular turn.

“It will be advisable that the notices of motion for judgment should, if it is intended to mark them short, contain a statement to that effect, and also a statement that no further notice will be given of their having been so marked. Such statements will dispense with the necessity for giving Defts further notice that motions for judgment have been marked short:” Judge’s Notice of 11th April, 1876. In Meakin v. Sykes, 24 W. R. 293, the Court fixed an early day for the hearing on motion for judgment in default of pleading.

The expression “first short cause day after the notice expires” has been considered to mean the first available short cause day; so that if notice were given for a day which was a short cause day, the case might be placed in the paper for that day: Green v. Moore, 39 W. R. 421; W. N. (91) 68.

An action for rectification of a settlement will not, it seems, be heard as a short cause: Clennell v. C., W. N. (84) 14.

Where an action proceeds in a District Registry, and it is necessary to set it down on motion for judgment, the proper course is for the District Registrar to forward to the senior Chancery Registrar a formal notification or certificate that he has set down the action on motion for judgment, together with a copy of the notice, and the two copies of the pleadings, which have to be left on setting down (v. sup. p. 150): see Birm. Waste Co. v. Lane, 24 W. R. 292.

By O. XL, 9, except by leave, no motion for judgment is to be set down after the expiration of one year from the time when the party seeking to set down the same first became entitled so to do.

And by r. 10, upon a motion for judgment, the Court may give judgment, or may direct the motion to stand over for further consideration, and direct such issues or questions to be tried or determined, and such accounts and inquiries to be taken and made, as it may think fit.

For form of counsel’s certificate, &c., see D. C. F. 365.

As to motions for judgment generally, see Dan. 505; and as to motions for judgment where issues or questions of fact have been tried, v. inf. Chap. XXII., “Issues,” p. 384.

CHAPTER XIV.

USUAL DIRECTIONS.

SECTION I.—FURTHER CONSIDERATION ADJOURNED— LIBERTY TO APPLY.

1. Usual Directions adjourning Further Consideration.

AND let the further consideration of this action [or matter] be adjourned; And let any of the parties be at liberty to apply [to this Court, or to the Judge in Chambers] as they shall be advised.

The rule that an order carries with it liberty to apply, although not expressly reserved, only applies where the order is not of a final character: per Chitty, J., in Penrice v. Williams, 23 C. D. 353; and see Dan. 629.

2. The like—with Liberty to apply in Chambers as to particular Matter.

AND let any of the parties be at liberty to apply in Chambers for the appointment of a receiver [or for, or as to &c., as the case may be], and otherwise (generally) to apply as they may be advised.

3. The like—where Order is made on Interlocutory Motion under O. XXXII, 6.

AND this Court, not requiring any trial of this action other than this motion, Let the further consideration &c.—Liberty to apply.—And see Brassington v. Cussons, 24 W. R. 881.

4. The like—on Application in Chambers under O. xv, 1, where Order equivalent to a Judgment.

“AND the Judge not requiring any trial of this action other than the hearing of this application,” Let the further consideration &c.—Liberty to apply.

For observations on the use of the words “the Judge not requiring, &c.,” see Gatti v. Webster, 12 Ch. D. 771.

5. The like—Liberty to Trustees to apply in Chambers as to Indemnity against Tenant for Life.

AND the Deft E. H. in person, and the Defts J. M. H., A. G. H., and E. N. by their counsel respectively, requesting, It is ordered that they be at liberty to apply in Chambers with reference to enforcing such rights (if any) as they may have to impound the interest of the Deft H. E. H. in the indentures dated &c., by way of indemnity to the estates of the said G. H. and S. F. R. Plt's subsequent costs of action and costs of Defts E. H., J. M. H., A. G. H., and E. R. reserved until further consideration of the action. Let the further consideration of this action be adjourned to be heard in Chambers.—Liberty to apply.—See Re Holt, Holt v. H., Byrne, J., 9 July 1897, A. 1073, (1897) 2 Ch. 525.

6. If Costs are partly dealt with by the Judgment.

AND let the further consideration of this action, and of the costs of this action not hereinbefore [otherwise] provided for [or disposed of] be adjourned.—Liberty to apply.

NOTES.

ADJOURNMENT.

The adjournment of further consideration will be continued from time to time, if necessary; and see O. xxxvi, 21.

Notice of setting down on further consideration need not be given, in the absence of special reason, to persons served with the judgment who have not appeared: Re Rolfe, W. N. (94) 77; 70 L. T. 624.

For the mode of setting down causes for further consideration, v. r. 21.

Where on further consideration there are further accounts and inquiries to be taken, but no further question of law to be decided, the practice is not to adjourn the further consideration for the Court, but to give general liberty to apply in Chambers: Gilbert v. Russell, W. N. (75) 225.

Where under O. xxxii, 6, a judgment or order is made, the further consideration may be adjourned, although such judgment or order is made on interlocutory motion: Bennett v. Moore, 1 Ch. D. 692. So, also, where an order is made on summons under O. xv: Form 4, sup. p. 183.

The usual direction for the adjournment of the further consideration of the action, pending an account or inquiry directed to be made in Chambers, does not in terms include the reservation of costs; but they are in effect thereby reserved.

Where, however, the question of costs is partly disposed of at the hearing, the further consideration of the costs undisposed of should be expressly reserved: Horsfall v. Garnett, V.-C. W., 5 March, 1858, Regr. Min. 246; Chilton v. Crosby, V.-C. W., 6 March, 1858, Regr. Min. 270; Form 6, sup.

Trustees were held entitled to their proper costs of carrying out transactions after order on further consideration, though without the sanction of the Court: Re Mansel, Rhodes v. Jenkins, 54 L. J. Ch. 883; 33 W. R. 727; 52 L. T. 806.

Where costs are given by the judgment or order generally, subsequent costs are included: Quarrell v. Beckford, 1 Mad. 286; Krehl v. Park, 10 Ch. 236; and see Clutton v. Pardon, T. & R. 304; and this notwithstanding a reservation of subsequent costs "not provided for by the judgment or order," there being other costs by which these words might be satisfied: Quarrell v. Beckford, sup.; and where subsequent costs are not intended to be given, the direction should be confined to costs up to the judgment or order: S. C.

Liberty to apply is, in the absence of express reservation, implied in all orders which are not of a final nature: Penrice v. Williams, 23 Ch. D. 353; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 561.

The usual direction for liberty to apply did not extend to an application for costs, as to which no express direction was given in the judgment or order: Kendall v. Marsters, 2 D. F. & J. 200.

But where accounts or inquiries are directed, and the further consideration is adjourned, the Court rarely gives any costs until the further order; except where some part of the action or some of the Defts are dismissed at the hearing, or an improper defence has been set up by the Defts or some of them; in such cases it is the more usual course at once to deal with the costs relating to those matters: see inf. Chap. XVII., "Costs."

SECTION II.—DIRECTIONS FOR PAYMENT.

1. Payment of Money by one Party to Another.

LET the (Deft) B., on or before the — day of — (or [if so, subsequently] within — days after service of this judgment [or order]) pay to the (Plt) A. the sum of —l. appearing by &c. [or certified &c.] to be due to him in respect of &c. [or on taking the accounts directed by &c.].

2. Payment of Money by Instalments, the whole to become due on Default.

UPON the application of the Plts, and upon hearing the solrs for the applicants and for the Deft, Let the Deft J. pay to the Plt M. the sum of 50*l.* by the several instalments mentioned in the first column of the schedule hereto on or before the several dates set opposite to the amounts in the second column thereof, but, on default being made by the Deft in payment of any one of such instalments, Let the Deft J. forthwith pay to the Plts M. the whole balance of the said sum of 50*l.* then remaining unpaid.—Morris v. Jones, M. R. at Chambers 21 Jan. 1878, B. 154.

NOTES.

As to attachment and the mode of enforcing judgments and orders for payment by one person to another, see Chap. XXVII., "EXECUTION AND CONTEMPT," inf.; and O. XLII, O. XLIII, and O. XLIV; and as to the attachment of debts, see O. XLV, O. XLVIII, 9, and Chap. XXVIII., "CHARGING ORDERS," inf.

By the Judgments Act, 1838 (1 & 2 V. c. 110), s. 18, and Judgments Act, 1864 (27 & 28 V. c. 112), s. 2, it was enacted that decrees and orders of Courts of Equity, whereby any sums of money or any costs, charges, or expenses are payable to any person, should have the effect of judgments at law, when registered pursuant to sect. 19. This does not apply to a Master's certificate: Mansfield v. Ogle, 4 D. & J. 38; nor to an order for taxation: Shaw v. Neale, 6 H. L. C. 581; 6 W. R. 635. By the Judgments Act, 1839 (2 V. c. 11), s. 4, judgments must be re-registered every five years; and by the Judgments Act, 1840 (3 & 4 V. c. 82), s. 2, and Judgments Act, 1855 (18 & 19 V. c. 15), ss. 4, 5, until registered, notice thereof does not affect purchasers, mortgagees, or creditors; and see the Law of Property Amendment Act, 1860 (23 & 24 V. c. 38), ss. 1—5; and by the Judgments Act, 1864 (27 & 28 V. c. 112), no judgment entered up after the passing of the Act was to affect any land until such land should have been "delivered in execution, by virtue of a writ of elegit or other lawful authority."

Land which cannot be delivered in execution by the sheriff could be by "other lawful authority," i. e., the decree of the Court of Chancery: Hatton v. Haywood, 9 Ch. 229, and cases there; Re South, 9 Ch. 369; Wells v. Kilpin, 18 Eq. 298; Tillett v. Pearson, 22 W. R. 209; 43 L. J. Ch. 93; Exp. Evans, Re Watkins, 13 Ch. D. 252, C. A.; and as to "equitable execution" by appointment of receiver, v. inf. Chap. XXXII., "RECEIVERS," pp. 791 et seq. And as to the effect of the 1 & 2 V. c. 110, the Land Charges Registration and Searches Act, 1888 (51 & 52 V. c. 51), and the Land Charges Act, 1900 (63 & 64 V. c. 26), as giving a direct charge upon land and otherwise, and as to judgments generally, v. inf. Chap. XLVII., "MORTGAGES," pp. 2062 et seq.

Where money had been paid under an order, and the order was reversed on appeal, repayment was ordered with interest at 4l. p. c.: Rodger v. Comptoir d'Escompte de Paris, L. R. 3 P. C. 465; Merchant Banking Co. v. Maud, 18 Eq. 659; 22 W. R. 874. But this has not been usual in Chancery unless a special case for interest has been made out: Parker v. Morrell, 2 Ph. 453, 469; and see Dan. 1077.

As to orders for taxation and payment of costs, v. inf. Chap. XVII., "COSTS."

PASSING, ENTERING, CORRECTING, ADDING TO, AND ENROLLING JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

SECTION I.—PASSING AND ENTERING.

Motion to vary Minutes refused.

UPON motion &c. that the minutes of the judgment [or order] dated &c. be varied by &c. [state proposed variations]; And upon hearing &c., This Court doth not think fit to make any order upon this motion, but doth order &c.—Directions as to costs.

NOTES.

DRAWING UP JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

When a judgment is pronounced, or an order made by the Court, a note of it is taken down by the registrar, and a similar note is indorsed by counsel on the briefs; and from these notes the draft or minute of the formal judgment or order is prepared.

The party entitled to the carriage of the order should, immediately after it is pronounced, leave his papers at the registrar's office, otherwise the registrar may draw it up at the instance of any other party.

O. LXII, 2.—“(1.) Every order which, according to the practice at the time when these rules came into operation, would require to be entered in the office of the Chancery registrars, shall for the future be filed under the direction of the senior registrar. An entry of the filing thereof shall be made in books to be kept for that purpose, and all orders made throughout any year shall be numbered consecutively in the order in which they are filed. Every order so filed shall be deemed to be duly entered, and the date of such filing shall be deemed the date of entry. In the case of procedure orders drawn up in Chambers, no entry thereof shall be necessary before an attachment can be issued for disobedience thereof.

“(2.) A duplicate of every order shall, one clear day after the same shall have been left at the Chancery registrar's office, or in urgent cases sooner, if so directed by the officer by whom the same has been drawn up, be supplied out of the said office without fee to the solr or person having the carriage of the order; and wherever any rule or order, or the practice of the Court, requires the production or service of the original order, it shall be sufficient to produce or serve the duplicate.

“(3.) In the case of printed orders, a printed copy shall be marked as a duplicate and duly examined before sealing the same. In the case of written orders, a duplicate shall be written without abbreviations, and carefully examined by writers specially selected for that purpose, under the direction of the Scrivenery Board, and the examination thereof certified in such manner as the Board shall direct; and no duplicate shall be sealed unless.

such examination shall have been so certified. Every duplicate shall be sealed before being issued, and there shall be noted thereon the number of the order, the date of entry, and the amount of the stamp on the original order.

“(4.) A further duplicate may at any time, with the sanction of the senior registrar, and on payment of the prescribed fee, be issued on the senior registrar being satisfied of the loss of the duplicate, and that the person applying is properly entitled to it.

“(5.) Calendars or indexes of the orders entered in pursuance of this rule shall be made under the direction of the senior registrar, so that the same may be conveniently referred to when required, and the original orders made in each year when filed shall from time to time be bound up in volumes. Such volumes and calendars, or indexes, shall from time to time be transmitted to the Filing and Record Department of the Central Office, to be there preserved, and shall at all times during office hours be accessible to the public on payment of the usual fee.

“(6.) An order shall not be amended except upon production of the duplicate last issued, which shall, after the original order has been amended, be also amended in accordance therewith under the direction of the senior registrar, and the amendment in the duplicate shall be sealed under the like direction.

“(7.) For the purpose of this rule ‘order’ shall include judgment; and the senior registrar and the Scrivenery Board respectively shall give such directions as may be necessary for carrying this rule into effect.”

By O. LXII, 4, “at the time of bespeaking a judgment or order, the party bespeaking the same shall leave with the registrar his counsel’s brief, and such other documents as may be required by the registrar for the purpose of enabling him to draw up the same.”

By r. 5, “every judgment or order shall be bespoken, and the briefs, and such other documents as are mentioned in r. 4 shall be so left within seven days after the judgment or order is pronounced or finally disposed of by the Court or Judge”; otherwise, by r. 6, “the registrar may decline to draw up the judgment or order without the leave of the Court or Judge.”

A separate copy of the draft or minutes is prepared and delivered out to each party represented by a separate solr.

By r. 7, “at the time of delivering out the draft of any judgment or order, which requires to be settled by the registrar in the presence of the parties, the registrar shall deliver out to the party on whose application the draft has been prepared, an appointment in writing of a time for settling the same.”

As a general rule all judgments and orders deciding the rights of parties inter se will require to be settled in the presence of the parties, notwithstanding that they are of a simple character. Thus, a judgment simply dismissing the action with costs may require such settlement, as the entry of evidence is material for the consideration of the Taxing Master, and the judgment itself may be of importance as a document of title, or as evidence of res judicata.

By r. 8, notice of the appointment is to be served on the opposite party one clear day at least before the time fixed thereby for settling the draft, and the parties are to attend the appointment, and produce to the registrar their briefs, and such other documents as may be necessary to enable him to settle the draft.

By r. 9, service of the notice of appointment is to be effected by leaving it at the place for service of the party to be served, or by transmitting it by post to such party at such place for service; and by r. 10, at the time fixed for settling, the registrar is to satisfy himself in such manner as he may think fit that service of the notice of appointment has been duly effected.

By r. 11, “when the draft judgment or order has been settled by the registrar, he shall name a time in the presence of the several parties, or else deliver out an appointment in writing of a time for passing the judgment or order, and in the latter case notice of the appointment shall be served on the opposite party in like manner as directed by rr. 8 and 9 of this order with reference to an appointment to settle the draft judgment or order.”

Where, under r. 11, the time for passing an order is named verbally, this must be done by the registrar personally in the presence of the parties; but where an application is made to his clerk, the clerk should give an appointment in writing: see London, &c. Association, Exp. Pulbrook, 17 W. R. 1075; 21 L. T. 283.

By r. 12, "if any party fails to attend the registrar's appointment for settling the draft of or passing any judgment or order, or fails to produce his briefs and such other documents as the registrar may require, the registrar may proceed to settle the draft, or pass the judgment or order in his absence, and shall be at liberty to dispense with the production of counsel's briefs, and to act upon such evidence as he may think fit of the actual appearance by counsel of the party failing to attend or to produce such documents or papers as aforesaid, or may require the matter to be mentioned to the Court or Judge.

A party not producing his briefs when required, under r. 12, was ordered to do so within a limited time; and in default the order was to be drawn up without them: Yeatman v. Read, 14 W. R. 123; 35 L. J. Ch. 176; 13 L. T. 580.

By r. 13, "the registrar may adjourn any appointment for settling the draft of or passing any judgment or order to such time as he may think fit, and the parties who attended the appointment shall be bound to attend such adjournment without further notice."

By r. 14, "notwithstanding the preceding rules of this order, the registrar shall be at liberty, in any case in which he may think it expedient so to do, to settle and pass the judgment or order, without making any appointment for either purpose and without notice to any party."

A solr who has been discharged before the passing and entry of an order will not be allowed, by withholding papers on which he claims a lien, to prevent the drawing up or entry of the order: Simmonds v. G. E. Ry. Co., 3 Ch. 797; Clifford v. Turrill, 2 D. & S. 1; and see Re Hawkes, (1898) 2 Ch. 1, C. A.

And see Dan. 636 et seq.

VARYING MINUTES.

The registrar in drawing up any order may introduce such alterations as from his experience he believes the Court would sanction, and these alterations are binding on the parties: see Davenport v. Stafford, 8 Beav. 503; Hargrave v. H., 3 Mac. & G. 348.

But questions of difficulty sometimes arise which the registrar himself may require to be mentioned to the Court.

After, but not before, the draft or minutes have been settled by the registrar, if any party should feel dissatisfied with the draft as so settled, and wish to bring the matter before the Court, an application, at the peril of the party as to costs, must be made by motion specifying the matters complained of in the proposed judgment or order; and the registrar should be previously informed of the application: Prince v. Howard, 14 Beav. 208; Hood v. Cooper, 26 Beav. 373; Tennant v. Trenchard, 4 Ch. 537, 545 (where, per L. C., the practice of setting down the cause upon the minutes was disapproved); British Dynamite Co. v. Krebs, 25 W. R. 846; General Share, &c. Co. v. Wetley Brick, &c. Co., 20 Ch. D. 130, C. A.; and such application can be made at any time before the judgment, &c. is passed and entered: 1 Turn. & Ven. 319; Dan. 641.

The party moving should apply to the registrar, who will forward a copy of his note to the Judge.

Upon such a motion the only question to be argued is what was the actual order made, except in cases where both parties consent to an addition being made, or where it cannot be ascertained what order was pronounced, in which case the matter will be allowed to be put in the paper and re-argued: Mem., W. N. (76) 296.

Any variation made by the Court in the draft settled by the registrar is embodied in the judgment, &c. originally made; and except where the costs of the application are ordered to be paid, no further order need be drawn up by any party. If any addition is made or further evidence read the order will usually have to be post-dated.

The drawing up of another order as to the costs of an application to vary minutes may be obviated by adding a clause to the direction in the minutes as to costs as follows: "including the costs of an application to vary the minutes of this order"; and this is useful where it is undesirable to post-date the order in question.

If there is fair ground for the application, and there has been no improper opposition, the costs are usually made costs in the action; and the judgment, &c. is often post-dated so as to include the costs of the day.

The practice as to varying minutes applies to orders made by the C. A., as well as to those made by the Court below: General Share, &c. Co. v. Welley Brick, &c. Co., 20 Ch. D. 130, C. A.; 30 W. R. 695.

Where a party instead of adopting the proper course of applying to vary minutes, applied after the order had been passed and entered, he was ordered to pay the costs of the application: Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 30 Ch. D. 239, C. A.

The C. A. will not interfere with the opinion of the Judge as to drawing up the minutes of his order. If documents have been omitted from the judgment as entered, the proper course is to appeal from the judgment as it stands: James v. Jones, 67 L. T. 584.

And as to the practice generally, see Dan. 640 et seq.

PASSING AND ENTERING JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

When the draft has been finally settled, the registrar causes it to be engrossed.

Orders to be acted upon by the Chancery Paymaster are printed: S. C. F. R. 23; and in these cases the draft order, instead of being engrossed, is sent by the registrar to the King's printers for proof.

The proof on being returned is examined by the registrar and the solrs, and the number of copies required is then struck off.

The judgment or order is said to be passed when the registrar has signed his initials in the margin at the foot of the last page of the engrossment or print, as an authority to the clerk of entries to enter it in the registrar's book; in the case of orders to be acted upon by the paymaster, the registrar stamps each leaf or separate sheet with his official stamp: S. C. F. R. 24.

When passed, the order is left by the registrar for entry.

Even under the former practice an abatement of the suit did not prevent a decree from being passed and entered before the suit was revived: see Man v. Ricketts, 2 C. P. Coop. 36, 37 (notwithstanding the authority for the contrary of Bertie v. L. Falkland, 1 Dick. 25); Willmott v. Ogilby, M. R., 28 June, 1832, 23 Jan. 1833, Reg. Min.

So also when the suit abated between the hearing and the judgment: Preston v. Meux, M. R., 20 Nov. 1839, B. 341; Belsham v. Percival, 8 Ha. 157; Collinson v. Lister, 20 Beav. 355, and O. XLI.

ENTRY OF JUDGMENT.

By O. XLI, 1, every judgment is to be entered by the proper officer (who in the Chancery Division is the registrar, as to entry by whom by filing, v. O. LXII, 2, sup. p. 187) in the book to be kept for the purpose, and the party entering the judgment is to deliver to him a copy of the whole of the pleadings in the cause other than any petition or summons; such copy to be in print, except such parts (if any) of the pleadings as may be written: but no copy need be delivered of any document a copy of which has been delivered on entering any previous judgment in such cause.

Under this rule, when the judgment has been drawn up by the registrar, the engrossment, together with the pleadings to be filed, must be taken to the Writ, Appearance, and Judgment Department of the Central Office (see P. M. Rules, r. 15), and the officer receiving the same is to make a note in the margin of the engrossment that the pleadings have been filed, and to authenticate such note with the small seal of the office, and return the engrossment to the solr. The registrar before passing the judgment requires to be satisfied that the pleadings have been duly filed.

By r. 3, where the judgment is pronounced by the Court, or a Judge in Court, the entry of the judgment shall be dated as of the day on which such judgment is pronounced, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise order, and the judgment takes effect from that date.

In all other cases (as for instance where judgment is entered by default) the entry is to be dated on and take effect from the day on which the requisite documents are left for entry: Ib. r. 4.

By r. 6, where any judgment may be entered upon the filing of any affidavit or production of any document, the officer is to examine the affidavit or document produced, and if the same be regular, and contain all that is by law required, he is to enter judgment accordingly.

And by r. 7, where any judgment may be entered pursuant to any order or certificate, or return to any writ, the production of such order or certificate sealed with the seal of the Court, or of such return, shall be a sufficient authority to the officer to enter judgment accordingly.

ENTERING ORDER NUNC PRO TUNC.

By Gen. Order of 4th Dec. 1691, all orders pronounced in Mich. and Hil. Terms, or the vacations following, were to be entered before the first day of the ensuing Mich. Term, and all orders pronounced in Easter or Trinity Terms, or the following vacations, were to be entered before the first day of the ensuing Easter Term. This order is not expressly included in the Cons. Ords., but leave to enter nunc pro tunc after the expiration of the above periods is still necessary.

Orders to enter nunc pro tunc have been made after an interval of eighteen years: Donne v. Lewis, 11 Ves. 601; and of twenty-three years: Lawrence v. Richmond, 1 J. & W. 241; Dan. 646.

Formerly, where the time for entering a judgment or order had expired before the entry was actually effected, it was necessary to obtain an order of course for entry nunc pro tunc; but now, by O. LII, 15, it is provided, that it shall not be necessary to obtain an order to enter a judgment or order nunc pro tunc; but in all cases in which such entries were formally made under orders of course, the solr applying to have a judgment or order so entered shall leave with the clerk of entries a memorandum in writing, countersigned by the Chancery registrar, and bearing a stamp according to the scale of Court fees for the time being in force. For form of memorandum, see D. C. F. 393.

In Re Jones, Bullis v. J., W. N. (91) 114; 39 W. R. 619, the order was made on an ex parte application.

TIME OF ENTRY.

O. LXV, 19b, provides, that "the proper officer, by whom an order directing a taxation of costs shall be drawn up, shall certify upon the order the date on which it was signed, entered, or otherwise perfected."

This rule was intended to afford information to the taxing masters, but in practice every order is now, by means of a stamp, marked on the back with the date on which it is actually entered on the records of the Court.

EFFECT OF ENTERING JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

Both under the former practice, and by O. XLI, 3, judgments relate back to, and take effect from, the day on which they are pronounced, and the entry is to be dated as of that day, unless for some particular reason it is ordered to be ante-dated or post-dated.

Proceedings under a judgment or order before it has been entered are irregular and voidable: see Tolson v. Jervis, 8 Beav. 366; and an attachment for contempt will not be granted for disobedience to an order not entered: Ballard v. Tomlinson, 31 W. R. 563; 52 L. J. Ch. 656; 48 L. T. 515; but in the case of injunctions and restraining orders parties are bound by notice of the order, however received, from the time when it is pronounced: inf. Chap. XXXI., "INJUNCTIONS," p. 523; and see Re Bryant, W. N. (76) 252; and by O. LXII, 2(1), "in the case of procedure orders drawn up in Chambers, no entry thereof shall be necessary before an attachment can be issued for disobedience thereof."

CORRECTION OF MISTAKES IN JUDGMENTS OR ORDERS.

By O. XXVIII, 11, "clerical mistakes in judgments or orders, arising therein from any accidental slip or omission, may at any time be corrected by the Court or a Judge on motion or summons without an appeal": see Blake v. Harvey, 29 Ch. D. 827, C. A.; 33 W. R. 602; Dan. 650.

By the S. C. F. R. 27, "clerical mistakes or errors, or accidental omissions in printed orders, may be amended in writing: Provided that no amendment shall be made in any order to provide for a new state of circumstances arising after the date of the order; nor shall any order be amended for the purpose of extending the time thereby limited for making any lodgment of funds in Court."

When any such amendment is made in a schedule to an order, the copy of such schedule to be sent to the pay office under r. 24 (if not already so sent) shall be amended and stamped in the manner above provided. If such copy has prior to the amendment been sent to the pay office, a notification of the amendment, signed by a registrar, shall be delivered to the solr having the carriage of the order, who shall leave such notification at the pay office, and produce therewith the amended order; and the paymaster shall note such amendment on his copy of the schedule and act in accordance therewith.

The judgment or order has been rectified, where it contained some material omission, on payment of costs of the application by the party to whom the omission was attributable: Hughes v. Jones, 26 Beav. 24; Williams v. Carmarthen, &c. Ry. Co., 17 W. R. 346; 19 L. T. 762; see also Tiel v. Barlow, 3 D. J. & S. 426.

So also for non-compliance with the provisions of O. LXII, 11, as to notice to the parties of the time for passing the judgment or order: Re London, &c. Assoc., Exp. Pulbrook, 17 W. R. 1076; 21 L. T. 283.

Orders have been corrected under the rule where error arose from an inadvertent statement by Deft that interest already allowed was due: Barker v. Purvis, 56 L. T. 131; and where a trustee in default was erroneously allowed costs: Stanier v. Evans, 34 Ch. D. 470.

For cases in which directions as to payment of costs have been corrected, see Re Tiel, 11 W. R. 351; Viney v. Chaplin, 3 De G. & J. 282; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542; Blakey v. Hall, 35 W. R. 592; 56 L. T. 400; 56 L. J. Ch. 568; Chessum v. Gordon, (1901) 1 K. B. 694, C. A.

Where an order on appeal had been passed and entered, and expressed the intention of the Court at the time when it was made, it could not be varied by giving the successful appellant additional costs: Glasier v. Rolls, 38 W. R. 113; 59 L. J. Ch. 63; 62 L. T. 305.

And for earlier instances in which decrees after being passed and entered have been rectified in matters of course on motion, see Wallis v. Thomas, 7 Ves. 292, inf.; Pickard v. Mattheson, ib. 293; Newhouse v. Milford, 12 Ves. 456; Lane v. Hobbs, ib. 458, inf.; Skrymsher v. Northcote, 1 Swa. 573, n.; Askew v. Peddle, 14 Sim. 301; Turner v. Hodgson, 9 Beav. 265.

But alterations in, or additions to, a judgment or order, on materials not found in the pleadings and evidence (see King v. Savery, 8 D. M. & G. 311), or involving new directions, not claimed in the pleadings and not asked at the hearing, will not usually be made without an appeal: Brookfield v. Bradley, 2 S. & S. 64; Willis v. Parkinson, 3 Swa. 233; British Dynamite Co. v. Krebs, 25 W. R. 846; Glasier v. Rolls, 38 W. R. 113; 59 L. J. Ch. 63; 62 L. T. 305.

And it is no sufficient ground for the application that a decision in point was not cited at the hearing: Exp. Vicar of St. Sepulchre, 11 W. R. 456.

An alteration made without any motion or summons for the purpose is irregular and will be discharged: Blake v. Harvey, 29 Ch. D. 827, C. A.

As a general rule, the Court has no power to vary or alter a perfected judgment except under this rule: Re Suffield, 20 Q. B. D. 697, C. A.; Re St. Nazaire Co., 12 Ch. D. 88; Glasier v. Rolls, 59 L. J. Ch. 63; 38 W. R. 113; 62 L. T. 305; but where a winding-up order had been pronounced, but not passed or entered, the Court by consent dismissed the petition: Re Crown Bank, 44 Ch. D. 634.

There is jurisdiction to correct the error, though the time for appealing has expired: Barker v. Purvis, 56 L. T. 131.

A decree made in 1871 was corrected in 1890 by inserting words omitted: Shipwright v. Clements, W. N. (90) 134; 38 W. R. 746; 63 L. T. 160; and see Hatton v. Harris, (1892) A. C. 547, H. L.

The rectification of a judgment or order is, where practicable, made by altering the judgment or order itself; though in Wallis v. Thomas, 7 Ves. 292; Lane v. Hobbs, 12 Ves. 458, the alteration was by separate supplemental order; and this is frequently necessary: see Eckersley v. E., W. N. (84) 133; and in Stanier v. Evans, 34 Ch. D. 470, an erroneous order (made on further consideration) was corrected by a new order made "notwithstanding" the previous order: see also Re Blackwell, Bridgman v. Blackwell, W. N. (86) 97;

Re Clinton, Jackson v. Slaney, W. N. (82) 176; Re Scowby, (1897) 1 Ch. 741, C. A. sup. p. 126.

Irrespectively of any rule or order, the Court has a general inherent jurisdiction to alter the record of its order in such a way as to carry out its own meaning: Lawrie v. Lees, 7 App. Ca. 35; In re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 30 Ch. D. 239, C. A. (where the applicant was put upon an undertaking that he would not take any objection to the certificate by reason of the alteration made in the record); Ainsworth v. Wilding, (1896) 1 Ch. 673, sup. p. 125; Tucker v. New Brunswick Co., 44 Ch. D. 249, C. A.; Milson v. Carter, (1893) A. C. 638, P. C. In such a case application should be made to the Judge who made the order or the Judge associated with him, under O. v, 9, and extra expense occasioned by coming to the C. A. may be disallowed: Tucker v. New Brunswick Co., sup.

As to the distinction between setting aside a judgment obtained through some slip on the part of the Deft and one obtained by the Plt irregularly, and that in the latter case the Deft is entitled ex debito justitiæ to have the judgment set aside, and the Court has no power to impose terms upon him except as a condition of giving him his costs, see Anlaby v. Prætorius, 20 Q. B. D. 74, C. A.; Dan. 310.

SECTION II.—ADDING TO JUDGMENT OR ORDER.

1. Additional Accounts and Inquiries—O. XVI, 40.

UPON the application of &c., And upon hearing &c., And upon reading &c., It is ordered that in addition to the accounts and inquiries directed by the judgment dated &c., the following further accounts and inquiries be made and taken, that is to say [number the further accounts and inquiries consecutively after the numbered directions of the original judgment].

For form of summons, see D. C. F. 544.

2. Order to add Direction for Sale of Realty—O. XVI, 40.

UPON the application of &c., It is ordered that in addition to the directions contained in the said judgment [or order], the real estate of A. the testator &c. be sold with the approbation of the Judge free from &c.—Directions for payment of purchase-money into Court. And if such money &c.

For form of order for sale of real estate, v. inf. Chap. XIX., “SALES BY THE COURT.”

3. Order adding to an Account and Inquiry directed—O. XVI, 40.

UPON the application of &c., It is ordered that in taking the account numbered 1, and in making the inquiry numbered 5, directed by the judgment, dated &c., such parts of the testator's estate as have arisen from, or were connected with, land in England and Wales, be distinguished from the other parts of his personal estate.—Re Andrews, Mercer v. Mayhew, V.-C. H. at Chambers, 24 March, 1879.

NOTES.

By O. XXXIII, 2, “the Court or a Judge may, at any stage of the proceedings in a cause or matter, direct any necessary inquiries or accounts to be made or taken, notwithstanding that it may appear that there is some special or further relief sought for, or some special issue to be tried, as to which it may be proper that the cause or matter should proceed in the ordinary manner."

By O. XVI, 40, "wherever in any action for the admon of the estate of a deceased person, or the execution of the trusts of any deed or instrument, or for the partition or sale of any hereditaments, a judgment or an order has been pronounced or made—(a) under O. XV; (b) under O. XXXIII; (c) affecting the rights or interests of persons not parties to the action—the Court or a Judge may direct that any persons interested in the estate, or under the trust, or in the hereditaments, shall be served with notice of the judgment or order; and after such notice such persons shall be bound by the proceedings in the same manner as if they had originally been made parties, and shall be at liberty to attend the proceedings under the judgment or order. Any person so served may, within one month after such service, apply to the Court or Judge to discharge, vary, or add to the judgment or order."

That accounts on the footing of wilful default will not in general be directed where such default was not originally pleaded, see Barber v. Mackrell, 12 Ch. D. 534, 538, C. A.; Mayer v. Murray, 8 Ch. D. 424; Job v. J., 6 Ch. D. 562; Lake v. Tonkin, 21 Ch. D. 757, and inf. Chap. XII., "TRUSTEES."

After the usual judgment in a partnership action, the Court declined to add an inquiry or direction as to return of premium, it not appearing that any further facts had come to the knowledge of the Plt since the hearing: Edmonds v. Robinson, 29 Ch. D. 170.

SECTION III.—ENROLMENT OF JUDGMENT OR ORDER.

By O. LXI, 8, "it shall not be necessary to enrol any judgment or order, whether dated before or since the commencement of the principal Act."

Under the practice before the Jud. Acts, a decree did not, strictly speaking, become a record of the Court until it had been enrolled, and until enrolment it was liable to be altered by the Court itself upon a rehearing.

The effect of enrolling a decree or order of the M. R. or V.-C. (whether interlocutory or final, and whether made in Chambers or in Court) was to make it the decree or order of the L. C., and consequently prevented a rehearing of the cause before the M. R. or such V.-C., or an appeal to the C. A., and such decree or order could only be reversed or altered, either by appeal to the House of Lords, or by bill of review. On the other hand, the House of Lords would not hear an appeal against any decree or order of the Court of Chancery until it had been enrolled.

With respect to judgments and orders made since 2nd Nov. 1875, enrolment has no longer the effect of preventing an appeal to the C. A. established by the Jud. Acts, and is now (except in the case of enrolment under special statutes) a useless ceremony: Hastie v. H., 2 Ch. 304, 307; because appeals to the House of Lords are not from the High Court of Justice, but from any order or judgment of Her Majesty's C. A. in England: see the Appellate Jurisdiction Act, 1876 (39 & 40 V. c. 59), s. 3.

And for the former practice as to enrolling decrees and orders, see Seton (3rd ed.), 1155—1149.

As to the enrolment of schemes under the Ry. Cos. Act, 1867 (30 & 31 V. c. 127), v. Chap. LIV.

VACATING ENROLMENTS.

As to the former practice of vacating enrolments, see Seton (4th ed.), p. 1550.

SECTION IV.—ENROLLING OR ENTERING ORDERS OF OTHER COURTS.

1. Order of the High Court of Justice in Ireland enrolled on Petition of Course to the Lord Chancellor—41 G. III. c. 90, s. 6—Order of the Land Court in Ireland enrolled—21 & 22 V. c. 72, s. 36.

UPON the petition [entitled in the case of orders of the Irish Court of Chancery in the matter of the first-mentioned Act, and in the case of orders of the Irish Land Court in the matters of both Acts] of the Plt this day preferred unto the Rt Hon. the L. C. &c., His Lordship doth order that the judgment made in the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice in Ireland dated &c. in the above-mentioned action, whereby it was ordered &c. [state judgment or order, or the part of it to be enrolled in this Court], and a copy of which judgment has been exemplified and certified to this Court under the Great Seal of Ireland, pursuant to the provisions of the Act of Parliament made in the 41 G. III. c. 90 [in the case of orders of the Land Court add, and of the Act of Parliament 21 & 22 V. c. 72], be enrolled on the rolls of this Court.—Harris v. Webb, L. C., 22 April, 1901, A. 1419; see Re Tryon, L. C., 26 Mar. 1901, B. 977; Ferguson v. F., L. C., 7 July, 1875, A. 1134.

This order is obtained on petition presented at the L. C.'s office, House of Lords. For a subsequent order in Re Tryon, see Kekewich, J., 14 June, 1901, and for subsequent orders in Ferguson v. F., see V.-C. H., 22 July, 1875, A. 1181; L. JJ., 4 Aug. 1875, A. 1828, 10 Ch. 661; and see Pennefather v. Short, W. N. (66) 102, 126.

NOTES.

By the Crown Debts Act, 1801 (41 G. III. c. 90), s. 6, where, in any suit between party and party any decree shall be pronounced, or any order made for payment or for accounting for money, by the High Court of Chancery in Ireland, the L. C. of Ireland for the time being is, upon application to him, to cause a copy of such order or decree to be exemplified and certified to the Court of Chancery in England under the Great Seal of Ireland; and the L. C. of England is forthwith to cause such order or decree, when presented to him so exemplified, to be enrolled in the rolls of the High Court of Chancery in England, and is to cause process of attachment and committal to issue against the person of the party against whom the order or decree shall have been made to enforce obedience to and performance of the same as fully and effectually as if such order or decree had been originally pronounced in the Court of Chancery in England.

Sect. 5 of the same Act relates to an order or decree of an English Court exemplified to the High Court of Chancery in Ireland, and, as to enforcement by attachment or committal, is in the same words as sect. 6. In Viscount Kilworth v. E. of Mount Cashell, 31 L. R. Ir. 81, it was held that there is no jurisdiction to enforce such an order by sequestration.

By the Crown Debts Act, 1824 (5 G. IV. c. 111), these provisions are extended to orders made in any matter or proceeding by petition in cases of minors, bankrupts, idiots, or lunatics.

By 12 & 13 V. c. 77, s. 14, a similar provision was made in the case of orders of the Commrs for Sale of Incumbered Estates in Ireland, and by 21 & 22 V. c. 72, s. 36, in the case of orders of the Landed Estates Court in Ireland; but the jurisdiction of that Court is now transferred to the Irish High Court of Justice.

Even before the 35 & 36 V. c. 57, abolishing imprisonment for debt in Ireland, it seems that the English Court could not enforce an Irish decree by attachment in a case which in England would be within the Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 V. c. 62): Ferguson v. F., 10 Ch. 661.

The jurisdiction to order enrolment of decrees of other Courts under The Crown Debts Act, 1801 (41 G. III. c. 90), and 2 & 3 W. IV. c. 93, appears to have been formerly exercisable by the V.-C.: 53 G. III. c. 24, s. 2; 5 V. c. 5 (Court of Chancery Act, 1842), s. 22; or by the L. JJ.: 14 & 15 V. c. 83 (Court of Chancery Act, 1851), s. 5; or one of them: 30 & 31 V. c. 64; but not by the M. R., and appears now to be exercisable by any Judge of the Chancery Division: see Jud. Act, 1873, ss. 16, 34 (2), 39.

There is no jurisdiction to enrol a decree of a Scotch Court: Re The Dundee Suburban Ry. Co., 58 L. J. Ch. 5; 59 L. T. 720; 37 W. R. 50; W. N. (88) 205; except decrees in the course of winding up a co.; or for "any debt, damages, or costs" under the Judgments Extension Act (31 & 32 V. c. 54).

Where a Scotch Plt has registered his judgment under s. 3 of 31 & 32 V. c. 54, he is in the same position as if on the day of registration he had recovered judgment for the amount in an English Court: Re Low, Bland v. Low, (1894) 1 Ch. 147, C. A. (where the effect was to enable the party to prove on the judgment in an admon action, notwithstanding a previous adjudication adverse to his claim).

A judgment of the Court of Session in Scotland registered under the Act cannot be made the foundation of a bankruptcy notice: Re a Bankruptcy Notice, (1898) 1 Q. B. 383, C. A., following Re Watson, (1893) 1 Q. B. 21.

Procedure by judgment summons under the Debtors Act, 1869, is not "execution" within sect. 4 of 31 & 32 V. c. 54, for enforcement of a registered Irish judgment: Re Watson, Exp. Johnston, Johnston v. Watson, (1893) 1 Q. B. 21, C. A.

An Irish judgment when enrolled can be enforced by attachment: Newell v. N., W. N. (96) 160; Pennefather v. Short, sup.; Hazellon v. Wright, W. N. (73) 3; but not unless it is disobeyed according to its tenour, as it is not ipso facto made an English order: Re Tryon, W. N. (01) 176, C. A.

2. Order of the Arches Court of Canterbury enrolled—

2 & 3 W. IV. c. 93.

UPON the petition &c., setting forth that by the decree of the Arches Court of Canterbury, dated &c., sentence was pronounced, and the Court pronounced against the appeal made in this cause on behalf of the Reverend C., and affirmed the order or decree of the Worshipful P., the Official Principal of the Consistory Court of —, and condemned the said C. in costs; that the said costs were on the — day of — taxed to that date at £—; that the said C., after having been duly monished, has wholly neglected to comply with such monition, and to pay the said costs, and has since been duly pronounced contumacious and in contempt; It is therefore ordered that a copy of the exemplification of the said decree, dated &c., and the several proceedings thereunder, be enrolled in the rolls of this Court, pursuant to the Act of Parliament of 2 & 3 W. IV. c. 93, s. 2.—Craig v. Watson, L. C., 21 June, 1871, A. 1873.

For subsequent order for sequestration, see S. C., inf. Chap. XXVII., "EXECUTION," p. 451.

NOTES.

By the Ecclesiastical Courts Contempt Act, 1832 (2 & 3 W. IV. c. 93), s. 1, provision is made for enforcing decrees of Ecclesiastical Courts by the writ de contumace capiendo in cases not within 53 G. III. c. 127.

As to the proceedings on this writ, see Hudson v. Tooth, 2 P. D. 125.

By sect. 2, when any person has been ordered by the order or decree, final or interlocutory, of any Ecclesiastical Court to pay any sum or sums of money, and after having been duly monished, shall refuse or neglect to comply with such monition, and to pay the said sums therein ordered to be paid by him, or a peer or lord of Parliament or member of the House of Commons shall in any way neglect to perform or shall not perform any decree or order of such Courts, it shall be lawful for the Judge or Judges who shall have made such order or decree to pronounce the person so neglecting or refusing to comply contumacious and in contempt, and within ten days to cause a copy of such order or decree under the seal of the Court to be exemplified and certified to the L. C., who shall forthwith cause such copy to be enrolled in the rolls of the (Chanc. Div. in England), and shall thereupon cause process of sequestration to issue against the real and personal estate in England of the party against whom the order or decree shall have been made, in the same manner as if the cause had been originally instituted in the (Chanc. Div.), and as if the process antecedent to process of sequestration had been duly issued and returned in the last-mentioned Court.

It was held sufficient if the exemplification was signed by the Ecclesiastical Judge within ten days: Cooper v. Dodd, 15 Jur. 69.

3. Order of the Chancery Court of the County Palatine made an Order of Court—Court of Chancery of Lancaster Act, 1850 (13 & 14 V. c. 43), s. 15.

WHEREAS by an order dated &c., made in the Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster (— District), it was ordered &c. [Recite order verbatim]; Now upon motion &c., and upon reading a transcript of the said order under the signature of the registrar of the said Court, and an affidavit &c. (evidence that the order cannot be fully enforced in the County Palatine Court), This Court doth order that the said order, dated &c., be made an order of this Court.—Re The Albion Bank and Discount Co., Limited, Kekewich, J., 19 Nov. 1887, A. 1647; Smith v. Lewis, V.-C. B., 12 Oct. 1875, B. 1578.

For like order, see Re Prescott Masonic Hall Co., V.-C. H., 15 March, 1877, B. 426.

And for like order as against contributories named in a schedule, see Re Liverpool and Dublin Steam Co., V.-C. W., 4 Dec. 1866, B. 2461.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 404.

NOTES.

ORDERS OF THE COUNTY PALATINE COURTS.

By the Court of Chancery of Lancaster Act, 1850 (13 & 14 V. c. 43), s. 15, whenever a Plt or Deft in any suit or proceeding, in which a decree or order has been made by the County Palatine Court, shall reside or withdraw his goods or person out of the jurisdiction of that Court, and whenever any decree or order of that Court cannot be fully enforced by reason of the non-residence of any person to be bound thereby within the jurisdiction of the said Court, then it shall be lawful for the (Chanc. Div.), upon the application of any person entitled to the benefit of such decree or order, and upon the production of a transcript of such decree or order, or such part thereof respectively as cannot be enforced for the reasons aforesaid, under the signature of the registrar of the County Palatine Court, and an affidavit that by reason of such non-residence, or removal as aforesaid, such decree or order, or such part thereof, cannot be enforced, to make such decree or order, or such part thereof respectively as cannot be enforced, a decree or order of the (Chanc. Div.); and thereupon such decree or order, or such part thereof respectively, may be enforced, and proceedings had thereon, as if such decree or order had been originally made by the (Chanc. Div.); and the costs of and consequent upon such application may be recovered as if the same were part of such decree or order.

The application is by motion, ex parte, see Dan. 674. The order should provide for the costs of the motion: Duke v. Clarke, W. N. (94) 100.

By 17 & 18 V. c. 82, s. 10, these provisions were extended to decrees or orders made by the C. A. in Chancery of the County Palatine thereby established.

By s. 7, the C. A. in Chancery of the County Palatine (now His Majesty's C. A.) is empowered to make orders according to the practice of the (Chanc. Div.) in all cases in which by reason of any person being out of the jurisdiction of the County Palatine Court, or otherwise, effectual protection cannot be given to any ward of that Court, or to any exor, admor, officer of Court, or other person entitled to its protection, or in which for the same reason, or otherwise, any contempt of the said Court cannot be effectually punished; and every such order shall have the same effect as an order of the (Chanc. Div.); and see Downes v. Jackson, 14 W. R. 907.

By s. 8, where the parties are out of the jurisdiction of the Court of the County Palatine, the C. A. may either direct the cause or matter to be transferred to the (Chanc. Div.), or order service to be effected out of the jurisdiction of the Court of the County Palatine.

On an application to serve a writ on a sole Deft out of the jurisdiction of the Court of the County Palatine of Lancaster, the Plt was put on terms to submit to a transfer of the action to the Chanc. Div. if the Deft applied for it; and on the Deft so applying the Plt had to pay the costs: Re Watmough, Sergenson v. Beloe, 24 Ch. D. 280, C. A. In this case it was questioned whether sect. 8 applies to the case of a sole Deft.

The Palatine Court of Durham Act, 1890 (52 & 53 V. c. 47), s. 4, contains, in respect to that Court, provisions similar to those of 13 & 14 V. c. 43, s. 15, and 17 & 18 V. c. 82, s. 10, above stated.

ORDERS OF THE STANNARIES COURT.

Under 18 & 19 V. c. 32, s. 10, procedure was prescribed for making a decree or order of the Court of the Vice-Warden of the Stannaries a decree or order of the High Court, but now by the Stannaries Court Abolition Act, 1896 (59 & 60 V. c. 45), the Vice-Warden's Court is abolished and its powers transferred to the County Court.

4. Order in Irish Winding-up made an Order of Court as against Contributories resident in England—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 V. c. 89), s. 122.

WHEREAS by an order of the Hon. Judge M., one of the Judges of the Court of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in Ireland, made in this matter, dated &c., It was ordered &c. [Recite call order verbatim without the schedule]; And whereas the schedule referred to in the said order is as set forth in the first part of the schedule hereto; Now upon motion &c., And upon reading an office copy of the said order and the schedule thereto, This Court doth order that the said order of the said Court of Bankruptcy and Insolvency, dated &c., be made an order of this Court as against such of the persons named in the first part of the schedule hereto as are named in the second column of Part 2 of the same schedule.—Re Hollyford Copper Mining Co., L. J. G., 11 Dec. 1869, A. 3081, 5 Ch. 93.

In this case the proceedings had been transferred to the Bankruptcy Court under the Cos. Act, 1862 (25 & 26 V. c. 89), s. 81.

For like order to make a similar order of the Court of Session at Edinburgh an order of the Court, see Re Scottish Farmers' Co., M. R., 11 Dec. 1877, B. 2128.

5. Order of the High Court of Justice in Ireland made an Order of Court.

WHEREAS by an order dated &c., made in the High Court of Justice in Ireland, Chancery Division, It was ordered &c. Now upon motion &c., by counsel for A. B., Let the said order dated &c., be made an order of this Court. And Let [Repeat the order].—Re Slaney Woollen Mills Co., Lim., Kay, J., 12 April, 1888, B. 866 P.

For forms of motion paper and exemplifications of order, see D. C. F. 405.

NOTES.

By the Cos. Act, 1862 (25 & 26 V. c. 89), s. 122, orders, interlocutors, and decrees made by the Court of Session in Scotland, for or in the course of winding up a company, are to be enforced in England and Ireland, and orders made by the Court in Ireland for or in the course of winding up a company are to be enforced in England and Scotland by the Courts which would respectively have had jurisdiction in the matter of such company if its registered office were situate in that Division of the United Kingdom where the order is to be enforced, and in the same manner as if such order had been made by the Court required to enforce the same in the case of a company within its own jurisdiction.

By sect. 123, an office copy of the order to be enforced is to be produced to the proper officer of the Court required to enforce it, and the production of such office copy is to be sufficient evidence of such order having been made; and thereupon such last-mentioned Court shall take such steps in the matter as may be requisite for enforcing such order.

In cases under these sections the order to be enforced is to be made an order of the Court required to enforce it: Re Hollyford, &c. Co., 5 Ch. 93; Form 4, sup.; Re City of Glasgow Bank, 14 Ch. D. 628; Re Queensland Mercantile and Agency Co., (1892) 1 Ch. 219, C. A.

The Court to enforce such an order is the Chanc. Div., although the matter may be pending in the Irish Court of Bankruptcy: S. C.

NOTES.

PAYMASTER-GENERAL.—GENERAL REGULATIONS.

By the Court of Chancery (Funds) Act, 1872 (35 & 36 V. c. 44), amended and extended to all the Divisions of the Supreme Court by the Supreme Court of Judicature (Funds, &c.) Act, 1883 (46 & 47 V. c. 29), the office of Accountant-General was abolished, and that of Paymaster-General established, with similar duties, re-moulded by the Act.

By O. LXII, 16, "all orders for the payment or transfer of money or securities into Court to the account or credit of the Paymaster-General, and for the payment or transfer of money or securities out of Court by the Paymaster-General, are to be drawn up in conformity with such rules relating thereto as shall be from time to time made under the Court of Chancery Funds Act, 1872, or any Act amending the same."

By S. C. F. R. 1894, r. 2, all other rules and general orders prescribing the mode of dealing with funds in Court are revoked, and by r. 3 terms are defined.

By r. 5, every order directing funds to be lodged in Court is to have a lodgment schedule annexed thereto, which shall be headed with the title of the cause or matter, the date of the order, and the title of the ledger credit to which the funds are to be placed, and shall set out in tabular form (a) the name or a sufficiently identifying description of the person by whom the funds are to be lodged; (b) the amount, if ascertained, and the description of the funds. The authority for a lodgment of the proceeds of sale of any property which has been directed by an order to be sold, and for lodgment of receivers' balances, may be a lodgment schedule signed by a chief clerk (now a Master of the Supreme Court), and such lodgment schedule shall operate in the same manner as a lodgment schedule annexed to an order. The lodgment schedule may direct the investment and accumulation of interest on the funds to be lodged, and may also direct that the funds shall not be dealt with without notice to the purchaser or other person named in the schedule.

By r. 10, the lodgment and payment schedules respectively are to contain the whole of the instructions intended to be acted upon by the Paymaster, and all particulars necessary to be known by him, so far as the same are capable of being expressed at the date of the order, and the Paymaster is only to be responsible for giving effect to such instructions as are expressed in the schedules thereto. The instructions and particulars contained in the schedule are not to be set forth in the body of the order, but are only to be therein referred to as appearing by the schedule, unless for any special cause it may, in the opinion of the Judge by whom the order is made, or the registrar by whom the same is drawn up, be necessary to set forth some part of such instructions or particulars, both in the body of the order and in the schedule.

By r. 22, when an order is made dealing with funds in Court in accordance with agreed minutes, the solr of the party whose duty it is to procure the order to be drawn up is to lodge with the registrar or other proper officer, for his consideration, draft schedules, in the same form as the lodgment and payment schedules to an order, and containing the particulars required to be contained in such schedules.

By r. 23, every order which is to be acted upon by the Paymaster is to be drawn up and entered by the registrar, unless the Judge otherwise directs, and is either to be wholly printed, or, in cases in which printed forms can be used, partly in print and partly in writing.

By r. 24, when any order to be acted upon by the Paymaster is left for entry, a further copy of the schedules thereto, initialled by the registrar and stamped with his official seal on every leaf, shall be left therewith. Such further copy of the schedules shall be examined and sealed and marked with reference to the order as entered, and shall be sent to the Paymaster.

A copy of a lodgment schedule, signed by a chief clerk (now by a Master of the Supreme Court) under r. 5, shall be sent to the Paymaster by the chief clerk (now by a Master of the Supreme Court).

The following regulations have been issued by the registrars (see 30 Sol. Jo. 717):—

Regulations Concerning the Transmission of Schedules to the Paymaster.

The entering clerks will transmit schedules direct to the Paymaster immediately after the order is entered.

For this purpose the entering clerks will keep a book or books in which will be entered the title of each order and its date, and the book containing these entries will be sent, with the schedules, to Room No. 106, where the chief of the room then present will sign the book by way of receipt for the schedules then left.

It will be observed that in no case will a schedule ever be in the hands of the solr, and, as a fact, the Paymaster will refuse to accept schedules by any other channel than through the entering clerks. By this means a complete record will be preserved of all schedules in the hands of the Paymaster.

The Paymaster undertakes the duty of distributing the schedules among the several divisions of his department.

By r. 25, the copy of the schedules to an order sent to the Paymaster is to be his authority for giving effect to the several operations directed therein; and no part of the order other than the schedules is to be sent to him.

By r. 26, additional copies of orders according to the requirements of the parties may be printed and issued as office or certified copies.

By r. 27, accidental errors may be amended in writing, but no amendment is to be made to provide for a new state of circumstances arising after the date of the order, nor for extending the time limited for making any payment into Court.

Where the alteration is formal, and all parties consent, the registrar will make the amendment, but where the parties do not consent, there must be a summons or motion under O. XXVIII, 11. A party unreasonably refusing to consent may be ordered to pay the costs of the application.

By r. 96 the Paymaster may, when he requires evidence for carrying into effect any order, act on affidavits or statutory declarations.

And by r. 99 he may, upon a request in writing made by or on behalf of a person claiming to be interested in any funds in Court to the credit of an account specified in such request, issue a certificate of the amount and description of such funds, on the morning of the day of the date thereof, and not having reference to the transactions of that day, notifying the dates of any orders restraining the transfer, &c. of such funds, and any charging orders affecting them of which he has had notice, and the names of the persons to whom notice is to be given, or in whose favour such orders have been made.

And when a cause or matter has been inserted in the list referred to in r. 101, the fact is to be notified on the certificate relating thereto: r. 99.

By r. 100, the Paymaster may, upon a like request, issue a transcript of the account; and, if so required by the person to whom it is issued, such transcript shall be authenticated at the Audit Office, and the Paymaster may supply such information as may be required.

By r. 101, a list is to be prepared by the Paymaster, and published on or before 1 March in every third year, of any funds amounting to or exceeding 50*l.* which have not been dealt with for fifteen years.

By r. 102, small balances which have not been dealt with for five years are to be carried over to a separate account.

By R. S. C., O. XXII, 12b, "every petition or summons for dealing with funds which have been placed in the list of dormant funds shall contain a statement that such funds have not been dealt with for fifteen years or upwards, and where such funds shall amount to, or exceed in value, 500*l.*, a copy of such petition or summons shall, unless the Court or Judge shall otherwise direct, be served on the official solr of the Court."

Costs of the official solr occasioned by the neglect of a tenant for life in not applying for the dividends were payable, not by the railway co. by whom the money had been paid in under the L. C. C. Act, but out of the portion of the fund belonging to the tenant for life: Re Clarke's Estate, 21 Ch. D. 776.

PAYMASTER GENERAL.—ORDERS IN LUNACY.

By sect. 145 of the Lunacy Act, 1890 (53 V. c. 5), where an order relates to the depositing of any funds or securities in Court, or the disposal by the Paymaster of the funds or securities in Court, to the credit of the matter of a lunatic, the Paymaster and the Bank and all other persons are to act on an office copy of the order; and by sect. 147, forging the signature of a Master in Lunacy is a felony.

As to transfer of securities out of Court, and dividends accruing thereon, see S. C. F. R. r. 6.

In the S. C. F. R. 1894, r. 3, the word "order" includes a report of a Master in Lunacy confirmed by fiat, and a certificate of a Master in Lunacy to be acted on without further order; and the notes as to form, &c., of orders dealing with funds in Court generally apply to orders and reports in Lunacy.

Formerly orders in Lunacy were required to be passed and entered by a Chancery registrar before being acted on by the Acc. Gen. They are now drawn up by the Masters in Lunacy (Rules in Lunacy, 1890, r. 59), and printed under their direction and control. Orders made concurrently in Chancery and in Lunacy dealing with funds in Court are passed and entered both by the registrar in Lunacy and one of the registrars in Chancery.

By the Rules in Lunacy, 1890, r. 116, all orders for the appointment of committees, and for the allowance of maintenance, are to be deemed to take effect only until further order; and see r. 121 as to transferring into Court stock of a lunatic, when no one is named in the order to make the transfer.

By the Rules in Lunacy, 1890, r. 2, the Lunacy Orders, 1883, are annulled.

By Ch. Funds Lunacy Orders, 1874, rr. 4, 5, future orders and certificates of Masters for payment or transfer into or deposit in Court of money, stock, securities, or other effects, shall direct such payment or transfer to be made into, and deposit to be made in Court, to the credit of the matter of the lunatic, to the account, if any, to which it is intended that such money, stock, securities, or other effects should be placed; and orders or certificates made before and not acted on at the commencement of these orders are to be construed as if they contained such direction.

And by r. 6, no declaration of trust with respect to stock or securities transferred into Court to the credit of the matter of a lunatic shall be required to be made.

According to the present practice in Lunacy, no order in the nature of a stop order can be made in favour of a person claiming part of the lunatic's estate as assignee of the next of kin: Re Wilkinson, 10 Ch. 73.

By the Jud. Act, 1873, s. 18 (5), the appellate jurisdiction in Lunacy of the Privy Council is transferred to the C. A., and the general jurisdiction in Lunacy is not transferred to the High Court generally (s. 17), but to such of the Judges (including the present Lords Justices) as may be intrusted, &c. The jurisdiction of the L. C. is, apparently, not affected (Jud. Act, 1873, s. 94).

A petition by the exors of a deceased lunatic for the payment of a balance in Court should be served on the committee, though his accounts be passed and his security discharged: Re Wylde, 5 D. M. & G. 25.

BRINGING FUNDS INTO COURT.—SUPREME COURT FUNDS RULES, 1894.

By r. 29, all funds to be paid into or deposited in Court are to be paid or deposited at the Law Courts Branch of the Bank of England, and placed in the books of the Bank to the account of the Paymaster; and the Bank shall cause a receipt to be given to the person making the payment or deposit. All securities to be transferred into Court shall be transferred to the said account in the books of the Bank or other co. in whose books such securities are registered. Effects deposited in Court are to be in locked boxes, or otherwise secure, so as to satisfy the Bank, and the Bank may inspect the contents of the box in the presence of the person depositing it.

A direction for lodgment of money directed by an order or (in the case of purchase-money or receiver's balances) by a lodgment schedule signed by a chief clerk (now Master), will be issued by the Paymaster on receipt of a copy of the lodgment schedule, and for lodgment under the Trustee Act, 1893, upon receipt of an office copy of the schedule, to the trustee's affidavit mentioned in r. 41: r. 30. Separate directions may be given for lodgment of a part of a sum directed to be lodged; and directions for lodgment at Liverpool or Manchester may be issued by the respective district registrars: Ibid. A lodgment of funds not directed by an order may be made upon a direction to the Bank or other co. to be issued by the Paymaster on a request signed by or on behalf of the person desiring to make such lodgment: Ibid. No lodgment can be to a separate account (except to a security for costs account) except under an order: Ibid. The forms of request are set out in Forms 8, 9, and 10 to the rules; and see D. C. F. 894 et seq. A request for a direction may be sent to the Paymaster by post, and the direction returned by post: r. 35.

Rule 31 provides for payment into Court in urgent cases to a suspense account.

Although an order limits a time for lodgment, the lodgment may be made after the time has expired, but without prejudice to any liability, process, or other consequence to which the person making the lodgment may have become subject: r. 36.

The Paymaster files a certificate of lodgment, and an office copy of such certificate is to be received as evidence: r. 38.

In the case of money lodged under the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act or the Copyhold Acts, rr. 39 and 40 prescribe the particulars to be stated in the account to be raised and in the request for direction to lodge.

By r. 41, "where a legal pers. repesve desires to lodge funds in Court, under the Trustee Act, 1893, without an affidavit, he shall leave with the Paymaster a request, signed by him or his solr, with a certificate of the Commrs of Inland Revenue; such request and certificate to be in the Form No. 16 in the Appendix to the Rules, with such variations as may be necessary, or, as regards such certificate, in such other form as shall from time to time be adopted by the said Commrs, with the consent of the Lords Commrs of Her Majesty's Treasury. The money or securities so lodged shall be placed to the credit mentioned in such request."

When a trustee or other person desires to lodge funds in Court in the Chancery Division under the Trustee Act, 1893, upon an affidavit, he shall annex to such affidavit a schedule in the same printed form as the lodgment schedule to an order setting forth (a) his own name and address; (b) the amount and description of the funds proposed to be lodged in Court; (c) the ledger credit in the matter of the particular trust to which the funds are to be placed; (d) a statement whether legacy or succession duty (if chargeable) or any part thereof has or has not been paid; (e) a statement whether the money or the dividends on the securities so to be lodged in Court, and all accumulations of dividends thereon, are desired to be invested in any and what description of government securities, or whether it is deemed unnecessary so to invest the same. An office copy of such schedule is to be left with the Paymaster.

By r. 41A, "where a co. desires to lodge money in Court under the Life Assurance Co.'s (Payment into Court) Act, 1896, there shall be annexed to the affidavit directed to be made by O. LIV, C., r. 1 of the Rules of the Supreme Court, or any substituted rule, a lodgment schedule stating the title and address of the co., the amount of the money proposed to be lodged, and the ledger credit to which it is to be placed; such ledger credit shall be as follows, with any necessary variations:—In the matter of the Policy No. of the Co. An office copy of the schedule is to be left with the Paymaster.

"On receipt by the Paymaster of any subsequent notice of claim transmitted by such co. pursuant to their undertaking referred to in sub-s. (e) of the said rule; he shall retain the same and make an entry thereof in his books; and on any certificate of the fund to which such notice refers he shall notify the name of the person giving such notice and the date thereof.

"The Paymaster, upon request and payment of same fee, supplies a copy of such notice."

By O. XLII, 4, a judgment (which includes an order: r. 24) for the payment of money into Court may be enforced by writ of sequestration, or, in cases in which attachment is authorized by law, by attachment: see inf. Chap. XXVII., "EXECUTION."

By 24 V. c. 3, s. 7, the Bank is authorized to close the books for the transfer of the various stocks created by Act of Parliament transferable at the Bank on any day in the month preceding that on which the dividends thereon respectively are payable; and the persons who on the day of the closing of such books were inscribed as the proprietors shall, as between them and the transferees, be entitled to the then current half-year's dividends thereon; and the persons to whom any transfer shall be made after the day of the closing of such books shall not be entitled to such dividend, but shall take such stock exclusive of the right to the said dividend.

By s. 10, the like provision is made for closing the books for the transfer of East India stocks.

Quarterly notices are issued by the Bank, under this Act, of the closing of the books.

For the practice as to ordering transfer of stock or payment of money into Court adversely, see Dan. 1477 seq. As against a trustee or exor there must have been a clear admission of money, &c., in hand, and of the Plt's title, by answer (Hazell v. Currie, L. R. 2 Ch. 449), or by affidavit verifying an account, or in some other proceeding in the suit: Dan. 1478.

Non-appearance on a motion for payment into Court of money shown by an affidavit, not contradicted, to have been received by the accounting party, is a sufficient admission for an order on him for payment into Court: Freeman v. Cox, 8 Ch. D. 148; and for the principles on which payment into Court will be directed, see London Syndicate v. Lord, 8 Ch. D. 84, C. A.; see also Hampden v. Wallis, 27 Ch. D. 251; Porrett v. White, 31 Ch. D. 52, C. A., following Freeman v. Cox, sup.; and see Wanklyn v. Wilson, 35 Ch. D. 180. The amount may be admitted in the defence: Hetherington v. Brownrigg, 10 Ch. D. 162. Where admitted erroneously, the amount was ordered to be paid into Court as a condition for leave to amend defence and withdraw admissions: Hollis v. Burton, (1892) 3 Ch. 226, C. A.

At the hearing, payment in may be ordered without previous notice: Isaacs v. Weatherstone, 10 Ha. xxx.

On a certificate of the Master showing a balance due from an accounting party, he will be ordered to pay it into Court; but not till after the expiration of the eight days allowed by O. LV, 70; Douthwaite v. Spensley, 18 Beav. 74; Craven v. Ingham, 57 L. T. 486; W. N. (88) 83; Dan. 1481.

A prospective order may be made to enable parties to pay in from time to time: Lodgment Schedule, Forms 4 and 5.

Payment may also be directed by instalments.

The application is usually by summons in Chambers against an accounting party if not opposed: see Dan. 1478; D. C. F. p. 613; Tompson v. Hope,

V.-C. W., 30 Jan. 1860; and as to who may make the application, see Dan. 1477 seq.

BRINGING FUNDS INTO COURT.—MODES OF TRANSFERRING AND DEPOSITING VARIOUS SECURITIES.

The following "securities" may be brought into Court under sects. 3, 8, and 10 of the Ch. Funds Act, 1872, viz.:

1. Those passing by delivery, as Exchequer Bills.
2. Those transferable in books, as New Consols.
3. Those transferable by registered deed, as Railway Stock.

No. 1 will be deposited in Court.

Securities consisting of bonds or debentures which are deliverable, but require a transfer to complete the title, may, in some cases, be deposited without a box: see Povah v. Walker, 15 Eq. 316; Re Gledstane, W. N. (78) 26.

Securities of any co. out of the United Kingdom will not be received except in a box, such securities not being included in the third section of the Act. If considered desirable, securities comprised in Class I. may be placed in a box.

Care must be taken to describe the securities in the schedule to the order by the description under which they are known at the Pay Office, adding the amounts, dates, and numbers, if any, and if there are coupons attached, they ought to be mentioned. The descriptions ought to be taken from the securities themselves, and if there are securities of several different descriptions the total amount of each description should be stated in the mandatory part of the order. Stock should be transferred to "the account of the Paymaster General for the time being on behalf of the Supreme Court of Judicature," and not "to the Paymaster General": Re Stephens, 8 Ch. 465.

S. C. F. R. r. 71, authorizes the Bank to deliver out securities in course of payment, and to pay the principal and interest into Court, and such principal money or dividends received by the Bank are to be placed to the credit of the same account.

Under r. 76, the money, if not directed to be invested, would be placed upon deposit. If an option is to be given, the direction should be in the alternative.

It is not of course to direct the delivery out to the solrs in the cause of securities deposited for the purpose of receiving the dividends; the trustees or exors, if there are any, being the proper persons to receive the interest; but it has been sometimes ordered: Brown v. Heselton, V.-C. of E., 8 Feb. 1849, A. 520.

Foreign stocks and securities, plate or jewels, and other specific articles of value unascertained, are put in boxes indorsed with the short title of the cause to which they belong, and are deposited at the Bank with the privity of the Paymaster; neither the Paymaster nor the Bank take any cognizance of the contents of such boxes; and it is not the practice of the Bank to receive the interest on such securities.

The order usually directs that the foreign securities, or other specific articles, shall be placed in the box in the presence of the solrs for the parties interested.

By the Ch. Funds Amended Ord., 1874, 16, the Clerks of Records and Writs (now the Masters of the Supreme Court, see O. LX, 3) were prohibited from receiving into their custody effects of the suitors consisting of jewels or plate, or other articles of a like nature, or negotiable securities. (And that negotiable securities would be ordered to be deposited with the Paymaster and not with the Master: see Harvey v. Morris, 23 W. R. 21, 40). By O. LXI, r. 30, "where any deeds or other documents are ordered to be left or deposited, whether for safe custody or for the purpose of any inquiry in Chambers, or otherwise, the same shall be left or deposited in the Central Office, and shall be subject to such directions as may be given for the production thereof, but no effects of the suitors consisting of jewels or plate, or other articles of a like nature, or negotiable securities, are to be so deposited."

The Paymaster will receive foreign government or railway bonds, the coupons on which are payable to bearer in gold in London, also French Rentes and Italian Rentes, and some other similar foreign government securities; in other cases the bonds must be placed in a box. The practice as stated in Re Brackenbury, 22 W. R. 682, has been so far modified.

TIME FOR TRANSFER OR PAYMENT.

By O. xli, 5, every judgment or order in any cause or matter, requiring any person to do any act thereby ordered, is to state the time, or the time after service of the judgment or order, within which the act is to be done, and upon the copy of the judgment or order which is to be served upon the person required to obey the same there is to be endorsed a memorandum in the words or to the effect following, viz. :—"If you the within-named A. B. neglect to obey this judgment [or order] by the time limited you will be liable to process of execution for the purpose of compelling you to obey the said judgment [or order]." The want of this endorsement on the order itself (not on the copy served) will not invalidate a motion to commit for non-compliance: Thomas v. Palin, 21 Ch. D. 360; but see contra, Hampden v. Wallis, 26 Ch. D. 746, C. A. If the time be not specified, the judgment or order is not thereby rendered altogether ineffectual, but an application may be made to fix a time for performance of the act: Needham v. N., 1 Ha. 633; Morley v. Clavering, 30 Beav. 108. As to effect of rule and mode of enforcing judgments and orders, see inf. p. 369 et seq., Chap. XXVII., "EXECUTION."

Sometimes the order directs the transfer or payment to be made on a fixed day, or subsequently within a time after service, in the alternative, to allow an opportunity of complying before service, or in case there should be a delay in serving the order. If the order is served before the fixed day the person ordered to pay will have until the fixed day, or to the time limited after service, whichever shall be last.

In reckoning time, months, unless otherwise expressed, are calendar months; Sunday, Christmas Day, and Good Friday are not to be reckoned when the time limited is less than six days; and when the time expires on a day on which the offices are closed the act or proceeding will be in time on the next day the offices are open: O. LXIV, 1—3; and see Re Railway Sleepers Supply Co., 29 Ch. D. 204, as to the computation of time generally.

Notwithstanding Thomas v. Nokes, 6 Eq. 521, the word "forthwith" has not in practice been considered a sufficient limitation of time within this rule: see Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259, C. A.; but see contra Halford v. Hardy, W. N. (99) 243; 81 L. T. 721; and see inf. Chap. XXVII., "EXECUTION."

Funds, &c., may be brought into Court although the time limited by the order has expired; any further sums payable for interest or dividends may be paid in upon request without prejudice to any liability, &c. such person may have become subject to by reason of his default as to time: S. C. F. R. r. 36.

NOTES.

SUPREME COURT FUNDS RULES, 1894.

By S. C. F. R. 1894, r. 10, the instructions and particulars contained in a lodgment or payment schedule shall not be set forth in the body of the order, but shall only be therein referred to as appearing by the schedule, unless for any special cause it shall in the opinion of the Judge or registrar be necessary to set forth some part of such instructions or particulars both in the body of the order and in the schedule.

Where payment is directed to a woman, she must be described as "spinster," or as "the wife of, &c.," or as "widow."

As to applications for payment out of funds in Court which may be made at Chambers, see O. LV, 2.

By r. 12 of the S. C. F. R., when an order directs payment out of a fund in Court of any costs directed to be taxed, the taxing officer is to state the name and address of the person to whom such costs are payable. See D. C. F. 939.

Rules 13 to 16 provide as to the manner in which interest is to be ascertained, both on lodgments in Court and payments out; and by r. 17 income tax is always to be deducted, unless otherwise ordered. See D. C. F. 939.

By r. 18, whenever the dealing by the Paymaster with funds in Court is, by an order, made contingent upon the execution of some document, it must be so expressed in the payment schedule. The execution of such document is to be certified by a Master in Lunacy, or by a chief clerk (Master): provided that in the case of a document in existence at the date of the order, and sufficiently identified in the schedule, the execution may be directed to be verified by affidavit. Such certificate or affidavit is to state the particular amount of funds to be dealt with, and is to be printed, or partly printed, and as nearly as may be in the Form No. 6 appended to the rules. For forms, see D. C. F. 937.

By r. 19, when an order directs the payment of dividends, annuities, or other periodical payments, there is to be stated in the payment schedule (except in the case of dividends payable as they accrue due), the time when the first of such payments and all subsequent periodical payments, whether quarterly, half-yearly, yearly, or otherwise, are to be made.

By r. 20, when an order directs the payment, transfer, or delivery of funds in Court, in respect of which legacy or estate or succession duty is payable, and does not direct the payment of such duty, it is to be stated in the payment schedule that such payment, &c., is subject to duty, and in such case the Paymaster is to have regard to the circumstance that such duty is payable; and when funds in respect of which such duty may be chargeable are directed to be invested, carried over, or placed to a separate account, the words "subject to duty" are to be added in the schedule to the separate account directed to be opened.

By r. 21, when a person to whom payment, transfer, or delivery of funds in Court is directed is entitled thereto as real estate, or as trustee, exor, or admor, or otherwise than in his own right or for his own use, the fact that he is entitled to the same as real estate, or the character in which he is so entitled, is to be stated in the payment schedule, or in the certificate of a chief clerk, or of a Taxing Master, or of a Master in Lunacy.

By r. 6, every order which directs funds in Court to be paid, sold, transferred, or delivered, or carried over to any other ledger credit than that to which the same are standing, or to be otherwise dealt with by the Paymaster, is to have annexed thereto, as part thereof, a schedule, to be styled the payment schedule, which shall be headed with the title of the cause or matter, the date of the order, and the ledger credit to which the funds dealt with are standing. The payment schedule is to contain as part of the heading a statement of the funds with which, or with part of which, or with the interest or dividends on which the Paymaster is to deal, describing them if already in Court as they appear in the Paymaster's certificate, or if not already in Court stating the source from which they are to be derived; and is to set out in a tabular form:—

- (a) The name of each person to whom a payment, transfer, or delivery of any funds is to be made: unless the name is to be stated in a certificate of a chief clerk (Master) or a Master in Lunacy or a taxing officer, or unless such payment, transfer, or delivery is to be made to trustees or other persons in succession, or to represves when no probate or letters of admon shall have been taken out at the date of the order. The name is to be in full (the Christian name preceding the surname) except in the case of a payment to a firm, when the business title of such firm may be stated; and when a payment is to be made to a person named in the schedule, the address (if known at the time of preparing the schedule) of such person, or in the case of a payment to two or more persons jointly, of one of such persons, is to be stated in the schedule:

- (b) The title of the ledger credit or separate account to which any funds are to be carried over:
- (c) The amount and description of the funds in each case to be paid, sold, transferred, delivered, or carried over, so far as the same can be ascertained at the date of the order, except in the case of aliquot parts of an ascertained amount; and where the actual amounts to be dealt with cannot be ascertained at the date of the order, and are not to be subsequently ascertained by any means provided for by the order or by these rules, the aliquot parts to be dealt with:
- (d) The nature and necessary particulars of any other dealings with such funds by the Paymaster.

In the body of the schedule short descriptions may be used, and it is not necessary to add that the specific amounts dealt with form part of the larger amount of any like funds mentioned in the heading. The word "interest" in the schedule, unless otherwise specified, is to mean the dividends and interest on all the funds mentioned in the heading.

The payment schedule is to be prepared upon a printed form according to the Form No. 2 in the Appendix to the Rules, and as nearly as may be in the manner shown by the specimen entries appended to such form.

By r. 45, it is provided that, subject to the exceptions mentioned in such rule, funds in Court are not to be dealt with unless in pursuance of an order; and by r. 47, the Paymaster is to give effect to an order upon receipt of the necessary authority or information. For forms as to carrying over, &c., see D. C. F. 945—947.

By r. 48, payments may be made by post, subject to the conditions contained in such rule. For forms, see D. C. F. 925 et seq.

By r. 52, when money in Court is by an order directed to be paid to any public officer or department, or to the official liquidator, of any company, or any other official person for whom an account is kept at the bank, payment thereof shall, on a request to that effect, be made by a direction to the bank to transfer the amount of such payment to the proper account at the bank accordingly. When any duty is directed to be paid out of funds in Court, such duty shall, without any words in the order to that effect, be assessed, and on a request made by or on behalf of the Commrs of Inland Revenue, transferred to the proper account at the bank.

By r. 55, when securities in Court are directed to be transferred, delivered out, or carried over, dividends accruing thereon subsequently to the date of the order directing the transfer, &c. (when the amount of the securities to be transferred, &c. is specified in such order, or if not so specified then subsequently to the time when the amount of such securities shall be ascertained) are to be paid to the persons to whom or carried over to the credit to which the securities are to be transferred, &c., unless such order otherwise directs. When securities in Court are directed to be realized, and the whole of the proceeds paid out or carried over in one sum, or in aliquot parts (except when the realization is to raise a specific sum of money), any dividends accruing on such securities subsequent to the date of the order directing the realization (if the amount of such securities is specified in the order, or if not so specified, then subsequently to the time when such amount shall be ascertained) are to be added to such proceeds, and applied in like manner therewith, unless such order otherwise directs; and by r. 56, when such dividends have been invested, the securities purchased with such dividends shall, unless otherwise directed, be transferred, &c., and any dividends accrued in respect thereof be paid, to the persons to whom or carried over to the credit to which such first-mentioned dividends would, if uninvested, have been paid or carried over.

By r. 57, when by an order money or dividends are directed to be dealt with so that the same ought not to be invested, and subsequently to the date of such order such money or dividends or any part thereof shall have been invested, the securities purchased with such money or dividends shall, unless otherwise directed, be sold, and the proceeds of such sale and any dividends accrued in respect of such securities shall be applied in the same manner as the money or dividends so invested would have been applied under such order if they had not been so invested.

By r. 58, when under any order dividends on securities in Court are directly to be dealt with, and a subsequent order is made dealing with part of such securities, the dividends on the residue shall, unless such subsequent order shall otherwise direct, continue to be dealt with in the same manner as the dividends were by the prior order directed to be dealt with.

Rules 59 & 60 provide for the application of money or dividends placed on deposit after the date of the order, and of any interest credited thereon.

Funds (which includes dividends) ordered to be paid, transferred or delivered to a woman, who afterwards marries, are to be paid, &c. to her on production of an affidavit of no settlement, or upon production of the settlement accompanied by an affidavit of her solr that such settlement does not affect funds: see r. 61.

By r. 7, when funds in Court are by an order directed to be carried over to a separate account, the title of the ledger credit to be opened for the purpose, unless the order otherwise directs, is to commence with the title of the cause or matter to which such funds are standing; and by r. 9, when funds standing to two or more ledger credits are dealt with by the same order, separate payment schedules shall be made out for such ledger credits respectively.

Money directed to be paid to persons described as co-partners may be paid to any one or more of them, or the survivor of them (see r. 63); and funds directed to be paid, &c. to any persons as legal pers. represves may, on proof of the death of any one of them, be paid, &c. to the survivors or survivor of them: see r. 64; but no funds will be paid under this rule and under r. 62 unless the probate or letters of admon have been granted within six years from the date of the order, or, in case such funds consist of interest or dividends, from the date of the last receipt thereof: see r. 65. For forms of affidavit, see D. C. F. 934, 935.

An application for payment out of Court by a person claiming to be absolutely entitled to money in Court, representing real estate, should be supported by an affidavit of no incumbrances, which prima facie should be made by the applicant: Williams v. Ware, 57 L. J. Ch. 497; 58 L. T. 876.

As to the right of the Master in Lunacy in New South Wales, in respect of a fund in Court belonging to a person of unsound mind, not so found, resident in that colony, see Re Barlow's Will, 36 Ch. D. 287, C. A.; and that the Court in such a case would be justified in paying to the colonial Master in Lunacy any sums which the competent authority in the colony decided to be necessary for the maintenance or benefit of the non compos, Ib.; and v. inf. Vol. II. p. 1009.

A fund in Court held on such trusts as two persons should by deed jointly appoint, and subject thereto upon trust for one of them for life, with remainder to the other, was paid out to them without execution of a deed of appointment: Re Winstanley's Settlement, W. N. (86) 92; 54 L. T. 840.

As to when applications for payment out of Court should be by summons in Chambers, v. inf. Chap. XVIII., "CHAMBERS."

As to mode of procedure where money was paid out of Court to persons not entitled, upon a forged affidavit, see Slater v. S., 58 L. T. 149; 59 L. T. 315; (1896) 1 Ch. 222, n.; and as to the liability of the Treasury under s. 5 of 35 & 36 V. c. 44, to make good default out of the Consolidated Fund, see Bath v. Bath, (1901) 1 Ch. 460; Jones v. Jones, Ib. 464, n.

Where a person absolutely entitled to a fund in Court came of age, the Court declined to allow the fund to remain in Court, and to order payment of the interest only: Isaac v. Gompertz, 1 Ves. jun. 44.

Where several persons are entitled to interests for life in succession, the Court usually only directs payment to the first for life, with liberty to apply on his death, when a further order must be obtained; but if husband and wife are so entitled, the Court directs payment to them in succession, and the paymaster continues the payment to the survivor upon proof of the death of the other.

DEALINGS WITH FUNDS IN COURT.

By the Supreme Court of Jud. (Funds, &c.) Act, 1883 (46 & 47 V. c. 29), s. 10, "any rules made by the L. C., with the concurrence of the Treasury, under the provisions of the Ch. Funds Act, 1872, or this Act, may determine what evidence of an order of the High Court of Justice, or Court of Appeal, and of the directions contained in such order, shall be necessary or sufficient" to authorize the transfer, or sale, or delivery out of funds to the credit of the account of the Paymaster.

All dealings with funds in Court are now regulated by the S. C. F. R. 1894, made in pursuance of this and previous Acts.

For forms of application, see D. C. F. 905 et seq.

INVESTMENTS.

By r. 69, when an order directs investment and accumulation of funds in Court, the Paymaster, upon receipt of a copy of the order, is to invest from time to time until he receives an order or request to the contrary; and under r. 70 the proceeds of Exchequer bills will be reinvested in Exchequer bills. A sum of money in Court less than £40 (r. 72) is not to be invested in securities except in the cases provided for by rr. 73 and 74 (v. inf.), and unless an order directs such investment notwithstanding the smallness of the amount.

By r. 75, the Paymaster is at liberty in all cases to cease to invest upon a request of the solr for the person claiming to be entitled to or interested in the fund in Court. See D. C. F. 941.

The investment cannot be made through private brokers: Exp. Bolton Junction Ry., 24 W. R. 451; 34 L. T. 230; W. N. (76) 80; Re West Riding, &c. Ry., 24 W. R. 357; 34 L. T. 168.

Cash under the control of or subject to the order of the Court may be invested (O. XXII, 17) in the following stocks, funds, or securities, namely—Two and three-quarters p. c. consolidated stock (to be called after the 5th April, 1903, 2½ p. c. consolidated stock); consolidated £3 p. c. annuities; reduced £3 p. c. annuities; £2:15s. p. c. annuities; £2:10s. p. c. annuities; Local Loans stock under the National Debt and Local Loans Act, 1887; Exchequer bills; Bank stock; India 3½ p. c. stock; India 3 p. c. stock; Indian guaranteed railway stocks or shares, provided in each case that such stocks or shares shall not be liable to be redeemed within a period of fifteen years from the date of investment; stocks of colonial governments guaranteed by the Imperial Government; mortgage of freehold and copyhold estates respectively in England and Wales; Metropolitan Consolidated Stock, £3:10s. p. c.; 3 p. c. Metropolitan Consolidated Stock; inscribed 2½ p. c. debenture stock issued by the Corp. of London, and secured by a trust deed dated the 24th of June, 1897; 2½ p. c. Metropolitan Consolidated Stock; 2½ p. c. London County Consolidated Stock; 3 p. c. London County Consolidated Stock (the last three added by R. S. C. July, 1901); debenture, preference, guaranteed, or rent-charge stocks of railways in Great Britain or Ireland having for ten years next before the date of investment paid a dividend on ordinary stock or shares; nominal debentures or nominal debenture stock under the Local Loans Act, 1875, or under the Isle of Man Loans Act, 1880: provided in each case that such debentures or stock shall not be liable to be redeemed within a period of fifteen years from the date of investment.

Money paid into Court under the Lands Clauses Act and Settled Estates Act is "cash under the control of the Court": Exp. St. John's Coll., Oxford, 22 Ch. D. 93, C. A.

An investment in railway debenture stock was made of money paid into Court under the Lands Clauses Act as the price of land belonging to a charity: Re Byron's Charity, 23 Ch. D. 171.

Where the fund in Court is subject to a trust for investment, the investments authorized by the trust will, if otherwise unobjectionable, be allowed.

As to providing against excessive payments of income to tenant for life on a change of investment, see Re Ingram, 11 W. R. 980; 8 L. T. 758; Lewin, 359.

And as to investment of lunatic's property, Re Lord Rossmore, Ir. Rep. 8 Eq. 367.

The exors of a Petr who had got an order for an investment which had not been completed were entitled to revive: Re Yowl, 16 Eq. 107.

INVESTMENT OF MONEY LODGED UNDER TRUSTEE ACT, 1893.

By S. C. F. R. 1894, r. 73, "a sum of money lodged in Court as provided in r. 41," v. sup. p. 210, "if or so soon as such money and the interest, if any, to be credited in respect thereof shall amount to or exceed £40, and the dividends accruing on any securities so lodged, if and when they shall amount to or exceed £20, shall be invested without any order or request in new Consols, and the dividends accruing on such new Consols and all accumulations thereof shall, if or so soon as they amount to £20, be invested in new Consols.

"When it is stated in the schedule to the affidavit made pursuant to r. 41 that it is desired that any money to be lodged in Court, and the accumulations thereof, or any dividends to accrue on any securities to be so lodged, should be invested in any description of government securities, such money, if or so soon as such money and the interest, if any, to be credited in respect thereof shall amount to or exceed £40, and the dividends accruing on such securities, if or so soon as they shall amount to or exceed £20, shall be invested accordingly, without any order or further request for that purpose.

"Dividends accruing on funds or on investments or accumulations of funds lodged in Court under the 32nd section of the Act 36 G. III. c. 52, or under the Act 10 & 11 V. c. 96, prior to the commencement of the Ch. Funds Rules, 1872, shall, when or so soon as they amount to or exceed £20, be invested without any request."

By r. 74, "money or securities lodged in Court under the 32nd section of the Act 36 G. III. c. 52, or under the 10 & 11 V. c. 96, prior to the 1st January, 1894, and securities purchased with such money, or the income thereof, shall, subject to any order affecting the same made prior to the 1st January, 1894, be dealt with in the same manner as if such money or securities had been lodged in Court under the 42nd section of the Trustee Act, 1893."

INVESTING IN EXCHEQUER BILLS.

Where the amount to be invested in Exchequer bills is large, the order sometimes directs the investments to be made in parcels of a certain amount.

S. C. F. R. r. 71, provides for the reinvestment of principal and interest of any Exchequer bills or Exchequer bonds deposited in Court which may be paid off.

Money paid into Court and invested in Exchequer bills under a private Act which directs such investment, may be invested in any securities in which cash under the control of the Court may be invested: Jackson v. Tyas, 52 L. J. Ch. 830.

MONEY ON DEPOSIT.

As to the cases in which money will be placed on deposit, see S. C. F. R. 76—85; D. C. F. 943 et seq.

Dividends directed to be invested, when amounting to less than £40, half-yearly; and when not directed to be invested, notwithstanding the smallness of the amount, are (subject to rr. 37, 65, 66, and 73) to be placed on deposit: see r. 64; and when they amount to £40 will be invested; and interest on money on deposit so soon as it amounts to £20 will be placed on deposit: r. 85.

As to the time for placing money on deposit, see r. 79.

By r. 77, money lodged under O. XXII, or under O. XXXI, 26, is not to be placed on deposit, nor where the amount is less than £20; and by r. 81, no interest is to be computed on a fraction of a pound.

R. 78 provides for the withdrawal of money on deposit to meet the requirements of an order, and when the amount is reduced below £20, and upon request countersigned by a registrar or chief clerk.

As to the periods for which and when interest is to be computed, and as to the mode of calculating interest on money withdrawn, see rr. 82—85.

NOTARIAL ACTS—POWERS OF ATTORNEY.

A "notarial act" is described as the act of authenticating or certifying some document or circumstance by a written instrument under the signature and official seal of a notary; or of authenticating or certifying as a notary some fact or circumstance by a written instrument under his signature only: see Brooke's Notary, p. 46.

Thus, a notarial certificate authenticating a power of attorney under the signature and seal of a notary is a notarial act; but a mere note or memorandum of reference at the foot of the power of attorney, for the purpose of identifying it, is not, and does not require an additional stamp: Brooke, 186.

As to the authentication of powers of attorney, executed here for the purpose of being acted upon abroad, as for the transfer of American or French stock, and for other purposes, see Brooke, 332 et seq.

By the Statutory Declarations Act, 1835 (5 & 6 W. IV. c. 62), ss. 14, 15, 16, 18, a notary is empowered, in certain specified cases, to receive the solemn declarations now substituted for oaths. Under s. 14, the Bank will act upon a declaration made before a notary: Brooke, 189, 190.

The Paymaster acts only on powers of attorney issued out of his office. Other powers must be referred to in the order, and the payment or transfer directed to be made to the attorney named therein.

Where the order directs payment or transfer out of Court a power of attorney will, on the request of the solr, be issued at the Pay Office; such power of attorney must be attested by two witnesses, who must state their full addresses and profession or occupation.

By O. XXXVIII, 6, all examinations, affidavits, declarations, affirmations, and attestations of honour in causes or matters depending in the High Court, and also acknowledgments required for the purpose of enrolling any deed in the Central Office, may be sworn and taken in Scotland or Ireland or the Channel Islands, or in any colony, island, plantation, or place under the dominion of his Majesty in foreign parts, before any Judge, Court, notary public, or person lawfully authorized to administer oaths in such country, colony, island, plantation, or place respectively, or before any of his Majesty's consuls or vice-consuls in any foreign parts out of his Majesty's dominions; and the Judges and other officers of the High Court are to take judicial notice of the seal or signature, as the case may be, of any such Court, Judge, notary public, person, consul, or vice-consul, attached, appended, or subscribed to any such examinations, affidavits, affirmations, attestations of honour, declarations, acknowledgments, or to any other deed or document.

Similar provisions are contained in the Commrs for Oaths Act, 1889 (52 V. c. 10), s. 6, as amended by Commrs for Oaths Act, 1891 (54 & 55 V. c. 50), s. 2, v. sup. pp. 109, 110.

In the case of a power of attorney not issued from the Pay Office, executed abroad, the Court requires the signature by the grantor to be proved in one of the following ways:—

- (1) By the affidavit of an attesting witness.
- (2) By an affidavit of an impartial person verifying the grantor's signature.

(3) By a notarial certificate of due execution annexed to the power, the signature of the notary, and that he holds the office, being verified by affidavit, or, in the case of a foreign notary, being authenticated by a diplomatic person under the Commrs for Oaths Act, 1889, s. 6, v. sup. p. 110.

An affidavit sworn out of the dominions before a notary public was allowed to be filed, the nearest consul being 150 miles away: Cooke v. Wilby, 25 Ch. D. 769; see also Brittlebank v. Smith, 32 W. R. 675; 50 L. T. 491, where the nearest British consul was 250 miles away, but certified that the clerk of the circuit Court before whom the affidavit was sworn was authorized to administer oaths.

Where a notarial certificate was produced in lieu of an affidavit of due execution by the attesting witness, or of one verifying the grantor's signature, it was held necessary to verify the notary's signature; and an affidavit of comparison of the notary's signature with that in the book kept at Doctors' Commons was not sufficient: Re Barton, V.-C. W., 31 July, 1858, A. 1527.

The Court declined to act on an affidavit of the person named to receive money verifying the signature of the party executing such a power of attorney from the colony of Victoria, or on a notarial certificate of the due execution annexed thereto, the notary's signature not being verified: Smith v. Wright, V.-C. S., 23 Nov. and 3 Dec. 1855, B. 99; Re Owen, V.-C. W., 13 Dec. 1855, B. 211. The Court would have acted on the affidavit of an impartial person verifying the signature to the power; as a power of attorney to receive money, though usually under seal, need not be so; otherwise as to a power to execute a deed: S. C.

A deed signed in the presence of a notary was treated as a document to be used in Court under 15 & 16 V. c. 86, s. 22 (corresponding with O. XXXVIII, 6), and judicial notice taken of the notary's signature, although there was no evidence of an intention to use it in Court: Brooke v. B., 17 Ch. D. 833.

In Armstrong v. Stockham, 24 L. J. Ch. 176; 3 Eq. Rep. 130, payment out was ordered under a power of attorney executed at Belize, in British Honduras, before a notary there, and certified under his hand and seal, and on an affidavit of a person residing here, verifying the notary's handwriting, and that he held that office.

If any considerable time has elapsed, an affidavit that the person who executed the power is alive, and that the power is unrevoked, will be required: Bailey v. Collett, 18 Beav. 179; 23 L. J. Ch. 230.

A transfer of stock made under a bank power of attorney two days after the death of the grantor was held valid: Kiddill v. Farnell, 3 S. & G. 428.

An affidavit verifying the execution of a power of attorney, but not intituled in any cause or matter, will not be acted upon: Re Wood, V.-C. K., 4 Dec. 1857, Reg. Min. f. 117.

As to the authorities before whom affidavits may be sworn, v. sup. pp. 109, 110.

And see, as to the law of Lower and Upper Canada on this subject, Nye v. Macdonald, L. R. 3 P. C. 331.

By S. C. F. R. r. 48, provisions are made for the transmission of sums of money through the post, including a special provision applicable to sums under £10, and in view of these provisions the practice which formerly existed (see Seton, 5th ed., p. 203) of making small sums under £10 payable to the solrs has been discontinued: see Re Bell, W. N. (94) 9.

As to payments under powers of attorney, see the Conveyancing Acts, 1881 (44 & 45 V. c. 41), ss. 46, 47; 1882 (45 & 46 V. c. 39), ss. 8, 9.

As to the mode of ascertaining the true construction of a foreign power of attorney, see Chatenay v. Brazilian Tel. Co., (1891) 1 Q. B. 79, C. A.

STAMPS ON POWERS OF ATTORNEY.

By the Stamp Act, 1891 (54 & 55 V. c. 39), schedule, the stamps on powers of attorney are as follows: on a power for receipt of principal money not exceeding £20, or of any periodical payments (including dividends) not exceeding the annual sum of £10, five shillings; on a power for receipt of principal money exceeding £20, or of any periodical payments (including dividends) exceeding the annual sum of £10, ten shillings, impressed on the power; on a power to receive a single payment of interest, one shilling, but no duty is payable where the yearly dividend is under £3. And see Dan. 1502. In addition to the above revenue stamps, there is a fee stamp (not required in Lunacy cases) of three shillings for preparation.

By the Stamp Act, 1891, s. 90, and schedule, the duty upon a notarial act is one shilling, which may be denoted by an adhesive stamp to be cancelled by the notary.

For form of request for power of attorney, see D. C. F. 909.

LEGACY AND SUCCESSION DUTY.

The Acts relating to legacy duty are the Legacy Duty Act, 1796 (36 G. III. c. 52); Stamp Act, 1815 (55 G. III. c. 184); Legacy Duty Act, 1805 (45 G. III. c. 28); Revenue Act, 1845 (8 & 9 V. c. 76); and Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1881 (44 & 45 V. c. 12), ss. 26, 41, 42.

The Succession Duty Act is 16 & 17 V. c. 51. The Crown Suits Act, 1865 (28 & 29 V. c. 104), Pt. v. ss. 53—64, relates to the recovery of succession, legacy, and probate duties in certain cases; the Inland Revenue Act, 1868 (31 & 32 V. c. 124), s. 9, provides for payment of interest at the rate of £4 p. c. per ann. on arrears of legacy or succession duty; the 44 & 45 V. c. 12, s. 41, for the cesser of the one p. c. succession duty in cases where duty has been paid on the affidavit or inventory or account in conformity with that Act; and the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888 (51 V. c. 8), ss. 21, 22, for the charge of additional succession duty, and for the mode of payment of duty on succession to real property chargeable as an annuity.

The 36 G. III. c. 52, s. 25, enacts that if in any admon suit any direction shall be given for payment of any legacies or residue, the Court shall, in giving such directions, provide for the payment of the duties thereby imposed; and shall take care that no allowance is made in respect of any legacy or residue, without proof of the payment of the duties.

And by the 16 & 17 V. c. 51, s. 53, the Court, in the admon of any property under its control, chargeable with duty under that Act or the Legacy Duty Acts, is to provide for the payment of duty thereout. And as to probate and admon duties, see Probate Duty Act, 1860 (23 V. c. 15), ss. 4, 5.

By S. C. F. R. r. 20, when an order directs payment, transfer, or delivery of funds in Court in respect of which legacy or estate or succession duty is payable, and does not direct the payment of such duty, it shall be stated in the payment schedule that such payment, transfer, or delivery is subject to duty, and in such case the Paymaster is to have regard to the circumstance that such duty is payable; and when by an order funds in respect of which such duty may be chargeable are directed to be invested, carried over, or placed to a separate account, the words "subject to duty" shall be added in the schedule to the separate account directed to be opened; and by r. 52, when any duty is directed to be paid out of funds in Court, such duty shall, without any words in the order to that effect, be assessed, and on the requisition of the Commrs of Inland Revenue be transferred to the proper account at the bank.

And by r. 66, the Paymaster, before acting upon an order under r. 20, is to require the production of the receipt or certificate of payment, and on receiving notice from the proper officer that the duty is payable is to cause a memorandum to that effect to be made in his books.

Where the amount of the duty is to be specified in the schedule, a certificate from the Inland Revenue Office of the correct amount must be produced to the registrar.

If the order is made in Court, the registrar sees that the cautionary words are inserted in case the order does not provide for the duty, but if the order is made in Chambers, the Master sees to it, and makes a note on the summons stating whether or not any duty is payable before transmitting the summons to the registrar to draw up the order.

It ought to be ascertained before the order is passed whether or not the duty has been paid, as the Paymaster will not receive evidence of payment before the date of an order made subject to payment of duty.

Where a legacy is given free of duty, it must be shown that the duty has been paid out of the residue.

Except in obvious cases, the question of liability is to be discussed with the Commrs of Inland Revenue, and not with the registrar or Master; if necessary, it will be determined by the Court.

The Acts are to be construed strictly and in favour of the subject; and the Crown being unsuccessful was held not entitled to costs: Hobson v. Neale, 17 Beav. 185, 6.

The 36 G. III. c. 52, s. 27, makes the stamped receipt of the office the only evidence of payment. But a copy of the entry from the books is sufficient, if duly proved: Harrison v. Borwell, 10 Sim. 380.

The controller's certificate is sufficient evidence: E. Howe v. E. Lichfield, 2 Ch. 155. The solr's affidavit is not: Re Marsham, 12 W. R. 45; 9 L. T. 533.

If the duty has been paid, the official receipt or the certificate of the controller should be produced and entered as read in the judgment or order; but not on a nomination by will to the benefits of the Customs Annuity Fund, as it is in the nature of an appointment under a special power and not of a legacy: A. G. v. Rowsell, 36 Ch. D. 67, n.

The Crown debt for legacy duty has priority over the general debts of a bankrupt exor: Re Galvin (1897), 2 I. R. 520; W. N. (98) 140.

Under s. 23 of 36 G. III. c. 52, where a bequest to a stranger in blood had been released in consideration of payment of one-half of its amount, duty at the rate of 10 p. c. was payable on that half only, and the other half payable to the next of kin was liable to 3 p. c. duty: Lord Advocate v. Murray, W. N. (96) 110; 21 Rettie, 743 (Sc.).

By 44 & 45 V. c. 12, s. 34, legacy and succession duty are not chargeable where the gross value of the estate of the deceased does not exceed £300; and by s. 36, the payment of the sum of 30s. for the fixed duty on the affidavit or inventory in conformity with that Act is to be deemed to be in full satisfaction of any claim to such duty.

Where payment is directed to the legal pers. represve of a deceased person, no receipt for duty on the fund as part of such deceased person's estate is requisite, the represve being accountable.

As to what shall be deemed legacies, see 36 G. III. c. 52, s. 7; Hanson, 414 et seq.; and as to duty on anns, and anns payable out of legacies, and on legacies given to purchase anns, see ss. 8, 9, 10; Hanson, 437—442; and on legacies to persons in succession, s. 12. As to legacy duty on a contingent interest, see Lord v. Colvin, 3 Eq. 737. Money left to pay duty is not chargeable as a legacy: s. 21, and Hanson, 464—467.

Duty is payable on foreign government bonds, the property of a British subject: Re Ewin, 1 Cr. & J. 151; Hanson, 423, 424. And the estate of a British subject, permanently resident in the empire of China, is subject to legacy duty: Re Tootal's Trusts, 23 Ch. D. 532. And where the settlement is English, and the legal ownership of the property is in persons subject as Englishmen to English jurisdiction, so that any claim in respect of the funds must be decided in an English Court, succession duty is payable, though the persons beneficially entitled are foreigners: Re Cigala's Settlement, 7 Ch. D. 351; and see A. G. v. Jewish Colonization Assoc., (1901) 1 K. B. 123, C. A.

The law of the country of the domicile of a deceased person governs the succession to his moveable personalty: Doglioni v. Crispin, L. R. 1 H. L. 301. Therefore the moveable personal assets of a British subject having a foreign domicile are not subject to legacy duty: S. C.; Forbes v. F., 2 Cr. & J. 382; affirmed sub nom. A. G. v. Jackson, 8 Bli. N.S. 15; A. G. v. Forbes, 2 Cl. & F. 48; Arnold v. A., 2 M. & C. 256, 270; Thomson v. Adv. Gen., 13 Sim. 153; 12 Cl. & F. 1; Hanson, 423; nor to succession duty: Wallace v. A. G. 1 Ch. 1; but where the exor of a foreigner has, under the will, collected the assets and invested them in English securities, any subsequent devolution will make them liable to succession duty: A. G. v. Campbell, L. R. 5 H. L. 524. But not where they are merely brought to this country for distribution: A. G. v. Forbes, 2 Cl. & F. 48; 8 Bli. N. S. 15; nor where they have not actually been so got in and invested: Lyall v. L., 15 Eq. 1.

Legacy duty was payable on the share of a deceased partner domiciled in England in the proceeds of freehold property in India forming a partnership asset: Stokes v. Ducroz, 38 W. R. 535; 63 L. T. 176, following Forbes v. Steven, 10 Eq. 178; and on the proceeds of land in England devised on trusts for sale by a domiciled Frenchman: Skottowe v. Young, 11 Eq. 474. As to probate duty payable on the death of an heir, taking land directed to be sold, the trust for conversion failing, see A. G. v. Lomas, L. R. 9 Ex. 29.

Children, illegitimate in this country, of a person domiciled in a country in which they were legitimate paid legacy duty at 1 p. c. only: Skottowe v. Young, 11 Eq. 474; and see Re Goodman's Trusts, 17 Ch. D. 266, C. A.; Re Andros, A. v. A., 24 Ch. D. 637; and in accordance with the law of the country were entitled to succeed on an intestacy: Doglioni v. Crispin, L. R. 1 H. L. 301; a child taking under the marriage settlement of his parents (foreigners), made in England of English funds, had to pay duty: Lyall v. L., 15 Eq. 1; Re Badart, 10 Eq. 288; A. G. v. Lovelace, 4 D. & J. 340. Natural children recognized by foreign law, and, in the absence of legitimate children, admitted to succeed, ab intestato, to the whole personal estate of their father, being "strangers in blood" within sect. 10 of the Succession Duty Act, are liable to pay duty at 10 p. c. in respect of land of their father situate in England: Re Atkinson, Anderson v. Atkinson, 21 Ch. D. 100.

Legacy duty is payable on the death of a person domiciled abroad upon personal property in this country of an immoveable nature, such as leaseholds: Chatfield v. Berchtoldt, 7 Ch. 192.

And as to domicile, v. inf. Chap. XLIV., "ADMINISTRATION," pp. 1577 et seq.

Legacies given free of duty, which the residue was insufficient to bear, had to bear the duty rateably: Wilson v. O'Leary, 17 Eq. 419.

Where "all legacies" were to be "paid" free of duty, specific legacies, as well as pecuniary, were payable free of duty: Re Johnston, Cockerell v. Earl of Essex, 26 Ch. D. 538; Ansley v. Cotton, 16 L. J. Ch. 56.

Annuities given to trustees while carrying on testator's business are subject to legacy duty: Re Thorley, T. v. Massam, (1891) 2 Ch. 613, C. A.

Where personal estate was directed to be laid out in land limited to one for life, with an absolute estate to him in remainder if he died without sons (which happened), it was held that at the moment of his death he "began to enjoy the benefit" of the capital within sect. 12 of the Legacy Duty Act, 36 G. III. c. 52, and therefore on his death legacy duty became payable: Lord Kenlis v. Hodgson, (1895) 2 Ch. 458; distinguishing Re Haygarth's Trusts, 22 Ch. D. 545.

Under a gift to A. or his exors, A. predeceasing the testatrix, legacy duty under the Revenue Act, 1845 (8 & 9 Vict. c. 76), s. 4, is payable under the will of the testatrix only, and not under the will of A.: Lord Advocate v. Bogie, W. N. (96) 100, Sc.; 20 Rettie, 429.

Where, pursuant to a will, trustees laid out money in purchase of land before the time when any beneficial interest became vested under the will, legacy duty was not payable: Lord Advocate v. Macfarlane, W. N. (96) 96, Sc.; 21 Rettie, 348.

As to the right of an exor, who was compelled to pay duty on a fund taken out of Court without providing for it, to recover the amount from legatees or purchasers from them, see Foster v. Ley, 2 Bing. N. C. 269; Bowra v. Rhodes, 10 W. R. 747; 8 Jur. N. S. 1050; Hanson, 481, 482. And as to the duty of exors and solrs notwithstanding the pendency of a suit to provide for the duty: Bryan v. Mansion, 5 W. R. 483; 26 L. J. Ch. 510; 3 Jur. N. S. 475; Re Sammon, 3 M. & W. 381; Hanson, 481.

In Bryan v. Mansion, sup., the assignee of a life interest had to refund, and under the circumstances with costs, the duty on income paid out of Court without providing for it.

Where an annuity, secured by a term of years, was so limited that during the period of twenty-one years the annuitant had in effect a mere charge upon the estate limited to another person, legacy and not succession duty was payable: Re De Hoghton, De H. v. De H., (1896) 1 Ch. 855, C. A., affirming Stirling, J., (1895) 2 Ch. 517.

Trustees of a resettlement were held to be "persons having an absolute interest" in heirlooms within sect. 14 of the Legacy Duty Act, 1796: A. G. v. Bruce, (1901) 2 K. B. 391.

As to the liability of charitable bequests to legacy and succession duty, see inf. Chap. XLII., "CHARITIES."

The Succession Duty Act, 16 & 17 V. c. 51, took effect from the 19th of May, 1853. Duty was payable on a remainder which vested before the Act took effect, but fell in afterwards: Wilcox v. Smith, 4 Drew. 40; and see Hanson, 539, and subsequent cases there cited.

On the death, prior to the passing of the Act, of a person entitled under a marriage settlement in reversion expectant on the death of a life tenant, who died after the Act, legacy duty was payable by the persons entitled under the reversioner's will, but not succession duty likewise: A. G. v. Littledale, L. R. 5 H. L. 290.

Where property was to be accumulated for twenty-one years, and then to go to a person answering a certain description at that time, succession duty was payable on the death of a person who would have been entitled if he had lived to the end of the twenty-one years: A. G. v. Gell, 3 H. & C. 615; followed, but disapproved, by Wickens, V.-C., in Ring v. Jarman, 14 Eq. 357; and see Crow v. Robinson, 10 W. R. 306; 4 D. G. F. & J. 337; 31 L. J. Ch. 516; Hanson, 436.

Sect. 4 provides for payment of duty on property passing by the exercise of general or special powers: see A. G. v. Charlton, 1 Ex. D. 204; 4 App. Ca. 427.

This section does not restrict the Act as to appointments to wills taking effect or settlements made after it; personalty not within sect. 4 is not to be treated as the property of a donee, so as to be exempt from duty where the donee may be domiciled abroad: Re Lovelace, 4 D. & J. 340.

A corporation having purchased reversionary realty from a vendor who died before the life tenant, had to pay duty at 5 p. c.: S. G. v. Law Revers. Soc., L. R. 8 Ex. 233; sect. 15.

As to succession duty on life policies, see s. 17: Re Maclean, 19 Eq. 274; A. G. v. Abdy, 1 H. & C. 266.

Where under sect. 18 the succession is accelerated, the Court, before parting with the fund, has required the parties either to arrange with the office as to the payment of duty, by commuting it for a present payment (Bailey v. Tindal, 17 Dec. 1853, A. 252; 18 Jur. 668), or to leave in Court a sufficient amount to answer it: Re Raikes, V.-C. K., 18 Jan. 1856, B. 304.

Succession duty is payable by a wife upon the death of her husband who took under a settlement a life interest interposed between her life interest and absolute interest in remainder, but the value of the existing life interest must be deducted: A. G. v. Robertson, (1893) 1 Q. B. 292, C. A.

Where a settled fund during the lives of the tenants for life is paid to their children under an appointment and power of advancement, there is an acceleration of succession in respect of which duty is payable under s. 15: Exp. Sitwell, Re Drury-Lowe's Settlement, 21 Q. B. D. 466.

Where a jointress dies, the succession duty will, under s. 15, be chargeable upon the land, even in the hands of a purchaser: Cooper v. Trewby, 28 Beav. 194, unless the case comes within sect. 42, so as to bind the substituted property: Dugdale v. Meadows, 6 Ch. 501.

The tenant for life and the tenant in tail in remainder, having, on re-settlement of the estate, charged an annuity on the estate in favour of the latter during the life of the former, on his death, and the latter succeeding to the estate, an allowance must be made in respect of the annuity, whether the re-settlement was before or after the Act: Commrs of Inland Revenue v. Harrison, L. R. 7 H. L. 1; Lord Braybrooke v. A. G., 9 H. L. C. 150; A. G. v. Floyer, 9 H. L. C. 477; 10 W. R. 762; and see Le Marchant v. Commrs of Inland Revenue, 1 Ex. D. 185.

Where settlor settled property upon trust for himself for four years, if he should so long live, and then, or upon his death before that time, for other persons, on his death before the end of the four years duty was payable on the whole fund, and not only on the income between the death and the end of the four years, as the duty attached not merely to the increase of benefit to the successors, but to the property which they acquired: A. G. v. Noyes, 8 Q. B. D. 125, C. A.

An arrangement whereby persons entitled to the residuary estate of a testator deal with their interests so as to provide an annuity for the holder of a title, is not "a contract made for valuable consideration in money or money's worth" within s. 17 of the Succession Duty Act, 1853; and a deed effectuating such an arrangement does not create a new succession, but constitutes an "alienation" of a succession under the will within s. 15, and in such a case (legacy duty having been paid on the whole residue) s. 18 applies, and no succession duty is payable in respect of the annuity: Baron Wolverton v. A. G., (1898) A. C. 535, H. L.; S. C., (1897) 1 Q. B. 231, C. A.

Where real estate is let at less than a rack rent, the devisee in fee paying duty on the actual rent remains liable for increase of value as on an annuity during his life, and purchasers from him must be so charged, and not on their lives: A. G. v. Mander, 65 L. J. Q. B. 246; 74 L. T. 103; 44 W. R. 413.

The principle is that where there is a family arrangement for a re-settlement by which the tenant for life takes back his life estate, and the powers he had before, then, as everything else under the re-settlement must necessarily come out of the rest of the estate which belonged to the tenant in tail, the succession must be derived from him: Lord Braybrooke v. A. G., 9 H. L. C. 150; cited by Lord Selborne in Charlton v. A. G., 4 App. Ca. 427.

When a power is created to be exercised over an estate, the donor (the person out of whose estate a "benefit" or "succession" is to be derived) is, under s. 2, the "predecessor" of the person taking such benefit or succession. Where father and first son re-settled, reserving power to father and first son, and in default to father and second son, the first son dying, he is still the donor of the second power: Charlton v. A. G., sup.; and see A. G. v. Mitchell, 6 Q. B. D. 548; and as to the meaning of "succession," "disposition," and "predecessor," see further, A.-G. for Ireland v. Rathdonnell, W. N. (96) 141; 32 L. J. Ir. 574; Lord Advocate v. McCulloch, W. N. (96) 124; 22 Rettie, 356; Lord Advocate v. Gordon, W. N. (96) 134; 22 Rettie, 639.

But where the first tenant in tail was lunatic, and re-settlement was with consent of L. C., upon terms whereby the estate of the second tenant in tail (who had created a base fee and mortgaged) was treated of a certain value, and the interests of those in remainder were rendered indefeasible, the second tenant in tail was not the predecessor: A. G. v. Dowling, 6 Q. B. D. 177.

A conveyance or assignment by way of bonâ fide sale does not create a succession within 16 & 17 V. c. 51: Fryer v. Morland, 3 Ch. D. 675; but see De Rechberg v. Beeton, 38 Ch. D. 192; 36 W. R. 682.

Where a father as admor of his son paid the 3 p. c. admon duty under 44 & 45 V. c. 12, in respect of his son's estate, he was exempted by sect. 41 of that Act from paying 1 p. c. succession duty on a reversion expectant on his own decease, which formed part of the son's estate: Re Haygarth's Trusts, 22 Ch. D. 545; and v. sup. p. 241.

Deeds of covenant to transfer stock to trustees for charitable purposes, the transfer not being completed until after covenantor's death, were a disposition of property, and the stock was chargeable with succession duty: A. G. v. Montefiore, 21 Q. B. D. 461.

The exemption granted by sect. 18 to persons already charged with legacy duty "in respect of the same acquisition of the same property," does not extend to appointees under a general power of appointment conferred on the legatee: A. G. v. Mitchell, 6 Q. B. D. 548.

Where the donee of a special power appointed so much of the stock held under a settlement as should be "sufficient to raise" the "net" sum of £2,000, the appointee took free from succession duty: Re Saunders, Saunders v. Gore, (1897) 1 Ch. 888; (1898) 1 Ch. 17, C. A.; inf. p. 1743, No. 5.

Succession duty was not payable under sect. 2 in respect of policies of assurance gratuitously assigned in 1883 to the daughter of a man who died in 1890, and the premiums on which were paid since 1883 by her: Lord Advocate v. Fleming, (1897) A. C. 145, H. L. (Sc.).

As to the liability of charitable bequests to legacy and succession duty, see inf. Chap. XLII., "CHARITIES."

For the provisions of sect. 18 of the Finance Act, 1894 (57 & 58 V. c. 30), as to the value of real successions for succession duty, v. inf. Vol. II., Chap. XLIV., p. 1414.

SECTION III.—CARRYING OVER SECURITIES AND CASH.

1. Carrying over Securities, Money on Deposit, Dividends, and Interest.

LET the fund in Court be dealt with as directed in the schedule hereto.

Payment Schedule.

1. To account of legal personal representative when constituted, or to another account in the same action.	Carry over cash	"The account of the legal personal representative of A. when constituted." " Jones v. Brown , 1890, J. 27."	500 0 0
To another action	Carry over New Consols to the ledger credit mentioned in the second column.		4,200 0 0
2. Government securities of certain value at a future day. S. C. F. R. 1894, r. 87.	Carry over so much New Consols as at the Bank average price, on the — day of — shall be equivalent to £5,000.	"The account of A. B."

NOTES.

The Bank average price of Government securities appears in the account transmitted by the Bank to the Comptroller General of the National Debt Office, a copy of which is sent daily to the Pay Office: see S. C. F. R. r. 87. In the case of securities other than the above, "the average market price of the day" is the proper expression, and then an affidavit by a stockbroker will be required by the Paymaster.

No money or securities in Court will be carried over except in pursuance of an order; and the rules applicable to the form, &c. of orders for transfer, &c. out of Court apply generally to orders for carrying over.

SEPARATE ACCOUNT.

Where practicable, funds ought always to be paid in or carried over to separate accounts, so as to avoid the expense of service on unnecessary parties.

Care must be taken in wording the heading of a separate account, because when a fund is placed to such an account, it is released from the general questions in the action, and becomes marked as being subject only to the questions arising upon the particular matter referred to in such heading, so that, in all subsequent dealings with it, those parties only need be served who are interested in the particular fund; and the Court, from the heading of the account, sees to what extent the fund has been severed from the other questions in the action: Laprimaudaye v. Teissier, 12 Bea. 206; Re Jervoise, ib. 209; Re Eyton, Bartlett v. Charles, 45 Ch. D. 458; Edgar v. Plomley, (1900) A. C. 431, P. O.; and see Re Tillstones, 9 Ha. lix. In Noble v. Stow, 29 Bea. 409, it was held that carrying over the fund to the separate account of a person was not equivalent to a declaration that she was absolutely entitled. But see Re Jenkins, 3 N. R. 408; 10 Jur. N. S. 332; et inf. Chap. XLI., "TRUSTEES."

A fund should not be carried over to "the account of A. or his incumbrancers" when there is no suggestion that incumbrances exist: Hargrave v. Kettlewell, 33 W. R. 136; 55 L. T. 674.

Until a fund is carried to a distinctly separate account the reprieve of the deceased person whose estate is being administered is a necessary party to any application respecting it: Salmon v. Anderson, 9 Bea. 445, 449.

The costs of persons appearing unnecessarily, though properly served, may be refused: Re The Justices of Coventry, 19 Bea. 158; inf. p. 260.

The purchaser under the judgment or order, and a person as against whom proceedings had been stayed, were allowed their costs of appearing on application to carry over the funds to particular accounts: Rowley v. Adams, 16 Bea. 312; Noble v. Stow (2), 30 Bea. 272. But not a purchaser who has got his conveyance: Barton v. Latour, 18 Bea. 526.

The title of an account directed to be opened must not exceed thirty-six words, exclusive, in the case of a separate account in a cause or matter, of the title of the cause or matter in which such separate account is opened, unless a sufficient reason be assigned to the satisfaction of the registrar in the case of orders, or of the paymaster in the case of requests, who, in such case, is to add to the direction to raise such account the words "notwithstanding r. 103;" four figures are reckoned as one word: S. O. F. R. r. 103.

In dealing with securities, it should be borne in mind that railway and other public companies have generally a limit below which they do not permit a division of their stocks. For the purposes of division, therefore, it may in some cases be necessary to sell the stock, or some portion of it. As a rule, railway stocks cannot be carried over on account of the stock certificates, which are lodged at the Bank by the paymaster when the stock is brought into Court: see Piper v. Bateman, V.-C. B., 24 July, 1875, B. 2690, where two sums of railway stock, parts of larger sums, could not be carried over for this reason. The Court directed that they should be deemed to have been set apart to answer a certain legacy, and that the dividends should be paid to the tenant for life of the legacy.

The Bank of England could not be required to transfer Consols into the joint names of a corp. and individuals: Law Guarantee Society v. Hunter, 24 Q. B. D. 406; but see now the National Debt (Stockholders' Relief) Act, 1892 (55 & 56 V. c. 39), s. 6; Lewin, 31.

Since 51 V. c. 2, s. 18, the Bank of England allows not more than four accounts of government stocks to be opened in the same name or names: see Lewin, 350.

A sum of railway stock ordered to be carried to six separate accounts had to be apportioned with the aid of cash paid in at the same time, so as to prevent fractions of £1: Re Perry, 22 W. R. 433.

Cash or money on deposit in Court to the credit of an action or matter may be invested to the credit of a separate account or of another action or matter without being previously carried over; but as the money on deposit must be withdrawn from deposit before it is carried over, the order must provide for any interest to be credited.

Fees of taxation are carried over by the paymaster under r. 67, without any direction in the order; but if the order is dated after the taxing master's certificate, there ought to be a direction: see Payment Schedule, Form 33, p. 219.

If the fund is liable to duty, the words "subject to duty" must be added to the title of the account: r. 20.

CHAPTER XVII.

COSTS.

SECTION I.—COSTS BETWEEN PARTIES.

1. Taxation and Payment of Costs by one Party to another.

LET Plt (Deft) A. pay to the Deft (Plt) B. his costs of this action [or application], such costs to be taxed by the taxing master.

2. The like—Other Forms.

REFER it to the taxing master to tax the costs of the Plt (Deft) A. of this action [or application]; [or Let the costs of the Plt (Deft) of this action [or application] be taxed by the taxing master]; And Let the Deft (Plt) B. pay to the Plt (Deft) A. the amount of his said costs when so taxed.

As to the way in which costs reserved are to be dealt with by the registrar, v. inf. p. 395.

3. Costs of Application to be Costs in the Action.

AND the costs of the Plt [or Petr, or Deft, or Applicant, or all parties] of this application are to be costs in this action.

4. Action and Counter-claim dismissed—Apportionment of Costs.

THE application of the Deft, which upon hearing &c., was adjourned &c., and upon hearing counsel for the Deft and for the Plt; And this Court being of opinion that in the taxation of the costs under the said judgment, dated &c., the Plt is liable to pay the whole of the Deft's costs except so far as they have been increased by the Deft's counter-claim; And that there ought to be no apportionment of the Deft's general costs of this action, and that the Deft is liable to pay to the Plt only the amount by which the Plt's costs have been increased by the Deft's counter-claim, Let it be referred back to the taxing master to review his taxation accordingly.—Saner v. Bilton, Fry, J., 19 March, 1879, B. 648.

For form of order, where a solr brought an action on his bill of costs, and the Deft failed to appear and support his counter-claim, and the Court sent the bill for taxation, under the 7 & 8 V. c. 73, s. 37, see Lumley v. Brooks, 3 April, 1889, B. 464; S. C., 41 Ch. D. 323, C. A.

5. Petition dismissed with Costs.

UPON the petition of &c., on &c., preferred &c. that [recite prayer of petition], and upon hearing &c., this Court doth order that this petition do stand dismissed out of this Court with costs, to be taxed by the taxing master (in case the parties differ). And it is ordered that the Plt A. pay to the said B. and C. the amount of their costs, when taxed.

6. Motion refused with Costs.

UPON motion this day made unto this Court by counsel for [recite notice of motion], and upon hearing &c., this Court doth not think fit to make any order on this application; but doth order that the Plt [or Deft] A. do pay to the Deft (Plt) B. [name the party to receive costs] his costs of this application, to be taxed by the taxing master.

For order on abandoned motion, v. inf. Chap. XXIV., "MOTION."

7. Summons in Chambers dismissed with Costs.

THE Judge doth not think fit to make any order upon this application, but doth order that the Plt A. do pay to the Deft B. his costs of this application to be taxed by the taxing master (in case the parties differ).

8. Summons originating Proceedings dismissed with Costs.

LET the originating summons, dated &c., filed in this action stand dismissed out of this Court with costs, to be taxed by the taxing master; And Let the Plt A. pay to the Deft B. the amount of such costs when taxed.

9. Costs occasioned by Adjournment of Summons into Court.

LET the Plt A. pay to the Deft B. his costs occasioned by the adjournment into Court of this application, such costs to be taxed &c.—In re General Estates Co., M. R., 16 Feb. 1869, A. 1725; 8 Eq. 123.

In Holden's case, 8 Eq. 444, it was held that where a summons is adjourned into Court, the costs of the application directed to be paid by the unsuccessful party are ordinarily the costs of the adjournment into Court only.

10. Costs of adjourned Summons in Court and in Chambers.

LET the Deft B. pay to the Plt A. his costs of this application in Chambers, and occasioned by the adjournment thereof into Court, such costs to be taxed &c.

11. Taxation and payment of Costs without prejudice how ultimately to be borne.

TAX the costs of the Plts and the Defts of this action; And Let the Plt A. pay to the Defts B. and C. respectively the amount of their said costs when taxed, without prejudice to any question how such costs are ultimately to be borne.

Where a party is entitled to costs, but it is not ascertained who ought ultimately to bear them, the judgment or order often directs payment to be made by one of the parties, or out of a fund in Court available for the purpose, "without prejudice to the question how the same are ultimately to be borne": Smith v. Hammond, 6 Sim. 10, 15.

Defts disclaiming all interest may be dismissed with costs on motion by Plt ex parte, without prejudice to the question how the costs shall ultimately be borne as between Plt and the other Defts: Clements v. Clifford, 14 W. R. 22; Baily v. Lambert, 5 Ha. 178. As to the costs of disclaiming Defts generally, v. inf. Chap. XLVII., "MORTGAGES."

12. Costs made a Charge.

AND Let the Plt's costs, and also the costs which the Plts or any of them shall so pay to the Defts, be a lien (charge) on the estate of the testator in question in this action.

As to making costs a charge with interest, see p. 267.

13. No Costs given on either Side.

THE Court does not think fit to give any costs of this action [or application] on either side.

14. The like—As to Part.

AND this Court does not think fit to give any costs on either side, as to so much of the costs of this action [or application] as have been occasioned by &c. [or as relate to &c., or so far as such costs have been increased by &c.].

15. Taxation of Plt's and Dft's respective Costs of Parts of Action—Set-off.

TAX the costs of the Plt of this action, except so much thereof as relates to the claim set up by him to &c.; Tax the costs of the Deft of so much of this action as relates to the said claim; And the taxing master is to set off the said costs of the Plt and of the Deft when so respectively taxed, and certify to which of them the balance after such set-off is due; And Let such balance be paid by the party from whom to the party to whom the same shall be certified to be due.

As to set-off, v. O. LXV, 14 and 27 (21), and inf. pp. 263, 265.

An order in this form involves an apportionment of the costs of every general proceeding in the action: v. inf. p. 264.

16. Costs specially reserved.

THE Court specially reserves the question how and by whom the costs of this action are to be borne.—Clough v. Reddish, Chitty, J., 31 July, 1882, A. 1568.

17. Taxation of Costs except so far as occasioned by particular Claim.

TAX the costs of the Plt of this action except so far as such costs have been occasioned by the Plt setting up a claim to the whole of the debt in the pleadings mentioned.—Hardy v. Hull, 17 Beav. 355; Begbie v. Fenwick, 27 July, 1868, A. 2681; S. C., 6 Ch. 869.

This order involves an apportionment of general charges: v. inf. p. 264.

The Deft's costs occasioned by such claim had been given him at the hearing, so that no taxation and set-off of his costs was required.

18. Taxation of Deft's Costs of Action with Set-off of Part, caused by Deft's wrongful Claim, including Costs of Co-Defts, Husband and Wife, in Redemption Action.

TAX the costs of the Deft P. (mortgagee) of this action, except so far as the same relates to the claim made by him in respect of the sum of £— charged by the deeds dated &c.; Tax the costs of the Defts W. and wife of this action; And Let the Plt O. pay unto the Deft W. the costs of the said Deft W. and of his said wife when so taxed; and the taxing master is to inquire and certify how much of such costs of the Deft W. and wife (if any) have been occasioned by the Deft P.'s said claim in respect of the said sum of £—, and he is also to tax the Plt his costs of this action so far as the same have been occasioned by the said claim of the Deft P. in respect of the said sum; And Let such costs of the Plt when so taxed, together with what he shall have paid to the Deft W. for the costs of the said Deft W. and of his said wife (if any) occasioned by the said claim of the Deft P. in respect of the said sum of £— be set off against the said costs of the Deft P. when taxed; and the taxing master is to certify to whom after such set-off the balance is due; And Let the party from whom such balance shall be certified to be due pay the amount thereof to the other party.—Orange v. Pickford, V.-C. K., 6 June, 1860, B. 1526.

And for direction to distinguish and set off part of costs of suit, see Burrows v. Walls, 5 D. M. & G. 256; Wheaton v. Graham, 24 Beav. 483.

An order in this form involves an apportionment of the costs of every general proceeding in the suit: v. inf. p. 264.

19. Taxation of Costs, except so far as increased by particular Claim.

TAX the costs of the Plt (Deft) of this action, except so far as such costs have been increased by the Plt's claim to, &c. [or Deft setting up &c., or claiming &c.]; Tax the costs of Plt (Deft) of this action so far only as the same have been increased by the said claim [or by the Deft setting up &c., or claiming &c.]. Directions for set-off and payment of balance.

An order in this form does not involve an apportionment of the costs of the general proceedings: v. inf. p. 264.

For order in favour of one of two Plts with costs, and dismissing the bill as to the other with costs, so far as occasioned by his being a Plt, see Umfreville v. Johnson, 10 Ch. 581.

20. Costs up to a particular Time.

LET the Plt A. pay to the Deft B. his costs of this action up to and including this hearing [or the trial of this action, or the — day of — (when the Deft offered by &c., in writing, to pay the amount sought to be recovered by Plt &c.)], such costs to be taxed &c.

Where costs are given up to a particular date they will include costs of briefs, affidavits, &c., actually and properly incurred previous to that date, although the application in support of which they were prepared was not heard until after: and see Webster v. Manby, 4 Ch. 372.

21. Where Action defective, and Leave to amend given at Trial.

THIS action coming on for trial, &c., Leave to amend writ and statement of claim; And Let the Plt pay to the Deft his costs of this action so far as they may have been thrown away by reason of the said amendments.—Wethered v. Cox, Kay, J., 6 Dec. 1888, B. 1598.

22. Costs to be paid by Plt and Deft respectively from and to a particular Time—Set-off.

TAX the costs of the Plt G. of the first-mentioned action up to the — day of —, the date of the letter from the solr for the Plt in the second-mentioned action, in his said affidavit referred to; And tax the costs of the Deft L. incurred in the first-mentioned action since the — day of —, and also his costs of this application; And the taxing master is to set off such costs of the Plt G. and of the Deft L. respectively, when so taxed, and certify to whom after such set-off the balance is due; And Let the party from whom such balance shall be certified to be due pay the amount thereof to the other party.—Gresham v. Luke, V.-C. S., 26 March, 1860, A. 647.

23. Costs taxed and set off against Sum due.

TAX the Plt his costs of this action &c.; And Let such costs when taxed be set off against the sum of £—, due from the Plt to the Deft under the agreement dated &c., with interest &c.; And the taxing master is to certify to whom, after setting off the said costs when so taxed against the said sum of £—, and interest, &c., the balance is due; And Let the party from whom the balance shall be certified to be due, within one month after the date of the taxing master's certificate, pay the amount thereof to the other party.—Liberty to apply.—See Radley v. Ingram, V.-C. S., 3 March, 1860, B. 716.

24. Taxation of Exor's Costs between Party and Party, and also between Solr and Client—Payment of Party and Party Costs by Plt and Balance out of Funds in hand.

Tax the costs of the Deft of this action as between party and party, and also as between solr and client, including in such last-mentioned costs any charges and expenses properly incurred by the Deft in the admon of the estate of G., the testatrix &c., not being costs of action, and not already taxed or allowed. And Let H., the next friend of the infant Plts, pay to the Deft &c., what shall be certified as his said costs as between party and party. And Let the Deft be at liberty to retain and pay out of the funds in his hands, or which may hereafter come into his hands, as the exor of the will of the said testatrix, so much of the said costs as between party and party as he shall not recover and actually receive from the said H., and also what shall be certified to be the amount of the difference between the said costs as taxed between party and party, and as taxed between solr and client.—See Re Garmeson, Garmeson v. Sharrod, V.-C. M. at Chambers, 7 June, 1872, A. 1451.

For order when the costs are to be paid out of fund in Court, see Chap. XVI., "LODGMET AND PAYMENT OF FUNDS."

25. Taxing Master to look into Affidavits, and if improper or of unnecessary length, to distinguish and set off Costs.—O. LXV, 27 (20).

Let the costs of the Plts of this action be taxed by the taxing master (including the costs of the Plts' motion made unto this Court on the — day of —); And in taxing such costs the taxing master is to look into the affidavits filed in this cause on behalf of the Plts, and disallow the costs thereof or of such part thereof as he shall find to be improper, unnecessary, or vexatious (or to contain unnecessary matter, or to be of unnecessary length, or caused by misconduct or negligence), and to ascertain the costs (if any) occasioned to the Deft thereby as may be so disallowed; And Let such last-mentioned costs be deducted from the Plts' said costs; And Let the balance be certified. Directions for payment, or, if necessary, directions for set-off and payment.—And see Cracknall v. Janson, Fry, J., 27 June, 1878, A. 1315; 11 Ch. D. 1, 14.

26. Reference to Tax under O. LXV, 11.

THIS cause coming on for further consideration &c. in the presence of counsel for &c., Let it be referred to the taxing master to tax the costs of the Plt and the Deft, and of parties having liberty to attend the hearing under the order, dated &c., and of all other parties properly attending the proceedings up to the date of the classification order, dated &c.; and after that date of those parties only attending the proceedings who were not excluded or classified out by the said classification order &c., and in such taxation the taxing master is, under O. LXV, 11, to inquire whether any costs have been improperly or without any reasonable cause incurred, and as to the cause of delay in the proceedings in this cause between the years 1873 and 1884, and to make such disallowance as he may think fit for costs (if any) which have been so improperly or without any reasonable cause incurred, or which have been occasioned by the improper delay (if any), and to call on the solrs engaged in this action to show cause why such disallowance should not be made.—Furness v. Davis, Kay, J., 19 Jan. 1885, A. 615.

27. Supplemental Order as to Costs on new Facts.

THE application of the Defts C. E. G., W. N., and S. W. W., which upon hearing &c. was adjourned to be heard in Court coming on this day to be heard accordingly, And upon hearing counsel &c., Let the taxation of costs directed by the said orders dated &c. proceed, but the Defts C. E. G., W. N., and S. W. W., the trustees of the testator's will, are not to pay any of the costs of the Deft J. C. or of the Deft N. E. S. under those orders until the moneys directed to be paid into Court by the said Defts J. C. and N. E. S. pursuant to the order dated &c. shall have been paid into Court. The costs of this application in Chambers, and occasioned by the adjournment thereof into Court, are reserved. Liberty to apply and to appeal.—In re Scowby, S. v. S., Kekewich, J., 17 Dec. 1896, B. 4713; S. C. in C. A., (1897) 1 Ch. 741.

28. Action dismissed with Costs on higher Scale, but Deft to pay Costs of particular Issue and Set-off.

THIS action coming on for trial &c., Let this action stand dismissed out of this Court with costs, subject to the set-off hereinafter directed; refer it to the taxing master to tax on the higher scale the Deft's costs of this action other than his costs of the issue whether the Plt's telephonic system was in fact interfered with by the Deft's operations and other than his costs incurred in the experiments conducted at L—under the superintendence of E. M., and also to tax on the higher scale the Plt's costs of such issue and any costs properly incurred by them in such experiments as aforesaid; And the taxing master is to include in the Deft's costs the costs of taking and printing the shorthand notes as agreed, except so far as they relate to the said issue, and to include in the Plt's costs so much of such costs of taking and printing such shorthand notes as relate to such issue; And the taxing master is to set off the costs of the Plts and Defts when so respectively taxed, and to certify to which of them the balance upon such set-off is due. Direction to pay such balance; And Let the Deft pay to the said E. M. the sum of £—, the amount of his fee and expenses.—See Nat. Tele. Co. v. Baker, Kekewich, J., 4 Feb. 1893, B. 162, (1893) 2 Ch. 186.

29. Costs of Affidavits to be disallowed.

DIRECTION to tax, and the Defts are to be allowed no costs of the following affidavits, that is to say, an affidavit of &c.

30. Costs of Affidavits to be allowed although not read as Evidence.

ORDER by consent, no evidence being read: "And let the Deft B. pay to the Plt A. the costs of this application, including therein the costs of the affidavits mentioned in the schedule hereto."

31. Costs in any event.

AND the Plts' (Defts') costs of this application are to be borne by the Defts (Plts) in any event.

SECTION II.—TAXATION OF COSTS, AND PAYMENT OUT OF FUNDS IN COURT.

1. Taxation of Costs, and Payment to Solr.

REFER it to the taxing master to tax the costs of the Plt and the Defts [or all parties] of this action, or application, or Let the costs of the Plt and Defts of this &c. be taxed by the taxing master [If ordered, as between solr and client, or if ordered as to exor or trustee only, the costs of the Deft B., the exor or trustee of &c., as between solr and client]; And Let the fund in Court be dealt with as directed in the schedule hereto. [Add Payment Schedule, Form No. 30, p. 219.]

The amount raised includes the fees of taxation.

Where the costs are payable out of a fund in Court, they are paid to the solrs of the parties, but in other cases they are always ordered to be paid to the parties themselves.

2. Taxation of Costs of Application—Payment out of Cash.

TAX the costs of the Petr (Applicant) and of &c. of this application [If so ordered, and relating thereto, and consequent thereon, If so, as between solr and client]; And Let the fund in Court be dealt with as directed in the schedule hereto. [Add Payment Schedule, Form No. 30, p. 219.]

3. Fund deficient—Apportionment.

[Add Payment Schedule, Form No. 31B, p. 219.]

[Add Payment Schedules, Form No. 31A, p. 219, for each account.]

JURISDICTION AND PROCEDURE GENERALLY.

O. LXV, 1, provides that, "subject to the provisions of the Acts and these rules, the costs of and incident to all proceedings in the Supreme Court, including the admon of estates and trusts, shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge; Provided that nothing herein contained shall deprive an exor, admor, trustee, or mortgagee who has not unreasonably instituted or carried on or resisted any proceedings, of any right to costs out of a particular estate or fund to which he would be entitled according to the rules hitherto acted upon in the Chancery Division: Provided also that, where any action, cause, matter, or issue is tried with a jury, the costs shall follow the event, unless the Judge by whom such action, cause, matter, or issue is tried, or the Court shall, for good cause, otherwise order."

The effect of this rule and the Acts is not to give any new jurisdiction to award costs, but only to regulate the mode in which costs are to be dealt with where the Court previously had jurisdiction, original or statutory: Re Mills' Estate, Exp. Commr of Works, 34 Ch. D. 24, C. A.; questioning Exp. Mercers' Co., 10 Ch. D. 481; and see Re Lee and Hemingway, 24 Ch. D. 669. No hard-and-fast rule as to costs can now be laid down in any division of the Court, but discretion must be exercised according to the circumstances of each particular case: The Friedeberg, 10 P. D. 113.

The rule does not apply to costs specially given by statute as matter of right, ex. gr., double costs, or a reasonable indemnity in lieu thereof: Hasker v. Wood, 54 L. J. Q. B. 419; 33 W. R. 697; Reeves v. Gibson, (1891) 1 Q. B. 652, C. A. But it is inconsistent with and overrules the provisions of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 V. c. 71, ss. 3, 9), depriving parties of costs in the Superior Courts unless the Judge certifies that the cause was proper to be tried there: Rockett v. Chippendale, (1891) 2 Q. B. 293, C. A.

As to the threefold jurisdiction of the Court in respect to costs, (1) statutory; (2) general, over its own officers; and (3) in dealing with contested claims, see observations in Re Park, Cole v. P., 41 Ch. D. 326, 331, C. A.; and that, under the general jurisdiction, taxation of part of a bill may be ordered, see Storer & Co. v. Johnson and Weatherall, 15 App. Ca. 203; affirming S. C., In re Johnson and Weatherall, 37 Ch. D. 433, C. A.

As to the inherent jurisdiction of the Court to order payment of costs by unsuccessful applicant under a statute silent as to costs, see Re Bombay Civil Fund Act; Pringle v. Secretary of State for India, 40 Ch. D. 288, C. A.

Where Plt sues to enforce a legal right, and there is no misconduct on his part, the Court cannot withhold costs: Cooper v. Whittingham, 15 Ch. D. 501; and see Florence v. Mallinson, 65 L. T. 354; Upmann v. Forester, 24 Ch. D. 231; Wittman v. Oppenheim, 27 Ch. D. 260; Goodhart v. Hyett, 25 Ch. D. 182; and, conversely, there is no power to give costs to an unsuccessful Plt: Re Foster and G. W. Ry. Co., 8 Q. B. D. 515, C. A.; Dicks v. Yates, 18 Ch. D. 76, C. A.; but this rule does not prevent the Court from giving out of a fund the costs of an unsuccessful application reasonably incurred for the ascertainment of the fund: Butcher v. Pooler, 24 Ch. D. 273, C. A.

Where there are distinct issues, the word "event" must be read distributively: Myers v. Defries, 5 Ex. D. 180, C. A.; and see Ellis v. Desilva, 6 Q. B. D. 521, C. A.; Shrapnel v. Laing, 20 Q. B. D. 334, C. A.

As to what is "good cause" for depriving a successful party of costs, see Huxley v. West London Extension Ry. Co., 14 App. Ca. 26; Forster v. Farquhar, (1893) 1 Q. B. 564, C. A.; Bostock v. Ramsey Urban District Council, (1900) 2 Q. B. 616, C. A.; as to the necessity of such cause being shown, Wight v. Shaw, 19 Q. B. D. 397, C. A.; Baines v. Bromley, 6 Q. B. D. 691; that the power of the Judge may be exercised without application being made to him at the trial, Turner v. Heyland, 4 C. P. D. 432; Collins v. Welch, 5 C. P. D. 27, C. A.; or upon application after verdict, Kynaston v. Mackinder, 47 L. J. Q. B. 76; 37 L. T. 390; and that by declining at the trial to exercise his discretion he does not necessarily become functus officio, Huxley v. W. L. Ry. Co., sup.

Even in an action tried by a jury, the Court has power, upon good cause shown, to deprive a successful party of costs: Myers v. Defries, 4 Ex. D. 176, C. A.; Harnett v. Vyse, 5 Ex. D. 307, C. A.; and in exercising its discretion may consider his conduct previously to, as well as during, the litigation: Harnett v. Vyse, sup. at p. 311; but not letters or conversations written or declared to be "without prejudice": Walker v. Wilsher, 23 Q. B. D. 335, C. A.; and a Plt partially successful may be ordered to pay costs: Harris v. Petherick, 4 Q. B. D. 611, C. A.

An order giving Deft against third parties such costs as he is "entitled to by law" is not an exercise of discretion under the rule: Lewin v. Trimming, 21 Q. B. D. 230.

By the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890 (53 & 54 V. c. 44), s. 5, subject to the Judicature Acts, "and the rules of Court made thereunder, and to the express provisions of any statute, whether passed before or after the commencement of this Act, the costs of and incident to all proceedings in the Supreme Court, including the admon of estates and trusts, shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge, and the Court or Judge shall have full power to determine by whom and to what extent such costs are to be paid."

By virtue of this section, wherever an Act enabling a public body to take land compulsorily contains no provision as to the costs of payment out of Court of moneys paid in under the Act, the Court has jurisdiction to order the public body to pay the costs of and incidental to payment out: In re Fisher, (1894) 1 Ch. 450, C. A.; and see as to the far-reaching effect of the section, Re Wrexham, &c. Ry. Co., (1900) 1 Ch. 261, C. A.; and that the section enables the Court, when granting an application for a habeas corpus, to order payment by the Deft of the costs of the application (and that such jurisdiction is not affected by the provisions of sect. 4): see Reg. v. Jones, (1894) 2 Q. B. 382.

By O. XVI, 54, "the Court or a Judge may decide all questions of costs as between a third party and the other parties to the action, and may order any one or more to pay the costs of any other or others, and give such direction as to costs as the justice of the case may require."

Third parties, who had in reality fought the Plts and failed, were ordered, together with Defts, to pay costs both of successful appeal and in Court below: Edison and Swan United Electric Light Co. v. Holland, 41 Ch. D. 28, C. A.

In Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329, C. A., a third party was ordered to pay all the costs of the action, including the costs of the proceedings between Plt and Deft.

Where a third party was ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings taken to bring him before the Court, the order could not be varied on appeal, though by the subsequent judgment the action had been dismissed against him with costs: Beynon v. Godden, 4 Ex. D. 246, C. A.; but, semble, the costs of the interlocutory proceedings should have been reserved.

For cases in which Deft has been ordered to pay costs to third party, see Dawson v. Shepherd, 49 L. J. Exch. 529; 28 W. R. 805; 42 L. T. 611; Yorkshire Wagon Co. v. Newport Coal Co., 5 Q. B. D. 268.

By Jud. Act, 1873, s. 49, no order made by the High Court as to costs only, which by law are left to the discretion of the Court, shall be subject to any appeal, except by leave of the Court or Judge making such order.

As to cases within this section, and as to costs of appeal generally, v. inf. Chap. XXXVI., "APPEALS."

By O. LXV, 27 (37), the rules, orders, and practice as to costs existing before the Act are, so far as not inconsistent with the Acts and rules, to remain in force. As to references to the taxing masters, and proceedings before them, v. inf. p. 281.

By O. LXV, 27 (25), the powers and duties of the taxing masters are transferred to the taxing officers of the Supreme Court.

By O. LXV, 13, the Court or a Judge may direct payment of the costs of a solr of the Court when appointed guardian ad litem of an infant or person of unsound mind: see Eady v. Elsdon, (1901) 2 K. B. 466, C. A.

By O. XVI, 31, unless otherwise directed, costs ordered to be paid to a person admitted to sue or defend as a pauper, shall be taxed as in other cases.

TAXATION—PARTY AND PARTY AND SOLR AND CLIENT COSTS.

Where costs are directed to be taxed simpliciter, this means as between party and party.

Where a sale is directed, the costs are costs of action. Where the costs are not reserved, the successful party will get, as costs of action, his costs subsequent to the hearing, such as costs of a sale, or of inquiries for working out the judgment (but not of other matters wrongly brought in under it: Krehl v. Park, 10 Ch. 334); but the taxing master will not tax the costs twice. If the costs are taxed immediately, subsequent costs, which cannot be taxed by anticipation, must be waived, or a fresh order obtained. If the costs are to be taxed as between solr and client, or if any costs, charges, and expenses not strictly costs of action are to be allowed, or the taxation is in any respect to vary from taxation as between party and party, this should be expressed in the judgment or order.

Where trustees are held entitled to costs from parties for whom they are not trustees, it is generally as between party and party, but may be given them as between solr and client: Turner v. Collins, 12 Eq. 438; though there is no fund to take them from: Edenborough v. Archbishop of Canterbury, 2 Russ. 112. But the Court has a general jurisdiction to give solr and client costs: Andrews v. Barnes, 39 Ch. D. 133, C. A., questioning Cockburn v. Edwards, 18 Ch. D. 449, C. A.

Solr and client costs can be given though the parties are before the Court only by means of a representation order: Re Davies, Jenkins v. D., W. N. (91) 104; 64 L. T. 824.

In ordinary cases, where there are no fiduciary relations, only party and party costs will be given, unless there is something scandalous, or gross charges of fraud which have not been sustained: Turner v. Collins, 12 Eq. 438.

Where there was such a relation between the parties, and the Court by consent referred all matters in dispute, including costs, to an arbitrator, he had, without special authority, power to give solr and client costs: Mordue v. Palmer, 6 Ch. 22.

Relators in charity cases generally have solr and client costs: Morg. & D. 139; Dan. 59.

An unfounded action to recover a charity fund of small amount in the hands of trustees was dismissed with solr and client costs: Andrews v. Barnes, sup.

The costs of a sequestration were not given as between solr and client: Re Shapland, 23 W. R. 40.

In a representative case for the opinion of the Court in a winding-up, party costs only were allowed out of the assets: Re Mutual Soc., Grimwade v. Mutual Soc., 18 Ch. D. 530.

Primâ facie, where the official solr is appointed guardian ad litem, he gets party and party costs only: Eady v. Elsdon, (1901) 2 K. B. 460, C. A.

When costs are directed to be taxed as between solr and client, it does not necessarily mean that all costs which the solr is entitled to against his client are to be allowed, but the allowance will vary according to the circumstances of the case; regard being had to the position of the parties, and the fund out of which the costs are to be paid; and a distinction is made: 1st, where such costs are payable out of a fund belonging to other parties; 2ndly, where such costs are payable out of a common fund, in which the party has only a limited interest; and, 3rdly, where such costs are payable out of a fund belonging exclusively to the party himself.

Costs of action as between solr and client do not include costs of appeals, rehearings, and exceptions: Agabeg v. Hartwell, 5 Beav. 271, 273; nor of a case sent to another Court: Salkeld v. Johnston, 1 M. & G. 533; but only costs reasonably incurred in ordinary course: Hill v. Peel, L. R. 5 C. P. 172.

The addition of the words "and consequent thereon," or "and relating thereto," or both sets of words, to the words "as between solr and client," give respectively a wider range to the taxation. Where the costs are to be paid out of a party's own fund, all the above words may properly be inserted; and in acting upon them the taxing master will use his discretion according to the circumstances as to the extent of the allowance.

An order imposing costs by way of penalty is irregular, but may be upheld if right in substance: Willmott v. Barber, 17 Ch. D. 772, C. A.; and that solr and client costs should not be awarded by way of damages, see Cockburn v. Edwards, 18 Ch. D. 449, 459, C. A.

Where an inquiry as to damages is directed, the costs of the inquiry will in general be reserved, so that the Court may retain control over them: Slack v. Midland Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 81.

See S. C. F. R., r. 67, as to providing for fees of taxation out of a fund in Court.

INTERLOCUTORY APPLICATIONS—COSTS RESERVED.

Where interlocutory applications have been ordered to stand to the trial and are not then mentioned to the Judge, the costs of such applications are to be treated as costs in the action and taxed accordingly, and need not be mentioned in the judgment. Where interlocutory applications have been disposed of, but the costs have been reserved, such costs are not to be mentioned in the judgment or order, or allowed on taxation, without the special direction of the Judge: British Natural Premium Assoc. v. Bywater, (1897) 2 Ch. 531.

Where an action for alleged infringement of copyright is dismissed with "full costs," the costs are to be taxed in the ordinary way as between party and party: Avery v. Wood, (1891) 3 Ch. 115, C. A.

PUBLIC AUTHORITIES PROTECTION ACT, 1893.

By this Act (56 & 57 V. c. 61), s. 1, where after the commencement of that Act (1 Jan. 1894), any action, prosecution, or other proceeding is commenced in the United Kingdom against any person for any act done in pursuance, or execution, or intended execution of any Act of Parliament, or of any public duty or authority, or in respect of any alleged neglect or default in the execution of any such Act, duty, or authority, and whenever in any such action a judgment is obtained by the Deft, it shall carry costs to be taxed as between solr and client.

This enactment applies to judgments in all actions brought in the Ch. D. in whole or in part for injunction or damages, but not to appeals or interlocutory applications: Fielden v. Morley Corp., (1900) A. C. 133, H. L.; (1899) 1 Ch. 1, C. A.; and see Roberts v. Gwyrfa District Council, (1899) 1 Ch. 583; (1899) 2 Ch. 583, C. A.; and to an action brought for the purpose of obtaining a declaration only: Grand Junction Waterworks Co. v. Hampton U. D. Council, 15 Times L. R. 412; 107 L. T. 187; 43 S. J. 570; or an action of trespass against a district council who, by their officials, used a public highway: Greenwell v. Howell, (1900) 1 Q. B. 535, C. A.; and in general wherever a corporation are acting in pursuance of any "public authority": Chamberlain v. Bradford Corp., 83 L. T. 518; and see Markey v. Tolworth Hospital Board, (1900) 2 Q. B. 454; but a company incorporated for purposes of profit as well as public utility is not entitled to the benefit of the Act: A. G. v. Margate Pier Co., (1900) 1 Ch. 749; The Ydun (1899), P. 236, 239. Judgment for the Defts carries the right to costs as between solr and client, and the Court has no discretion to direct the taxation otherwise: Harrop v. Mayor of Ossett, (1898) 1 Ch. 525; and see Toms v. Clacton Urban Council, W. N. (98) 61; and the right subsists although the judgment as drawn up contains no direction as to taxation, and does not show ex facie that the case falls within the Act: N. Met. Trams. Co. v. London County Council, (1898) 2 Ch. 145; and an order in Chambers by consent dismissing the action with costs is a "judgment obtained" by Defts entitling them to the benefit of the Act: Shaw v. Hertfordshire County Council, (1899) 2 Q. B. 282, C. A.

The Act does not take away the discretionary power of the Court to deprive the Defts of costs "for good cause" under O. LXV, 1: Bostock v. Ramsey Urban Council, (1900) 1 Q. B. 357.

ALLOWANCES.

As to giving security for costs, v. sup. p. 26 et seq.; Chap. IV., "SECURITY FOR COSTS."

By O. LXV, 27 (50), when a cause is struck out of the paper for some defect on the part of the Plt, and again set down, Deft is to be allowed the costs so occasioned: v. sup. p. 150.

As to costs of creditors coming in under an admon judgment, see O. LV, 58, et inf. Chap. XLIV., "ADMINISTRATION."

Where an admon action is brought in a County Court, taxation may be obtained in the High Court: Re Worth, 13 Ch. D. 521.

As to costs to be allowed in taxation between party and party, see O. LXV, 27 (29); and that in taxation, as between solr and client, the taxing master has a discretion, notwithstanding the schedule of fees: Ryan v. Dolan, Ir. Rep. 7 Eq. 92.

And as to the allowance of particular items on taxation, v. inf. Section IX.; and for what will be allowed under the head of "charges and expenses," v. Chap. XLI., "TRUSTEES."

The assignor of a lease was entitled, in an action against the assignee for breach of contract to indemnify, to recover as damages full (and not only taxed) costs of an unsuccessful defence of an action by the landlord: Howard v. Lovegrove, L. R. 6 Ex. 43.

A liquidator will have to pay the costs of a groundless appeal or application, whether he gets them out of the estate or not: Ferrao's Case, 9 Ch. 355; and see Re London Drapery Stores, (1898) 2 Ch. 684.

And so in the case of a trustee in bankruptcy provoking litigation: Exp. Angerstein, 9 Ch. 479; Re Pettit, 1 Ch. D. 478. But an official liquidator defending an action in the name and on behalf of the co. is not personally liable for costs: Fraser v. Brescia Steam Tram. Co., 56 L. T. 771. See also Buckley, 300.

A Deft whose interest has ceased cannot obtain payment of his costs: Wymer v. Dodds, 11 Ch. D. 436.

An order for payment of costs by two or more persons is joint and several as between them and the payee.

But as between themselves, the costs payable by two co-Defts to the Plt may be payable by one of them, and the other may have liberty to apply in Chambers as to payment of such costs by his co-Deft to him: Wilson v. Thomson, 20 Eq. 459; and see Furlong v. Scanlon, Ir. Rep. 9 Eq. 202.

And that "judgment for Plt with costs" only carries, as against a co-Deft, such costs as Plt has incurred by the act of that Deft, see Stumm v. Dixon, 22 Q. B. D. 529.

Formerly, where the costs of any of the Defts were to be borne by another Deft, the Court did not in general order them to be paid directly by the one Deft to the other, but directed the Plt to pay them to the Deft who was to receive them, and to recover them against the Deft who was to bear them; but now the proper practice is to make a direct order between the Defts: Rudow v. Great Britain Mutual Soc., 17 Ch. D. 600, C. A.

In Wilson v. Thomson, 20 Eq. 459, where a decree was made with costs, against two Defts, and the suit was caused by the misconduct of one of them, he had to bear them as between him and his co-Deft.

As to enforcing payment, v. inf. Chap. XXVII., "EXECUTION."

As to the review of taxation, see inf. Section IX.

Where an action is dismissed with costs, taxation takes place without any order, unless prohibited by the Court or a Judge, upon special application of party aggrieved: O. LXV, 27 (33).

A judgment dismissing an action with costs, carries the costs of a motion by the Plt which stood over until the trial, and was not brought on: Gosnell v. Bishop, 38 Ch. D. 385; and as to costs of proceedings in Chambers and interlocutory, v. inf. Chap. XVIII., "CHAMBERS"; Chap. XXIV., "MOTION."

By O. LXV, 23, on interlocutory applications, the Court may direct payment of a sum in gross, in lieu of taxed costs. This rule is frequently acted upon in Chambers.

By O. LXV, 27 (33), the taxing master may tax the costs payable by any party without any order referring them for taxation, unless the Court prohibits it, and costs so taxed are recoverable by fieri facias or elegit. But as this rule is only permissive, the taxing masters do not generally act upon it, and it is still the practice to insert the direction for taxation.

By O. LXV, 27 (34), the course of proceedings is regulated where costs are directed to be taxed "in case the parties differ."

By r. 27 (35), where any costs are by any judgment or order directed to be taxed, and to be paid out of any money in Court, the taxing officer, in his certificate, is to state the total amount of all such costs as taxed, without any direction for that purpose in such judgment or order.

In Re Blight, 21 W. R. 573, costs incurred in the Probate Court were ordered to come out of the residue which had been paid into Court to the credit of infants, under 36 G. III. c. 52.

By O. LXV, 27 (23), where any party appears upon an application in which he is not interested, or upon which he ought not to attend, he will not be allowed his costs unless expressly directed; and by r. 27 (27), the taxing master may direct who shall attend the taxation, and disallow the costs of unnecessary attendance.

R. 27 (28), provides against any party being prejudiced by any other party refusing or neglecting to bring in his costs for taxation.

By r. 27 (43), costs of actions commenced or proceeding in a District Registry are to be the same as in London.

Where final judgment is entered in the District Registry, costs are to be taxed in such registry, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise direct: O. xxxv, 4; but any party may appeal to a Judge by summons within four days after the District Registrar's decision, or such further time as may be allowed by the Judge or the Registrar: r. 9.

The Court, however, will not, except under special circumstances, direct the costs of an admon action to be taxed in the District Registry, though prosecuted there down to further consideration. But if such an order is made the Paymaster is bound to act upon the certificate of the District Registrar: Re Wilson, Wilson v. Alltree, 27 Ch. D. 242.

The taxation of party and party costs in the Liverpool and Manchester District Registries proceeds on the same principles as obtain in London taxing masters' offices where the costs in other District Registries are taxed: Re Dixon, Tousey v. Sheffield, (1898) 2 Ch. 443, C. A.

Where judgment has been entered in the District Registry, the Judge, under O. xxxv, r. 4, and O. LXV, r. 27, sub-r. 41, has jurisdiction in the exercise of his discretion to refer objections on taxation, which have been dealt with by the District Registrar, to a taxing master of the Supreme Court for re-taxation: Stevens v. Griffin, (1897) 2 Q. B. 368, C. A.

When all that is claimed by an action could have been obtained by summons, the Court has only allowed same costs as on a summons: see O'Kelly v. Culverhouse, W. N. (87) 36; Barr v. Harding, 36 W. R. 216; 58 L. T. 74; Briton Medical Assoc. v. Britannia Fire Assoc., W. N. (88) 245; 59 L. T. 888; London Steam Dyeing Co. v. Digby, 57 L. J. Ch. 505; 58 L. T. 724; Johnson v. Evans, 60 L. T. 29; or has disallowed costs: Re Johnson, Wagg v. Shand, 53 L. T. 136; 36 W. R. 497; Blackett v. B., 51 L. T. 427.

As to the costs of motions, v. inf. Chap. XXIV.; of petitions, inf. Chap. XXIII.; of special cases, inf. Chap. XXI.; of proceedings in Chambers, inf. Chap. XVIII.; of trustees, and their charges and expenses, inf. Chap. XII., "TRUSTEES"; as to costs in charity cases, inf. Chap. XLII., "CHARITIES"; as to costs in admon, inf. Chap. XLIV., "ADMINISTRATION"; in partition suits, inf. Chap. XLVI., "PARTITION"; and as to costs generally, see Morg. & W.; Dan. Chap. XVIII. pp. 953 et seq.

HIGHER AND LOWER SCALE.

By O. LXV, 8, 9, in causes and matters commenced after the rules came into operation, costs are to be taxed according to the lower scale in App. N., but the fees in the column headed "higher scale" in that appendix may be allowed, either generally, or as to particular business in any cause or matter, if "on special grounds, arising (1) out of the nature and importance, or (2) the difficulty, or (3) urgency of the case," the Court or a Judge shall so order, or if the taxing officer, under directions given to him by the Court or a Judge, shall think such allowance ought to be made upon such special grounds.

By r. 10, upon any reference to tax, as between solr and client, including charges for business done in any cause or matter, the taxing master may allow the higher scale fees if, on such special grounds, he thinks the allowance ought to be made.

In order that the higher scale should be allowed, it is not sufficient that the case is one of importance and difficulty, but there must be "special grounds arising" in one of the three ways mentioned in the rule: Williamson v. North Staffordshire Ry. Co., 32 Ch. D. 399, C. A. (containing observations on Lydney & Wigpool Co. v. Bird, 31 Ch. D. 328); The Horace, 9 P. D. 86; Paine v. Chisholm, 39 W. R. 353; and if none of those conditions exist appeal will lie: S. C.

Difficulty and complication, and the fact that a case has been conducted with extreme ability, are not special grounds for allowing costs on the higher scale: Rivington v. Garden, (1901) 1 Ch. 561 (a partition action); nor an allegation of fraud: Assets Development Co. v. Close Bros., (1900) 2 Ch. 717; r. 9 being designed to meet cases where an expensive class of witnesses are required, as in patent actions: S. C., and see Fraser v. Brescia Steam Tram. Co., 56 L. T. 771; Hopkinson v. St. James, &c. Electric Co., W. N. (93) 5, C. A.

Where the higher scale was allowed in the Court of first instance, it was allowed also by the C. A., on reversing the decision and dismissing the action: Turton v. T., 42 Ch. D. 128, 149, C. A.

The amount of the fund in question cannot, per se, be a special ground: Re Spettigue's Trusts, 32 W. R. 385; nor the fact that Deft submits to an injunction for a deliberate infringement of Plt's rights (as so to rule would be to impose a penalty on him for submitting): Hudson v. Osgerby, 32 W. R. 566; 50 L. T. 323; nor on motion for interlocutory injunction that important questions are raised: Grafton v. Watson, 51 L. T. 141; nor the mere fact that an issue of fraud is raised: Re Terrell, 22 Ch. D. 473, C. A.; secus, as against a party making unfounded charges of fraud: Harrison v. Leutner, 24 Ch. D. 594; and the fact that the Plt in issuing the writ has certified the lower scale does not interfere with the discretion: S. C. And see Moseley v. Victoria Rubber Co., 57 L. T. 143, 148; Pooley's Trustee v. Whetham, 33 Ch. D. at p. 120; Re Chaytor's Settled Estates Act, 25 Ch. D. 651; Cardiff Steamship Co. v. Barwick, 53 L. T. 56; Ellington v. Clark, 38 Ch. D. 332; 58 L. T. 818; Horner v. Oyler, 49 L. J. C. P. 655.

As to the discretion of the taxing officer on taxation on lower scale in County Court, see Re Langlois and Biden, (1891) 1 Q. B. (C. A.) 349; and as to the scale of fees in the Chancery Court of Lancaster in cases under the amount or value of 300*l.*, see Re Manchester Real Ice, &c. Co., (1900) 1 Ch. 573, C. A.

COUNTY COURT SCALE.

By O. LXV, 12, "in actions founded on contract, in which the Plt recovers, by judgment or otherwise, a sum (exclusive of costs) not exceeding 50*l.*, he shall be entitled to no more costs than he would have been entitled to had he brought his action in a County Court, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders."

By the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 V. c. 43), s. 116 (substituted for sect. 5 of the County Courts Act, 1867), a Plt in an action founded on contract, which could have been commenced in a County Court, recovering less than 20*l.*, is not to be entitled to any costs, and recovering less than 50*l.*, only to County Court costs; subject to a proviso that if, within twenty-one days after service of writ, or further time, if ordered, he obtains an order, under O. XIV, empowering him to enter judgment for 20*l.* or upwards, he is to be entitled to High Court costs.

Under sect. 5 of 53 & 54 V. c. 44, and O. LXV, 1, the Court has a complete discretion not only as to the incidence, but as to the quantum of costs to be allowed: Neaves v. Spooner, 58 L. T. 164; 36 W. R. 257; and will allow costs on the High Court scale where the action proves a proper one to be there decided: Williams v. Allen, 60 L. T. 103; W. N. (89) 48; and see Oppenheimer v. Davenport, W. N. (84) 57; Copley v. Jackson, W. N. (84) 94.

The section applies to an action in which a solr is Plt: Blair v. Eisler, 21 Q. B. D. 185; and wherever the action is of a kind which a County Court can entertain (whatever the amount claimed): Solomon v. Mulliner, (1901) 1 Q. B. 76, C. A.; but not where costs are given by statute, e.g., under the Dramatic Copyright Act, 3 & 4 W. IV. c. 15, by way of full and reasonable indemnity: Reeves v. Gibson, (1891) 1 Q. B. 652, C. A.

As to the application of sect. 5 of the County Courts Act, 1867, where the Plt's claim was reduced by set-off or counter-claim, see Potter v. Chambers, 4 C. P. D. 69; Chatfield v. Sedgwick, 4 C. P. D. 459; Neale v. Clarke, 4 Ex. D. 286 (where the original claim exceeding 50*l.*, the Plt was held entitled to High Court costs); Lund v. Campbell, 14 Q. B. D. 821; Ahrbecker v. Frost, 17 Q. B. D. 606; Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 576 (q. v., as to distinction between set-off and counter-claim).

As to the application of O. LXV, 12, where an action of contract is referred to arbitration, costs abiding event, see Hyde v. Beardsley, 18 Q. B. D. 244; Emmott v. Heys, 36 W. R. 237; W. N. (87) 243.

A Plt bringing himself within the proviso in sect. 116, by obtaining judgment for 20*l.* or upwards under O. XIV, is entitled to High Court costs of the whole action, though he recovers less than 50*l.* (or 50*l.* and no more; O. LXV, 12): Millington v. Harwood, (1892) 2 Q. B. 166, C. A.; as (per Field, J.) the policy of the Act is to encourage proceedings in the High Court when the benefit of O. XIV can be obtained: Barker v. Hempstead, 23 Q. B. D. 8.

Where judgment is signed as to part of the claim in the High Court and the rest of the action is then transferred to the County Court, the Plt is entitled to have his costs taxed upon the scale applicable to the aggregate amount recovered: White v. Headland's Patent Electric Storage Battery Co., (1899) 1 Q. B. 507, C. A., approving of Keeble v. Bennett, (1894) 2 Q. B. 329; and disapproving Bailey v. Watson & Co., (1898) 2 Q. B. 270; and see Wright & Son v. Bull, (1900) 1 Q. B. 124.

Where by reason of an "admitted set-off" within s. 57 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 V. c. 43), the action could have been brought in the County Court, the Plt under O. LXV, 12, is only entitled to costs on the County Court scale: Lovejoy v. Cole, (1894) 2 Q. B. 861.

DELAY OR MISCONDUCT.

By O. LXV, 11, "if in any case it shall appear to the Court or a Judge that costs have been improperly or without any reasonable cause incurred, or that by reason of any undue delay in proceeding under any judgment or order, or of any misconduct or default of the solr, any costs properly incurred have nevertheless proved fruitless to the person incurring the same, the Court or Judge may call on the solr of the person by whom such costs have been so incurred to show cause why such costs should not be disallowed as between the solr and his client, and also (if the circumstances of the case shall require) why the solr should not repay to his client any costs which the client may have been ordered to pay to any other person, and thereupon may make such order as the justice of the case may require. The Court or Judge may, if they or he think fit, refer the matter to a taxing officer for inquiry and report; and direct the solr in the first place to show cause before such taxing officer, and may also, if they or he think fit, direct or authorize the official solr of the Supreme Court to attend and take part in such inquiry. Such notice (if any) of the proceedings or order shall be given to the client in such manner as the Court or Judge may direct. Any costs of the official solr shall be paid by such parties or out of such funds as the Court or a Judge may direct; or, if not otherwise paid, may be paid out of such moneys (if any) as may be provided by Parliament."

This rule extends to costs incurred in actions pending on 24th October, 1883 (when the rule came into operation), and to costs payable out of a fund, and applies notwithstanding a previous order for taxation of costs of an action. The powers conferred by it may be exercised by the Judge of his own motion without any request from any of the parties: Brown v. Burdett, 37 Ch. D. 207, C. A.; and for observations as to the jurisdiction of the Court as to disallowing costs improperly incurred in an administration action, see Re Scowby, S. v. S., (1897) 1 Ch. 741, C. A.; as to saddling solrs with costs of the day where they know of the illness of a material witness and neglect to give notice in time to keep the case out of the list, see Shorter v. Tod-Heatley, W. N. (94) 21.

Where an admon suit was commenced in 1873, and the chief clerk's certificate not made until 1884, the Court on further consideration directed the taxing master to inquire as to the cause of the delay, and disallow any costs occasioned by improper delay: Furness v. Davis, 33 W. R. 320; 51 L. T. 854. See Form, sup. No. 26, p. 251; and see In re Ormston, Goldring v. Lancaster, 58 L. T. 74; 59 L. T. 594; 36 W. R. 216; Re Dale, Stubbs v. D., 62 L. T. 28.

PROLIXITY, ETC.

By O. LXV, 27 (20), the Court or Judge may direct the costs of any proceeding (whether the same is objected to or not) which is improper, vexatious, unnecessary, or contains vexatious or unnecessary matter, or is of unnecessary length, or caused by misconduct or negligence, to be disallowed; or may direct the taxing officer to look into the same, and disallow the costs thereof, or of such part thereof as he shall find to be improper or unnecessary or vexatious, or to contain unnecessary matter, in which case the party whose costs are so disallowed is to pay the costs thereby occasioned to the other parties; and where the question has not been raised before the Court or Judge, the taxing officer is to look into the same (and as to evidence, although the same may be entered as read), and thereupon the same consequences shall follow as if he had been specially directed to do so: see Form 25, p. 251. As to the discretion to be exercised by the taxing master on taxation with a view to payment out of a fund or estate or assets of a co., see O. LXV, 27 (38a), and inf. p. 282.

By 27 (21) the taxing officer may in such cases adjust such costs, certifying for payment or set-off, or may delay their allowance; and by 27 (22), where questions as to such costs are dealt with at Chambers in the Ch. D., the Master is to make a note thereof for the information of the taxing officer.

By O. XXXVIII, 3, the costs of every affidavit which shall unnecessarily set forth matters of hearsay, or argumentative matter, or copies of or extracts from documents, shall be paid by the party filing the same.

In taxing costs of respondent in the House of Lords, the appendix being of undue length, no costs were allowed for drawing, and all costs of so much as consisted of shorthand notes of arguments were disallowed: Singer Manufacturing Co. v. Loog, 8 App. Ca. 15.

In order that a party may be allowed under this rule costs occasioned to him by improper proceedings by another party, there must have been a disallowance of such costs either by the Court or by the taxing master on one of the grounds mentioned in the rule. Therefore, where costs of particulars in a patent action are disallowed for want of the statutory certificate of reasonableness, the Plt is not entitled to the costs occasioned to him by them, and the taxing master cannot enter into the question whether they were improper: Garrard v. Edge, 44 Ch. D. 224, C. A.

As to the inherent power of the Court to take pleadings or affidavits off the file for prolixity, see Hill v. Hart-Davis, 26 Ch. D. 470, C. A., where, an affidavit of documents being of oppressive length, the Court, to avoid delay and expense, allowed it to remain on the file, but ordered the party filing it to pay the costs: and see Cracknall v. Janson, 11 Ch. D. 1.

By O. LXV, 27 (8), the necessity for or propriety of separate proceedings by several Defts is to be inquired into by the taxing officer; there is no appeal from his decision: Beattie v. L. Ebury, 22 W. R. 68; 43 L. J. Ch. 80; and see Woods v. W., 5 Ha. 229; Greedy v. Lavender, 11 Beav. 417; et inf. Chap. XLIV., "ADMINISTRATION"; and as to trustees severing in defence, inf. Chap. XLI., "TRUSTEES"; and generally, Morg. & D. 88, 262.

The Court would not deprive of their costs Defts who were successful at the hearing, on the ground that they might have raised the defence by demurrer: Bush v. Trowbridge, &c. Co., 10 Ch. 459; but see Re Star and Garter Hotel, 42 L. J. Ch. 374.

COSTS OF PART OF ACTION—APPORTIONMENT—SET-OFF.

Where a Deft has put himself in the right by a tender or payment into Court, the Court, in the exercise of its discretion in a fit case, allows Plt his costs up to time of tender or payment, and gives the Deft the subsequent costs of action: see Buckton v. Higgs, 4 Ex. D. 174; The William Symington, 10 P. D. 1. And as to the effect of an offer by Deft to settle or compromise, see Trotter v. Maclean, 13 Ch. D. 574; Fennessy v. Day, 55 L. T. 161; Birmingham Land Co. v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 57 L. T. 185; 36 Ch. D. 650; Jenkins v. Hope, (1896) 1 Ch. 278.

Where a Plt obtains a judgment with costs as to one object of the action, but entirely fails as to another object, and as to that his action is dismissed with costs, the costs are apportioned, and the costs of one part set off against the costs of the other: A. G. v. Carrington, 6 Beav. 458.

A Deft being entitled "to fight from every available point of advantage," if he succeeds generally, ought not to be deprived of costs merely because he has failed on some defences; secus, if he raises and contests a distinct issue on which he fails: Blank v. Footman, Pretty & Co., 39 Ch. D. 678.

Where costs are ordered to be paid out of a particular fund, that does not determine that that fund is ultimately to bear them; and where any question remains, it is proper to add the words "without prejudice to the question as to what fund is primarily liable to bear such costs": Sheppard v. S., 33 Beav. 130; Dan. 1009.

APPORTIONMENT.

When the Court gives part of the costs of the action it may do so in two ways: the one will involve an apportionment of the whole of the general charges; the other will extend only to the excess of expense incurred in consequence of the particular matter directed to be excepted. For an instance of the application of both modes in an original and cross suit, see Begbie v. Fenwick, 6 Ch. 869.

In the former case, where the Court directs taxation of the costs of one of several objects of the action, that direction according to the settled practice in the Ch. D. carries not only so much of the costs of the action as relates exclusively to that particular object, but also a portion of the costs of every general proceeding in the action: Heighington v. Grant, 1 Beav. 230; Hardy v. Hull, 17 Beav. 355; Proud v. Bates, 14 W. R. 306; 35 L. J. Ch. 341; 14 L. T. 14. The costs relating exclusively to one object are charged to that alone, and those common to both apportioned between them: A. G. v. Carrington, 6 Beav. 458; Knight v. Purssell, 28 W. R. 90; 49 L. J. Ch. 120; 14 L. T. 581; Jenkins v. Jackson, 60 L. J. Ch. 45; S. C., in C. A., (1891) 1 Ch. 89; though, semble, it might be otherwise in Q. B. D.; and see Throckmorton v. Crowley, 3 Eq. 196. For the actual mode of apportioning in such cases, see the certificate of the clerks in Court in Heighington v. Grant, sup.

A decree in two suits (original and cross) directed, as to the second, that it should be dismissed with costs so far as it sought to set aside a certain security, and that the Plt in that suit should pay to B. (the Plt in the first suit) his costs in the first suit, "so far as the same have been increased by the answer of F.," the Plt in the second suit. The latter costs were held to include so much of the bill as was framed to anticipate the answer, and carried a proportion of the costs of the hearing. As to the costs of the cross suit, F. had to pay the proportion of the general costs (as in Heighington v. Grant, 1 Beav. 228 et sup.): Begbie v. Fenwick, 6 Ch. 869.

In the latter of the two cases above referred to, where it is intended, either in directing payment of certain costs, or in excluding them from the costs of the suit, that the amount only should be paid or excluded by which the costs have been increased by that particular matter, it should be distinctly so expressed. The effect of the terms in which the orders have been expressed with reference to these two modes of taxation has been sometimes doubted; but it has been settled that Forms 15, 17, 18, sup. pp. 248, 249, involve an apportionment of the general charges, by the use of the expressions "relate to" or "occasioned by"; and that Form 19, sup. p. 249, in which the words used are "except so far as such costs have been increased by," does not involve such apportionment.

But where a Deft was allowed to withdraw his defence on paying Plt's costs, "so far as they were occasioned" by the defence, the Deft was only liable to pay the increased costs, and not an apportioned part of the general costs; the Master of the Rolls observing that the general rule above stated was applicable where the costs were occasioned by a particular charge or matter, but not to costs occasioned by a defence: Real and Personal Advance Co. v. McCarthy, 18 Ch. D. 362, C. A.

Where Plt, succeeding as to one only of three items claimed, was to recover against Defts costs rightly incurred in recovering the amount, and the Defts to recover from Plt costs rightly incurred in defending themselves, Plt was held entitled to general costs: Sparrow v. Hill, 9 Q. B. D. 675, C. A.; but this case does not lay down any general rule applicable to Chancery actions: Harley v. Hunt, W. N. (87) 184; and see Jenkins v. Jackson, 60 L. J. Ch. 45; S. C. in C. A., (1891) 1 Ch. 89, where, the order being in similar terms as to costs relating to separate claims, Plt was not entitled to the general costs.

Where a party was successful on one point and not on others, the taxing master apportioned the costs by taxing them as a whole and dividing them in thirds: Knight v. Puresell, 28 W. R. 90; 49 L. J. Ch. 120; 41 L. T. 581; followed in Jenkins v. Jackson, sup.

By O. LXV, 2, where issues in fact and law are raised upon a claim or counter-claim, the costs of the several issues respectively, both in law and fact, shall, unless otherwise ordered, follow the event.

In general, costs which have been saved by a counter-claim being brought instead of a cross action are not to be taken into account; and therefore, in the absence of special direction, where there is a counter-claim, costs incurred in the action which have not been increased by reason of the counter-claim ought not to be apportioned: Atlas Metal Co. v. Miller, (1898) 2 Q. B. 500, C. A., explaining previous cases—ex. gr., Saner v. Bilton, 11 Ch. D. 416 (and see Form 15, p. 248); Mason v. Brentini, 15 Ch. D. 287, C. A.; although the result on the whole may be in favour of the Deft: Re Brown, Ward v. Morse, 23 Ch. D. 337, C. A.; Baines v. Bromley, 6 Q. B. D. 691, C. A.

Where claim was dismissed without costs, and counter-claim with costs, and if costs of counter-claim should not amount to half the entire costs of action, Deft was to pay the difference, the latter direction was, on appeal, held irregular as imposing costs by way of penalty, but the whole order was substantially within the discretion of the Judge as amounting to dismissal of claim and counter-claim with direction for Deft to pay half the costs of action: Willmott v. Barber, 17 Ch. D. 772, C. A.; and see Mayor of Bradford v. Pickles, (1894) 3 Ch. 53, n.

On trial with jury, where the judgment was that Plt should recover against Deft his costs of suit, and Deft recover costs of counter-claim, the Plt was entitled to the general costs: Baines v. Bromley, 6 Q. B. D. 691, C. A.; and in such a case it is immaterial whether the judgment is drawn up for Plt on claim and Deft on counter-claim, or for Deft for balance under O. XXI, 17: Shrapnel v. Laing, 20 Q. B. D. 334, C. A.

On trial without jury, where the claim was admitted subject to the counter-claim, the costs of claim and counter-claim were to be taxed as if they were separate actions: Finska Angfartygs Aktiebolaget v. Brown, W. N. (91) 116.

As to the application of the same principles where the action is referred and the costs are to abide the event of reference, see Ellis v. Desilva, 6 Q. B. D. 521, C. A.; Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 569; and inf. Chap. XXVI., "ARBITRATIONS."

Where on trial of issues official referee found for Plt on claim and Defts on counter-claim for larger sum, the action being for work done, and the counter-claim being in the nature of a defence on the ground of the inferiority of the work, judgment was given for the Defts with costs, as having substantially succeeded: Lowe v. Holme, 10 Q. B. D. 286.

Where two Plts claimed in respect of two different causes of action, and one succeeded and the other failed, the successful Plt was entitled to his general costs, and the other was to pay to the Deft the costs occasioned by his being joined: Viscount Gort v. Rowney, 17 Q. B. D. 625, C. A.

SET-OFF.

Where several points are in dispute, and each party succeeds on some or one of them, the costs may be set off one against the other, and Plt or Deft ordered to pay the balance: Bankart v. Tennant, 10 Eq. 141, 150; see Forms 15, 18, 23, sup. pp. 248, 249, 250. And as to such direction, see Taylor v. Popham, 15 Ves. 72; Dan. 983, 984.

Where, however, so much of an information as related to one of two objects was dismissed without costs, and the A. G. was directed to be paid his costs of the other part, this was held to be an exception to the general rule: A. G. v. Carrington, 6 Beav. 454.

By O. LXV, 27 (21), in any case in which a party entitled to receive costs is liable to pay costs to any other party, the taxing officer may tax the costs such party is so liable to pay, and may adjust the same by way of deduction or set-off, or may, if he shall think fit, delay the allowance of the costs such party is entitled to receive until he has paid or tendered the costs he is liable to pay; or such officer may allow or certify the costs to be paid, and direct payment thereof, and the same may be recovered by the party entitled thereto in the same manner as costs ordered to be paid may be recovered.

By O. LXV, 14, a set-off for costs between parties may be allowed, notwithstanding the solr's lien for costs in the particular cause or matter in which the set-off is sought.

The rule does not apply to costs in independent proceedings: Hassell v. Stanley, (1896) 1 Ch. 607; see Edwards v. Hope, 14 Q. B. D. 922; but only to costs in the same action: Blakey v. Latham, 41 Ch. D. 518; and accordingly costs incurred in the High Court cannot be set off against costs obtained in the County Court, although the proceedings are between the same parties: Hassell v. Stanley, sup. The Court has a discretion, whether under the rules of 1883 or under the practice previously prevailing: Edwards v. Hope, sup.

The right to set off damages under judgments in different actions is unaffected by the rule: Goodfellow v. Gray, (1899) 2 Q. B. 498, C. A.

Costs which a party is ordered to pay personally may be set off against costs which he is entitled to receive out of a fund in Court: Batten v. Wedgwood Coal Co., 28 Ch. D. 317; but there is no right of set-off, either of costs or money recovered, against costs or money payable in another and distinct proceeding: Re Harrauld, Wilde v. Walford, 31 W. R. 518.

Where on appeal an action was dismissed with costs, and, as a consequence of that dismissal, a cross action, which had been dismissed by the Court below, was remitted for trial, a stay of taxation with a view to a set-off against probable costs in the cross action, not having been applied for when the judgment of the Court of Appeal was delivered, could not be afterwards granted: Automatic Weighing Machine Co. v. Combined Weighing, &c. Co., 58 L. J. Ch. 647; 61 L. T. 536; 37 W. R. 636.

Where an appeal by a party entitled to costs out of the estate (the certificate of taxation being ready for signature) was dismissed with costs, the Court of Appeal declined to order a set-off, but stayed payment of costs to the appellant for a fortnight so as to give time for the consideration of the set-off by the taxing master: Re Crawshay, Dennis v. C., 45 Ch. D. 318, C. A.

The Court of Bankruptcy will not allow costs of proceedings in the High Court to be set off against costs in bankruptcy: Exp. Griffin, Re Adams, 14 Ch. D. 37, C. A.

As to set-off of costs caused by Deft to Plt in an action for infringement of a patent, dismissed with costs, and where the Deft did not receive a certificate under 46 & 47 V. c. 57, s. 29 (6), see Garrard v. Edge, 44 Ch. D. 224, C. A.

Costs ordered to be paid by the Master of the Rolls were on motion directed by the Master of the Rolls to be set off against costs ordered to be paid by the Lord Chancellor and by the Master of the Rolls: Cattell v. Simons, 6 Beav. 304.

Where process had issued against Plt for costs ordered to be paid by him to Defts, Defts had leave, on motion, to set off costs subsequently ordered to be paid by them to Plt, they undertaking not to levy more than the balance. The order to set off, not having been asked for when the order for costs against Defts was made, was made without costs: Bryon v. Saloon Omnibus Co., 4 Drew. 546. The order to set off may be obtained at Chambers: see Robarts v. Buée, 8 Ch. D. 198, 200.

Where the Plt's bill was dismissed against husband and wife, the costs were directed to be paid to the husband: see Form 18, sup. p. 249; and his receipt alone was sufficient. And where the bill was dismissed with costs, only so far as it sought to charge the wife's separate estate, she not having defended separately or made herself liable for the costs, they were directed to be set off against a sum due from the husband for rent: Wright v. Chard, V.-C. K., 17 Dec. 1859, B. 373; 4 Drew. 702.

In Umfreville v. Johnson, 10 Ch. 580, on appeal, the bill was dismissed with costs, so far as concerned one Plt, and a decree with costs made in favour of the other, and Deft was only to pay the balance.

As to the liability of several Defts employing the same solr, see Re Colquhoun, 5 D. M. & G. 35; and Mr. Follett's certificate, Id. 36; and see Mortgage Ins. Corp. v. Canadian, &c. Co., (1901) 2 Ch. 377.

As to apportioning costs of admon action between different estates or assets, v. inf. Chap. XLIV., "ADMINISTRATION"; and Re Allen, Davies v. Chatwood, 11 Ch. D. 244.

As to apportionment of costs of action to administer trusts of a settlement between appointed and unappointed shares, see Moore v. Dixon, 15 Ch. D. 566.

INTEREST ON COSTS—COSTS MADE A CHARGE.

The Plt's costs of suit, not having been paid by Deft pursuant to decree for sale of property subject to Plt's lien, were ordered to be paid to Plt's solr out of the proceeds of the sale, with interest at £4 p. c. from the date of certificate of taxation, subject to recouping the estate to the extent of anything recovered from Deft: Townshend v. Martin, V.-C. S., 5 Dec. 1853, B. 241; and see decree in Lock v. Lomas, V.-C. S., 24 Nov. 1855, giving interest on costs.

In Matthias v. M., V.-C. S., 16 Jan. 1858, B. 588, costs were directed to be a charge on settled estates, with interest at £4 p. c., which the life tenant was to keep down. Where a mortgagee's costs are ordered to be added to his security, the amount so charged carries interest at 4 p. c. from the date of the allocatur: Lippard v. Ricketts, 41 L. J. Ch. 595. And for direction that costs shall be a charge on real estate, v. inf. Chap. XLIV., "ADMINISTRATION," and Chap. XXXVIII., "INFANTS." An order for taxation and payment of costs by Deft was a charge on his realty from the date of the taxing master's certificate; but as against purchasers, &c., only from its registration under 1 & 2 V. c. 110: Hargrave v. H., 23 Beav. 484; and for the decree, see Chap. XLVII., "MORTGAGES." The allocatur of a taxing master, though registered, was no charge, but a final order for payment, when registered, was: Shaw v. Neale, 20 Beav. 157; 1 Jur. N. S. 666; 6 H. L. C. 581. To make the costs bear interest under that Act (sects. 17, 18), there must be an order for their payment by some person, and it will not be payable on costs to be raised from an estate: A. G. v. Nethercote, 11 Sim. 529; and see Taylor v. Jardine, 1 Ha. 316; Chadwick v. Holt, 4 W. R. 791; D. Beaufort v. Phillips, 1 D. & S. 321. And as to certificates of taxation between solr and client, under the 6 & 7 V. c. 73, see sect. 43 of that Act.

In Morley v. Mendham, V.-C. W., 5 June, 1858, B. 1232, trustees were to be at liberty to advance a sum out of the personal estate for repairs on the real estate, such sum and the costs to be a charge on the latter, with interest at £4 p. c.

The direction for payment of interest ought not to be inserted as a common form. Interest was not given on costs paid on an undertaking to refund if appeal successful, which event had happened: Edge v. Gallon, W. N. (99) 137, C. A.

By the Solicitors Act, 1860 (23 & 24 V. c. 127), s. 27, where payment is ordered of costs previously taxed, the Court or Judge may give interest at £4 p. c. from the date of the certificate of taxation. This only applies to solrs: Jenner v. Morris, 11 W. R. 943; 2 N. R. 479.

As to the allowance of interest on costs on taxation in the absence of special direction, and under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, v. inf. p. 308 et seq.

SECTION III.—TAXATION.

1. Order of Course to tax Bill delivered within One Month—Solicitors Act, 1843 (6 & 7 V. c. 73), s. 37.

UPON the petition of B. of &c., this day preferred unto this Court, it was alleged that the Petr employed the above-named A. as his solr in [state business in which solr was employed]; that the said solr, on or about the — day of — (i. e., within one calendar month, s. 48), delivered unto the Petr his bill [or bills] of fees and disbursements, which, as the Petr is advised, ought to be taxed; that the said solr, on or about the — day of —, delivered unto the Petr his bill [or bills] of fees and disbursements, which, as the Petr is advised [If so, contains charges for work not done on his retainer, and which the Petr is not liable to pay, and the same does or do not contain any item for business done in any Court; as to these allegations, see s. 37], ought to be taxed; that the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due to the said solr on the taxation of his said bill [or bills]; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that it be referred to the taxing master to tax and settle the said bill [or bills], and that the Petr, and also the said solr, do produce before the said master, upon oath, as he shall direct, all books, papers, and writings in their custody or power respectively relating to the matters hereby referred, or any of them; And that they be examined touching the same matters, or any of them, as the said master shall direct; And it is ordered that the said solr do give credit for all sums of money by him received of or on account of the Petr, and be at liberty to charge all sums of money paid by him to or on account of the Petr; And it is ordered that if the said bill [or bills], when taxed, be less by a sixth part than the said bill [or bills] as delivered, the said master do tax the costs of the Petr of this reference, and if the said bill [or bills], when taxed, shall not be less by a sixth part than the said bill [or bills] as delivered, the said master do tax the costs of the said solr of this reference; And the said master is to certify the amount due from the Petr to the said solr, or from him to the Petr, as the case may be, having regard to the costs of this reference so to be taxed as aforesaid, and any sum or sums of money which may have been so received or paid as aforesaid; And it is ordered that the amount so to be certified be paid, within twenty-one days after service of this order, and of the taxing master's certificate, to be made in pursuance thereof, by the party from whom to the party to whom the same shall be certified to be due, unless the Court shall, upon special circumstances, to be certified by the said master, otherwise order, upon application to be made within one week after the date of the said master's certificate, by the party liable to pay such amount; And it is ordered, that upon payment by the Petr to the said solr of what may be certified to be due to him as aforesaid, or in case it shall appear that there is nothing due to him, he, the said solr, do deliver to the Petr upon oath all deeds, books, papers, and writings in his custody or power belonging to the Petr; And it is ordered that no proceedings be commenced against the Petr in respect of the said bill [or bills] pending this reference.

The direction for delivery up of the client's papers, &c. is discretionary, and should not be inserted in the order when the action in which the bill of costs has been delivered is still pending: Exp. Jarman, 4 Gh. D. 835 (following Re Byrch, 8 Beav. 824; disapproving Re Teague, 11 Beav. 318).

For forms of application, see D. C. F. 1045 et seq.

2. Order of Course, by Consent.

UPON the petition of B. of &c., it was alleged that the Petr employed the above-named A. as his solr in &c. [Form 1, sup.]; That the said solr, on or about the — day of —, delivered unto the Petr his bill of fees and disbursements which the Petr desires to tax; [If the solr employed in presenting the petition is not the solr in whose matter the petition is headed, add That the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due to the said solr on the taxation of his said bill]; It was therefore prayed, and the said solr having signed the petition and consented to this order, it is accordingly ordered, that it be referred to the taxing master to tax and settle the said bill, and that the Petr and also the said solr do produce before the said master upon oath as he shall direct all books, papers, and writings in their custody or power respectively relating to the matters hereby referred or any of them, and that they be examined touching the same matters or any of them as the said master shall direct; And it is ordered that the said solr do give credit for all sums of money by him received of or on account of the Petr, and that he be at liberty to charge all sums of money paid by him to or on account of the Petr; and the said master is to certify the amount due from the Petr to the said solr, or from him to the Petr, as the case may be, and to tax the costs of this reference and certify the amount thereof, and whether more than one-sixth of the amount of the bill has been taxed off.

3. Order of Course to tax Bill delivered more than One Month and less than Twelve Months, on Client's Application—s. 37.

UPON the petition of B. of &c., it was alleged that the Petr employed the above-named A. as his solr in &c. [Form 1, sup.; But state date of delivery after one, and within twelve calendar months]; that the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due to the said solr on the taxation of his said bill; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that it be referred &c. to tax and settle the said bill.—Usual directions [see Form 1, sup.]; But the said master is to make his certificate in a month, unless the said master shall think fit to extend the time to enable him to make his certificate; or this order is to be of no effect.

4. Like Order on Solicitor's Application.

UPON the petition of the said A. &c., it was alleged that the Petr was employed by B. of &c. in &c. [Form 1, sup.]; that the Petr transacted such business, and on the — day of — (i.e., after one, and within twelve months) caused a bill of his charges, accompanied by a letter subscribed with his own hand, to be personally delivered [or sent by the post] to the said B.; that the said B. has not paid the Petr's said bill, nor taken any steps to get the same taxed; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that it be referred to the taxing master to tax and settle the said bill, and that the Petr and also the said B. do produce &c., and that they be examined &c.; And it is ordered that the Petr do give credit for all sums of money by him received of or on account of the said B., and be at liberty to charge all sums of money paid by him to or on account of the said B.; And it is ordered (in case the said B. shall attend upon such taxation) that if the said bill when taxed be less by a sixth part than the said bill as delivered, the said master do tax the costs of the said B. of this reference; and if the said bill, when taxed, shall not be less by a sixth part than the said bill as delivered, the said master do tax the Petr's costs of this reference; And the said master is to certify the amount due from the said B. to the Petr, or from the Petr to the said B., as the case may be, having regard to the costs of this reference (if taxed as aforesaid), and any sum or sums of money which may have been so received or paid as aforesaid; And it is ordered that the amount (if any) so certified to be due from the Petr be within &c. paid by the Petr to the said B. unless [see Form 1, sup.]; And in case the said B. shall pay to the Petr such sum as may be certified to be due to him without further order, or in case the said master shall certify that there is nothing due to the Petr, or that he has been overpaid, It is ordered that the Petr do deliver to the said B., upon oath, all deeds, books, papers, and writings in his custody or power belonging to the said B.; And it is ordered that no proceedings be taken by the Petr against the said B. in respect of the said bill pending this reference; And it is ordered that a copy of this order be personally served on the said B. one week, at the least, before any appointment is taken out for the taxation of the said bill.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 1042.

5. Order upon Summons for Taxation.

UPON the application of A. &c., and upon hearing the solr for the applicant and the above-named solr in person, and the applicant, by his solr, submitting to pay what shall appear to be due to the said solr on the taxation of the bills hereinafter mentioned, and the said solr consenting, Let it be referred to the taxing master to tax the two bills of fees and disbursements delivered in or about the months of December, 1871, and May, 1872, to the applicant by the said solr;

And Let the applicant and the said solr produce &c. [see Forms 1, 2, sup.]—Re Brocklesby, V.-C. B. at Chambers, 29 May, 1872, A. 1328.

6. Special Order to tax limited to particular Items.

“REFER &c. to tax and settle the following disputed items in the bill of fees and disbursements, and for business done by G., as the solr of the Petr, amounting to £—, in the petition mentioned [state the items here or by reference to a schedule].”—Parties to produce, and be examined; Costs reserved; No direction as to costs of reference, or for payment.—See Re Tryon, M. R., 22 March, 1844, B. 761.

For terms of taxation after one calendar month from bill delivered, see Re Bromley, 7 Beav. 488.

For order for leave, pending taxation, to deliver additional bills, altering items by enlarging only, see Re Walters, 9 Beav. 303, n.; but this can only be by special leave: Ib. 302, n.; and see inf. Section IV. Form 2, p. 283.

And for order for taxation, limited to items to be specified, with consequent directions, see Scougall v. Campbell, L. C., 3 Feb. 1827, B. 499; 3 Russ. 554.

For order for taxation of so much of bill of London agents delivered to country solrs as related to a particular action, upon terms of payment into Court by the applicants of the whole amount claimed by the agents to be due to them, see In re Johnson and Weatherall, 37 Ch. D. 433, at p. 443, C. A.; S. C., in D. P., nom. Storer & Co. v. Johnson and Weatherall, 15 App. Ca. 203, at p. 209; Reid v. Burrows, (1892) 2 Ch. 413, 415, C. A.

7. Order of Course for Taxation of Conveyancing Costs under Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 83.

UPON the petition of B. of &c. this day preferred &c., it was alleged, That the Petr and the said A. cannot agree as to the amount of the said bill of costs, and are therefore desirous of having the same taxed under the provisions of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, That it be referred to the taxing master to tax and settle the said bill, and that the Petr and also all other parties do produce before the said master upon oath as he shall direct all books, papers, and writings in their custody or power respectively relating to the matters hereby referred, or any of them, and that they be examined touching the same matters or any of them as the said master shall direct; And it is ordered that if one sixth part of such bill shall be disallowed on such taxation the said master do tax the Petr his costs of such taxation, and if one sixth part of such bill shall not be disallowed on such taxation, the said master do tax the said A. his costs of such taxation; And the said master is to certify the amount due in respect of the said bill, having regard to the costs of such taxation so to be taxed as aforesaid.

8. Taxation with Leave to question Retainer.

“The Petr by his counsel submitting to pay what, if anything, shall appear to be due to the said L. (solicitor) on the taxation of the bill of fees and disbursements delivered to the Petr by the said L. on the — day of —, Let it be referred to the taxing master to tax and settle the said bill; but the Petr is to be at liberty to dispute the retainer (by him) of the said L. as his solr."—Usual directions, inserting, "if anything" in the directions for payment.—Re Lindus, M. R., 1 June, 1861, B. 1154.

And as to ordinary taxation, with liberty to the client to question the retainer, see Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 548; Re Hair, 10 Beav. 187; and Re Kitton, 35 Beav. 369, inf. p. 274.

NOTES.

TAXATION UNDER THE SOLICITORS ACT, 1843 (6 & 7 V. c. 73), s. 37— APPLICATION FOR TAXATION.

Within one calendar month from the delivery of the bill, exclusive of the day on which the bill is delivered (Blunt v. Heslop, 8 Ad. & Ell. 577), an order for taxation, under 6 & 7 V. c. 73, s. 37, may be obtained ex parte and of course: Re Becke, 5 Beav. 409; Re Bromley, 7 Beav. 488; Holland v. Gwynne, 8 Beav. 124.

After one month, and before the expiration of twelve from delivery—provided there has not been a verdict or writ of inquiry in an action by the solr to recover the amount, nor payment of the bill (not being a mere payment on account: see Re Woodard, 18 W. R. 37)—the order, though accompanied with such special directions as the Court may think proper to impose, is still of course, and obtained ex parte: Re Gaitskell, 1 Phill. 576; Re Pender, 2 Phill. 69.

After twelve months from delivery, and, within that period, after verdict, writ of inquiry, or payment, a special application on notice must be made, and the order will not be made except under special circumstances to be proved to the satisfaction of the Judge to whom the application shall be made.

All applications under 6 & 7 V. c. 73, s. 37 (not being applications for orders of course), for the taxation and delivery of bills of costs, and for the delivery by any solr of deeds, documents, and papers, must be made to a Judge at Chambers by summons, instead of, as formerly, by special petition: see O. LV, 2 (15); but an application by petition may be dealt with under O. LXX, 1, on payment of difference of costs by Petrs: Re Kellock, 56 L. T. 887; 35 W. R. 695; W. N. (87) 110; Re Fenton, W. N. (94) 128; Cordery, 331.

Leave to serve the summons out of the jurisdiction will not be granted: Exp. Brandon; Re Bouron, 54 L. T. 128; 34 W. R. 352.

The person applying for a special order to tax, when the common order would have sufficed, pays the costs though he succeeds: Re Bracey, 8 Beav. 338; Re Bignold, 9 Beav. 269; Re Atkinson, 26 Beav. 151.

But the objection must be taken in time: Re Hair, 11 Beav. 96.

And conversely, an order of course, obtained where a special application is necessary, is liable to be discharged for irregularity, though there may be a case for granting taxation: Harris v. Start, 4 M. & Cr. 261; Grove v. Sansom, 1 Beav. 297.

So, also, where a special petition to tax two bills failed as to one, and the other might have been taxed under the common order, the Petr had to pay the costs: Re Cattlin, 8 Beav. 121.

The common order to tax cannot be obtained by the client where remuneration is claimed for work alleged by the solr to be non-professional; and this rule is not affected by the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, s. 8: Re Inderwick, 25 Ch. D. 279, C. A.; nor where a right to withdraw the bill as originally sent in has been claimed by the solr: Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441, C. A.; nor can the order be obtained when the application is to tax the last only of a series of bills: Re Yetts, 33 Beav. 412; or on the application of two out of three persons who are jointly liable: Re Ilderton, 33 Beav. 201; Re Lewin, 16 Beav. 608 (and see inf. Section VII., Form 2); unless one of the parties liable refuses to consent: Re Hair, 10 Beav. 187; or there has been a separate retainer: Exp. Ford, 5 D. M. & G. 35.

And the Court has no power under sect. 37 to direct taxation of a part only of a solr's bill of costs, but can do so under its inherent jurisdiction: Stoner & Co. v. Johnson and Weatherall, 15 App. Ca. 203; S. C., 37 Ch. D. 433, C. A., nom. Re Johnson and Weatherall.

If the relation of solr and client exists, the fact of there being an agreement does not prevent the common order being made: Ward v. Lawson, 8 Ch. 65; Re Inderwick, 25 Ch. D. 279, C. A.

The authority to a Judge to authorize a solr to commence an action or suit for recovery of his fees, &c., against the party chargeable, and also to refer his bill for taxation within one month from delivery of the bill on proof to the satisfaction of the Judge that the party chargeable is about to quit England, is by the Legal Practitioners Act, 1875 (38 & 39 V. c. 79), repealing this part of 6 & 7 V. c. 73, s. 37, extended to the case where there is probable cause for believing that such party is about to become bankrupt, or a liquidating or compounding debtor, or to do any other act which, in the opinion of the Judge, would tend to defeat or delay the solr in obtaining payment.

The order to tax under s. 37 may be obtained by a married woman employing a solr and making her separate estate, though not herself personally, liable: Waugh v. Waddell, 16 Beav. 521; and payment of the amount found due on taxation may be enforced by the appointment, subject to the rights of the trustees, of a receiver of the separate estate to which she is entitled without restraint on anticipation: Re Peace and Waller, 24 Ch. D. 405 (in which case, on an application to discharge an order for irregularity, it appearing that the married woman's separate estate was liable, she was put upon an undertaking to pay out of her separate estate the debt which was contracted by her while single); Re Bennett, M. R., 6 April, 1876, Reg. Min. 167. In the case of an infant the application is by next friend, pro hac vice: Re Fluker, 20 Beav. 143.

The order may be obtained by a party in contempt: Newton v. Ricketts, 11 Beav. 67.

An assignee in bankruptcy cannot obtain an order to tax without giving an undertaking to pay the whole bill, and not merely a dividend on the amount pro rata with other creditors: Re Emslie & Co., 9 Eq. 72.

Where the common order has been obtained irregularly and become abortive, a subsequent order to tax can only be obtained upon a special application and on the terms of paying the solr's costs of the former proceedings: Re Taylor, Sons & Tarbuck, (1894) 1 Ch. 503 (where, however, the Court, in lieu of discharging the second order, directed the taxing master to proceed under it to tax the bill, and also the solr's costs of the former proceedings, and to bring those costs into account).

An order of course obtained by the clients for the taxation of one only of several bills delivered (the solr having admitted that nothing is due to him, so that he can have no lien on the clients' documents, and the only question therefore being whether he has been overpaid) is not irregular: Re Ward, (1896) 2 Ch. 31, C. A.

Although the right of action for recovery of costs, given subject to conditions by sect. 37, is not limited to an assignee in bankruptcy, and can be assigned by the solr, so as, since the Jud. Act, 1873, s. 25 (6), to give the assignee the right to sue in his own name (Ingle v. McCulchan, 12 Q. B. D. 518; and see Penley v. Anstruther, 52 L. J. Ch. 367; 48 L. T. 669), it seems doubtful whether an assignee of costs can obtain taxation: see Re Ward, 28 Ch. D. 719; but in any case taxation of one out of several bills cannot be obtained, under the common order of course, by the assignee of the particular bill only: S. C.

The defence that no signed bill was delivered can only be raised by the client, and not by a third person sued under an agreement to pay, who is entitled only to taxation under sect. 38 (see inf. p. 291): Greening v. Reeder, 67 L. T. 28; 40 W. R. 623; Cordery, 345.

In general, an application to tax by a party to an action need not have been in that branch of the Court where the action was heard: Robins v.

Mills, 1 Beav. 227; unless the merits of the case must enter into the discussion: Webb v. Grace, 12 Beav. 489; or unless, as part of a compromise confirmed by the V.-C., it was intended that taxation should take place in the cause: Re Howard, 8 Beav. 424; and see Re Elmslie, 12 Beav. 538.

Where a client having obtained one common order to tax afterwards obtained another without mentioning the first, or that he was bringing an action against the solr to recover moneys received by the solr for his use, the order was held irregular and varied by the Court: Re Webster, (1891) 2 Ch. 102.

A registrar of the Liverpool or Manchester District Registry has no jurisdiction to make an order for taxation on a petition of course: Re Porrett, (1891) 2 Ch. 433, C. A.

By O. III, 7, "after stay of proceedings, upon payment of the amount claimed for debt or in respect of liquidated demand and for costs, within four days after service, the Deft may, notwithstanding such payment, have the costs taxed, and if more than one-sixth shall be disallowed, Plt's solr shall pay the costs of taxation."

COMMON ORDER TO TAX.

The common order includes an account of all sums received by the solr as such, not a general account: Russel v. Buchanan, 9 Sim. 167; Cooper v. Ewart, 15 Sim. 564; 2 Ph. 362, 363, n.; and also an account of receipts for interest, though not of profits, on moneys in hand: Re Savery, 13 Beav. 424; but the account is confined to moneys which the solr, in his character of solr or agent, has received, or is liable to pay over to the client, and against which (if sued for by the client) the solr could set off his costs when taxed; consequently the solr is not bound to give credit for counsel's fees received by him due to the client as counsel in matters not connected with the bill of costs: In re Le Brasseur and Oakley, (1896) 2 Ch. 487, C. A.

But in the absence of special directions in regard to payments by the client, the taxing master should confine himself to simple payments proved to have been made on account of the bill of costs: Re Smith, 9 Beav. 182; 4 Beav. 309; Jones v. James, 1 Beav. 307.

A solr employed as a general agent to receive rents or money must keep proper accounts to entitle him to payment of his bill of costs: see White v. Lady Lincoln, 8 Ves. 363; secus, in case of separate transactions, of which the client was aware at the time: Re Lee, 4 Ch. 43.

Under the common order costs of proceedings alleged to have been informal or improperly taken, or costs improperly incurred, may be questioned: see Wiggins v. Peppin, 2 Beav. 403; Clayton v. Meadows, 2 Ha. 26; and see Alsop v. L. Oxford, 1 M. & K. 564; Re Clark, 1 D. M. & G. 43.

Under the common order the taxing master has jurisdiction as to retainer, and it may be questioned as to any items, except so far as admitted by the petitioners: Re Bracey, 8 Beav. 266; Re Hair, 10 Beav. 187; Re Thurgood, 19 Beav. 548; Re Kitton, 35 Beav. 369; but a client who has obtained the common order cannot dispute the retainer as to the whole bill, though he may do so as to particular items; secus, where the common order has been obtained by the solr: Re Jones, 36 Ch. D. 105; Re Herbert, 34 Ch. D. 504.

But at common law a special direction was necessary to enable the taxing master to go into the question of retainer: Re Pyne, 5 C. B. 407.

If the bill contains various charges, as to any of which the petitioner questions his liability, he should add to his petition, "and for work not done on his retainer, and for which he is not liable:" Re Springall, 14 L. J. Ch. 12; and see sup. Form 8.

The fact that the solr is a trustee may be taken into consideration by the taxing master without special directions to that effect: Cradock v. Piper, 1 Mac. & G. 664. As to solr-trustee's costs, see Re Barber, 34 Ch. D. 77; and inf. p. 304.

The usual submission to pay must be made by all the persons on whose application the order is made, including an assignee of the client's interest under the taxation, such submission by the assignee being a condition of his obtaining the order, even though the client is a bankrupt: Re Battams and Hutchinson, (1897) 1 Ch. 699. This may revive statute-barred items: v. inf. p. 306.

TAXATION UNDER ORDER—DELIVERY OF BILL.

In general, taxation must be upon the bill as delivered: Re Carven, 8 Beav. 436; Re Wells, Ib. 416. A solr will not be allowed to alter his bill of costs after it has been referred for taxation: Re Blakesley, 32 Beav. 379; or to escape taxation by omitting some items objected to: Re Heather, 5 Ch. 694; Re Holroyde, 29 W. R. 599; Re Mackenzie, Exp. Short, 41 W. R. 530; 69 L. T. 751; or the costs of the reference, by an offer to accept less than the amount of the bill delivered: Re Paull, 27 Ch. D. 485, C. A.; Re Carthew, Ib.; or to impose as a condition immediate payment or substitution of a bill of larger amount: Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441, C. A.; but he may reserve the right to withdraw or alter his bill upon a fair condition fully stated: Ib.; and see Re Lett, 31 Beav. 488; though liberty has been given pending taxation to add omitted items and increase those undercharged: Re Whalley, 20 Beav. 576; Re Walters, 9 Beav. 299. (See Form of Order, Ib. 303, n.; and inf. Section IV., Form 2, p. 283.)

And before being served with an order for taxation he has been allowed, under special circumstances, to substitute a second bill of reduced amount on payment of all costs incurred by client up to the date of obtaining the order: Re Chambers, 34 Beav. 177; 5 N. R. 298; 13 W. R. 375; see, however, Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441, C. A.; Re Holroyde, 29 W. R. 599; Re Jones, 54 L. T. 648; Re Robertson, 42 Ch. D. 553.

Sect. 37 does not give the solr any statutory right to have the amount of his charges ascertained by taxation only: Exp. Ditton, 13 Ch. D. 318.

Delivery must be to the party chargeable, i.e., the client: Re Abbott, 4 L. T. 576; or to his duly authorized agent: Re Bush, 8 Beav. 66; Re Robertson, 42 Ch. D. 553; and if not at his residence, at the place to which his letters were to be addressed: Spier v. Bernard, 8 L. T. 396. A mere constructive delivery is not sufficient: Re Robertson, sup.

But delivery to one of several joint contractors or promoters is sufficient: Mant v. Smith, 4 Hur. & N. 324.

Where a substantial part of a bill of costs is improperly set out, and a substantial part properly, the whole bill is not bad: Blake v. Hummell, 51 L. T. 430; 1 Cab. & E. 345; see Haigh v. Ousey, 7 E. & B. 578; Wilkinson v. Smart, 33 L. T. 573; 24 W. R. 42.

The Act (6 & 7 V. c. 73) does not authorize the taxation of every pecuniary demand in a solr's bill for any kind of employment; and though the business need not have been done in any Court it must have been done by the solr as such: see Allen v. Aldridge, 5 Beav. 401; Re Lees, Ib. 410, that fees of a manor steward as such, though a solr, are not taxable; and so where the solr was employed as a canvassing agent, and not in his legal capacity: Re Oliver, 15 W. R. 331; 36 L. J. Ch. 261.

But costs of solr retained as election agent and to advise the committee, and for business in a revising barrister's court, were taxable: Re Osborne, 25 Beav. 353; Re Andrews, 17 Beav. 510; and, having regard to the form of his bill of costs, the charges of a solr as returning officer for a School Board election: Re Jones, 13 Eq. 336.

Until there has been delivery of a proper bill, delivery and taxation cannot be resisted by the solr on the ground of payment, though some years have elapsed since the alleged settlement: Re Stogdon, 56 L. J. Ch. 421; 56 L. T. 355.

Where a country solr employs a London agent, there is no complete bill capable of taxation unless the charges of the London agent are stated in detail, and not as a lump sum: Re Pomeroy and Tanner, (1897) 1 Ch. 284.

Where several persons give separate retainers to the same solr to take proceedings on behalf of all, each is in strictness entitled to have the bill taxed without serving any person other than the solr, but in order to prevent multiplicity of taxations, a single taxation in the presence of all parties interested may be directed. Where it was found impracticable to serve all the parties (thirty-five in number), a taxation was nevertheless ordered in their absence: Re Salaman, (1894) 2 Ch. 201, C. A.

By the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881 (44 & 45 V. c. 44), provision is made for regulating the remuneration of solrs in respect of conveyancing and non-contentious business, and agreements for such remuneration may be made and enforced, or impeached, and the amount ascertained by taxation: v. inf. p. 308. If the agreement relates to work alleged to be non-professional, the common order for delivery and taxation cannot be obtained: Re Inderwick, 25 Ch. D. 279, C. A.

ACTION FOR COSTS.

When the common order to tax is made on the application of the solr, and a balance is certified to be due to him, he cannot enforce payment by summons, but must proceed by action: Re Debenham & Walker, (1895) 2 Ch. 430.

The restraint by sect. 37 of any action or suit for recovery of fees until the expiration of one month after delivery of bill of costs was confined to proceedings founded on the implied contract arising out of the relation of solr and client, and was no bar to proceedings to enforce a merely collateral engagement, e.g., an action on a promissory note given on account of fees, or a bill to enforce a mortgage security for previous advances and costs: Jeffreys v. Evans, 14 M. & W. 210; Thomas v. Cross, 13 W. R. 166.

The omission to file the certificate of taxation did not render it void, and an action by the solr on the bill was restrained as a contempt: Re Campbell, 3 D. M. & G. 585.

The right of a client to file a bill against his solr for an account and taxation was not excluded by the jurisdiction given by the statute: O'Brien v. Lewis, 9 Jur. N. S. 321; Re Bailey, 34 Beav. 393.

As to such a bill by a country solr against his London agent, see Ward v. Lawson, 8 Ch. 65; Ward v. Eyre, 15 Ch. D. 130, C. A. And where a bill (action) was the proper remedy, an application under the Solicitors Act, or under the general jurisdiction of the Court, was not entertained: Re Forsyth, 2 D. J. & S. 509; 34 Beav. 140.

TAXATION UNDER SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES AFTER TWELVE MONTHS FROM DELIVERY.

Special circumstances under 6 & 7 V. c. 73, s. 37, under which taxation may be granted after twelve months from delivery, on the application of the party chargeable, are: pressure, overcharge so gross as to amount to what the Court considers fraudulent, or misrepresentation: see Re Strother, 3 K. & J. 518; Re Williams, 15 Beav. 417; Re Harper, 10 Beav. 284; Re Hook, 3 Giff. 372; Re Norman, 16 Q. B. D. 673, C. A.; Re Pybus, 35 Ch. D. 568; Re Eley, 36 W. R. 96.

Mere overcharge, not involving fraud, is not a ground for taxation, after twelve months from delivery: Re Harle, 17 W. R. 21; 19 L. T. 305; secus, where there are large and unusual charges requiring explanation: Re Robinson, L. R. 3 Ex. 4; Re Pybus, 35 Ch. D. 568.

A dispute as to the completeness of the bill delivered is a special circumstance: Re Bagshawe, 2 D. & S. 205; and see Re Nicholson, 3 D. F. & J. 93. The continuance of the relation of solr and client will not, per se, justify taxation after twelve months from delivery of the bill: Re Elmslie, 16 Eq. 326; but see Re Flower, 18 L. T. 457; 16 W. R. 749; Re Nicholson, 3 D. F. & J. 93.

And the special circumstances on which taxation is applied for after the prescribed time must be such as the client could not reasonably have availed himself of sooner: Re Barnard, 2 D. M. & G. 359; and see Re Bagshawe, 2 D. & S. 205; Re Strother, sup.

Where several successive bills had been made by letter one continuous account, the time was reckoned from the delivery of the latest, though most of the series had been delivered more than twelve months before the application: Re Cartwright, 16 Eq. 469.

But a solr's charges for carrying through a complicated and protracted business, e.g., admon proceedings, are not necessarily one bill so as to entitle the client to taxation of the whole series: Re Hall and Barker, 9 Ch. D. 538; and as between a country solr and his London agent, separate bills cannot, at the option of the solr, be treated as one continuous bill, so as to escape from the twelve-months rule: Re Nelson, 30 Ch. D. 1, C. A.

The effect of a winding-up order is to suspend the operation of the twelve-months rule; and, accordingly, if the bill is taxable in point of time at the date of the winding-up (see Re James, 4 D. & S. 183), the lapse of twelve months from delivery does not bar taxation on behalf of the official liquidator: Exp. Evans, 11 Eq. 151.

In bankruptcy the jurisdiction of a local registrar to tax costs is independent of 6 & 7 V. c. 73, and a bill of costs may be taxed by him without any special order, though twelve months have elapsed since its delivery: Exp. Blair, 5 Ch. 482.

Retention of a bill for twelve months is only prima facie evidence of its reasonableness; and the exor of the client is not estopped from disputing items: Re Park, Cole v. P., 41 Ch. D. 326, U. A.

AGREEMENTS BETWEEN SOLICITORS AND THEIR CLIENTS—33 & 34 V. c. 28

Although before 33 & 34 V. c. 28, the taxing masters were in the habit, under the common order, of entertaining the question of agreements by the solr as to costs (Re Philip, 2 Giff. 35, 36), the Court, it seems, had no jurisdiction under the Solicitors Act, 1843 (6 & 7 V. c. 73), to determine upon motion or petition the construction and effect of a special agreement as to costs; although the jurisdiction of the Court was not ousted by an agreement as to particular items: Re Rhodes, 8 Beav. 224; Re Thompson, Ibid. 237; Re Beale, 11 Beav. 600; Re Forsyth, 34 Beav. 140; 2 D. J. & S. 509.

Agreements to take a gross sum from a client in lieu of costs were jealously regarded: Re Whitcombe, 8 Beav. 140; an agreement to receive 5 p. c. commission upon the amount recovered was treated as illegal: Pince v. Beattie, 11 W. R. 979; 2 N. R. 546; 32 L. J. Ch. 734; 9 Jur. N. S. 1119; or a fixed sum for costs hereafter to be received, upholding the common order for delivery and taxation of a bill of costs: Re Newman, 30 Beav. 196; and see Re Ingle, 21 Beav. 275.

But an agreement with a corporation that a solr, transacting professional business for no other client, should be paid a fixed yearly salary, clear of all office expenses and to include all emoluments, was held not to be opposed to 6 & 7 V. c. 73; Galloway v. Corp. of London, 4 Eq. 90.

For the principles upon which the bill of a railway co.'s solr, charging a lump sum for attendances and services during a period was to be taxed, see Re Tilleard, 32 Beav. 476.

And now, under the Attorneys and Solicitors Act, 1870 (33 & 34 V. c. 28), s. 4, a solr may make an agreement in writing with his client respecting the amount and manner of payment for any past or future services, fees, charges, or disbursements in respect of business done or to be done by such solr, either by a gross sum, or by commission or percentage, or by fixed salary or otherwise—provided that, when any such agreement shall be made in respect of business done or to be done in any action or suit, the amount payable under the agreement shall not be received until the agreement has been examined and allowed by a taxing officer of a Court having power to enforce the agreement, who may require the opinion of a Court, &c. to be taken upon the agreement by motion or petition, with power to the Court, &c., either to reduce the amount payable under the agreement, or to order the agreement to be cancelled, and the costs, &c. to be taxed, in the same manner as if no such agreement had been made.

An agreement under this section must be in writing, and should be signed by both parties: Re Lewis, Exp. Munro, 1 Q. B. D. 724; but an agreement signed by the client alone may be sufficient as against him: Re Jones, (1895) 2 Ch. 719; following Re Thompson, (1894) 1 Q. B. 462; but not so a mere signature of accounts: Re Fernandez, W. N. (78) 57; Re Baker, W. N. (87) 9; Cordery, 263; nor correspondence showing an intention of the client to pay, but not to give up his right to taxation: Pontifex v. Farnham, 62 L. J. Q. B. 344; 68 L. T. 168; 41 W. R. 238; and as to the effect of a verbal agreement by a client to pay a sum in discharge of past costs, see Re Russell, 30 Ch. D. 114; Re Raven, 30 W. R. 134; 45 L. T. 642.

The fact that a solr is paid by salary is no ground for disallowing items in his bill of costs or allowing only costs out of pocket: Henderson v. Merthyr Tydfil Council, (1900) 1 Q. B. 434.

As to the effect of the concluding proviso in sect. 4, when the agreement relates entirely to payments which the client has already made, see Re Thompson, Exp. Baylis, (1894) 1 Q. B. 462; 63 L. J. Q. B. 187.

Where there has been a verbal agreement between solr and client as to costs, such expressions as "costs as agreed" in accounts for costs settled and signed by the client are prima facie referable to the verbal agreement: Re Baylis, (1896) 2 Ch. 107, C. A.; and cannot, as in Re Frape, (1893) 2 Ch. 284, C. A., be construed as meaning "costs which are hereby agreed."

Sect. 8. No action or suit shall be brought upon any such agreement, but every question respecting the validity or effect of such agreement may be examined and determined, and the agreement enforced or set aside, without suit or action, on motion or petition, by the Court in which the business or any part thereof was done, or by a Judge thereof; or if the business was not done in any Court, then, where the amount payable under the agreement exceeds 50*l.*, by any superior Court, &c.; where the amount does not exceed 50*l.*, by the County Court Judge.

The expressions "the Court" or "a Judge" in sect. 8 of 1870 do not include quarter sessions or magistrates, but refer to Courts in which actions or suits can be brought and to Judges who can try them: Re Jones, (1895) 2 Ch. 719; (1896) 1 Ch. 222, C. A.; so that a question as to an agreement as to costs in a police court should be brought before the High Court: S. C.

The section was intended to apply to costs for work done, and does not therefore preclude an action for refusing to allow the solr to do the work and earn the remuneration: Rees v. Williams, L. R. 10 Ex. 200.

The application to set aside an agreement under the section may be made in Chambers in Q. B. D.: Re Howell Thomas, (1893) 1 Q. B. 670.

Sect. 9. Upon motion or petition such an agreement, if it shall appear fair and reasonable, may be enforced, &c.; and if not deemed to be fair and reasonable, may be declared void, and ordered to be cancelled, and taxation of the costs, &c., in respect of the matters included therein, may be directed as if such agreement had not been made, &c.

The word "reasonable" includes reasonableness of the amount charged, having regard to the work done: Re Stuart, Exp. Cathcart, (1893) 2 Q. B. 201, C. A.

Sect. 10. Agreements may be re-opened within twelve months after payment under special circumstances. Agreements made by a client in the capacity of guardian, trustee, or committee of any person whose estate or property will be chargeable with the amount, or any part of it, payable under such agreement, must before payment be laid before the taxing officer of a Court having jurisdiction to enforce the agreement, for examination, and any part may be disallowed, or the direction of the Court obtained on motion or petition; and if the whole or any part of the amount be paid by the client without previous allowance, he shall be liable at any time to account to the person whose estate or property is charged with the amount paid; and if in any such case the solr accept payment without such allowance, he may be ordered to refund the amount so received by him under the agreement.

Sect. 11. Nothing in the Act contained shall give validity to any purchase by a solr of the interest or any part of the interest of his client in any suit, action, or contentious proceeding to be brought or maintained, or give validity to any agreement by which a solr, retained or employed to prosecute any suit or action, stipulates for payment only in the event of success in such suit, &c.

An agreement by which, in the event of success, the solrs are to receive 10 p. c. on the value of the property recovered, amounts to champerty, and is invalid; and the taxing master cannot allow the agreement, or take the opinion of the Court, under sect. 4, before any proceedings have been taken thereunder: Re Attorneys Act, 1870, 1 Ch. D. 573.

But an agreement to charge the client nothing if he loses the action, and to take nothing for costs out of any money awarded in the action, is not invalid under sect. 11, and need not be in writing: Jennings v. Johnson, L. R. 8 C. P. 425.

By the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881 (44 & 45 V. c. 44), s. 8—(1) with respect to the conveyancing and other business to which that Act relates (as to which v. inf. pp. 308 et seq.), solr and client may make agreements before or after, or in the course of the transaction of any such business, for the remuneration of the solr, as they think fit, by gross sum, commission, percentage, salary, or otherwise; (2) any such agreement is to be in writing, and signed by the person to be bound thereby, or by his agent; (3) the agreement may provide for the remuneration, including, or not including, disbursements made by the solr; and (4) may be sued on, impeached and set aside, in the like manner, and on the like grounds, as an agreement not relating to the remuneration of a solr. If, on taxation, the agreement is objected to by the client as unfair or unreasonable, the taxing master may inquire into the facts and certify them to the Court, and, on just cause shown, the Court or a Judge may order cancellation of the agreement, or reduction of the amount payable under it. By sect. 9, the application of the Attorneys and Solicitors Act, 1870, to the business to which the new Act relates, is negatived.

The agreement under sub-s. 2 is sufficient if signed by the party who seeks to enforce it: Re Frape, Exp. Perrett, (1893) 2 Ch. 284, C. A. (not merely by his clerk); but if it is impeached as unfair and unreasonable, the question of its validity may be referred directly to the taxing master: S. C.

An agreement by mortgagor with his solr to pay a fixed sum for remuneration, so as to include the mortgagee's costs, is an agreement between solr and "client" within the definition in sect. 1 of the Act, and the Court would not, in the absence of evidence that the agreed sum was an unfair charge, order taxation for the purpose of giving the taxing master jurisdiction to inquire whether such agreement should be set aside: Re Palmer, 45 Ch. D. 291, C. A.

An agreement under the Act must be fair and reasonable: Mearns v. Knapp, 37 W. R. 585; Cordery, 271.

SIGNATURE AND FORM.

The signature of the bill of costs required by the Act of 6 & 7 V. being for the client's protection, he may obtain the common order to tax an unsigned bill: Re Pender, 2 Ph. 69; 8 Beav. 299, 304; and see Re Foster, 2 D. F. & J. 105.

But the provision in sect. 41, that after twelve months from payment a bill of costs cannot be referred for taxation, is not limited to bills which have been signed by the solr: Re Sutton, 11 Q. B. D. 377.

Bill of costs delivered, not signed, but with a letter signed, was held to be signed within the Act, and though delivered to client's agent: Re Bush; Re Carven, 8 Beav. 66, 438.

A letter by lessor's solrs to lessee's solrs specifying the amount of their charges in relation to a lease to be 7l. 11s. (though followed in reply to the lessee's solrs by another letter detailing items and adding at foot "say 7l. 11s.") was held to constitute a bill delivered, the second letter being treated as merely explanatory: Re Hellard and Bewes, (1896) 2 Ch. 229.

No particular heading is necessary: Champ v. Stokes, 6 H. & N. 683; but the bill must be delivered in a taxable shape: Philby v. Hazle, 8 C. B. N. S. 647; otherwise no action can be brought on it: Wilkinson v. Smart, 24 W. R. 42; 37 L. T. 513.

Where the items were improperly lumped together, the solr was allowed to supply a detailed statement, but not to increase his demand: Re Tilleard, 32 Beav. 476; 3 D. J. & S. 519; nor can he withdraw his bill when delivered without condition, or on a condition which is illegal: Re Kellock, 35 W. R. 695; and see Re Thompson, 30 Ch. D. 441, C. A.

In general the solr must abide by the bill delivered, and cannot, except by consent or special order, reduce his demand or reserve the power to add charges: see Cordery, 302, 303, and cases there cited.

Separate bills should not be delivered in respect of the same transactions, but where the transactions are separate the bills will be treated as separate, although delivered at the same time: Re Ward, (1896) 2 Ch. 31, C. A.

As to the distinction between bill of costs and cash account, see Cordery, 295.

SECURITY FOR COSTS OF TAXATION.

A client resident abroad, applying to tax his solr's bill, must give security for the costs of the proceeding: Re Pasmore, 1 Beav. 94; and for what should be found due: Anon., 12 Sim. 262; but may be allowed to pay a sum into Court instead: Cliffe v. Wilkinson, 4 Sim. 123; a client alleged to be insolvent was directed to give security for the costs of taxation of a bill already paid: Re Webb, M. R., 17 November, 1876; as to waiver of the right, see Murrow v. Wilson, 12 Beav. 497.

Where taxation was ordered on paying in a sum which accumulated, the solr was only entitled to payment from the fund of what was found due: Re Smith, 9 Beav. 342.

COSTS OF TAXATION.

As to what reductions affect the right to the costs of taxation since 6 & 7 V. c. 73, s. 37, which directs that if the bill, when taxed, be more or less by one-sixth than when delivered, the client or solr, as the case may be, is to pay the costs of the reference, see Re Clark, 13 Beav. 173, 180 (taxing master's certificate); 1 D. M. & G. 43; Re Remnant, 11 Beav. 603, 609; Re Haigh, 12 Beav. 307.

By O. LXV, 27 (38b), "if on the taxation of a bill of costs payable out of a fund or estate (real or personal), or out of the assets of a co. in liquidation, the amount of the professional charges (exclusive of disbursements) contained in the bill is reduced by a sixth part, no costs shall be allowed to the solr leaving the bill for taxation, for drawing and copying it, nor for attending the taxation." And by r. 27 (19c), if a solr having the carriage of an order directing taxation fails to leave copy order, and statement of names of parties, &c., at the taxing office within seven days after the order has been perfected, no costs of taxation are to be allowed him.

The bill as delivered is the bill to be taxed, and while new items cannot be introduced in order to affect the costs of taxation (Re Tilleard, 32 Beav. 476), a bill containing items, together with an offer to take less (e.g., 83*l.*, say 78*l.*), is not a bill delivered, within the meaning of the Act, for the lesser sum: Re Carthew, 27 Ch. D. 487, C. A.; Re Paull, Ib.

Items struck out on taxation as not chargeable against the person to whom the bill was delivered, will not be omitted from consideration in determining the costs of taxation: Re Clark, sup.; Re Mackenzie, Exp. Short, 41 W. R. 531; 69 L. T. 751.

Less than a sixth being taken off on taxation, though more than a sixth was taken off the general account in a suit by the client against his solr for a general account, the solr was allowed the costs of taxation: May v. Biggenden, 24 Beav. 207.

More than a sixth being taxed off, insolvent solr's assignees had to pay the costs: Re Peile, 25 Beav. 561.

One sixth being taxed off, though the reduced amount was more than solr had offered to accept without delivering bill, he had to pay costs: Re Elwes and Turner, 58 L. T. 580; W. N. (88) 68.

Payments made by the client himself to the solr for counsel's fees and stamps will be considered as part of, and properly be included in, the bill in calculating the amount taxed off: Re Metcalfe, 30 Beav. 406.

Probate duty paid by the solr has been held to be a disbursement within sect. 37: Re Lamb, 23 Q. B. D. 5; but it would be impracticable to follow this case on every occasion, and the taxing masters take Re Remnant, 11 Beav. 603, as their guide.

A solr who has refused to consent to an order of course for taxation may be ordered to pay the costs of a special application: Re Lett, 31 Beav. 488.

Under an ordinary reference to tax costs of a solr to a trustee in bankruptcy, the taxation is regulated by the practice in bankruptcy, and 6 & 7 V. c. 73, has no application: In re Marsh, 15 Q. B. D. 340, C. A.

As to the jurisdiction of the Court on party and party taxation to order payment of costs of taxation by a solr who delivers an extortionate bill in order to increase such costs, see Re Grundy, Kershaw & Co., 17 Ch. D. 108.

As to costs in case of neglect or delay in proceedings before taxing officer, see O. LXV, 27 (55).

DISCHARGING ORDER.

On application to discharge the common order (see D. O. F. 1050) for taxation as irregularly obtained, the Court considers only if the order is regular: Harris v. Start, 4 M. & Cr. 261; Gregg v. Taylor; Grove v. Sansom, 1 Beav. 123, 297; Watts v. Penny, 11 Beav. 435; Re Lewin, 16 Beav. 608; but in Re Ingle, 21 Beav. 275, the order, though irregular, was under the circumstances upheld; and in Re Webster, (1891) 2 Ch. 102, was left standing, with the omission of the latter part directing payment of what should be found due on taxation.

A solr by acquiescence may preclude himself from objecting to irregularities in obtaining the order: Re Bartrum, 12 W. R. 660, 699.

An order of course to tax costs in one matter, the solr having acted in several, and on payment for him to deliver all papers, was discharged with costs: Holland v. Gwynne, 8 Beav. 134; but see Re Pender, Ib. 299.

For cases in which orders of course have been discharged for misstatement or omission in the petition, see Re Perkins; Re Carven; Exp. Mobbs, 8 Beav. 241, 436, 499; Re Gabriel, 10 Beav. 45; Watts v. Penny, sup.; Re Rees; Re Eldridge, 12 Beav. 256, 387; Re Gedye, 15 Beav. 254; or irregularity in obtaining the order: Re Yetts, 33 Beav. 412; Re Ilderton, Ib. 201; Re Taylor, Sons & Tarbuck, (1894) 1 Ch. 503, v. sup. p. 273.

Where not: Re David, 30 Beav. 278; Re Fluker, 20 Beav. 143; and see Re Flower, 19 W. R. 578, that the common order obtained by an infant's solr will not be discharged, because the fact that the next friend disputes his liability has not been stated.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE THE TAXING OFFICER—EVIDENCE, &c.

The order for taxation usually directs that the parties be examined: see Form 1, p. 268. By O. LXV, 19b, the proper officer by whom any order directing taxation of costs is drawn up is to certify upon the order the date on which it was signed, entered, or otherwise perfected.

And under the common order for taxation the solr's cross-examination may be taken by an examiner as well as by the taxing master: see Re Flux, 44 L. J. Ch. 375.

By O. LXV, 18, every reference for the taxation of costs in the Chancery Division is to be made to the taxing master in rotation, or in such manner or order as the L. O. may from time to time direct, provided that where there has been any former taxation in the same cause or matter, or on any summons under O. LV, 3 or 4, relating to the same estate or trust, the reference is to be made to the same taxing master.

By rr. 19c, 19d, the solr having carriage of an order directing taxation is to be disallowed the costs of taxation if he does not, within seven days after the order was signed, entered, or otherwise perfected, leave at the office of the taxing officer a copy of the order, with a statement annexed containing the names and addresses of the parties appearing in person and solrs of parties not so appearing; and the taxing officer is to send to the parties or solrs notice by post of a date before which papers are to be left, and a subsequent date on which the taxation will be proceeded with.

In every bill of costs the professional charges are to be entered in a separate column from the disbursements, and every column shall be cast before the bill is left for taxation (O. LXV, 19h); and every bill left for taxation is to be endorsed with the names and addresses of solr and London agent, if any: O. LXV, 27 (58).

By O. LXV, 27 (25), the taxing officers of the Supreme Court are empowered, in relation to the taxation of costs, to examine witnesses, to direct production of documents, &c., make separate certificates or allocaturs, to require any party to be represented by a separate solr, and to direct and adopt all such other proceedings as could be directed on references for taxation and adopted by officers of the Courts whose jurisdiction is transferred by the Act, and to take accounts of what is due in respect of costs, and such other accounts connected therewith as may be directed by the Court or Judge. But a taxing master cannot order shorthand notes to be taken of the evidence before him: Hilleary v. Taylor, 36 Ch. D. 262, O. A.; though he has power to allow the costs of such notes taken by consent.

By r. 27 (27), the taxing officer is empowered to arrange and direct what parties are to attend before him, and to disallow the costs of any party whose attendance he shall consider unnecessary in consequence of the interest of such party being small or remote or sufficiently protected by other parties interested.

R. 27 (34) prescribes the practice on taxation "in case the parties differ."

By r. 27 (35), where costs are to be paid out of any money or fund in Court, the taxing officer is, without any directions, to state in his certificate the total amount of all such costs.

R. 27 (37) in effect preserves in the Ch. D. the old rules of the Court of Chancery, except so far as they are altered by the new rules: see Pringle v. Gloag, 10 Ch. D. 676, 678. Costs of an admon action brought in the County Court may be taxed in the High Court: Re Worth, 18 Ch. D. 521.

An "affidavit of increase" as to payments to witnesses has not been required in the Chancery Division, there being sufficient evidence for the purpose of taxation in the recitals in the judgment and otherwise: Smith v. Day, 16 Ch. D. 726; Dan. 1028.

By O. LII, 26 (July, 1901), "if, during the taxation of any bill of costs or the taking of any account between solr and client, it shall appear to the taxing master that there must in any event be moneys due from the solr to the client, the taxing master may from time to time make an interim certificate as to the amount so payable by the solr. Upon the filing of such certificate the Court or a Judge may order the moneys so certified to be forthwith paid to the client or brought into Court." As to discretionary fees and allowances under O. LXV, 27 (38), v. inf. p. 299.

For particular items which have been sanctioned or disallowed by the Court, see inf. Section IX., "REVIEW OF TAXATION," pp. 299 et seq.

SECTION IV.—ENFORCING DELIVERY OF BILL.

1. Order of Course to deliver and tax Bill—Solicitors Act, 1843, s. 37.

UPON the petition of B. of &c., it was alleged that the Petr employed the above-named A. as his solr, in &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; that the Petr is desirous of obtaining the papers in the possession of the said solr belonging to the Petr, but the said solr refuses to deliver up the same until his bill of costs is paid; that the said solr, although applied to, has not delivered his bill of costs against the Petr; that the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due in respect of the said bill; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that the said solr do, within a fortnight after service of this order, deliver to the Petr a bill of fees and disbursements in all suits, causes, actions, and other matters of business in which he has been employed as the solr for the Petr; And that it be referred &c.—[Usual directions. Form 1, p. 268.]—See Re Smith, 19 Beav. 329, 330, n.

For order on special application for delivery and taxation of bill, see Re Jervis, M. R., 26 June, 1845, A. 2089; but the direction for delivery should be as in the above form. For form of application, see D. C. F. 1046.

2. Form of Order giving Liberty, pending Taxation, to deliver an additional Bill, and to alter Items by Enlargement only.

LET the Petr be at liberty to bring before the master an additional bill of any items of business done or money paid omitted to be charged in his said bill already delivered, and likewise to alter any of the items already charged in his said bill by increasing or enlarging the same, but he is not to diminish or make less any of the items already charged. And let the master tax such additional bill and enlarged items.—See Foster v. Rayner, L. C., 28 Oct. 1745 (cited in Re Walters, 9 Beav. 302, n.). And see Re Wells; Re Carven, 8 Beav. 416, 438.

NOTES.

ENFORCING DELIVERY OF BILL OF COSTS.

By O. LV, 2 (15), following Gen. Ord. 17 April, 1867, all applications under 6 & 7 V. c. 73 (not being applications for orders of course), for the taxation and delivery of bills of costs, and for the delivery by any solr of deeds, documents, and papers, are to be made by summons at Chambers instead of (as formerly) by petition to the Court.

An order on the solr for the delivery of his bill might, after personal service (see Re Catlin, 18 Beav. 510), have been enforced by attachment: see Lane v. Oliver, 2 Ha. 97.

And now, by O. XLII, 24, every order of the Court or a Judge, in any cause or matter, may be enforced in the same manner as a judgment to the same effect—i.e., in the case of a judgment requiring any person to do any act other than the payment of money or to abstain from doing anything, by writ of attachment or by committal: O. XLII, 7.

To enforce delivery, the order should be endorsed under O. XLI, 5.

An order served without the proper endorsement might be re-served, when properly endorsed, more than fourteen days afterwards, although a motion for the usual four-day order for non-compliance with the unendorsed order was irregular: Re Gregg, 9 Eq. 137; Re Bowen, 11 W. R. 607.

Delivery was ordered, with costs, against a solr who, when paid, undertook to, but did not, deliver his bill: Re Foljambe, 9 Beav. 402; and see Re Bailey, 34 Beav. 392; Re Blackmore, 13 Beav. 154.

But on affidavit by the solr that he had no documents, &c., from which to make out his bill, the Court refused to commit him for non-compliance with an order to deliver: Re Ker, 12 Beav. 390.

Where the solr makes no claim for costs, and swears that he has not retained any costs out of moneys of his client in his hands, he is not liable to deliver a cash account, though (semble) he may be accountable under the summary jurisdiction: Re Landor, (1899) 1 Ch. 818; and see Cordery, 30.

By O. LI, 25 (July, 1901), "where the relationship of solr and client exists, or has existed, a summons may be issued by the client or his representatives for the delivery of a cash account, or the payment of money, or the delivery of securities; and the Court or a Judge may from time to time order the respondent, within such time as the Court or a Judge may order, to deliver to the applicant a list of the moneys or securities which he has in his custody or control on behalf of the applicant, or to bring into Court the whole or any part of the same. In the event of the respondent alleging that he has a claim for costs, the Court or a Judge may make such provision for the payment or security thereof or the protection of the respondent's lien (if any) as the Court or Judge shall think fit."

As to the jurisdiction to entertain a bill filed by a country solr against his London agent for (inter alia) delivery and taxation of his bill of costs, the agency being disputed, and a special agreement of partnership alleged, see Ward v. Lawson, 8 Ch. 65.

The Judges of the King's Bench Division have jurisdiction to order delivery of a bill of costs, though no part of the business was transacted in any Court of law or equity; but the application ought to be made in the Chancery Division: Re Pollard, 20 Q. B. D. 656, C. A.

SECTION V.—TAXATION AFTER ACTION BROUGHT.

1. Order of Course to tax after Action, but before Verdict or Writ of Inquiry executed, or Twelve Months expired—Solicitors Act, 1843, s. 37.

UPON the petition of B., of &c., it was alleged that the Petr employed the above-named A. as his solr in &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; that the said solr has commenced proceedings against the Petr in the Q. B. Div. of this Court to recover the amount of the said bill [state shortly the proceedings taken in the action, sect. 37]; that the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due to the said solr on the taxation of the said bill; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that it be referred to the taxing master to tax and settle the said bill, and that the Petr and also the said solr do produce &c., and give credit &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; and in case it shall appear that there is anything due to the said solr, It is ordered that the said master do tax the said solr his costs of the said proceedings, and that such costs be added to the amount which shall be so found due; And it is ordered that if the said bill when taxed be less by a sixth part &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; And it is ordered that the amount so to be certified be paid &c., unless &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; And it is ordered that upon payment &c. the said solr do deliver to the Petr upon oath &c. [if action is brought in an inferior Court, add, And it is ordered that the said A. be restrained from further proceeding against the Petr in respect of the said bill pending this reference]; but the Petr is to carry this order and the said bill of costs into the office of the said master on or before the — day of —, [if so, add, and in default the said solr is to be at liberty to proceed with the said action as if this order had not been made]; And it is ordered that either party be at liberty to prosecute this order; and the said master is to make his certificate in a fortnight, unless the said master shall extend the time, to enable him to make his certificate, or this order is to be of no effect; And in case the said master shall not state any special circumstance in his said certificate, and shall certify that there is anything due from the Petr to the said solr, it is ordered that the amount so certified be paid by the Petr to the said solr; And in default of such payment being made, the said solr is to be at liberty at any time after two days from the filing of the said master's certificate, without service of this order or of such certificate, to sue out execution against the Petr by writ of fieri facias, elegit, or otherwise, for the amount which may be so certified to be due as aforesaid.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 1045.

2. Taxation at the Instance of a Person jointly liable after Action brought.

AND the applicant, by his solr, submitting to pay what shall appear to be due to the said A. (solicitor) on the taxation of the bill of fees and disbursements made out by the said A. against, and delivered to, C. and the said S., and in respect of which the said A. has commenced an action in the Q. B. Div. of this Court; Refer it to the taxing master to tax and settle the said bill; And Let the applicant and the said solr A. produce &c., and be examined &c.; And Let the said solr give credit for all sums of money by him received of or on account of the applicant and of the said C., or either of them; and in case it shall appear that there is anything due to the said solr, Let the said master tax the said solr his costs of the said action, and Let such costs be added to the amount which shall be so found due; And if such bill when taxed be less by a sixth part &c.; And Let the amount so to be certified be paid accordingly, unless &c.; And Let upon payment by the applicant to the said solr of what may be certified to be due to him as aforesaid, or in case it shall appear that there is nothing due to him, the said solr deliver to the applicant and to the said C. upon oath all deeds, books, papers, and writings in his custody or power, belonging to the applicant and to the said C., relating to the subject-matter of the said bill of costs [if action is brought in an inferior Court, add, And Let the said A. be restrained from further proceeding against the applicant in respect of the said bill pending this reference]; but the applicant is to carry this order and the said bill of costs into the office of the said master on or before the — day of — [if so, and in default thereof the said solr is to be at liberty to proceed with the said action as if this order had not been made]; And Let either party be at liberty to prosecute this order &c. [finish as in Form 1, sup.].—See Thorneloe v. Skoines; Re Silberberg, V.-C. M. in Chambers, 17 Nov. 1873, B. 2993.

The direction to stay proceedings by the solr for the recovery of his bill formerly inserted is now limited to proceedings in an inferior Court: see Jud. Act, 1873, s. 24 (5).

3. Special Order to tax—Judgment to be entered for Amount claimed —Undertaking not to issue Execution.

LET R. (solicitor) be at liberty to enter up judgment for the sum of £— (the amount claimed), and costs, to be taxed, in the action brought by him against the Petrs J., and C. his wife, the said R., by his counsel, undertaking not to issue execution for a greater amount than shall appear to be due to him upon the taxation of his bill of costs (fees and disbursements) hereinafter directed to be taxed, and interest thereon from &c. to the day of payment, at the rate of — per ann., such execution not to be issued until ten days after the date of the master's certificate; And refer &c., to tax and settle the bill of costs (fees and disbursements) of the said R., delivered to the said C. on the — day of —, for business done for the said Petr.—[Usual directions for parties to produce and be examined; as to costs of reference, exclusive of costs of application, and for payment of balance and delivery of papers.—

Petr to pay costs of application.]—Re Roberts, M. R., 9 March, 1844, B. 593.

This order would now be made on summons: O. LV, 2 (15).

For order for delivery, taxation, and payment, on notice after action brought, see Gardner v. M. Townshend, M. R., 31 Jan. 1815, B. 207; referred to as the common order: Re Pender, 2 Ph. 74; but the forms above are those in use under the Act.

NOTES.

An order of course for taxation may be obtained by the client after action brought for recovery of costs, but before notice of it: Re Farington, 33 Beav. 346; and see Re Hair, 10 Beav. 187.

After final or conclusive judgment in the action there can be no taxation under the statute: Re Barnard, 2 D. M. & G. 359; 16 Beav. 5.

But a judgment obtained by default will not, it seems, bar the right to tax: Re Gedye, 15 Beav. 254.

In ordering the taxation, after action brought, of a bill claimed against two persons, on the application of one of them, the action was stayed, and liberty was given to both to question the retainer; the taxing master being directed to distinguish by and to whom each sum found due was to be paid: Re Kitton, 35 Beav. 369, 1866, A. 193.

In general, if the order to tax is after action brought, the client has to pay the costs of the action: Re Hair, 11 Beav. 96; and see Re Smith, Ib. 468.

SECTION VI.—SPECIAL ORDER FOR TAXATION AFTER PAYMENT.

UPON the application of A., and upon hearing the solrs for the applicant and for the above-named solrs, and upon reading &c.—Refer &c. to tax and settle the bill of fees, charges, and disbursements, amounting to the sum of £—, delivered by the said solrs to the applicant, and paid by the applicant to the said solrs; And Let the applicant and the said solrs produce &c.; And Let the said solrs give credit &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; And in case it shall appear that the said bill is overpaid, the said master is to certify the amount overpaid; And Let the said solrs (names), within &c. [Form 1, p. 268], repay to A. what shall be certified to be the amount so overpaid by him; And the said master is to be at liberty to state any circumstance specially at the request of either party, as he shall think fit.—[Reserve the consideration of costs of taxation and of application until after certificate.]—Re Winterbottom, V.-C. M. at Chambers, 11 Nov. 1872, B. 2871.

For the like order, see Re Sankey, V.-C. W. at Chambers, 12 July, 1872, B. 2725, where the direction as to costs was: “the costs of the application and of the said reference are to be dealt with as the Judge shall direct.”

In Re Alcock, V.-C. K. B., 3 May, 1845, A. 1351, the direction for repayment was omitted, and was reserved for further order.

In Re Wells, M. R., 4 March, 1845, B. 536, S. C., 8 Beav. 416, taxation, at the instance of the mortgagor, was to be as between the mortgagee and his solr, and the direction to give credit was not inserted; for further order for payment to solr of costs of taxation, and of the application, less than one-sixth being taken off, see S. C., M. R., 24 July, 1845, B. 1291.

In the cases given above, the costs of taxation were reserved, but in Re Barrow, M. R., 3 Dec. 1853, A. 252, 17 Beav. 547, the alternative direction as to such costs was given, the amount of the bill to be taxed being only 20*l.*; and this is the more convenient form of the order.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 1047.

NOTES.

TAXATION AFTER PAYMENT.

By 6 & 7 V. c. 73, s. 41, payment of the bill is not to preclude a reference for taxation, if the special circumstances of the case appear to require the same, upon such terms and conditions and subject to such directions as to the Court shall seem right, provided the application be made within twelve calendar months after payment. As to the application of the section to preceding sections, v. inf. p. 292.

Before the Act, to obtain taxation after payment without pressure or undue influence, the petition had to state, and the evidence to show in particular, items so gross as to evidence fraud, and not merely items which would not be allowed on taxation: Horlock v. Smith, 2 M. & Cr. 495; Waters v. Taylor, Ib. 526; Re Stephen, 2 Ph. 562; Massie v. Drake, 4 Beav. 433; Nokes v. Warton, 5 Beav. 448; and see Dan. 1731 et seq.

Since the Act, "special circumstances" entitling the client to taxation after payment have generally been held to signify either, (a) pressure accompanied by manifest overcharges; (b) overcharges or errors so gross as to amount to fraud: see Re Lacey & Son, 25 Ch. D. 301, C. A.; Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571, C. A.; Re Norman, 16 Q. B. D. 673, C. A. (q. v., as to the limits of the discretion of the Court); Re Chown, 52 L. T. 75; (c) undue influence, misconduct, or fraud on the part of the solr: see Watson v. Rodwell, 11 Ch. D. 150, C. A.; 7 Ib. 625; or, (d) the pendency of a charge of felony against the solr's managing clerk, on which depends the legality of the charges in the bill of costs, delivered before such charge was raised, and settled in account: Re Fisher, 42 L. T. 261.

(a) If the bill is produced at the last moment, and reasonable facility for taxation is refused after the opportunity for taxation has been asked for, and, looking at the bill, there appears substantial ground for taxation, though the overcharges may not be so gross as to show fraud: Re Newman, 2 Ch. 707; Re Pugh, 32 Beav. 173; 1 D. J. & S. 673; Re Wells, 8 Beav. 416; Re Bennett, Ib. 467; Re Heritage, Exp. Docker, 3 Q. B. D. 726.

—so also payment under protest, in order to obtain possession of papers: Re Lett, 31 Beav. 488; Re Tryon, 7 Beav. 496; Re Wilkinson, 2 Coll. 92. As to the meaning of payment "under protest," see Re Cheesman, (1891) 2 Ch. 289; 39 W. R. 497.

—or, as the only means of getting a transaction completed (e.g., the transfer of a mortgage): Re Phillpotts, 18 Beav. 84 (and see Re Abbott, 18 Beav. 393; Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571, C. A.); or a purchase: Parker to George, 32 W. R. 222; or of preventing a threatened sale: Re Moseley, 15 W. R. 975.

But payment, on settling a transaction, of a draft bill of costs only then produced, gives no right per se, without showing fraud, gross overcharge, or pressure, to taxation: Re Fyson, 9 Beav. 117; Re Finch, 16 Beav. 585, 586, n.; nor payment, owing to a threat by the solr at once to enforce securities of the client in his possession: Re Foster, 2 D. F. & J. 105; Re Rance, 22 Beav. 177; Re Sladden, 10 Beav. 488; Re Kinneir, 5 Jur. N. S. 423; 7 W. R. 175; nor generally, where the necessity for paying the bill without investigation does not arise by act or default of the solr: Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571, C. A.; nor payment under a common mistake that the scale fee under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act was payable: Re Glascodine, 52 L. T. 781; nor the fact that the higher scale instead of the lower has been charged: Re Durnford, W. N. (83) 29; nor refusal by solr to hand over title deeds, lawfully in his possession, until he is paid: Re Munns and Longden, 50 L. T. 356; 32 W. R. 675; nor the fact that on payment the solr did not tell the clients (trustees) that the charges might be disallowed if an admon action followed: Re Layton, Steele & Co., W. N. (90) 112; 38 W. R. 652.

Pressure alone is not sufficient, and some specific items of overcharge must still be alleged and proved: Re Lacey & Son, 25 Ch. D. 301, C. A.; Re Boycott, 29 Ch. D. 571, C. A.; Secretary of State for War v. Deane, 33 W. R. 120; Re Thompson, 8 Beav. 237; Re Browne, 1 D. M. & G. 322; Re Finch, 4 D. M. & G. 108; Re Brady, 15 W. R. 632.

And that the doctrine of pressure is not to be extended, see Re Barrow, 17 Beav. 547; Re Hubbard, 15 Beav. 253; nor generally the allowance of taxation after payment: Re Browne, 15 Beav. 61, 64, n.

(b) If the overcharge is so gross as to amount to fraud, taxation will be ordered: Re Harding, 10 Beav. 250; Re Currie, 9 Beav. 602, 608; and see Re Dickson, 8 D. M. & G. 655. And since the Jud. Acts, items unreasonably large, charges requiring explanation, or gross blunders, have been held to be special circumstances entitling the client to taxation after twelve months from delivery of the bills, and semble, after payment: Re Norman, 16 Q. B. D. 673; and see Re Robinson, L. R. 3 Ex. 4.

Instances of overcharge amounting to fraud so as to authorize taxation after payment, are—(a) a charge by solr for business never done, and known to have been never done: see Re Harle, 17 W. R. 21; 19 L. T. 305; (b) or the charge of a scale fee, not being one of the charges specified in the scale in the Gen. Ord. under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881: Re Pybus, 35 Ch. D. 568; Re W. Eley, 37 Ch. D. 40.

Taxation after payment will not, however, be directed if the items of overcharge are merely trifling, and there has been no pressure: Re Drake, 8 Beav. 123; or the items are such as would be disallowed or reduced on taxation: Re Towle, 30 Beav. 170.

No rigid rule can be laid down as to what are "special circumstances." The question is one for the discretion of the Judge, and with that discretion the C. A. will not readily interfere: Re Cheesman, (1891) 2 Ch. 289, C. A.

And after payment the onus of showing overcharge is upon the client: S. C.

An application for taxation after payment should be speedy, and a very short time has been held sufficient for examination of the bill after delivery: Re Towle, 30 Beav. 170; Re Barrow, 17 Beav. 547; Re Browne; Re Mask; Re Hubbard, 15 Beav. 61, 80, 251; Re Drew, 10 Beav. 368; Re Currie, 9 Beav. 602; Re Jones, 8 Beav. 479.

Even though the bill paid under circumstances of pressure contains an objectionable item, unexplained acquiescence for a period short of twelve months may preclude taxation: Re Bayley, 18 Beav. 415; Re Browne, 1 D. M. & G. 322; Re Pugh, 32 Beav. 173.

On application to tax paid bill, taxation must be on it as paid and delivered: Re Wells, 8 Beav. 416; and a previously paid bill could not be added: Re Gregg, 10 W. R. 127; 31 L. J. Ch. 632; 30 Beav. 259.

The application is now by summons: O. LV, 2 (15); and see Re Becke, 5 Beav. 406; Re Carew, 8 Beav. 150, that an ex parte order for taxation after payment was irregular.

Further evidence of "special circumstances" will not be received in support of a motion to discharge the refusal in Chambers of an application to tax after payment: Re Munns, 32 W. R. 675; 50 L. T. 356.

The lapse of twelve months will absolutely preclude taxation after payment: Re Massey, 8 Beav. 458; and this applies to applications under s. 38 (third-party clause): Re F. E. Smith, 32 W. R. 408; and although it is alleged that trust money was improperly paid to the solr with notice of breach of trust: Re Jackson; Re Cottrell; Boughton-Leigh v. B., 40 Ch. D. 495; Gerty v. Mann, 29 L. R. Ir. 7; and although the bill is not signed: Re Sutton and Elliott, 11 Q. B. D. 377, C. A.; Re Falls, 29 L. R. Ir. 1.

Notwithstanding payment, within four days after service of the writ of summons, of the amount claimed by the indorsement for debt or liquidated demand and for costs, the Deft is entitled to have the costs taxed: O. III, 7; and see sup. p. 286.

WHAT CONSTITUTES PAYMENT.

As to the legal effect of paying a bill of costs under protest or with intimation of taxing, see Re Massey, 8 Beav. 462; Re Harrison, 10 Beav. 57; Re Neate, ib. 183; Re Stirke, 11 Beav. 305; Re Welchman, ib. 319; Re Broune, 15 Beav. 61; 1 D. M. & G. 322; Re Bayley, 18 Beav. 415; Re Cheesman, (1891) 2 Ch. 289, C. A.; which seem to establish that mere protest on payment is simply a reservation of the right to tax, and does not give to the payment those incidents of pressure which are required for taxation after payment, especially when the application for taxation is delayed. But see contra, Re Williams, Exp. Love, 65 L. T. 68, in the case of payment by the client made expressly subject to the right to tax.

Giving a security, acceptance, or promissory note for the amount of the bill of costs is payment: Re Boyle, 5 D. M. & G. 540; Re Currie, 9 Beav. 602; Re Harper, 10 Beav. 284; but the twelve months from payment has been reckoned not from delivery but from payment of the note or bill, unless the giving was treated by the parties as actual payment: Sayer v. Wagstaff, 5 Beav. 415.

Retention by solr of client's money for the amount of his costs is not payment within s. 41 so as to preclude taxation after the lapse of twelve months: Re Street, 10 Eq. 165; Re Stogdon, 56 L. T. 355; 56 L. J. Ch. 420; and see Re Cawley and Whatley, 18 W. R. 1125; Re Brady, 15 W. R. 632; Re Bignold, 9 Beav. 269; although sums from time to time retained have been entered in accounts settled and approved by the client: Re Baylis, (1896) 2 Ch. 107, C. A.; nor a payment on settlement of a general account: Re Frappe, Exp. Perret, (1893) 2 Ch. 284, 291; nor a settlement in account with client, a married woman, without independent advice: Re Stogdon, sup.; nor, à fortiori, an agreement by a solr with an illiterate client to retain out of the proceeds of the subject-matter of the suit his bill of costs taken at a given amount: Re Ingle, 21 Beav. 275; nor a settlement in account between a solr-trustee, entitled by the will to charge expenses, and his co-trustee: Re Fish, Bennett v. B., (1893) 2 Ch. 413, C. A.; and delivery of the bill of costs, under the order of the Court, will not make the retention amount to payment (within the principle of Exp. Hemming, 28 L. T. 144; Re Thompson, (1894) 1 Q. B. 462; and Hitchcock v. Stretton, (1892) 2 Ch. 343); Re Baylis, sup.

In one case payments made and accepted in the course of a running account regularly balanced were held referable to a bill of costs subsequently delivered so as to preclude taxation in absence of special circumstances: Hitchcock v. Stretton, (1892) 2 Ch. 343 (explaining and considering Re Stogdon, 56 L. J. Ch. 420; 56 L. T. 355, and Exp. Hemming, 28 L. T. 144; and see Re Falls, 29 L. R. Ir. 1); but the principle of this decision must be applied with caution: Re Baylis, (1896) 2 Ch. 107, C. A.; Cordery, 319; and see Re Callis, 49 W. R. 316.

Where Deft's solr accepted cheque of Plt's solr in payment, it was an accord and satisfaction precluding a subsequent claim by Deft for interest on the costs: Bidder v. Bridges, 37 Ch. D. 406, C. A.

Whether payment by mortgagor to satisfy principal, interest and costs, so as to avoid bringing in accounts in a foreclosure action, is payment within the section, quære: Re Griffith, Jones & Co., 53 L. J. Ch. 303; 32 W. R. 350; 50 L. T. 434.

SECTION VII.—TAXATION AT INSTANCE OF THIRD PARTY.

1. *Order of Course to tax on Application of Third Party liable—
Solicitors Act, 1848, s. 38.*

UPON the petition of B., of &c. [State the circumstances as, that the Petr some time since agreed to take a lease of certain premises of one C., who employed the above-named A. as his solr to prepare such lease, and the Petr is liable to pay the said A.'s bill for preparing the same]; that the said solr, on or about the — day of —, delivered unto the Petr his bill of fees and disbursements which, as the Petr is advised, ought to be taxed, [If so, and which contains charges for work not done on his retainer, and which the Petr is not liable to pay, and the same does not contain any item for business done in any Court: Form 1, p. 268]; that the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due to the said solr on the taxation of his bill; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that it be referred &c. to tax and settle the said bill; And that the Petr and also the said solr do produce &c.; And that they be examined &c.; And it is ordered that if such bill when taxed be less by a sixth part &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; And it is ordered that the amount so to be certified be paid by the party from whom to the party to whom the same shall be certified to be due within twenty-one days after service of this order and of the taxing master's certificate to be made in pursuance thereof, unless the Court shall, upon special circumstances to be certified by the said master, otherwise order, upon application to be made within one week after the date of the said master's certificate by the party liable to pay such amount; And it is ordered that no proceedings be commenced against the Petr in respect of the said bill pending this reference, but the said master is to make his certificate in a month (unless the said master shall extend the time to enable him to make his certificate); or this order is to be of no effect.

And for special orders in the like form, made on application by summons at Chambers, see Re Burne, V.-C. W. at Chambers, 8 Dec. 1871, A. 3077; Re Adams, M. R. at Chambers, 30 Nov. 1875, A. 1879.

The directions to give credit or charge for sums received or paid, and to deliver papers, are not inserted in an order for taxation by a third party liable.

As to the form of special order under sect. 38, and that it will be to tax the bill actually paid, not limiting it to that which would be the proper bill as between the party liable and the party whose costs he agrees to pay, see Re Newman, 2 Ch. 707.

For form of application, see D. C. F. 1048.

2. Order on Special Application of Third Party interested—s. 39.

THE applicant B. (legatee), by his solr, submitting to pay what, if anything, shall appear to be due to A. (solr), upon the taxation of his bill of fees and disbursements, and for business done, as hereinafter mentioned, Let the said A. deliver to the applicant a bill of all such fees, charges, and disbursements over and above those included in the bills hereinafter mentioned, which are now claimed by the said A. against C. and D., as exors of the will of E., deceased, the testator in the petition named, and payable out of the residuary or general estate of the testator; And refer &c. to tax and settle the bill of fees and disbursements, amounting to the sum of £—, delivered by the said A. to the said C. and D. as such exors, and also the bill to be delivered to the applicant as aforesaid; And Let the applicant B., and the said

C. and D., and the said A. produce &c., and be examined &c.; (And Let the said A. give credit for all sums of money by him received of or on account of the said exors in respect of the said bills of costs, or either of them;) And if the amount of the said bills so taxed shall be less by a sixth part &c. [Form 1, p. 268] (exclusive of the costs of the application); And Let the said master certify the amount due from the said exors and the applicant to the said A., or from the said A. to the said exors and the applicant, or either of them, as the case may be, having regard to the costs of such reference (exclusive of the costs of this application); And Let such amount be paid &c., unless &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; No costs of this application on either side.—See Re Downes, M. R., 19 Feb. 1844, A. 581; S. C., 5 Beav. 425.

See D. C. F. 1049.

3. Same—Copy Bill to be delivered—ss. 39, 40.

LET H., within one month from this time, deliver to the applicant a copy of the bill of costs, amounting to £—, delivered by him to T. &c., as the trustees of the applicant under the indenture of &c., upon payment by the applicant of the costs of such copy, to be taxed by the taxing master in case the parties differ; And refer &c. to tax and settle the said bill of costs; And Let the said H. and the applicant produce &c. [see Form 1, p. 268].—Re Higham, 25 June, 1853, A. 1231.

For further order for delivery of a copy of the bill within one week, S. C., 1 Dec. 1853, A. 144.

For order under sect. 39 for payment by solr to applicant (assignee of three-sixths of testator's residuary estate) of three-sixths of amount (if any) certified due from solr, on taxation of paid bill, see Re Hodgins, Cozens-Hardy, J., 21 May, 1901, A. 2082.

NOTES.

Taxation under 6 & 7 V. c. 73, s. 38 (third-party-liaible clause), is by order of course when within sect. 37 (unless the actual delivery of the bill to the third party is in dispute: Re Robertson, 42 Ch. D. 553; Cordery, 325).

Under sect. 39 (third-party-interested clause) it is by special application: Re Straford, 16 Beav. 27; Re Bracey, 8 Beav. 338; now made by summons: O. LV, 2 (15).

After payment, an ex parte order to tax, though at the instance of a third party, is irregular: Re Becke, 5 Beav. 406; Re Carew, 8 Beav. 150 (though there discharged without costs).

Taxation at the instance of a third party interested or liable to pay is regulated by the relation of the other two parties: Re Brown, 4 Eq. 464; Re Baker, 32 Beav. 526; Re Harrison, 10 Beav. 57; Re Fyson, 9 Beav. 117.

The third party stands in the position of the client; so that if the client is not entitled to tax the bill as against the solr, the third party could not claim taxation against the solr, nor, under the Act, without bill filed against the client who has paid: Re Massey, 34 Beav. 463 (correcting the decision in Re Jessop, 32 Beav. 406; Re Baker, ib. 526, that a bill may be taxed as against trustees without the solr having any interest or concern in the taxation); and see Re Press and Inskip, 35 Beav. 34; Re Forsyth, 2 D. J. & S. 509; 34 Beav. 140; Re Gold, 19 W. R. 343; 24 L. T. 9; Re Holliday and Godlee, 58 L. T. 301; Re Cusack, 21 L. R. Ir. 493; Re Donaldson, 27 Ch. D. 544; but the third party order does not alter or enlarge the liability upon which the order is based, and the Court will consider whether the items are such as the applicant is bound to pay: Re Gray, (1901) 1 Ch. 239. The taxing master is not necessarily tied by the prefatory words of the order: Re Pettitt and Valentine, W. N. (01) 112.

A bankrupt is not, pending the bankruptcy, a "party interested" in the estate in the hands of the trustee in bankruptcy, so as to entitle him, after discharge and payment of creditors in full, to obtain delivery and taxation under sect. 39 of a bill of costs paid by such trustee out of the estate: Re Leadbitter, 10 Ch. D. 388, C. A.; and see Rochfort v. Battersby, 2 H. L. C. 388; Bird v. Philpott, (1900) 1 Ch. 822.

Taxation is as between solr and client: Re Neate, 10 Beav. 181; the clause not being applicable to taxation as between party and party: Re Grundy and Kershaw, 17 Ch. D. 108; Re Cowdell, 31 W. R. 335; 52 L. J. Ch. 246; but in taxation on behalf of c. q. t. the solr will not be allowed to charge the trust estate for anything not necessary for the admon thereof: and see Re Carthew, 27 Ch. D. 487. And if such charges have resulted from fanciful directions given by the trustee, to the trustee personally must he look for payment: Re Brown, 4 Eq. 464.

For taxation at the instance of c. q. t. before and after payment, see Re Downes, 5 Beav. 525; Re Massey, 8 Beav. 458; Re Rees, 12 Beav. 256; Re Robertson, 42 Ch. D. 553; of mortgagee's solr's bill at the instance of mortgagor or subsequent incumbrancer, Re Lees, 5 Beav. 410; Re Bignold, 9 Beav. 269; or trustee in bankruptcy of mortgagor, Re Allingham, 32 Ch. D. 36, C. A.

The proviso in sect. 41, that applications for taxation must be made within twelve months after payment, applies to applications under sect. 38: Re F. E. Smith, 32 W. R. 407; Re Massey, 8 Beav. 458; and also to cases under sect. 39: Re Wellborne, (1901) 1 Ch. 312, C. A.; Re Chown, 52 L. T. 75; Re Dickson, 8 D. M. & G. 655; Re Dawson, 28 Beav. 605; 8 W. R. 554; Re Drake, inf.; Re Neate, 10 Beav. 181; Re Rees, sup.; Re Massey, sup.

The petition (now summons) should be served on the mortgagee: see Re Jessop, 32 Beav. 406; Re Baker, ib. 526.

Specific items of overcharge must be alleged and proved on an application under the third-party clause after payment, as in the case of an application by the client: Re Bennett, 8 Beav. 467; Re Dickson, 8 D. M. & G. 655.

And see Dunt v. D., 9 Beav. 146, where mortgagor's petition to tax mortgagee's solr's bill after payment was dismissed with costs, as alleging neither pressure nor specific overcharge.

But it is not necessary to show fraudulent overcharge: Re Drake, 22 Beav. 438.

Before the Married Women's Property Act, 1870, a husband liable for costs due from his wife before marriage was entitled to tax: Waring v. Williams, 2 Beav. 1.

But in Re Godfrey, M. R., 1 July, 1875, A. 1228, an order obtained by husband and wife for taxation was discharged with costs, on the ground (inter alia) that the husband was not liable.

Voluntary payment by a party under no liability to pay gives him no right to tax: Re Becke, 5 Beav. 406; Re Heritage, 3 Q. B. D. 726; unless such payment has been made as part of the terms of compromising a suit: Re Hartley, 30 Beav. 620 (subject to explanation given in Re Grundy, 17 Ch. D. 108); and see Vincent v. Venner, 1 My. & K. 212; Waters v. Taylor, 2 My. & Cr. 556.

SECTION VIII.—TAXATION BY OR AGAINST REPRESENTATIVES.

1. Order of Course to tax Bill delivered by Solr's Represve.

UPON the petition of B., of &c., it was alleged that the Petr employed the above-named A. as his solr in &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; that the said A. is since deceased, and D. as the admor of the effects [or exor of the will] of the said A., on or about the — day of —, delivered unto the Petr the bill of fees and disbursements of the said A., which, as the

Petr is advised [contains, if so, charges for work not done on his retainer, and which the Petr is not liable to pay, and], ought to be taxed; that the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due to the said D. as such admor [or exor] as aforesaid on the taxation of the said bill; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that it be referred &c. to tax and settle the said bill; and that the Petr and also the said D. do produce &c.; And that they be examined &c. [Form 1, p. 268]; And it is ordered, that the said D. do give credit for all sums of money received by him or the said A., of or on account of the Petr; And be at liberty to charge all sums of money paid by him or the said A. to or on account of the Petr; And it is ordered, that if such bill when taxed be less by a sixth part &c.; And the said master is to certify the amount due from the Petr to the estate of the said A., having regard to the costs of such reference so to be taxed as aforesaid, or from the estate of the said A. to the Petr, as the case may be, having regard to any sum or sums of money which may have been so received or paid as aforesaid; And it is ordered, that any amount so to be certified to be due from the Petr to the estate of the said A. be paid by the Petr B. to the said D. within twenty-one days after service of this order, and of the taxing master's certificate to be made in pursuance thereof, unless the Court shall upon special circumstances to be certified by the said master otherwise order, upon application to be made within one week after the date of the said master's certificate by the Petr; And it is ordered, that upon payment by the Petr to the said D. of what may be certified to be due to him as such admor [or exor], or in case it shall appear that there is nothing due to him, he, the said D., do deliver to the Petr, upon oath, all deeds, books, papers, and writings in his custody or power as such admor [or exor] as aforesaid, belonging to the Petr; And it is ordered that no proceedings be commenced against the Petr in respect of the said bill pending this reference, but the said master is to make his certificate in a month, unless the said master shall extend the time to enable him to make his certificate, or this order is to be of no effect; And in case the said master shall certify that any amount is due from the estate of the said A., and the said bill when taxed shall be less by a sixth part than the said bill as delivered, It is ordered, that the said D. do pay to the Petr the amount which the said master shall certify to be due for the costs of this reference.

The above form is applicable, where the order is to tax a bill delivered by the trustee in bankruptcy of a bankrupt solr, mutatis mutandis.

2. Order of Course to deliver Bill to Client's Represe, and to Tax.

UPON the petition of B. &c., the admor of the effects [or exor of the will] of C., of &c., deceased, it was alleged that the said C. in his lifetime employed the above-named A. as his solr in &c.; that the said C. has since died, and that letters of admon to his effects [or probate of his will] have [or has] been granted to the said B. ; that the Petr is desirous of obtaining the papers in the possession of the said solr belonging to the Petr as such admor [or exor] as aforesaid ; but the said solr refuses to deliver up the same until his bill of costs is paid ; that the said solr, although applied to, has not delivered his bill of costs against the Petr as such admor [or exor] as aforesaid ; that the Petr submits to pay what shall appear to be due in respect of the said bill ; It was therefore prayed, and it is accordingly ordered, that the said solr do, within fourteen days after notice hereof, deliver to the Petr a bill of fees and disbursements in all suits, causes, actions, and other matters of business in which he has been employed as the solr for the said C., deceased ; And that it be referred &c. to tax and settle the said bill, and that the Petr and also the said solr do produce &c. ; And that they be examined &c. ; And it is ordered, that the said solr do give credit for all sums of money by him received of or on account of the said C., deceased, and be at liberty to charge all sums of money paid by him to or on account of the said C., deceased.—[Usual directions as in Form 1, p. 268, adding after “ Petr ” the words “ as such admor, or exor.”]

3. Order to continue Proceedings and carry on Taxation after Payment.

UPON motion &c. by counsel for M., of &c., who alleged that by an order dated &c., It was ordered that it should be referred to the taxing master to tax and settle the bill of fees, charges, and disbursements, amounting to the sum of £—, delivered by the above-named S. &c. (the solrs) to T. in the said order named and paid by him to the said solrs on &c. (that no proceedings have been taken under the said order dated &c.), and that the said T. died on &c. intestate, and that on the &c. letters of admon of his estate were granted to the said M. whereby she became and now is his legal pers. represve ; Let the said order and the proceedings thereunder be continued, and the taxation thereby directed be carried on between the said M. and the said solrs ; And Let the said M. and the solrs produce &c., and be examined &c. ; And Let the said solrs give credit &c. [Form 1, p. 268] ; and in case it shall appear the said bill is overpaid, Let &c. [see Section VI., p. 286].—See Re Sankey, V.-C. W., 25th Nov. 1872, B. 3039.

As to orders to revive proceedings which had abated since taxation was directed, see Re Nicholson, Re Waugh, 29 Beav. 665, 666.

By the Attorneys and Solicitors Act, 1870 (33 & 34 V. c. 28), s. 19, “ any person interested under a decree or order ” for payment of costs in any suit may obtain an order to revive such suit, and thereupon to prosecute and enforce such decree or order.

This section did not enable a solr, to whom costs had been ordered to be paid, to obtain an order to revive : Hunter v. Wortley, W. N. (73) 4.

The practice in cases where, formerly, by marriage, death, or bankruptcy, &c., an order of revivor would have been required, has been simplified by O. XVII, 2, 4, under which an order to carry on proceedings may be obtained ex parte on application to the Court or a Judge, or by petition of course, or in Chambers: Walker v. Blackmore, W. N. (76) 132; and v. sup. Chap. IX., "CHANGE OF PARTIES," p. 113.

For order to proceed with a taxation against the surviving Plts in the absence of a legal pers. represve of one deceased, see Aspden v. Seddon, W. N. (77) 207; 1877, A. 1766.

4. Costs of a Deceased Solr and Exor moderated, though no longer Taxable.

[The testator's solr and exor retained his costs out of the assets. Many years afterwards, under a decree for the usual admon accounts, the solr's represve claimed such payment as a discharge. Although the bill was no longer taxable, the beneficiaries were allowed to have it moderated.]

"VARY the order dated &c., by striking out &c., and the direction to tax and settle &c.; And instead thereof, Let the taxing master inquire and certify whether any and which of the disputed items marked &c., in the bills referred to are fair and proper to be allowed, and to (any and) what amount respectively."—No costs on either side.—Allen v. Jarvis, 4 Ch. 616, 23 June, 1869, A. 2148.

For order in similar form as to items in bill of costs delivered to testator which were disputed by exor, see Re Park, Coles v. P., 41 Ch. D. 326, C. A.

As to the power of the Court to direct the taxing officer to assist in settling an account which consists in part of any bill of costs, see O. LXV, 27 (26).

For forms of request, see D. C. F. 612.

SECTION IX.—REVIEW OF TAXATION.

1. Order for Review of Taxation—Costs of Application—Set-off.

THE application of J. &c., to review the certificate dated &c., of the taxation of the bill of costs &c., which, upon hearing the solrs for the applicant and for the L. Co. in Chambers, was adjourned to be heard in Court, coming on this day to be heard accordingly, and upon hearing counsel &c.; And the Court being of opinion that such of the items of the said bill of costs, and charges, and expenses as relate to the examination of the title to the hereditaments comprised in Lot 2, part of the estates directed to be sold by the order dated &c., ought to be disallowed, Doth order that it be referred to the said taxing master to review his said certificate.—Costs of the applicant in Chambers, and of drawing up this order and consequent thereon, to be taxed, and set off against any costs, and costs, charges, and expenses to be paid by the applicant to the said co. under the said order dated &c.—Raymond v. Lakeman, M. R., 27 March, 1865, B. 1317.

For form of summons, see D. C. F. 726.

2. Review of Taxation—Claim and Counter-claim—O. LXV, 27 (41).

THE application of the Deft, which upon hearing &c. was adjourned &c., and upon hearing counsel for the Deft and for the Plt; And the Court being of opinion that on the taxation of the costs under the judgment dated &c. the Plt is liable to pay the whole of the Deft's costs, except so far as they have been increased by the Deft's counter-claim, and that there ought to be no apportionment of the Deft's general costs of the action, and that the Deft is liable to pay to the Plt only the amount by which the Plt's costs have been increased by the Deft's counter-claim; Let it be referred to the taxing master to review his taxation accordingly.—Saner v. Bilton, Fry, J., 19 March, 1879, B. 648.

3. Review of Taxation—Order on Objections—Costs apportioned—Set-off.

THE application of the Plt to review the taxing master's certificate, dated &c., which, upon hearing the solrs for the applicant and for the Deft in Chambers, was adjourned to be heard in Court, coming on this day to be heard accordingly, and upon hearing counsel for the Plt and for the Deft, and upon reading the objections &c.; Let the said taxing master's certificate stand and be allowed as to the subject-matter of the first objection, and be varied as to the subject-matter of the second objection, by the disallowance of three counsel to the Deft; and by allowing the Deft two counsel only on the trial of this action and counter-claim; And Let it be referred to the taxing master to tax the costs of the Plt and of the Deft of this application; And Let the Plt pay the amount of three-fourths of the said costs and the Deft pay one-fourth of the said costs; And Let the amount of the costs of the Plt be set off against the costs of the Deft, having regard to the variation in the said taxing master's certificate, and the taxing master is to certify to whom the balance is to be paid.—Directions for payment.—Mason v. Brentini, V.-C. M., 5 June, 1880, B. 1354; affirmed on appeal, 1880, B. 1642, 15 Ch. D. 287, C. A.

4. Objections to Taxing Master's Certificate—Subsequent Order as to Costs.

UPON the application of A. &c., and upon reading the order dated &c., the objections dated &c. left by the applicants with the taxing master, the taxing master's certificate dated &c., and the affidavits therein referred to, Let the said objections dated &c., so far as they relate to the items in Part 2 thereof, be allowed; And Let it be referred back to the taxing master to vary his certificate accordingly.—Tax the costs of the applicants of obtaining the said order, and of the taxation thereby directed, and deduct the same from the amount which shall appear to be due from the applicants to the solrs.—The balance to be certified, and to be paid by the applicants to the solrs within twenty-one days from the date of the taxing master's certificate.—Re Cartwright, M. R., 13 Nov. 1875, A. 2305.

5. Objections to Taxing Master's Certificate.

LET the objections No. 1 &c. left by the applicant with the taxing master be allowed; And Let it be referred back to the taxing master to vary his certificate accordingly.—Re Searle, M. R. at Chambers, 4 Dec. 1872, B. 3137.

For order to review taxation on application made before certificate, see Coulton v. Senior, V.-C. H. at Chambers, 4 Nov. 1878, A. 2059.

REVIEW.

By O. LXV, 27 (39—42), any party dissatisfied with the allowance or disallowance by the taxing officer of the whole or any part of any item or items, may at any time before the certificate or allocatur is signed, deliver to the other party interested therein, and carry in before the taxing officer, an objection in writing to such allowance or disallowance, specifying therein the items or parts objected to, and the grounds and reasons for such objection, and apply to the taxing officer to review the taxation in respect of the same. Upon such application the taxing officer shall reconsider and review his taxation upon such objections, and may, if he think fit, receive further evidence, and if so required by either party he shall state, either in his certificate of taxation or allocatur, or by reference to such objection, the grounds and reasons of his decision, and any special facts or circumstances relating thereto. Any party dissatisfied with the certificate or allocatur as to any item, &c. objected to may apply to a Judge at Chambers for an order to review the taxation as to the same item, &c., and the Judge may thereupon make such order as he may deem just, but the certificate or allocatur shall be final and conclusive as to all matters not objected to in manner aforesaid. Such application shall be heard and determined by the Judge upon the evidence brought in before the taxing officer, and no further evidence shall be received upon the hearing unless the Judge shall otherwise direct.

Where a person not a party to an order for taxation desires to have the taxation reviewed, he should not apply to review, but should move to set aside the order: Charlton v. C., 31 W. R. 237.

Where a taxing master, on the day on which the objections were carried in, gave notice that they would be proceeded with the next day, it was held under the circumstances sufficient: Re Hill, 33 Ch. D. 266, C. A.

The application to review is by summons, and not on motion: Webster v. Manby, 4 Ch. 372; unless made to a Judge of the Chancery Division with no Chamber staff: Millard v. Burroughes, W. N. (79) 198; and cannot be entertained unless an objection in writing, under r. 27 (39), as to each item objected to has been first carried in: Strousberg v. Saunders, 38 W. R. 117.

If the objection is to the general principle on which the taxation has proceeded, and not to specific items, the certificate may be discharged on summons, without carrying in objections under r. 27 (39): Re Castle, 36 Ch. D. 194.

As a general rule, the certificate is reviewed on questions of principle only, and not of mere quantum, which is left to the discretion of the taxing master: Re Mortimer, 4 Eq. 96; Alsop v. Lord Oxford, 1 M. & K. 564; Re Catlin, 18 Beav. 508; Oliver v. Robins, W. N. (94) 199; 64 L. J. Ch. 203; 71 L. T. 636; 46 W. R. 137.

And the discretion of the taxing master applies not only to the quantum, but to the quoties, e.g., in the case of interviews, to the number of interviews as well as to the sum to be allowed for each: Re Brown, 4 Eq. 464.

On the other hand, the allowance of the higher instead of the lower scale was a question of principle on which the taxation would be reviewed: Paddon v. Winch, 20 Eq. 449. And see "Morgan and Wurtzburg, Costs," 576.

And the Court or a Judge has now discretion, on special grounds arising out of the nature and importance, or the difficulty or urgency of the case, to order the higher scale to be applied in any particular case: O. LXV, 9; Paine v. Chisholm, (1891) 1 Q. B. 531; but not to delegate such discretion to the master: Corticene, &c. Co. v. Tull & Co., 27 W. R. 373. On the question whether special grounds in fact existed, an appeal will lie: Paine v. Chisholm, sup.

The taxation of counsel's fees, solr's charges, separate appearances, and other items not involving any question of principle, is not, as a general rule, open to review: Parkinson v. Hanbury, 13 W. R. 1056; 11 Jur. N. S. 474; 12 L. T. 624; Cousens v. C., 7 Ch. 48; A. G. v. Drapers' Co., 9 Eq. 69; Webb's Estate, 21 W. R. 745; 28 L. T. 726; Beattie v. Lord Ebury, 22 W. R. 68; 4 L. J. Ch. 80; 29 L. T. 419; Merchants' Bank Co. v. Maud, 20 Eq. 453.

But, in a proper case, the certificate may be reviewed even upon questions of quantum: Smith v. Buller, 19 Eq. 473; especially as to counsel's fees on the hearing of an appeal; a question which the Court below is best able to decide: Gilbert v. Guignon, 21 W. R. 745; and see Mason v. Brentini, 15 Ch. D. 287, C. A.

The following cases, upon the discretion of the taxing master, may also be consulted: Re Harrison, 33 Ch. D. 52; Re Page, 32 Beav. 485, 487; Hallows v. Fernie, 16 W. R. 175; 17 L. T. 347; Potter v. Rankin, L. R. 4 C. P. 76; 5 ib. 518; Yglesias v. Royal Exchange, &c. Corp., L. R. 5 C. P. 141; Ryan v. Dolan, L. R. 7 Eq. 92; Wakefield v. Brown, L. R. 9 C. P. 410; The Soto, (1893) P. 73. As to the inability of the taxing master to make a separate certificate as to part of the reference, see Silkstone and Haigh Moor Coal Co. v. Edey, W. N. (01) 170; but see O. LII, 26, sup. p. 282.

ALLOWANCES.

The costs of proceedings in the Supreme Court of Judicature are regulated by O. LXV; but in special matters of pleading, discretion is given to the taxing officer, in lieu of the allowances for instructions, and preparing or drawing, to make such allowance for work, labour, and expenses of preparation, as he may think proper: see Turnbull v. Janson, 3 C. P. D. 264. He may also make special allowance in respect of agency correspondence in country agency causes and matters, when it is shown to have been special and extensive; O. LXV, 27 (10).

In matters at Chambers, which from the length of the attendance, or difficulty of the case, or from the extraordinary skill and labour required and received from the solr, shall appear to deserve higher remuneration than the ordinary fees, the Judge or master may allow the solr, by a memorandum made for the purpose and signed by the Judge, a fee not exceeding ten guineas, instead of the fees of two guineas, three guineas, and five guineas: ib. 12.

By r. 27 (38), all fees or allowances which are discretionary, are, unless otherwise provided, to be allowed at the discretion of the taxing officer, who is to take into consideration the other fees and allowances to the solr and counsel, if any, in respect of the work to which any such allowance applies, the nature and importance of the cause or matter, the amount involved, the interest of the parties, the fund or persons to bear the costs, the general conduct and costs of the proceedings, and all other circumstances.

By r. 27 (38a) (R. S. C. May, 1889), where costs directed to be taxed, with a view to payment out of a fund or estate (real or personal), or out of the assets of a co. in liquidation, shall have been increased by unnecessary delay, or by improper, vexatious, or unnecessary proceedings, or by other misconduct or negligence, or if from any other cause the amount of the costs, in the opinion of the taxing master, is excessive, having regard to the value of the fund, estate, or assets to which they relate, or other circumstances, the taxing master is to allow only such an amount of costs as would, in his opinion, have been incurred if the litigation had been properly conducted, and to assess the same at a gross sum, and (if necessary) apportion the amount among the parties.

By O. LXII, 15, "the registrar shall, at the time of any attendance before him for the purpose of settling the terms of, and passing any judgment or order, if requested to do so by any party, on the ground that it is of a special nature, or of unusual length or difficulty, certify, for the information of the taxing officer, whether, in his opinion, any special allowance ought to be made in taxation of costs in respect thereof."

And for the rule under the former practice as to solrs' remuneration for particular services, and their right to charge for services warranted by practice, though not absolutely necessary, see Lucas v. Peacock, 8 Beav. 1; Davenport v. Stafford, Ib. 503, 516; Stephens v. L. Newborough, 11 Beav. 403.

As to payments to be entered in the bill of costs, and allowed as professional charges and disbursements, see certificate of taxing masters in Re Remnant, 11 Beav. 603, 611; Re Lamb, 23 Q. B. D. 5.

As to disallowance of costs of uncertificated solr, v. inf. p. 316.

The following are instances of allowance or disallowance on review of particular items (except where otherwise indicated) as between party and party:—

Abstracts of Title:—

Are not included in the words "deeds, wills, and other documents," cited in Schedule II. to Gen. Ord., August, 1882 (Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881), and the old scale of 6s. 8d. for perusal of every brief sheet of eight folios each remains unaltered: Re R. A. Parker, 29 Ch. D. 199.

Marshall*, 1 Dr. & S. 354 (costs of settling by counsel allowed); Bagley v. Searle, W. N. (87) 71 (costs of affidavit verifying statement of claim not allowed); and see O. LXV, 27 (1), (4), (5), (15), (45). Costs of affidavits prepared during a stay of proceedings are not necessarily to be disallowed: Whiteley Exerciser, Ltd. v. Gamage, (1898) 2 Ch. 405.

Agency:—

As to what the usual agency terms are, see Ward v. Lawson, 43 Ch. D. 353, C. A. As to mode of taxation where London agents and country firm have a common partner, and the consequent disallowance of "close copies" in such a case, see Re Borough Commercial, &c. Soc., (1894) 1 Ch. 289, C. A., and Cordery, 252.

If shown to the satisfaction of the taxing officer that agency correspondence has been special and extensive, he is at liberty to make such special allowance in respect thereof as in his discretion he may think proper: O. LXV, 27 (10).

Copies of Proceedings and Documents:—

See O. LXV, 27 (18), as to allowance of 4d. per folio for copies of documents in possession of other party: O. LXVI, 7 (c), as to printed copies furnished by party printing.

It is the duty of the taxing master to consider in each case whether copies of pleadings, &c. are, upon an interlocutory application, "necessary or proper for the attainment of justice, &c.," under O. LXV, 27 (29): Warner v. Mosses, 19 Ch. D. 72; and see Simmons v. Storer, 14 Ch. D. 154; and to ascertain what part of the correspondence used at a trial was, having regard to all the circumstances, necessary or proper for the proper argument and decision of the case: Budgett v. B., (1895) 1 Ch. 202.

In Kennedy v. George, 6 W. R. 218; Sharp v. Wright, 1 Eq. 634; Underwood v. Secretary of State for India, 16 W. R. 752; 18 L. T. 351; a charge for written copies of printed documents was disallowed: see O. LXVI, 7 (e). The allowance of 4d. a folio for manuscript copies does not extend to carbon copies produced by a typewriter: Exp. Latimer, 60 L. J. Q. B. 626.

And as to costs of correspondence for the use of the Court, see Hayne v. Cavell, W. N. (75) 141 (so much as copies of the documents by a law stationer would cost, allowed); Turnock v. Sartoris, W. N. (90) 210, (intimating that such costs will be allowed if applied for).

—of documents briefed and entered in the decree as read: Murphy v. Nolan, I. R. 7 Eq. 498.

—of documents for use of C. A.: Re Randell, Hood v. R., 56 L. T. 8.

—English and French copies of French originals: Ebrard v. Gassier, 55 L. T. 741.

—reconveyance or transfer of mortgage; only one fair copy of deed to be allowed for mortgagee or transferee: Re Wade and Thomas, 17 Ch. D. 348.

Charges for copies ought not to be disallowed merely because copies in a similar action by another Plt against the same Deft might have been used: Re Met. Coal Consumers' Assoc., Grieb's case, 45 Ch. D. 606.

Counsel's Fees (O. LXV, 27 (47)) :—

As a general rule, the costs of one counsel only will be allowed in matters unopposed: Friend v. Solly, 10 Beav. 329; or involving only a short simple point of practice: Yearsley v. Y., 19 Beav. 1; see, however, Stephens v. Lord Newborough, 11 Beav. 403; Sturge v. Dimsdale, 9 Beav. 170, for the allowance, under special circumstances, of the costs of two counsel upon an unopposed motion or petition: Re Webb's Estate, W. N. (73) 127; 28 L. T. 726; 21 W. R. 745, for the allowance of two counsel for parties served with an admon decree on summons to vary certificate; and Cooke v. Turner, 12 Sim. 650; Llanover v. Homfray, W. N. (84) 134, for observations as to the policy of encouraging junior counsel by allowing their fees.

Where the County Court scale is applicable under O. LXV, 12, costs of only one counsel are to be allowed on taxation, except for special reasons shown: O. LXV, 27 (46).

The rule in the Appeal Court is to hear two counsel only on each side. On appeals from inferior Courts, one counsel only will be heard on each side: Hawes v. Peake, 24 W. R. 407; 33 L. T. 818.

In general, before the Railway Commrs, costs of more than two counsel will not be allowed: Glamorgan County Council v. G. W. Ry. Co., (1895) 1 Q. B. 21.

In ordinary actions in the Chancery Division, one counsel only will be heard on questions of fact, two on questions of law: Conington v. Gilliatt, 1 Ch. D. 694; Kay v. Cammell, W. N. (88) 250.

Costs of two junior counsel to settle an answer were disallowed in Davis v. Earl Dysart, 21 Beav. 124; as also the costs of two counsel before the examiner: Hallows v. Fernie, 16 W. R. 175; 17 L. T. 347.

Costs of two counsel may be allowed though both juniors: O. LXV, 27 (47).

Costs of a Queen's Counsel, to advise in consultation as to frame of suit allowed: Forster v. Davies, 11 W. R. 813.

Though usual to allow one counsel only on each side in taxing costs of a reference, the rule is not inflexible: Sinclair v. G. E. Ry. Co., L. R. 5 C. P. 135; Orient Steam Co. v. Ocean Insurance Co., 35 W. R. 771.

As a general rule, the costs of two counsel only are allowed on taxation between party and party, but the costs of a third counsel have been allowed where the case was of exceptional magnitude or complication: Pearce v. Lindsay, Joh. 702; 1 D. F. & J. 573; Betts v. Clifford, 1 J. & H. 74; Wentworth v. Lloyd, 2 Eq. 607; N. E. Ry. Co. v. Jackson, 22 W. R. 629; Re Laffitte's Claim, 20 Eq. 650; Robb v. Connor, I. R. 9 Eq. 373; Kirkwood v. Webster, 9 Ch. D. 239 (commented on in Glamorgan County Council v. G. W. Ry. Co., (1895) 1 Q. B. 21); The Mammoth, 9 P. D. 126; Re Cathcart, W. N. (93) 107; but disallowed in Flockton v. Peake, 12 W. R. 1023; 4 N. R. 456; Betts v. Cleaver, 7 Ch. 513; Merchant Bank Co. v. Maud, 20 Eq. 453; Re Anglo-Austrian Printing Union, (1894) 2 Ch. 622; and see Smith v. Effingham, 10 Beav. 378. Very special circumstances are required to justify allowance, on party and party taxation, of a "special" fee to leading counsel: Re Parson, P. v. P., (1901) 2 Ch. 176.

A trustee unsuccessfully attacked on further consideration and severing from his co-trustee, was allowed the costs of two counsel: Re Maddock, Butt v. Wright, (1899) 2 Ch. 588. And where such costs had been allowed by the taxing officer, the Court refused to interfere: Stanton v. Baring, W. N. (75) 188.

And see Merchant Bank Co. v. Maud, 20 Eq. 453, that an arrangement by which B.'s leading counsel was transferred to his co-Deft A., for the hearing of the appeal, on which B. appeared by one counsel only, was no ground for disturbing the taxing officer's disallowance of the costs of A.'s third counsel (originally retained by B.).

In solr and client taxation, costs of a third counsel will not be allowed unless the solr has expressly told his client that such costs might not be allowed on party taxation: Blyth and Fanshaw, 10 Q. B. D. 207, C. A.; Re Broad, 15 Q. B. D. 420, C. A.; Lynch to Chance, 30 L. R. Ir. 278.

Although there was no rule that two additional counsel might always be allowed, where the counsel who drew and advised upon the pleadings was called within the bar before the hearing (Betts v. Cleaver, sup., Green v. Briggs, 7 Ha. 279), yet such allowance, on the ground that a leader had been already retained and actually employed, has been made in Cousens v. C., 7 Ch. 48; Horsley v. Cox, 7 Eq. 464; Laffitte's Claim, 20 Eq. 650.

But the rule has been since laid down by the L. O., in concurrence with the L. JJ., and after communication with the taxing masters, that the mere fact that a junior counsel in a cause has been called within the bar is not a sufficient reason for allowing, on taxation, the costs of briefs to three counsel: 10 Ch. 540. And see Parish v. Poole, 34 W. R. 365.

The quantum of counsel's fees (except perhaps on the hearing of an appeal) is generally in the taxing master's discretion, which will not be interfered with, unless exercised in a manifestly erroneous, or unreasonable manner, or except in extreme cases: Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 517, C. A.; Hargreaves v. Scott, 4 C. P. D. 21; Tillett v. Stracey, L. R. 5 C. P. 185; and this discretion extends (though to be very jealously exercised) to the allowance of an addition to fees as originally marked: Easton v. London Joint Stock Bank, 38 Ch. D. 25.

Special fees may be allowed where clients have authorized them, but where special fees are paid to a leader, fees to juniors are not, in absence of such authority, necessarily to be according to the same scale: Re Harrison, 33 Ch. D. 52, C. A.

Fees to counsel ought not to be reduced merely because he is employed in two separate though similar actions by two Plts against the same Deft: Re Met. Coal Consumers' Assn., Grieb's case, 45 Ch. D. 606.

Absence at the hearing is not per se a ground for disallowing counsel's fees: Charman v. Brandon, 82 L. T. 369.

No fee to counsel is to be allowed unless vouched by his signature: O. LXV, 27 (52).

Retaining fee to counsel is not to be allowed on taxation as between party and party: O. LXV, 27 (44).

According to O. LXV, 27 (16), no costs of counsel's attendance in Chambers are in any case to be allowed unless the Judge certifies it to be a proper case for counsel to attend; but this must be read in conjunction with O. LV, 1a, which provides that "in any proceeding before the Judge in Chambers, any party may, if he so desire, be represented by counsel."

O. LXV, 27 (16), has been held to apply to taxation as between solr and client: Re Chapman, 10 Q. B. D. 54, C. A.

The costs of settling drafts by counsel for the parties, after a direction for settling them by the conveyancing counsel of the Court, will not be allowed unless the Judge otherwise directs: Jones' Estate, 4 Jur. N. S. 887; and see O. LXV, 22.

And see, as to counsel's fees generally, Smith v. Buller, 19 Eq. 473; Robb v. Connor, L. R. 9 Eq. 373; Cordery, 141 et seq.

Diagrams :—

On briefs in a patent case were disallowed as "luxuries": Smith v. Buller, 19 Eq. 473.

But in a similar suit the allowance by the taxing master of a sum for preparing a model was not disturbed: Batley v. Kynock, 20 Eq. 632.

Evidence :—

Such just and reasonable charges and expenses as appear to have been properly incurred in procuring evidence and the attendance of witnesses are to be allowed: O. LXV, 27 (9).

Costs of procuring evidence may be allowed Deft, though action is discontinued or witnesses not actually called: Windham v. Bainton, 21 Q. B. D. 199; Wicksteed v. Biggs, 52 L. T. 428; 54 L. J. Ch. 967.

Exhibits :—

Without special direction from the Judge, the costs of perusing exhibits to affidavits will not be allowed: Rymer v. De Rosaz, 24 Ch. D. 684 (where, following Concha v. Murietta, V.-C. B., 1st May, 1880, the order was made for the taxing master to be at liberty to allow a special charge for perusal and consideration, &c., the amount thereof, if any, to be in the discretion of the taxing master).

Experts :—See O. LXV, 27 (36), and inf. p. 307, referring to witnesses.

Extension of Time :—See O. LXV, 27 (24).

Forma pauperis :—

Costs directed to be paid to a party thus suing or defending are to be taxed as in other cases, unless the Court shall otherwise direct: O. XVI, 31.

Improper, vexatious, or unnecessary Matter, or Prolixity:—

May be disallowed by the Court or Judge, or the taxing master may be directed to look into the same, and to disallow the costs thereof: see O. LXV, 27 (20), sup. p. 263, and a gross sum only is to be allowed where taxation is directed with a view to payment out of fund, or estate, or assets of co.: O. LXV, 27 (38a), v. sup. p. 298.

For cases under the corresponding Cons. Ord. 40, rr. 9, 10, see Re Will's Trusts, 12 W. R. 97; Scottish Union Co. v. Steele, 9 L. T. 677.

Without special direction, the taxing master could not under the above rules look into the pleadings to discover what was of unnecessary or improper length: Re Farington, 33 Beav. 347; Re Skidmore, 1 Jur. N. S. 696.

Inspection of Documents:—

Under O. XXXI, 15; no allowance unless for good and sufficient reasons shown: O. LXV, 27 (17).

Country solr, unless specially authorized, cannot charge for journeys to London to attend counsel or Court or inspect deeds: Re Storer, 26 Ch. D. 189; Popjoy v. Rich, 27 L. J. Exch. 10; but there is no hard and fast rule disallowing such attendances, and the taxing officer has a discretion to allow them in exceptional cases: Re Dixon, Tousey v. Sheffield, (1898) 2 Ch. 443, C. A.; and see Cordery, 84.

As to allowance for journeys in respect of conveyancing business (whether transacted in an action or not: Stanford v. Roberts, 26 Ch. D. 155), see Solicitors' Remuneration Act, General Order, Schedule II., and inf. p. 310.

Letters:—

As against the client will not be allowed unless properly required for the purpose of advancing client's business: Re Brady, 15 W. R. 632; Re Harle, 17 W. R. 21; 19 L. T. 305.

In country agency causes and matters the taxing officer may make a special allowance for correspondence shown, to his satisfaction, to have been special and extensive: O. LXV, 27 (10).

Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868:—

By sect. 41, the costs of a petition under, are to be taxed by the master of the Court of Common Pleas, according to the same principles as costs between solr and client are taxed in a suit in Chancery: see Hill v. Peel, L. R. 5 C. P. 172; Hughes v. Meyrick, ib. 407.

Perusals :—

See App. N., Nos. 122—136.

Perusing Affidavits and Documents :—

Charges for, in separate suits relating to the same subject-matter were disallowed where, having taken an office copy in one suit, solr merely examined at the Record Office the affidavits which he had been told were identical in the other suits : see Betts v. Cleaver, 7 Ch. 513.

Costs of producing documents under an order at the office of his own solr, and of inspecting his opponent's documents, were not allowed to the successful party : Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 517, C. A.; Wicksteed v. Biggs, 54 L. J. Ch. 967; 52 L. T. 428.

See O. XXXVIII, 30; O. LXVI, 5—7; The Mammoth, 9 P. D. 126.

The costs of transcribing and printing (not of taking) the shorthand notes of the evidence in the Court below for the Appeal Court were, under the circumstances, allowed : Bigsby v. Dickinson, 4 Ch. D. 24.

And see O. LVIII, 11 (6), 12, enabling the Court below, or a Judge thereof, or the Court of Appeal, &c., to order the whole or any part of the evidence which has not been printed in the Court below to be printed for the purpose of the appeal.

Under this order a copy of the Judge's notes was ordered to be printed to be used on appeal : W. N. (76) 23.

Proceedings :—

Costs of proceedings to strike solr off rolls allowed to an admor as being incurred for benefit of estate : Re Davis, Muckalt v. Davis, 57 L. J. Ch. 3; 57 L. T. 755; as to costs of admors and exors, see inf. Chap. XLI., "TRUSTEES."

Profit Costs :—

As to allowance of charges of solr who is trustee or mortgagee for business not strictly professional, see Ames v. Cadogan, 25 Ch. D. 72; Re Donaldson, 27 Ch. D. 544; Field v. Hopkins, 44 Ch. D. 524, C. A.; Re Wallis, Exp. Lickorish, 25 Q. B. D. 176, C. A.; Re Roberts, 43 Ch. D. 52; Stone v. Lickorish, (1891) 2 Ch. 363; Re Doody, Fisher v. D., (1893) 1 Ch. 129, C. A.; and that the member of a firm of solrs who is not a mortgagee may be allowed a share of costs proportionate to his interest in the partnership, see S. C. (Stirling, J.); followed in Wellby v. Still, W. N. (93) 91; 66 L. T. 523; Mortgagees' Legal Costs Act, 1895 (58 & 59 V. c. 25); Cordery, 207—212; and inf. Chap. XL., "SOLICITORS."

Refresher Fees :—

Are now regulated by O. LXV, 27 (48). This rule applies to all taxations : Re Harrison, 33 Ch. D. 52, C. A.; it is not limited to vivâ voce evidence trials, but includes hearings before the Court of Appeal : Svensen v. Wallace, 16 Q. B. D. 27, C. A.; 34 W. R. 151; see also Easton v. London Joint Stock Bank, 38 Ch. D. 25, C. A.; that the additional fees in such cases are not refreshers in the strict sense, and are to be allowed with caution. The rule does not prevent a client from giving his solr (who has fully explained the matter to him) authority (express or implied) to give a particular leader special fees exceeding the maximum fixed by the rule, and does not limit the taxing master's discretion as to the quantum to be allowed, though exceeding the ordinary scale, having regard to such special authority : Re Harrison, 33 Ch. D. 52, C. A.; Easton v. London Joint Stock Bank, 38 Ch. D. 25, C. A.

For earlier cases before the rule (introduced 1883), see Harrison v.

Wearing, 11 Ch. D. 206, C. A.; Brown v. Sewell, 16 Ch. D. 517, C. A.; Smith v. Buller, 19 Eq. 473.

It is now provided that, in taxations between solr and client, larger fees may be allowed under special circumstances, to be stated: O. LXV, 27 (49).

The taxing master has discretion, in special circumstances, to disallow refreshers, though the trial has lasted more than the five hours specified: Smith v. Wills, 34 W. R. 30; 53 L. T. 386; and see Re Anglo-Austrian Printing Co., (1894) 2 Ch. 622; or to reduce the original fee if, together with the refresher, too large: Wicksteed v. Biggs, 52 L. T. 428; 54 L. J. Ch. 967.

The mid-day adjournment is not to be deducted in calculating refresher fees: Collins v. Worley, 60 L. T. 748. Where a trial lasted four days and three hours, and on the fifth day the Judge required a further hearing on one point, which occupied the whole of a subsequent day, refreshers for that day were allowed: Boswell v. Coaks, 36 Ch. D. 444, C. A.; O'Hara v. Elliott, (1893) 1 Q. B. 362.

The right to a refresher fee arises so soon as the trial has occupied a "clear day" of five hours: The Courier, (1891) P. 355; O'Hara v. Elliott, (1893) 1 Q. B. 362; not following Walker v. Crystal Palace Gas Co., (1891) 2 Q. B. 300.

Relators :—

See p. 257, sup., and inf. Vol. II., pp. 1306, 1307.

Retaining Fee to Counsel :—

Not to be allowed on party and party taxation: O. LXV, 27 (44).

Scientific Persons :—

Allowance to: see O. LXV, 27 (36); and inf. p. 307, "Witnesses."

Separate Appearances :—

By O. LV, 40, in proceedings before the Judge in Chambers, he may require parties, whose interests he thinks can be classified, to be represented by the same solr, and nominate him if the parties cannot agree; and any parties insisting on appearing by distinct solrs, pay their own and other parties' consequent costs.

For cases upon this rule, see Morgan, 144; Bull v. West London Sch. Bd., 34 L. T. 674, where two partners who had been made Defts for the purpose of discovery only were not allowed separate costs when they had severed in their defence (though before the hearing they had dissolved partnership).

By O. LXV, 27 (8), "where the same solr is employed for two or more Defts, and separate pleadings are delivered or other proceedings had by or for two or more such Defts separately, the taxing officer shall consider in the taxation of such solr's bill of costs, either between party and party or between solr and client, whether such separate pleadings or other proceedings were necessary or proper, and if he is of opinion that any part of the costs occasioned thereby has been unnecessarily or improperly incurred, the same shall be disallowed."

A Deft appearing by leave of the Court in distinct capacities by different solrs was allowed costs: Woolley v. Colman, W. N. (86) 6, 36; as to costs of trustees severing in defence, v. inf. Chap. XLI., "TRUSTEES"; and Dan. 433; as to severance of defence by joint tort-feasors, Shumm v. Dixon, 37 W. R. 92; for case where certificate of taxing master was varied by allowing costs of separate counsel of Defts having separate defences, Ager v. Blacklock, 56 L. T. 890; and that successful Plts appearing by the same solr in separate actions against the same Deft for same object are entitled to have the actions treated as distinct on taxation, see Metropolitan Coal Consumers' Assoc., Grieb's case, 45 Ch. D. 606. Where the taxing master was directed by the House of Lords to consider whether Defts had sufficient reason for severing, there was no appeal from his discretion: Boswell v. Coaks, 36 Ch. D. 444, C. A.; and for other cases where one set of costs only is allowed, see Dan. 433, 434.

As to the costs of persons appearing separately to oppose a winding-up petition, see Re Humber Ironworks Co., 2 Eq. 15; Re Anglo-Egyptian Navigation Co., 8 Eq. 660; and see Buckley, Cos. Acts, 276.

By O. LV, 41, the Judge may require parties employing the same to appear by distinct solrs.

Separate Defences :—See O. LXV, 27 (8), sup. ; Dan. 433.

Settling Minutes :—In Re Reece, 2 Eq. 609, solrs were allowed to make this charge in respect of an order which was not given out in the form of minutes by the registrar ; and see O. LXII, 15 ; LXV, 27 (11).

Shorthand Notes :—

Without a special direction from the Judge when judgment is given, or before it is drawn up, the costs of shorthand notes of the evidence will not be allowed on taxation : Earl de la Warr v. Miles, 19 Ch. D. 80, C. A. ; Kirkwood v. Webster, 9 Ch. D. 239 ; Ashworth v. Outram, Ib. 483 ; Pilling v. Joint Stock Institute, Ltd., 73 L. T. 570 ; The Turret Court, W. N. (01) 62 ; Goldberg v. Liverpool Corp., 82 L. T. 362 ; but the costs of shorthand notes of the judgment which have been used on appeal will be allowed : Smith v. Chadwick, 51 L. J. Ch. 597, 621 ; Exp. Cocks, 21 Ch. D. 397, 407 ; Humphrey v. Sumner, 55 L. T. 449 ; Re Medland, Eland v. Medland, 41 Ch. D. 476, C. A. ; Re Morgan, 35 Ch. D. 492 ; Re De Falbe, (1901) 1 Ch. 523, C. A.

Costs of shorthand notes of evidence for the purpose of appeal were allowed in a patent action of some difficulty : Castner Kellner Alkali Co. v. Commercial Development Assoc., (1899) 1 Ch. 803, C. A.

As to allowing shorthand writer's note of judge's summing up, see Pilling v. Joint Stock Institute, Ltd., 73 L. T. 570 ; Andrews v. Mockford, (1896) 1 Q. B. 372, C. A.

Neither Judge nor taxing master has jurisdiction to order a shorthand note to be taken ; but where it was done, and the parties did not object, the same costs were allowed on taxation as if they had agreed on one shorthand writer : Re Hilleary and Taylor, 36 Ch. D. 262, C. A.

And the discretion of the taxing master in disallowing the costs of shorthand notes was not interfered with : see Marcus v. G. S. N. Co., W. N. (76) 157 ; 35 L. T. 383. For cases in which shorthand notes of evidence were allowed as essential to the hearing, see Watson v. G. W. Ry. Co., 6 Q. B. D. 163 ; Lee Conservancy Board v. Button, 12 Ch. D. 383.

As to the right of solrs with sanction of the Court in a patent action to bind their clients by a mutual agreement to take a shorthand writer's note of evidence, see Osmond v. Mutual Cycle, &c. Co., (1899) 2 Q. B. 488, C. A.

The costs of a MS. copy of shorthand notes, taken by order of a County Court Judge, of the proceedings before him, were allowed as part of the costs of an appeal : Exp. Sawyer, 1 Ch. D. 698 ; and in Bigsby v. Dickinson, 4 Ch. D. 24, C. A., the costs of transcribing and printing (not of taking) shorthand notes of the evidence in the Court below for the appeal were allowed.

A copy for personal convenience of solr who has the transcript in his possession will not be allowed : Exp. Latimer, 60 L. J. Q. B. 626.

A direction for allowance of shorthand notes of evidence could not be given after the order of the Court of Appeal had been passed and entered : Glasier v. Rolls, 59 L. J. Ch. 63 ; 62 L. T. 305 ; 38 W. R. 113.

Solicitor defending in person :—

Allowed same costs as if he had employed a solr, except as to items which the fact of his acting renders unnecessary : London Scottish Ben. Soc. v. Chorley, 13 Q. B. D. 872, C. A. ; so where he acts by a firm of which he is a partner : Bidder v. Bridges, W. N. (87) 208.

Special Retainer :—Of a leader practising in another Court will not be allowed : Smith v. Effingham, 10 Beav. 378.

Statute of Limitations :—

The taxing master ought to tax statute-barred items : Curwen v. Milburn, 42 Ch. D. 424, C. A. ; as the statute does not bar the debt but only the remedy, and such costs are recoverable from the client by reason of his submission to pay. The question whether items are statute-barred could only be raised under a special order obtained for that purpose : Re Margetts, (1896) 2 Ch. 263 ; but the solr is in general entitled to an unconditional submission to pay without any exception of items or charges statute-barred : Re Hughes, W. N. (99) 125.

But where there is a direction to ascertain the costs, charges, and expenses of trustees, statute-barred costs should be included, as the trustee's right of indemnity extends to fair claims of every kind, and not merely to those enforceable by action: Budgett v. B. (No. 2), (1895) 1 Ch. 202.

Surveyors' Charges:—

Commission on "Ryde's Scale," varying from 5 to $\frac{1}{2}$ p. c., according to the amount of purchase-money, was allowed: A. G. v. Drapers' Co., 9 Eq. 69.

Translations of foreign documents, made in the solr's office, allowed under special circumstances: Re Bowes, E. Strathmore v. Vane, (1900) 2 Ch. 251.

Travelling Expenses, O. LXV, 27 (4):—

Allowed under special circumstances: Howell v. Tyler, 2 Y. & O. Ch. 284; Clarke v. Malpas, 31 Beav. 354; Re Snell, 5 Ch. D. 815.

Unnecessary Appearances:—

Costs disallowed unless otherwise directed: O. LXV, 27 (23).

Witnesses:—

A reasonable sum, in the discretion of the taxing master, will ordinarily be allowed to a scientific or skilled witness for getting up the case to qualify himself for giving evidence, but not, in the case of an accountant, the costs of putting in order the books of the party for whom he is engaged to give evidence: Laffitte's Claim, 20 Eq. 650; Smith v. Buller, 19 Eq. 473; Murphy v. Nolan, I. R. 7 Eq. 498; Batley v. Kynoch, 20 Eq. 642; L. C. & D. Ry. Co. v. S. E. Ry. Co., 60 L. T. 753.

Costs of witnesses should not be taxed upon a fixed general rule, but a reasonable allowance should be made with reference to the case of each separate witness: Commrs. for Railways v. O'Rourke, (1896) A. C. 594, P. C.

For loss of time in attending during the trial, one guinea a day (excluding Sundays) will be allowed; and, if summoned from the country, one guinea a day for maintenance while in town, and first class return railway fare: see Re Working Men's Mutual Soc., 21 Ch. D. 831; Wiltshire v. Marshall, W. N. (66) 80; Clarke v. Gill, 1 K. & J. 19; Ryan v. Dolan, I. R. 7 Eq. 92.

Allowances for hotel expenses are in the discretion of the taxing master, and are not regulated by the scale of 1853: E. Stonehouse Local Board v. Victoria Brewery Co., (1895) 2 Ch. 514.

Semble, the costs of a photographer called as a witness simply to prove photographs should not be allowed unless notice to admit his proof has been given, and the other side has refused to admit it: S. C.

The costs of more than three experts to prove a country custom will not be allowed on taxation: Stanger-Leathes v. S., W. N. (79) 86.

The Court is unwilling to interfere with the discretion of the taxing master as to the costs of a witness: Oliver v. Robins, W. N. (94) 199; 64 L. J. Ch. 203; 43 W. R. 137; 71 L. T. 636.

Examination reasonably taken before trial may be allowed for although the witness was able to be present at the trial: Bartlett v. Higgins, (1901) 2 K. B. 230, C. A.

Written Affidavits:—

The provisions of O. LVIII, 11, requiring production, on appeal, of printed copies of the affidavits which have been printed, and office copies of those not printed, have been dispensed with to save expense: Sickles v. Morris, 24 W. R. 102; 45 L. J. C. P. 148; and so with respect to office copies of those not printed: Crawford v. Hornsea, &c. Co., 24 W. R. 422; 45 L. J. Ch. 432; 34 L. T. 923.

SPECIAL ALLOWANCES—INTEREST ON COSTS.

Under the Judgments Act, 1838 (1 & 2 V. c. 110), ss. 17, 18, interest at 4 p. c. is recoverable on costs which one party is ordered to pay to another (but not on costs ordered to be paid out of a fund: A. G. v. Nethercote, 11 Sim. 529; West v. W., 17 L. R. Ir. 49); and by the Solicitors Act, 1860 (23 & 24 V. c. 127), s. 27, supplementing the former Act, the Court may order costs as taxed, including costs of taxation, to be paid with interest at 4 p. c., payable and recoverable out of the same fund, or in the same manner, as the amount of costs.

Interest on costs now runs, as at law, from date of judgment, and not, as formerly (in Equity), from the date of the certificate: Pyman & Co. v. Burt, W. N. (84) 100; Boswell v. Coaks, 36 W. R. 65; 57 L. J. Ch. 101; 57 L. T. 742; Schroeder v. Clough, 35 L. T. 850; Re London Wharfage, &c. Co., 53

L. T. 112; 54 L. J. Ch. 1137; and a fi. fa. will issue to enforce payment: see O. XLII, 17.

Independently of 23 & 24 V. c. 127, s. 27, interest at 4 p. c. is payable upon a sum of taxed costs ordered to be added to money secured by an equitable charge: Lippard v. Ricketts, 14 Eq. 291; but only from the date of the taxing master's certificate: Eardley v. Knight, 41 Ch. D. 537.

By 33 & 34 V. c. 28, s. 17, the taxing officer may allow interest at such rate and from such time as he thinks just on moneys disbursed by the solr for his client, and on moneys of the client in the hands of the solr and improperly retained by him.

The discretion thereby given applies only to dealings between a solr and his client, and not to cases of taxation where the costs are to be paid out of a fund not belonging wholly to the client: Hartland v. Murrell, 16 Eq. 285; and the Act is not retrospective so as to include interest on disbursements prior to passing of Act: Ward v. Eyre, 15 Ch. D. 130, C. A.; and does not apply to accounts between country solr and town agent: Ibid.; if the agent agrees to suspend his right to payment, he is not entitled to interest unless he expressly stipulates for it: Ward v. Lawson, 43 Ch. D. 353, C. A.

A solr who had made disbursements and received sums generally on account, could not appropriate such sums to costs for which he had not delivered a bill, so that he might claim interest on disbursements under s. 17: Re Harrison, 33 Ch. D. 52, C. A.

Where the solr had accepted a cheque in accord and satisfaction, the client could not afterwards, on discovering that he was so entitled, claim interest on the costs: Bidder v. Bridges, 37 Ch. D. 406, C. A.
